ALL MINNESOTA REPRESENTED AT DEVELOPMENT CONFERENCE HELD IN THE STATE CAPITOL

ADDRESS BY GOVERNOR HAMMOND

Urges All to Unite on Program of Needed Legislation.

Frank W. Murphy of Wheaton Is Elected Permanent Chairman.

John Dwan of Two Harbors on the Resolutions Committee.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Inspired by a message from Governor W. S. Hammond, about 150 men, representing almost every county in the state, set to work in the house chamber of the capitol this morning to plan a program for the development of the state. Governor Hammond, who called the meeting as an All-Minnesota Development conference, found a gratifying response to his call when he appeared in the house chamber shortly after 10 o'clock to open the conference.

"Just as long as there is an acre of waste land in the state of Minnesota, there will be work for a body of men like this," the governor told the delegates in his opening address, which was a summary of the needs of the state and the opportunity for a truly representative body to render service in solving the problems of development.

Program of Legislation.

"The purpose of this conference is to determine upon what things all can unite in an effort to bring about the development of the state," the governor said. "We may not agree upon all things, but those things upon which agreement can be reached should be framed into a program of legislation to be presented to the legislature. If that program is arranged, if the delegates here go back to their

GOVERNOR W. S. HAMMOND.

FOURTEEN BODIES BROUGHT TO SURFACE

Five Men, Still Alive But in Critical Condition, Also Brought Up.

Boomer, W. Va., Dec. 1.—The bodies of fourteen miners who lost their lives in Mine No. 2 of the Boomer Coal & Coke company by an explosion of a blowout shot which yesterday at noon imperiled 300 men, were brought to the surface this morning and taken to the temporary morgue nearby. Soon afterward a rescue party appeared with five other men who had been buried far underground, and who, though still alive, were in a critical condition. They were hurriedly taken to the hospital in the hope that prompt treatment might save their lives.

Other parties who had been searching the workings during the night came out with the report that they had been unable to locate any of the five or six miners still missing, and their places were at once taken by fresh volunteers, all of whom are working under the direction of the state mine inspectors and engineers from the bureau of mines.

ANGRY WITH UNITED STATES, VILLA PLANS RAID ON AMERICANS

Information Transmitted By Gen. Funston in Command on Border.

Present Whereabouts of Villa's Main Army Matter of Uncertainty.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Attributing his present situation to the failure of the United States government to support him, Gen. Villa is planning raids on American territory along the border, according to information which has reached Maj.-Gen. Funston, commanding the American border guard. In reporting this to the war department today Gen. Funston said he could not believe Gen. Villa actually contemplated any such hazardous undertaking and added that he was transmitting the report merely to show what Villa was said to be telling his followers.

Gen. Obregon, the Carranza commander, will ask authority to transfer 5,000 men through United States territory to Naco, where they will cross the line to attack the Villa forces. Gen. Funston indicated that the present whereabouts of Villa's main body was still a matter of conflicting reports.

Assurances of ample protection for foreign settlers in the Yaqui valley regions have been received from Carranza authorities by Admiral Winslow, who reported his arrival today to Topolobampo on his flagship San Diego.

KEEP PEACE AFTER WAR

Jap Financier Has Plan for Formation of Six-Power Alliance.

Comprising United States, Britain, France, Russia, Italy and Japan.

New York, Dec. 1.—Baron Eiichi Shibusawa, the Japanese financier, who is here today for a short stay, elaborated upon his plan to maintain peace after the war by a six-power alliance comprising the United States, Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy and Japan. On his way from San Francisco to New York, the baron said he had talked with many leading Americans on methods of securing lasting peace. One of the men with whom he discussed the proposed six-power plan was Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university.

"I will lay this plan before our leading business men and thinking men," said the baron, "and I will do all in my power to make this idea take hold of public opinion, so that when peace comes Japan may be in a position to ask the United States to enter the six-power alliance and induce other nations to become associated. I am of the opinion that when

ROUMANIAN SOLONS IN GENERAL FIGHT

Paris, Dec. 1.—"Partisans and adversaries of the government came to blows at the opening session of the Roumanian parliament," telegraphs the Berne correspondent of the Matin. "King Ferdinand had hardly begun to read his speech when he was interrupted with cries of 'Down with the government!' from M. Mille, leader of the interventionists, and his adherents.

"The supporters of the government replied with cheers for the king, whose speech was punctuated throughout with shouts from the opposition.

"No sooner had the king departed than a general fight began between the two factions."

Germany and Austria Prepared to Warn Greece If She Goes Too Far.

London, Dec. 1.—Roumania will deliver an ultimatum to Austria as soon as the Entente allies concentrate 500,000 men in the Balkans, it is reported in Bucharest, says a [illegible] news dispatch from that city [illegible]

Will Warn Greece.

London, Dec. 1.—Telegraphing from Athens, the Morning Post correspondent says:

"The Neon Asty, the organ of Former Premier Gounaris, publishes a statement which it says was obtained from a diplomatic source, that Germany and Austria are preparing to warn Greece that if the demands of the Entente allies are accepted and Saloniki is made the base of their military operations the Central powers will no longer regard Greek territory as that of a friendly state."

Causing Uneasiness.

London, Dec. 1.—The Balkan states continue to dominate both the military and diplomatic situation in Europe. Roumania's attitude apparently is causing the Central powers great uneasiness, while Greece's refusal to limit her military effectiveness as requested by the Entente powers is of equal concern to those powers.

Roumania is said to be only awaiting the presence in the Balkans of preponderant Entente military forces

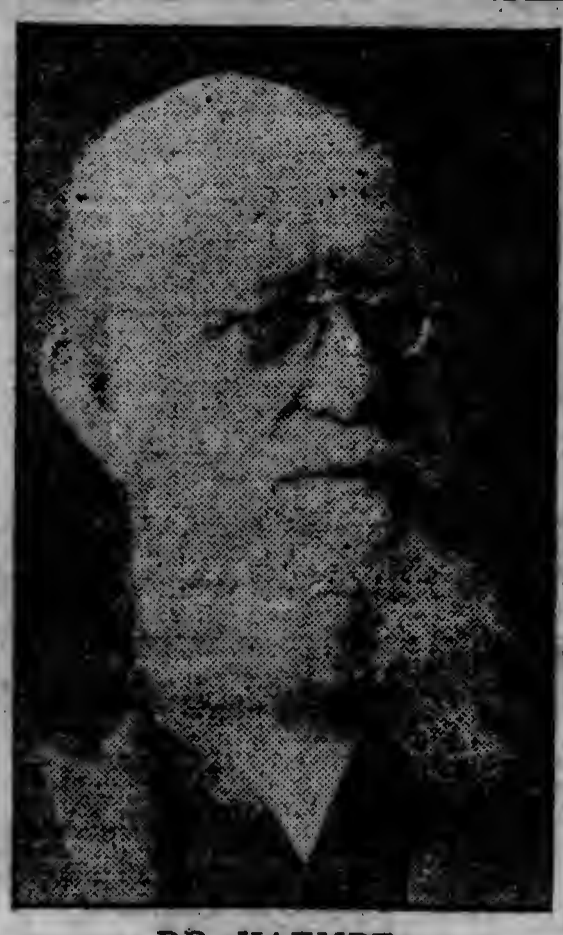
PRESIDENT OF REICHSTAG SAYS WAR SITUATION IS EXCELLENT



DR. KAEMPF.

Berlin, via London, Dec. 1.—The opening of the reichstag yesterday was marked by an address of welcome by the president, Dr. Kaempf, in which he complimented Germany on the highly satisfactory military situation in the west and east, and the successful conclusion of the Serbian campaign.

To Study Basis of Durable Peace.

Berne, Switzerland, Nov. 30, via Paris.—Arrangements are being carried forward for the congress to study the basis of a durable peace, which is expected to be opened here in the third week of December. Delegates from twenty-five countries have signified their intention of attending.

BUSINESS IS SETTING NEW RECORDS IN MANY LINES IN ZENITH CITY

Bank Clearings and Bank Deposits Far Above Former Marks.

November Was Greatest Month in History of Grain Trade.

SOME STRAWS SHOWING HOW THE BUSINESS WIND BLOWS

November was the greatest month in the handling of grain in the history of Duluth as a grain market, showing approximately 5,500,000 bushels more receipts than in November of last year.

Bank clearings for November nearly $15,000,000 more than year ago, and largest in the annals of Duluth banking by many millions of dollars.

Deposits in Duluth banking institutions are largest on record, being many millions ahead of any former year, even including 1912, the previous best year in banking at the Head of the Lakes.

Theaters doing the best business that places of amusement in Duluth have ever enjoyed.

Railroads rushed to the nerve-breaking point to keep up with the demand made incessantly for cars, cars, cars; and compelled to greatly augment their crews to handle the business.

Merchants in all lines in Duluth, enjoying the greatest wave of prosperity that they have ever experienced, even in the so-called "fat" years.

Duluth is in the midst of the most prosperous period in her history.

Like a thief in the night, Mr. Prosperity sneaked up on the city, looked it over and has apparently decided to remain. There is nothing modest about the new addition to the city's charms either, for his strong personality is dominating the business situation and is making the banks bulge in rivalry with the elevators—both with gold, the former with the metal or its equivalent, and the latter with the golden grain.

In consequence of the visit, every line of business in the city has felt the effect. Store-keepers declare that never before in their history has there

WITHDRAWAL CAUSES MUCH SPECULATION

No Authentic Information as to State of Affairs Given Out.

Rumors of Austria's Willingness to Enter Upon Peace Negotiations.

Kaiser Said to Have Asked for Concessions to the Roumanians.

Amsterdam, Dec. 1, via London.—Reports that several members of the Austrian cabinet have resigned are confirmed by an autograph letter from Emperor Francis Joseph published in the Wiener Zeitung of Vienna. The emperor has accepted the resignations of Dr. Karl Heinhold d'Udynsky, minister of the interior; Dr. Rudolph Schuster von Bonnott, minister of commerce, and Baron Engel von Mainfeldon, minister of finance.

Acceptance of these resignations is qualified with the proviso that the services of the retiring ministers are to be available, if required.

Dr. Heinold and Baron Engel have been appointed members of the upper house, while the rank of freiherr has been conferred on Dr. Schuster.

Prince Hohenlohe Schillingfuerst, president of the supreme court of accounts, has been appointed minister of the interior; Ritter von Leth, governor of the postal savings bank, minister of finance, and Herr von Spitzmiller, director of the Kredit Anstalt, minister of commerce.

The first reports of the resignation of Austrian cabinet ministers came almost simultaneously with the visit to Vienna of Emperor William on Mon-

BELGIAN BROKERS ARE UNDER ARREST

Charged With Illegal Traffic in Handling Belgian Banknotes.

Paris, Dec. 1.—Omer Boulanger, president of the Belgian committee of Paris, and Edmond de Vries Jules and Aurmand Samuel, Brussels stock brokers, have been arrested on the charge of illegal traffic in Belgian banknotes.

The Bank of France has agreed to cash Belgian banknotes in amounts of not more than 300 francs once a fortnight for Belgian refugees, the amount and date being indorsed on the passports of the recipients.

The police charge that the men arrested bought at low rates large quantities of Belgian notes in Holland and Belgium, and, getting in touch with numbers of needy Belgian refugees, induced them in consideration of small commissions to exchange notes on the Bank of France.

M. Boulanger was chauffeur of the late King Leopold of Belgium, in whose service he is said to have amassed a fortune of 500,000 francs.

JANE ADDAMS IS ILL IN HOSPITAL

Chicago, Dec. 1.—The condition of Miss Jane Addams, settlement worker and peace advocate, who was taken to a hospital yesterday suffering from a severe attack of fever, was reported as unchanged today.

Physicians planned to hold a consultation to determine whether an immediate operation will have to be performed.

Miss Addams has abandoned the trip to Europe on the Ford peace mission. She was to have left for the East tomorrow, and to have sailed on Saturday.

SECOND EXPLOSION AT POWDER PLANT

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 1.—There was a small explosion of smokeless powder early today at the Dupont powder plant at Carney's Point, N. J., across the Delaware river from this city. No one was hurt and the property damage was slight, company officials said.

The flash of the explosion was seen by persons in this city, as it occurred just at dawn and the sound was heard, but most people knew nothing about it until several hours later.

Company officials said the explosion was what is called a "flare up" in a blending mill, but the few employes in the place were not touched by the flash.

Coming so close after the terrific explosion of yesterday in which thirty-one men and boys lost their lives, it caused some anxiety among residents in the neighborhood of the company's plant here and in New Jersey. It was explained by company officials, however, that these flareups are of frequent occurrence and could be ascribed to different causes.

There have been no more deaths among the five injured in the Hagley explosion of yesterday. It is feared, however, that several of them will die. One of the injured, Edwin Davis, left the hospital today. Louis Booker, who died in a hospital last night, making the death list thirty-one, left a widow and eight small children.

No Statement from Company.

No statement was forthcoming from the company today as to the possible cause of yesterday's disaster. The officials are prosecuting a thorough investigation. Some officers believe the cause will never be known as all the men who were near the packing house when it blew up are dead. The injured still in the hospital were some distance from the packing house and apparently have no knowledge of the

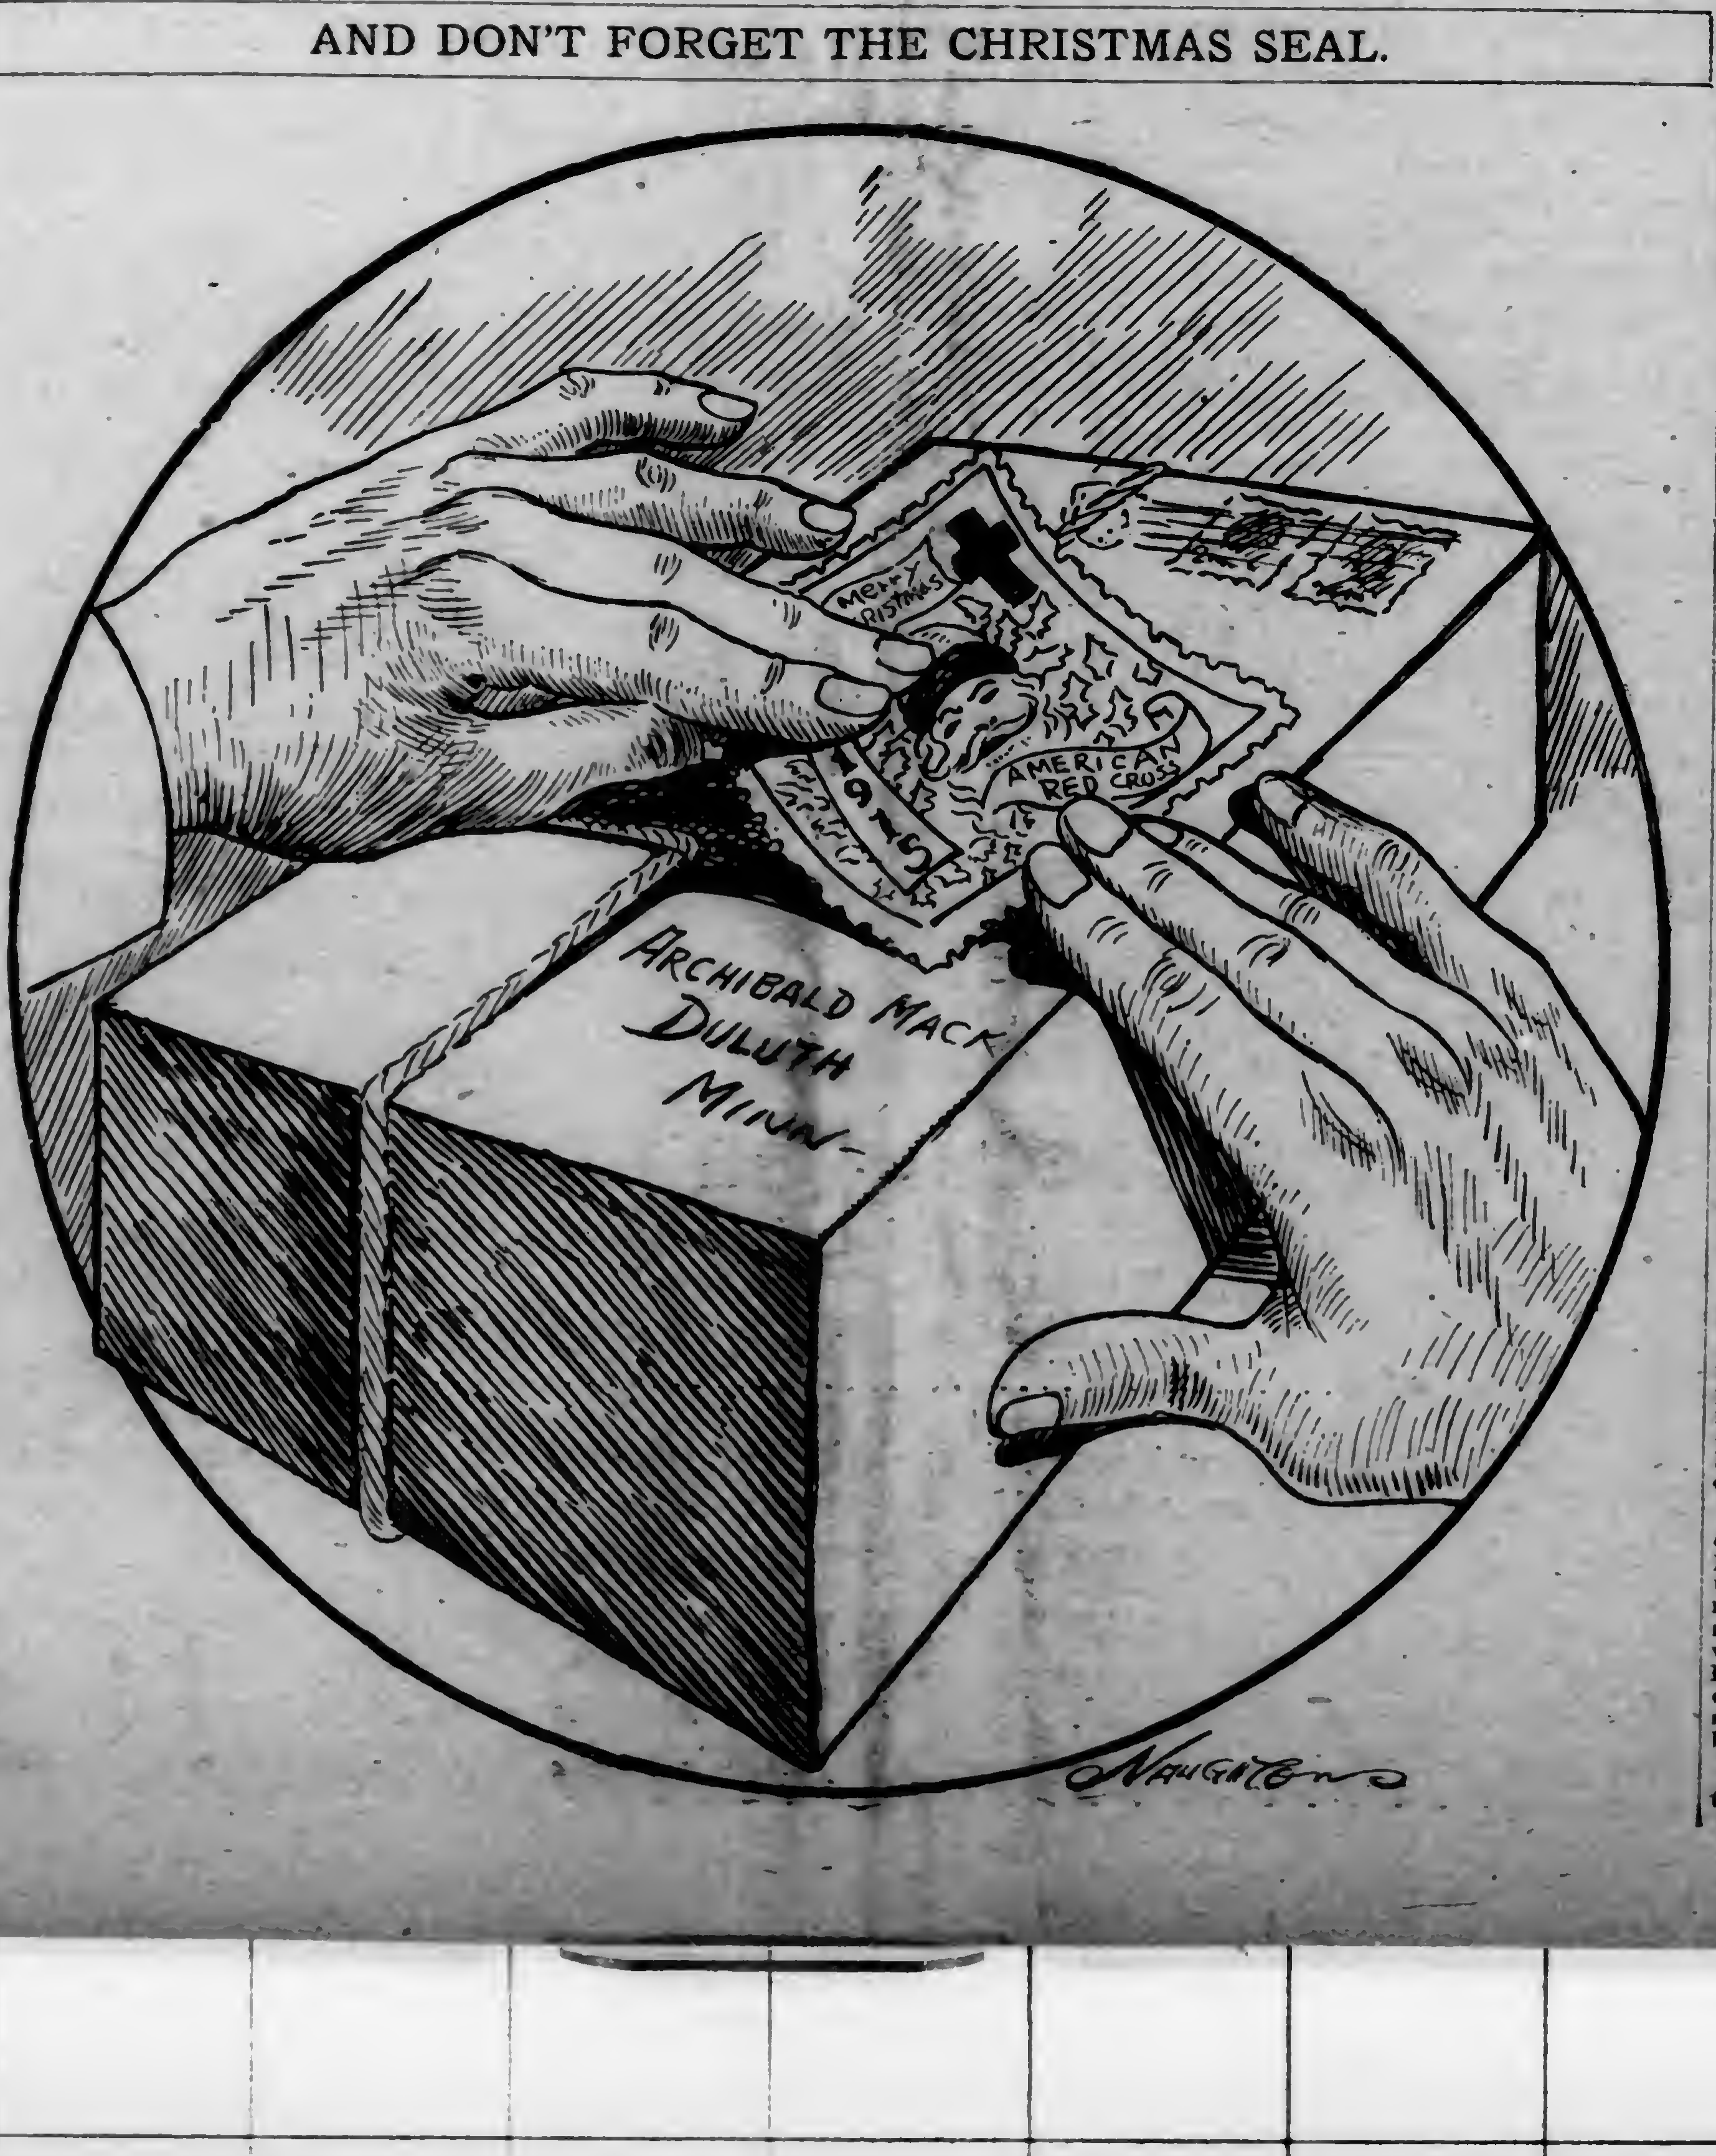
AND DON'T FORGET THE CHRISTMAS SEAL.



SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Closely following the visit of Emperor William to Vienna comes the news that three members of the Austrian cabinet have resigned, the withdrawal being the ministers of the interior, commerce and finance. Their successors have been named.

The resignations and the German emperor's visit have given rise to a wide range of speculation as to the present state of affairs in Austria, particularly as to whether the happenings have any connection with rumored peace moves by Austria or to concessions that might be desired of her with a view to the maintenance of Roumanian neutrality.

When the Entente allies have concentrated 500,000 men in the Balkans, Roumania will deliver an ultimatum to Austria, according to a report current in Bucharest. Demonstrations by members of the Roumanian parliament who favor intervention in favor of the Entente allies are reported to have occurred at the recent opening of the session of the Roumanian legislative body.

Sinking of the British steamer Kingsway with the probable loss of five members of her crew is reported by London.

Capture of 15,000 Serbians by the Bulgarians when they took Prisrend, the fall of which was reported yesterday, is announced by Berlin today. A Bulgarian statement places the number of prisoners at between 16,000 and 17,000 together with fifty cannon and howitzers, 20,000 rifles and much war material.

According to the Sofia war office, Bulgarian troops are operating successfully against the allied troops in Southern Serbia. The left bank of the Cernay is reported cleared of the Anglo-French forces, who are declared to have been thrown back several miles.

Mining and aeroplane operations continue on the Franco-Belgian front, both Berlin and Paris reporting successes at various points.

"YOUNG AMERICA" CAN'T BE STOPPED

A man doesn't need money to travel these days if he is really eager to get somewhere, says Peter Coyle, local recruiting officer for the U. S. navy. The other day a young man made application for enlistment at the local office, but could not be taken at a branch office because he didn't have car fare to take him to the main office at Minneapolis, where his application would be passed upon.

"Don't worry; I'll get into the navy all right," said the ambitious young man to Officer Coyle. And he disappeared. Today Mr. Coyle got this message from the Minneapolis recruiting officer:

"Your man arrived here via the 'rods,' beating the mail. He still has 45 cents and is riding at Uncle Sam's expense to the naval training station."

TWO PASSENGERS ROBBED IN BERTH

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Two passengers on Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway train No. 4, known as "the Pioneer Limited," lost personal valuables and some money early today when a man, who boarded the train at St. Paul of Minneapolis, last night, rifled their berths while they were asleep. First reports that the train had been "held up" were discredited by the reports to the railroad headquarters here.

The robbery is supposed to have occurred while the train was near Oconomowoc, Wis., where it was due at 5:32 a. m. The thief is said to have left the train there and boarded an interurban car for Milwaukee and the arrest of a suspect in that city was said by railroad officials here to have occurred.

The train arrived here at 9:30 a. m., and the robbery had caused so little comment among the passengers and trainmen that no report was made of the occurrence to local officials until press dispatches from Waukesha, Wis., gave a report of a "hold up." The police of Waukesha county were reported as rounding up suspects and as having several men in custody.

PRIEST'S PLEA TO BE INSANITY

Winona, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A jury was secured late yesterday in the trial of Father L. M. Lesches on the charge of assault with intent to kill upon Bishop P. R. Heffron, Aug. 27 last, and the state opened its case in district court today.

Bishop Heffron testified to having known Father Lesches for about seventeen years. He did not consider him a proper person to take charge of a parish and for that reason had refused to appoint him to a charge. Father Lesches appealed from his ruling to John Bonzano, apostolic delegate at Washington, and the latter had sustained the bishop.

Bishop Heffron said he considered Lesches to be mentally unbalanced and at the time of the shooting was unable to distinguish between right and wrong.

Other witnesses called by the state were Sheriff W. E. Parr, Chief of Police George Huck, Father Thomas Normoyle and Dr. H. E. McGaughey, all of whom gave as their opinion that Lesches was mentally irresponsible at the time of the shooting.

The defense announced its plea would be insanity.

Four Bad Boys Sentenced.

Stillwater, Minn., Dec. 1.—Theodore Sheipel, Charles Sheipel, Charles Schepp and Ed Kach, all boys, pleaded guilty to an indictment alleging assault in the second degree on Herman Anderson near the Hudson bridge, Sept. 27. The three former were sentenced to the St. Cloud reformatory and the last named to the Red Wing training school. Sentences were suspended for a year.

The Duluth Herald has the largest actual paid circulation of any newspaper published in any city of the size of Duluth in the world which is offered solely on its merits as a newspaper and without the artificial stimulus of cut prices, contests, dictionaries, albums, carafes, phonographs, or other pinchbeck goods offered as premiums.

No other newspaper in the world, in any community, covers more thoroughly than The Herald so large and rich a territory, density of population considered.

NOBODY

NOBODY ever became a subscriber to The Herald because of a cut rate lower than regular subscribers pay.

NOBODY ever became a reluctant subscriber to The Herald because of the annoying importunities of candidates for coupon prizes.

NOBODY, to oblige a friend seeking victory in a premium contest, has ever subscribed to a hundred copies of The Herald to be carried out as waste paper.

NONE of the steady gains in The Herald's circulation have ever been at the cost of the annoyance, the disappointments, the heartburnings and the nuisance of premium contests.

"GOOD FELLOW" SENDS IN HIS ANNUAL REMINDER

What does Christmas mean to you?

Does it mean evergreen, and snow, and many parties, and beautiful presents?

Or does it mean overtime work, with headaches, and cold meals, and wet feet?

Or does it mean merely a continuation of a struggle for existence, harder because it is winter instead of summer?

Four years ago a "man-about-town" wrote a letter to The Herald, and signed it "A Good Fellow."

"I have courted the reputation of being a spender," he wrote. "Each year finds me a little older, and a little balder, with a little more fat on my body, and a little more on my soul; a little more selfish, and a little less responsive to the finer things of life."

Appealing to the host of "good fellows" he asked them to be "good fellows" in a different sense for a short while; to drop expensive habits for a week or a month and spend the money on a needy woman or child.

To get the name of the one who was suffering from poverty and want and to spend his money personally—that was what the prince of "good fellows" asked his friends to do.

"I want this to be an appeal to the one who spends enough for drinks and cigars to care for a family at Christmas time—the good spender," he wrote.

And that was done.

A legion of good fellows, through The Herald, learned the identity of some family which they could help, and for whom they could make the Yuletide brighter and happier, and the original "Good Fellow's" plan bore fruit.

Twice since, at Christmas time, has the Good Fellow written his message of service, and each time the response has been overwhelming.

Glad to figure in such a work, The Herald asked to be allowed to furnish the names of needy ones to Good Fellows, and each year, hiding the identity of the giver and recipient from all others, it has acted as a clearing house.

This year the Good Fellow, balder and fatter than ever, sends in his yearly reminder to begin the work of spreading happiness.

So when you think of Christmas decide to be a Good Fellow—find a family and be your "brother's keeper" directly, "For the gift without the giver is bare."

Dedicated to the Good Fellow who found that the happy, successful giver is he who serves, this work will be carried on this year.

Will you help? If you want to join The Herald Good Fellow movement, watch The Herald tomorrow night for details.

WILL PROVE CONTAGIOUS

Martinson Thinks the Dry Spot on Range Will Spread.

Entering Wedge for County Option and Prohibition, He Believes.

Closing the saloons in St. Louis county is likely to come about as the result of the closing of the grog shops in Hibbing and Chisholm, believes Magnus Martinson, legislative superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Minnesota, who is a registered guest of the Spalding today.

"Yes," said Mr. Martinson, "I believe that the closing of the saloons on the iron range will prove the opening wedge for the closing of the saloons here in St. Louis county. The voters of this county, in my opinion, will see so much real benefit grow out of the closing that they will desire to see the saloons in Duluth and the remainder of the county closed. The closing of the saloons in St. Louis county in turn will prove a strong stimulus toward closing all the saloons in the state of Minnesota."

While Mr. Martinson did not instigate the work of closing the saloons in the Indian treaty territory, it is true, nevertheless, that he has probably had more to do with the closing of saloons in Hibbing and Chisholm than any other single individual.

During the last session of the legislature Mr. Martinson had charge of the county option campaign. With the closing of the legislature he immediately started to devote all his energies to tackling the big problem of closing the saloons in Hibbing and Chisholm.

Was Big Job.

"It was a big job," said Martinson. "A job in which politics and personal influence were intermixed. I have probably traveled 75,000 miles since starting work on this case. I have made five trips to Washington, have read all the original surveys of the Indian treaty district in the possession of the land department, have even read the minutes of the Indian meetings, and have in every way studied the case so as to be able to combat the influences working against the closing of the saloons.

"I put the case directly and clearly up to Cato Sells, commissioner of Indian affairs, and I will say that the department has acted rather nice over the matter, once we got things stirred up. I gathered a multitude of facts, reams of them, in fact, and presented them to the Indian commissioner.

"Now that the saloons are closed, I don't think there is any chance in the world for any appeal. The only phase of the question that has not been passed upon by the supreme court, is that of the boundary, and this matter we have looked up so thoroughly and minutely as to know absolutely that there is not the slightest loophole of escape on that angle."

In going about the task of securing the closing of the saloons in Hibbing and Chisholm, Mr. Martinson declared that the anti-saloon league adherents argued that all the saloons in the Indian treaty territory should be closed or the act abrogated. This was the angle worked upon and it was on this argument that the treaty district was finally closed against liquor traffic.

Blind Pig Evil.

"I have heard some talk that the closing of the saloons on the Iron Range will mean blind piggery," said Martinson. "Let me says that Uncle Sam is going to exercise a sharp watch over the district. Some one is extremely liable to get run over, if they try that. Uncle Sam is a bad man to deal with, as those who try blind pigging will discover."

Mr. Martinson also stated that the work of making Minnesota a saloonless state would not be abated in the least. The victory on the range would, he said, spur them on to greater efforts.

"It will require some time for a readjustment in Hibbing and Chisholm, but in the end both villages will be the better for the closing of saloons. It will not require a great length of time, in my opinion, for the buildings formerly occupied by saloons to be utilized for other purposes. While rents in some cases may not be as high as formerly, I am inclined to the belief that the general average of rents will be increased by the closing act.

"Charleston and Huntington, W. Va., recently went dry. These are the two largest cities in the state. I was in both cities and made an intimate study of conditions. Taxes have been actually reduced, crime has been reduced by one-third and I was informed by newspaper men that the voters would again vote overwhelmingly for a dry city.

"Taking these and numerous other positive examples into consideration, I cannot help but feel convinced that in the future the people of Hibbing and Chisholm will realize that the closing of saloons was the best thing that could have possibly happpened."

ENGAGEMENT SETS RECORD

Tomorrow night the longest engagement of a $1.50 theatrical attraction that Duluth has yet known, will close at the Lyceum.

Thursday night "The Birth of a Nation" will have been shown in Duluth thirty-seven times. It opened in Duluth Sunday evening, Nov. 14, and has given two performances daily since that time. According to the Lyceum management the longest previous "run" at the theater was one full week.

"In it, "Stoneman," the professed "negro lover," would wreck and devastate a mighty section, but his wild political schemes boomerang upon his luckless head. Lynch, the mulatto, drunk with wine and sudden power, dreamed of a black empire and a white empress as his own, but his devilish hopes were founded upon stinking mud instead of solid rock, and a conquering flood washed them away and snuffed out his life with them.

The Clansmen, as well enough meaning modern "knights" at the outset, banded together to protect their white women from the ravages of the brutal negro, soon became a corrupted band of murderers and revengers and a mailed hand reached out and clutched them from the earth.

The great and good man, Abraham Lincoln, met an untimely end at the hands of a cruel assassin, but a swift and ignominous death soon overtook the latter, while the former lives in the hearts of his countrymen and will ever be glorified in history's choicest pages.

Theater Gossip.

Marguerite Clark, the dainty little bundle of dimples and smiles, who has completely won Duluth's motion picture public by her irrepressible vivacity, is the star at the Lyric today and tomorrow in the late Paramount-Famous Player's production "Still Waters."

MARGUERITE CLARK AT THE LYRIC.

The story opens with Miss Clark as a delightful little girl. Her grandfather forbids her having anything to do with men or the outside world. Fretting under the restraint, she slips away from the boat and meets a young doctor—the first man she has been brought in contact with. The result is inevitable.

An entire circus was leased by the Famous Player company for the purpose of taking scenes which appear in and about the big canvas. Harry La Pearl, one of the New York Hippodrome's cleverest clowns, was engaged for these scenes, and his comic antics form a pleasant contrast to the gripping scenes.

There are still many people who envy royalty.

ROYAL ROMANCE AT THE REX. But Wallace Reid as Prince Karl, the heir to the throne in "Old Heidelberg," did not feel that he occupied a very enviable position.

For the completion of his education Prince Karl was sent to college at Heidelberg. There he got his first real taste of fellowship, small as it was. His brother collegians tried their best to treat him as their equal. They drank beer with him, they played with him, and Prince Karl for the first time in his life was really enjoying himself. Here he met Kathie. Kathie was the only girl Prince Karl had "ever met."

SHOW CLOSES AT NEW GRAND.

Browning and Dean, offering a comedy talking skit, "The Minstrel and The Wise Guy"; Williams and Culver in a singing and talking diversion, and the Four Ellett Sisters, aerialists supreme, are among the other vaudeville offerings. The twenty-seventh chapter of the "Diamond From the Sky"; "The Print of the Nails," a three-real drama of politics, and two comedies make up the remainder of the program.

Tomorrow the new bill opening for the remainder of the week is headed by the Three Mori Brothers, Japanese "wonder workers." Robert and Robert, a man and a dog in a comedy playlet, "A True Friend"; Dunbar and Connolly, offering songs and stories, and the Reed- St. John Trio of instrumentalists balance up the vaudeville part of the program.

"The Woman's Share," a two-reel story of every day life; one of the "Ventures of Marguerite" stories, "A Society Schemer"; two clever comedies and the Hearst-Selig News picturing events from all over the world, complete the bill.

HAS HELD RURAL ROUTE TEN YEARS

James H. Neil Sees Great Change in Service in That Period.

James H. Neil, who was the first rural mail carrier out of Duluth, is today celebrating the tenth anniversary of his delivery of mail for Uncle Sam. He was given charge of the first route ten years ago today and has carried mail ever since between Duluth and Pike lake.

Despite the fact that agriculture is a comparatively new thing in the country surrounding Duluth, the rural mail service has grown rapidly within the last few years. There are now five rural routes, and it is expected that the rural delivery will be established in all parts of the county in a short time.

In the early days it was a long drive between houses but the country is being settled rapidly. The rural routes he says are doing wonders in educating the people in the rural districts and in promoting good roads and better conditions in every way.

TRYING TO FIND BANKER'S SLAYER

Longmont, Colo., Dec. 1.—Deputy sheriffs, detectives and citizens today continued efforts to apprehend the murderer of W. H. Dickens, a wealthy banker and merchant, who was killed last night in the library of his home by a bullet fired through a window. Apparently the authorities were without tangible clews as to the identity of the assassin or a motive for the act.

Trained bloodhounds, brought here from Denver and Colorado Springs, were unable early today to pick up the trail of the slayer. A reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of the murderer has been offered.

A report that Mr. Dickens recently had trouble with a tenant of one of his farms is being investigated in the hope that it will throw light upon the case.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate, which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.—Advertisement.

IMPROVEMENT OF MISSISSIPPI

Delegates to Association From River Cities Meet at Quincy.

Situation Such as to Encourage Establishing of Big Barge Service.

Quincy, Ill., Dec. 1.—Delegates from cities and towns along the Mississippi river arrived today for the opening session of the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association and before night more than 150 are expected. The meeting opened this morning and closes tomorrow afternoon. Thomas Wilkinson of Burlington, Iowa, president of the association gave his annual address this morning.

"The working committee," appointed at a conference of shippers held in Dubuque June 9, last, submitted its report to the convention today. The committee said it had attempted "to ascertain available tonnage for waterways and to what extent terminal facilities would be supplied."

The report said that conditions along the Mississippi were changing so rapidly "that it is deemed inadvisable to attempt to cover activities in detail, but it is most imperative to be able to report greatly increased interest along the whole river as well as the Ohio, Missouri and Illinois rivers, and efforts to rehabilitate rivers formerly navigated, but now disused, such as the Des Moines."

Tonnage Available.

The report then listed the transportation lines already in operation on the rivers and gave also a table of approximate tonnage available for waterways with modern facilities, at towns between Minneapolis and St. Louis. This tonnage table was based upon rail and water figures for 1913 and ranged from 90,400 tons for Lake City, Minn., to 54,609,560 tons at St. Louis.

Other cities were listed as follows: Minneapolis, 12,604,000; St. Paul, 8,245,000; Red Wing, 453,000; Winona, 688,434; La Crosse, 669,892; Dubuque, 714,943; Clinton, 626,284; Moline, 1,359,300; Bettendorf, 800,000; Rock Island, 741,000; Davenport, 1,598,000; Muscatine, 383,000; Burlington, 708,750; Fort Madison, 175,000; Keokuk, 316,000; Quincy, 773,500; Hannibal, 825,000; Illasco, 813,200; Alton, 1,998,000.

Prospect Encouraging.

"It is evident," said the report, "that there is enough tonnage in sight and in prospect to encourage capitalists who are to finance river navigation companies."

The report then detailed projected and actually started municipal dock and harbor plans at Minneapolis, St. Paul, Dubuque, Clinton and Davenport, Iowa; Moline and Alton, Ill.; St. Louis and New Orleans. The committee also said it had been informed that a new navigation company contemplates building thirty-six quadruple screw propelled, all steel barges, "which will be put into service as fast as required." It was added that the first of these barges will start service within a month between St. Louis and New Orleans and will go to St. Paul next spring.

day. The semi-official Wolff bureau of Germany said on Monday night that several members of the cabinet would withdraw.

No authentic information has been received concerning the state of affairs politically which brought about the retirement of the ministers, but their withdrawal and Emperor William's interview with Emperor Francis Joseph have given free reign to speculation concerning Austria's reported willingness to enter upon peace negotiations. It has been represented that Emperor William went to Vienna on account of this situation, although other dispatches were to the effect that he desired Austria to make concessions to Roumania, for the purpose of keeping her out of the war. These reports have come for the most part from sources hostile to Austria, and have been so contradictory that they have not been credited generally.

This is the most important change which has been made in any of the cabinets of the Central powers during the war. These cabinets hitherto have remained virtually intact, although coalition governments have been formed in England and France and there have been a number of withdrawals from the Russian cabinet.

DIPLOMATIC SITUATION IN THE BALKANS AGAIN CAUSE OF UNEASINESS

before dispatching an ultimatum to Austria, and German military critics according to dispatches reaching London express considerable dissatisfaction with conditions in the Balkans, predicting both military and diplomatic difficulties ahead despite the brilliant Serbian campaign of Field Marshal von Mackensen. Moreover, it is reported that Austria is opposed to the idea and possibility of Bulgarian domination of the Balkan states and it is suggested that a desire to forestall any friction in this connection was responsible for the German emperor's recent visit to Vienna.

Refuses to Concede Demands.

Greece steadfastly refuses to concede Entente demands for the unrestricted use of the Greek port of Saloniki as a base and furthermore declines to remove her army from Macedonia.

Except for the capture of Prisrend by the Bulgarians there has been no marked change in the Serbian military situation. The fate of Monastir, reported to have fallen before the Bulgarians, remains obscure, notwithstanding definite reports that neutral consuls in the city had arranged to turn it over to the attackers after withdrawal of the Serbians. But later dispatches stated that telegraphic communication with the city was still maintained, indicating that it had not been entirely evacuated.

The eastern front has been comparatively quiet. The Russians are reported as being greatly strengthened along the Riga line imbued with a confidence that they can shatter the German defenses whenever a forward move is deemed expedient.

Vienna reports that the Italians seem determined to capture Gorizia with the least possible loss of time, but progress against the defenses of the town is exceedingly slow.

French Statement.

Paris, Dec. 1, 2:30 p. m.—The announcement regarding military activities in the east given out by the French war office this afternoon follows:

"Quiet has prevailed along our front (Serbian) with the exception of some artillery exchanges. The intense cold is making operations difficult.

"Expeditionary corps at the Dardanelles: The days of Nov. 27 and 28 were characterized by the activity with which mining operations were conducted by ourselves and our enemies. An explosion brought about by French troops caused the demolition of a Turkish listening post. The men in one of our galleries having cut their way to a Turkish gallery, French sappers went forward and with revolvers and hand grenades, compelled the Turkish diggers to flee."

RECOVERY FROM GRIP

The form of influenza popularly called grip lasts but a short time, is seldom fatal but causes suffering and misery out of all proportion to its importance.

The reason is this. When the acute stage of the grip is passed there often remains a neurasthenia that persists for months if not properly corrected. The patient is moody, in poor spirits, suffers lack of appetite and vigor and feels indisposed to work or even to enjoy life. Warmth and quiet alone give comfort and these not for long at a time. Sleep is restless and does not refresh the nerves which are always at high tension.

The best way to correct this aftereffect of the grip is to build up the blood and there is no better blood builder than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

As soon as the revitalized blood courses through the system you are aware of its soothing influence. Gradually the color returns to the pale cheeks, appetite and digestion improve and you are on the road to health.

The free book "Building Up the Blood" contains a chapter on the after-effects of the grip. Send now for a copy to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the nearest drug store or by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes $2.50.

Deputy Coroner Nichols today took charge of the remains of the victims, nearly all of which, however, were but human fragments and began an investigation. Later he will summon a jury and a formal inquest will be held.

Officials of the Dupont company were hard at work on the list of victims, endeavoring to have the list already published verified or corrected.

Thirty-one Killed.

Thirty-one workmen were killed and seven fatally injured in the terrific explosion of four tons of black powder at the Upper Hagley yard of the Du Pont Powder company. It was the worst accident that has occurred in any of the company's plants in a quarter of a century. The cause of the blast is not known.

According to a statement by the company, the "origin will probably always remain a mystery."

Nevertheless a most severe investigation has been started by the officials of the company and every employe who was near the building that was blown to pieces, will be put through a thorough examination, in the hope that some clew as to the cause may be learned.

There was the usual rumor afloat that some outside agency may have caused the explosion, but Du Pont officials said tonight there was not a shred of evidence upon which to hang any theory.

Nearly all the victims of the blast were young men between 16 and 21 years old. The greater number lived in and about Wilmington. The explosion occurred in a packing house where black powder pellets are prepared for shipment. These pellets are used for rifles, much of the powder, if not all, being shipped to the warring nations.

It was 1:30 p. m. when a slight explosion was heard in the neighborhood, followed by another one a trifle heavier, which was quickly succeeded by a terrific blast that not only rocked the whole valley, but shook and startled Wilmington.

A great column of smoke rose from the spot where the building had stood and when the cloud disappeared there was only a big hole left in the ground.

Scene One of Horror.

Workmen who survived the tremendous blast said the scene was one of horror. From every tree left standing in the neighborhood there was hanging either pieces of flesh or parts of clothing worn by the unfortunate men.

Twenty-six men were in the packing house when the powder went off, and not enough of any of them was left for identification with the exception of Allen A. Thaxter, the foreman, whose home is given as Portland, Me. He was torn to pieces and a part of his body was found hanging on a tree across the creek. It was identified by shreds of clothing that still clung to it.

For more than a quarter of a mile about the scene the ground was strewn with arms, legs and bits of flesh. Even the trees across the Brandywine were filled with ghastly parts of human beings and clothing. Workmen who rushed to help at whatever rescue work there was to do, spied an arm floating down in the rapid current of the creek, and fished it out with a stick. Two horses caught in the blast were torn almost to pieces and one large section of one of the animals was hurled more than a quarter of a mile from the place.

Four of the thirty men killed were blown to pieces, while at work outside the packing house. They were Mace, a driver; Hanrahan, a carpenter; Peaston, a fireman, and Oliver, a machinist.

The work of gathering up what was left of the dead, was a gruesome task. Baskets and boxes were employed for this purpose, and the men searched the grounds for bits of flesh as though they were picking mushrooms. Some climbed trees and brought down other parts of bodies and pieces of clothing.

been such a freedom in business so early before Christmas, as this year has shown. Some—many, in fact—began to do their Christmas buying immediately after Thanksgiving, and the stores everywhere are taking on the appearance of a holiday rush, which it probably is, and which the clerks say it must be when the kind of buying that predominates is considered.

Nowhere is the effect of the growth of business and the general improvement felt more unmistakably than in the grocery stores. The proprietors of the leading groceries—and the wholesalers say that it extends to the smaller and the community grocery stores as well—claim that not only is buying much more liberal than in years, but that the quality of goods now in general demand is far superior than ever before in the business history of Duluth. No "just as good" stuff "goes."

"The people have the money, they know what they want, and they are ready to pay for it; so what must we do?" said one of the leading grocers with a tossing of his hands to signify compliance.

Dry goods stores report that the women are buying a better grade of goods than in years, both for dress materials and for the house. Clothiers and tailors report about the same thing as to the men.

Grain and Ore Lead.

This is all made possible by the wonderful development of business that affects the whole community in the last few months. The improvement is especially marked in grain and ore circles. The crop of the last fall is the largest in the history of the Northwest and Duluth is the funnel through which it pours to the markets of the world. More ore, by 10,000,000 tons than last year, was sent out from the Head of the Lakes to Eastern furnaces, which was of inestimable benefit to the ranges and therefore to Duluth.

In grain, the current crop year, which begins on Aug. 1, up to yesterday, the end of November, showed an increase in grain receipts at this market of 20,336,138, but the banner month was November.

The month just ended yesterday is the greatest in the Duluth grain market. Up to then, November, 1912, had been the greatest as to receipts, which means grain marketed, but the same month this year shows an increase over November, 1912, of 5,481,628 bushels. Receipts of grain in November this year and in 1912 were as follows:

	Bushels.
1914	29,735,327
Increase	5,481,628

The shipments were not quite as high, but show as follows for the two years mentioned:

	Bushels.
1915	32,119,792
1914	32,254,531
Decrease	134,739

The receipts are what count, however, for they mean commissions on sales, elevator fees, etc., and represent vast sums of money that will be realized on marketing.

Bank Deposits.

As in grain, the high point in deposits in the Duluth banks previous to this year was reached in 1912, which was, up to now, the banner year of business here. But as in grain also, this year has eclipsed all former banking marks, and November has surpassed all other months. As to deposits, the following figures from the four national banks of the city, which is reflected in the state banks, show the comparison with former years, the following being the high tide of deposits in the four banks, and all of them being in November:

November, 1915.

Bank Clearings.

Duluth bank clearings set a new high record in November, disclosing a remarkably active condition of business in all lines. Clearings for the month reached the handsome aggregate of $55,329,241.96, as compared with $40,088,238.37 for the corresponding period last year.

After a series of decreases during the summer months owing to the unsettlement brought about by the war and a tendency on the part of business men to await developments before entering upon fresh commitments, clearings began to mount up in October, following the enormous crop movement and a general broadening out in all branches of business. For the eleven months of the current clearings aggregated $242,114,795.60, as compared with $229,450,077.34 during the same period in 1914, showing an increase of $12,664,718.26.

Local bankers predict an exceptionally active period during the winter owing to the general awakening that has come about through the starting of manufacturing operations at the Minnesota Steel company's plant and the likelihood of other industrial concerns establishing here.

February	13,888,887.76	11,565,347.70
March	15,321,288.56	12,662,979.87
April	15,738,896.87	14,079,228.55
May	14,476,667.94	15,927,935.97
June	13,745,446.04	15,858,695.89
July	11,862,620.09	17,067,512.80
August	14,004,216.22	16,007,693.98
September	28,696,805.22	35,313,576.23
October	42,366,078.23	37,112,305.25
November	55,329,341.96	40,988,238.37
Totals	$242,114,895.60	$230,350,077.34

Increase, $11,764,818.26.

Industrial Conditions.

Industrial conditions of the western end of the city are this fall the best in years. A year ago at this time the depression was the worst experienced since the hard times of the early nineties. Although there were no failures to affect the business condition of West Duluth or West end during the fall last year, there was no work to speak of except in a few instances and the people had little money.

This year this condition is entirely changed. Few men are out of work, and these few are those who recently have been put out of employment by the closing of the ore docks, one lumber mill and street work. These industries are slack every winter.

In comparison it might be safely said that nearly 3,000 more men are employed now than a year ago. At the Duluth steel plant there are nearly 1,300 more men at work. A year ago only a few of the employes, estimated at about 150, were at work. Now there are said to be over 1,400 men employed in the night and day operations.

At this time a year ago the Universal Portland Cement company had laid off all but six of its men. Now a construction. The Zenith Furnace plant was closed down early in the fall of 1914 and is now working at capacity employing about 400 men.

Smaller Industries.

Many of the smaller industries, some of whom were just barely operating a year ago, are now crowded with orders and will have to work at capacity throughout the winter. Among the exceptions is the Diamond Calk & Horse Shoe plant which at this time a year ago was working at capacity and turning down foreign orders. This plant is enjoying the same condition this year. Among the plants whose activities were at a low ebb last year, but are now bending every effort in turning out the orders are the National Iron Works, Imperial Iron Works, Clyde Iron Works, Wallinder Sash & Door factory, Nelson Sash & Door factory, Zenith Box factory, Western Rug company, Minnesota Radiator company, Union Match company, and numerous other industries.

Manufacturing is not the only activity that is booming this fall in this end of the city. Building operations have been active and at the present time there are buildings under construction and contemplated that will give employment to many skilled workmen as well as common laborers during the winter.

The greatest building activity of any section is probably at present going on at Morgan Park. Here the steel company has under construction its handsome general office, the hospital, business blocks, and a large garage, in addition to four large boarding houses. Several residence buildings will also be put up in the near future, it is said.

In the West end excavations have been started for the foundations for three business blocks and two others will be started in a short time. In that section there have been a number of handsome buildings erected, among them being factory buildings, the Lincoln school and numerous residences.

Building Activity.

In building throughout the city this has been one of the most active in the last decade. Last year there was a deplorable falling off, due to the general depression in business the country over—the world over, for that matter—and financial men and contractors feel that it is hardly fair to use the figures of last year by way of comparison, for they mean nothing except that everybody was waiting to see what would happen. This year, however, promises great things, in fact, has assured great things. Up to Nov. 10, since the first of the year, 1,649 building permits have been issued, and represent a total in improvements of $2,549,863. Building in prospect will probably bring the totals represented in permits for the year up to $3,000,000 is the estimate.

Theaters have been crowded this season. Not only the low price ones, but those where the highest prices are required. In fact, the better class seems to have the best patronage.

It is the same in every line where inquiry is made and optimism is a common feeling throughout the city.

TRYING TO FIND BANKER'S SLAYER

Longmont, Colo., Dec. 1.—Deputy sheriffs, detectives and citizens today continued efforts to apprehend the murderer of W. H. Dickens, a wealthy banker and merchant, who was killed last night in the library of his home by a bullet fired through a window. Apparently the authorities were without tangible clews as to the identity of the assassin or a motive for the act.

Trained bloodhounds, brought here from Denver and Colorado Springs, were unable early today to pick up the trail of the slayer. A reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of the murderer has been offered.

A report that Mr. Dickens recently had trouble with a tenant of one of his farms is being investigated in the hope that it will throw light upon the case.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immedaitely upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate, which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.—Advertisement.

IMPROVEMENT OF MISSISSIPPI

Delegates to Association From River Cities Meet at Quincy.

Situation Such as to Encourage Establishing of Big Barge Service.

Quincy, Ill., Dec. 1.—Delegates from cities and towns along the Mississippi river arrived today for the opening session of the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association and before night more than 150 are expected. The meeting opened this morning and closes tomorrow afternoon. Thomas Wilkinson of Burlington, Iowa, president of the association gave his annual address this morning.

"The working committee," appointed at a conference of shippers held in Dubuque June 9, last, submitted its report to the convention today. The committee said it had attempted "to ascertain available tonnage for waterways and to what extent terminal facilities would be supplied."

The report said that conditions along the Mississippi were changing so rapidly "that it is deemed inadvisable to attempt to cover activities in detail, but it is most imperative to be able to report greatly increased interest along the whole river as well as the Ohio, Missouri and Illinois rivers, and efforts to rehabilitate rivers formerly navigated, but now disused, such as the Des Moines."

Tonnage Available.

The report then listed the transportation lines already in operation on the rivers and gave also a table of approximate tonnage available for waterways with modern facilities, at towns between Minneapolis and St. Louis. This tonnage table was based upon rail and water figures for 1913 and ranged from 90,400 tons for Lake City, Minn., to 54,609,560 tons at St. Louis.

Other cities were listed as follows: Minneapolis, 12,604,000; St. Paul, 8,245,000; Red Wing, 453,000; Winona, 688,434; La Crosse, 669,892; Dubuque, 714,943; Clinton, 626,284; Moline, 1,359,300; Bettendorf, 800,000; Rock Island, 741,000; Davenport, 1,598,000; Muscatine, 383,000; Burlington, 708,750; Fort Madison, 175,000; Keokuk, 316,000; Quincy, 773,500; Hannibal, 825,000; Illasco, 813,200; Alton, 1,998,000.

Prospect Encouraging.

"It is evident," said the report, "that there is enough tonnage in sight and in prospect to encourage capitalists who are to finance river navigation companies."

The report then detailed projected and actually started municipal dock and harbor plans at Minneapolis, St. Paul, Dubuque, Clinton and Davenport, Iowa; Moline and Alton, Ill.; St. Louis and New Orleans. The committee also said it had been informed that a new navigation company contemplates building thirty-six quadruple screw propelled, all steel barges, "which will be put into service as fast as required." It was added that the first of these barges will start service within a month between St. Louis and New Orleans and will go to St. Paul next spring.

day. The semi-official Wolff bureau of Germany said on Monday night that several members of the cabinet would withdraw.

No authentic information has been received concerning the state of affairs politically which brought about the retirement of the ministers, but their withdrawal and Emperor William's interview with Emperor Francis Joseph have given free reign to speculation concerning Austria's reported willingness to enter upon peace negotiations. It has been represented that Emperor William went to Vienna on account of this situation, although other dispatches were to the effect that he desired Austria to make concessions to Roumania, for the purpose of keeping her out of the war. These reports have come for the most part from sources hostile to Austria, and have been so contradictory that they have not been credited generally.

This is the most important change which has been made in any of the cabinets of the Central powers during the war. These cabinets hitherto have remained virtually intact, although coalition governments have been formed in England and France and there have been a number of withdrawals from the Russian cabinet.

before dispatching an ultimatum to Austria, and German military critics according to dispatches reaching London express considerable dissatisfaction with conditions in the Balkans, predicting both military and diplomatic difficulties ahead despite the brilliant Serbian campaign of Field Marshal von Mackensen. Moreover, it is reported that Austria is opposed to the idea and possibility of Bulgarian domination of the Balkan states and it is suggested that a desire to forestall any friction in this connection was responsible for the German emperor's recent visit to Vienna.

Refuses to Concede Demands.

Greece steadfastly refuses to concede Entente demands for the unrestricted use of the Greek port of Saloniki as a base and furthermore declines to remove her army from Macedonia.

Except for the capture of Prisrend by the Bulgarians there has been no marked change in the Serbian military situation. The fate of Monastir, reported to have fallen before the Bulgarians, remains obscure, notwithstanding definite reports that neutral consuls in the city had arranged to turn it over to the attackers after withdrawal of the Serbians. But later dispatches stated that telegraphic communication with the city was still maintained, indicating that it had not been entirely evacuated.

The eastern front has been comparatively quiet. The Russians are reported as being greatly strengthened along the Riga line imbued with a confidence that they can shatter the German defenses whenever a forward move is deemed expedient.

Vienna reports that the Italians seem determined to capture Gorizia with the least possible loss of time, but progress against the defenses of the town is exceedingly slow.

French Statement.

Paris, Dec. 1, 2:30 p. m.—The announcement regarding military activities in the east given out by the French war office this afternoon follows:

"Quiet has prevailed along our front (Serbian) with the exception of some artillery exchanges. The intense cold is making operations difficult.

"Expeditionary corps at the Dardanelles: The days of Nov. 27 and 28 were characterized by the activity with which mining operations were conducted by ourselves and our enemies. An explosion brought about by French troops caused the demolition of a Turkish listening post. The men in one of our galleries having cut their way to a Turkish gallery, French sappers went forward and with revolvers and hand grenades, compelled the Turkish diggers to flee."

RECOVERY FROM GRIP

The form of influenza popularly called grip lasts but a short time, is seldom fatal but causes suffering and misery out of all proportion to its importance.

The reason is this. When the acute stage of the grip is passed there often remains a neurasthenia that persists for months if not properly corrected. The patient is moody, in poor spirits, suffers lack of appetite and vigor and feels indisposed to work or even to enjoy life. Warmth and quiet alone give comfort and these not for long at a time. Sleep is restless and does not refresh the nerves which are always at high tension.

The best way to correct this after-effect of the grip is to build up the blood and there is no better blood builder than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

As soon as the revitalized blood courses through the system you are aware of its soothing influence. Gradually the color returns to the pale cheeks, appetite and digestion improve and you are on the road to health.

The free book "Building Up the Blood" contains a chapter on the after-effects of the grip. Send now for a copy to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the nearest drug store or by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes $2.50.

origin of the blast.

Deputy Coroner Nichols today took charge of the remains of the victims, nearly all of which, however, were but human fragments and began an investigation. Later he will summon a jury and a formal inquest will be held.

Officials of the Dupont company were hard at work on the list of victims, endeavoring to have the list already published verified or corrected.

Thirty-one Killed.

Thirty-one workmen were killed and seven fatally injured in the terrific explosion of four tons of black powder at the Upper Hagley yard of the Du Pont Powder company. It was the worst accident that has occurred in any of the company's plants in a quarter of a century. The cause of the blast is not known.

According to a statement by the company, the "origin will probably always remain a mystery."

Nevertheless a most severe investigation has been started by the officials of the company and every employe who was near the building that was blown to pieces, will be put through a thorough examination, in the hope that some clew as to the cause may be learned.

There was the usual rumor afloat that some outside agency may have caused the explosion, but Du Pont officials said tonight there was not a shred of evidence upon which to hang any theory.

Nearly all the victims of the blast were young men between 16 and 21 years old. The greater number lived in and about Wilmington. The explosion occurred in a packing house where black powder pellets are prepared for shipment. These pellets are used for rifles, much of the powder, it not all, being shipped to the warring nations.

It was 1:30 p. m. when a slight explosion was heard in the neighborhood, followed by another one a trifle heavier, which was quickly succeeded by a terrific blast that not only rocked the whole valley, but shook and startled Wilmington.

A great column of smoke rose from the spot where the building had stood and when the cloud disappeared there was only a big hole left in the ground.

Scene One of Horror.

Workmen who survived the tremendous blast said the scene was one of horror. From every tree left standing in the neighborhood there was hanging either pieces of flesh or parts of clothing worn by the unfortunate men.

Twenty-six men were in the packing house when the powder went off, and not enough of any of them was left for identification with the exception of Allen A. Thaxter, the foreman, whose home is given as Portland, Me. He was torn to pieces and a part of his body was found hanging on a tree across the creek. It was identified by shreds of clothing that still clung to it.

For more than a quarter of a mile about the scene the ground was strewn with arms, legs and bits of flesh. Even the trees across the Brandywine were filled with ghastly parts of human beings and clothing. Workmen who rushed to help at whatever rescue work there was to do, spied an arm floating down in the rapid current of the creek, and fished it out with a stick. Two horses caught in the blast were torn almost to pieces and one large section of one of the animals was hurled more than a quarter of a mile from the place.

Four of the thirty men killed were blown to pieces, while at work outside the packing house. They were Mace, a driver; Hanrahan, a carpenter; Peaston, a fireman, and Oliver, a machinist.

The work of gathering up what was left of the dead, was a gruesome task. Baskets and boxes were employed for this purpose, and the men searched the grounds for bits of flesh as though they were picking mushrooms. Some climbed trees and brought down other parts of bodies and pieces of clothing.

been such a freedom in business so early before Christmas, as this year has shown. Some—many, in fact—began to do their Christmas buying immediately after Thanksgiving, and the stores everywhere are taking on the appearance of a holiday rush, which it probably is, and which the clerks say it must be when the kind of buying that predominates is considered.

Nowhere is the effect of the growth of business and the general improvement felt more unmistakably than in the grocery stores. The proprietors of the leading groceries—and the wholesalers say that it extends to the smaller and the community grocery stores as well—claim that not only is buying much more liberal than in years, but that the quality of goods now in general demand is far superior than ever before in the business history of Duluth. No "just as good" stuff "goes."

"The people have the money, they know what they want, and they are ready to pay for it; so what must we do?" said one of the leading grocers with a tossing of his hands to signify compliance.

Dry goods stores report that the women are buying a better grade of goods than in years, both for dress materials and for the house. Clothiers and tailors report about the same thing as to the men.

Grain and Ore Lead.

This is all made possible by the wonderful development of business that affects the whole community in the last few months. The improvement is especially marked in grain and ore circles. The crop of the last fall is the largest in the history of the Northwest and Duluth is the funnel through which it pours to the markets of the world. More ore, by 10,000,000 tons than last year, was sent out from the Head of the Lakes to Eastern furnaces, which was of inestimable benefit to the ranges and therefore to Duluth.

In grain, the current crop year, which begins on Aug. 1, up to yesterday, the end of November, showed an increase in grain receipts at this market of 20,336,138, but the banner month was November.

The month just ended yesterday is the greatest in the Duluth grain market. Up to then, November, 1912, had been the greatest as to receipts, which means grain marketed, but the same month this year shows an increase over November, 1912, of 5,481,628 bushels. Receipts of grain in November this year and in 1912 were as follows:

	Bushels.
1915	35,216,655
1914	29,735,327
Increase	5,481,628

The shipments were not quite as high, but show as follows for the two years mentioned:

	Bushels.
1915	32,119,792
1914	32,254,531
Decrease	134,739

The receipts are what count, however, for they mean commissions on sales, elevator fees, etc., and represent vast sums of money that will be realized on marketing.

Bank Deposits.

As in grain, the high point in deposits in the Duluth banks previous to this year was reached in 1912, which was, up to now, the banner year of business here. But as in grain also, this year has eclipsed all former banking marks, and November has surpassed all other months. As to deposits, the following figures from the four national banks of the city, which is reflected in the state banks, show the comparison with former years, the following being the high tide of deposits in the four banks, and all of them being in November:

Bank Clearings.

Duluth bank clearings set a new high record in November, disclosing a remarkably active condition of business in all lines. Clearings for the month reached the handsome aggregate of $55,329,241.96, as compared with $40,088,238.37 for the corresponding period last year.

After a series of decreases during the summer months owing to the unsettlement brought about by the war and a tendency on the part of business men to await developments before entering upon fresh commitments, clearings began to mount up in October, following the enormous crop movement and a general broadening out in all branches of business. For the eleven months of the current clearings aggregated $242,114,795.60, as compared with $229,450,077.34 during the same period in 1914, showing an increase of $12,664,718.26.

Local bankers predict an exceptionally active period during the winter owing to the general awakening that has come about through the starting of manufacturing operations at the Minnesota Steel company's plant and the likelihood of other industrial concerns establishing here.

March	15,321,288.56	12,662,979.87
April	15,738,896.87	14,079,228.55
May	14,476,667.94	15,927,935.97
June	13,745,446.04	15,858,695.89
July	11,862,620.09	17,067,512.80
August	14,004,216.22	16,007,693.98
September	28,696,805.22	35,313,576.23
October	42,366,078.23	37,112,305.25
November	55,329,341.96	40,988,238.37

Increase, $11,764,818.26.

Industrial Conditions.

Industrial conditions of the western end of the city are this fall the best in years. A year ago at this time the depression was the worst experienced since the hard times of the early nineties. Although there were no failures to affect the business condition of West Duluth or West end during the fall last year, there was no work to speak of except in a few instances and the people had little money.

This year this condition is entirely changed. Few men are out of work, and these few are those who recently have been put out of employment by the closing of the ore docks, one lumber mill and street work. These industries are slack every winter.

In comparison it might be safely said that nearly 3,000 more men are employed now than a year ago. At the Duluth steel plant there are nearly 1,300 more men at work. A year ago only a few of the employes, estimated at about 150, were at work. Now there are said to be over 1,400 men employed in the night and day operations.

At this time a year ago the Universal Portland Cement company had laid off all but six of its men. Now a construction. The Zenith Furnace plant was closed down early in the fall of 1914 and is now working at capacity employing about 400 men.

Smaller Industries.

Many of the smaller industries, some of whom were just barely operating a year ago, are now crowded with orders and will have to work at capacity throughout the winter. Among the exceptions is the Diamond Calk & Horse Shoe plant which at this time a year ago was working at capacity and turning down foreign orders. This plant is enjoying the same condition this year. Among the plants whose activities were at a low ebb last year, but are now bending every effort in turning out the orders are the National Iron Works, Imperial Iron Works, Clyde Iron Works, Wallinder Sash & Door factory, Nelson Sash & Door factory, Zenith Box factory, Western Rug company, Minnesota Radiator company, Union Match company, and numerous other industries.

Manufacturing is not the only activity that is booming this fall in this end of the city. Building operations have been active and at the present time there are buildings under construction and contemplated that will give employment to many skilled workmen as well as common laborers during the winter.

The greatest building activity of any section is probably at present going on at Morgan Park. Here the steel company has under construction its handsome general office, the hospital, business blocks, and a large garage, in addition to four large boarding houses. Several residence buildings will also be put up in the near future, it is said.

In the West end excavations have been started for the foundations for three business blocks and two others will be started in a short time. In that section there have been a number of handsome buildings erected, among them being factory buildings, the Lincoln school and numerous residences.

Building Activity.

In building throughout the city this has been one of the most active in the last decade. Last year there was a deplorable falling off, due to the general depression in business the country over—the world over, for that matter—and financial men and contractors feel that it is hardly fair to use the figures of last year by way of comparison, for they mean nothing except that everybody was waiting to see what would happen. This year, however, promises great things, in fact, has assured great things. Up to Nov. 10, since the first of the year, 1,649 building permits have been issued, and represent a total in improvements of $2,549,863. Building in prospect will probably bring the totals represented in permits for the year up to $3,000,000 is the estimate.

Theaters have been crowded this season. Not only the low price ones, but those where the highest prices are required. In fact, the better class seems to have the best patronage.

It is the same in every line where inquiry is made and optimism is a common feeling throughout the city.

PROHIBITION IN MANCHURIA

Vodka Driven From Stations and Trains of Trans-Siberian Road.

Every Mile of the Line Is Under Heavy Military Control.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Harbin, Manchuria, Nov. 5.—Russia's banishment of liquor has driven vodka from the trains and stations of the Trans-Siberian railway and in consequence has particularly put much of Manchuria into the prohibition ranks. Being the chief artery of business, the Russian railway is the center of most activities in Central and Northern Manchuria. In many of the smaller places the railway station, cafe and bar are the only social center. Before the war vodka was sold at all stations and in the dining cars. Now the patrons of the railway refreshment stands must confine their drinking to non-alcoholic beverages.

At present the railway is used primarily as a route for war supplies and troops, and the successful enforcement of the no-liquor regulation is of such vital importance that Russian officials are very alert. Vodka is smuggled occasionally into railway property notwithstanding all precautions but railway employes, passengers and troops in transit across Manchuria have little opportunity to obtain it. The military is so completely in charge of the railway property that liquor smugglers soon come to grief.

Sobriety Is Vital.

Absolute sobriety on the part of railway employes is vital at this time when every moment's delay is serious to the Russian army. The dispatching of munition and troop trains on a single-tracked line requires the greatest care. Sending these trains from Vladivostok to Moscow is much more difficult than it would be to send them from European Russia to Vladivostok. During the Russo-Japanese war the railway was equipped for rush service eastward. Consequently the switches and sidings are more convenient for trains bound for the Pacific coast.

Passengers riding on the Trans-Siberian line are never permitted to forget the railway is a strategic line. Before a train crosses a bridge soldiers enter the cars, throw open the doors of compartments, make sure there are no windows open, and then signal the train to proceed. At the opposite end of the bridge the soldiers leave the train. No opportunity is afforded Russia's enemies to throw dynamite or other explosives which might wreck one of the bridges now so essential to the Russian army.

Every Mile Patroled.

Sturdy Russian soldiers, already equipped with high fur caps and sheepskin coats, stand guard even at the most remote prairie stations. Every mile of the line is under heavy patrol and there is little opportunity for persons not supplied with proper credentials to encroach upon military property.

Passports of neutrals entering Russian territory at this time must bear an oath, certified to before a diplomatic or consular agent of the country to which the bearer belongs, to the effect that he was born in that country and is not a naturalized citizen. This certification is necessary before a Russian legation or consulate will stamp a passport for travel in Russia. When a train enters Russian territory the conductor collects passports along with tickets and these are scrutinized carefully and retained until the Russian officials are satisfied as to the identity of the bearer.

Every guest entering a Russian hotel is also required to turn over his passports when he registers. This is sent by the innkeeper to the police officials, who hold hotel keepers responsible for their guests. The police stamp satisfactory passports and return them to the hotels where the bearers live. Guests are immediately advised in Russian towns that they must not be away from their lodgings after midnight and persons found wandering about after that hour are subject to arrest.

Troops in Training.

As troops are in training at many points along the Trans-Siberian line and thousands of new recruits are constantly moving westward from Vladivostok, Harbin and other points in the east, the no-liquor provision was very essential to proper morale. Frequently it requires thirty days for a troop train to move the length of the Trans-Siberian line. Trains are delayed for hours at sidings, waiting for the passage of rush shipments of ammunition. Time hangs heavily on the hands of recruits packed into freight cars. Hungry soldiers besiege the refreshment places in the Manchurian stations and if liquor were available trouble would doubtless follow.

Under liquor the Russian privates are extremely brutal. The Associated Press correspondent saw one group of five soldiers in their cups. All wore the gray-green blouses and caps of the Russian service. One of them, who seemed somewhat worse for liquor than his comrades, said something which offended the rest of the group. One of the men knocked him down. The others jumped upon his body with their heavy cowhide boots and kicked him in the place. An old woman rushed to the assistanec of the bleeding and bruised soldier. She pushed his assailants away and protested loudly as she helped the stunned man to his feet and led him away. The four men followed, but were frightened away by a threat of the woman to report the assault to an officer.

EXPO EMPLOYES WILL BE OUT OF POSITION

San Francisco, Dec. 1.—Between 1,200 and 1,400 employes of the Panama-Pacific exposition, many of them girls, will be out of work when the exposition closes its gates at 12 o'clock next Saturday night, according to an estimate by fair officials. For the purpose of aiding them, the exposition employment bureau has been created as a clearing house for commercial firms or individuals who may desire information as to young men and women with reference to prospective positions.

ELIZABETH G. FLYNN ACQUITTED BY JURY

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 1.—Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, a labor leader, late yesterday was found not guilty of a charge of "inciting to personal assault" in the silk mill strike in Paterson in February, 1913.

Miss Flynn was charged with having made speeches to strikers to induce them to riot. Taking the stand in her own behalf just before the case was given to the jury, Miss Flynn denied that she had used language attributed to her in the indictment.

Liquor Law Constitutional.

CLAIM HARD TO ESTABLISH

Will of Millie Baker's Fiancee Involves Question of Fact.

Big Share to Former's Mother If Daughter Survived Mr. Williamson.

Mrs. Anna Baker, 2209 Minnesota avenue, mother of Miss Millie A. Baker, New York, Lusitania victim, will fall heir to a $10,000 bequest and half the remaining estate of Charles Williamson, Miss Baker's fiancee, who perished in the same disaster, if she can prove her daughter survived Mr. Williamson.

Williamson bequeathed Miss Baker $10,000 outright and willed that she was to receive one-half of the balance of the estate after the equivalent of a year's wages had been paid to office employes and household servants. Half of the residuary estate was to be divided among Williamson's relatives. They are a father, Harry W. Williamson, Cumberland; Eugene L. Williamson, brother, Cumberland; H. A. Williamson, brother, Fairmont, W. Va.; Mrs. A. E. Hodges, sister, Landover, Md.

It is necessary that Mrs. Baker establish proof that Mr. Williamson died first in order that she may come into her daughter's share of the estate, and this will be difficult as the law presumes that the woman died first in cases of equal risk. The will stipulated that Miss Baker was to receive the legacy provided she survived the testator.

Mr. Williamson was a confidante to A. G. Vanderbilt and was a member of his party with Miss Baker when the Lusitania went down. The will was executed June 13, 1913, in Paris, where Mr. Williamson had a studio. He was an art collector. S. G. Archibald of Paris was named as one of the executors, but he has withdrawn in favor of Mr. Williamson's sister, Mrs. Hodges, who was appointed yesterday at Cumberland in the probate court.

WOULD BOOST FUND TO HUNDRED DOLLARS

Belgians in Duluth Have Now Almost Reached Goal.

Efforts are being made to bring the Belgian Dollar Christmas fund up to $100 by Dec. 25. One more dollar was received by The Herald today, which makes a total of $93.66.

A large number of Belgians in Duluth and Superior are now sending money to relatives in the old country regularly and for this reason are not contributing so extensively to the general fund as they did a year ago. The Belgian committee, however, emphasises the fact that there are twice as many needy war sufferers in Belgium now as there were a year ago.

Want Fraternal Holiday.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 1.—Hundreds of thousands of lodge members of the state have started a movement to add another national holiday to the calendar of general observance, to be known as Fraternal day. The idea is to call the public's attention to the spirit of fraternal organizations, and to instill into the youth of America the desire to take on his portion of the work of helping his fellowman.

BRITISH SECRETARY WARNS NORTHCLIFFE

Publisher Replies Referring to Political Intrigues Existing in Cabinet.

London, Dec. 1.—Sir John Simon, secretary of state for home affairs, served notice on Lord Northcliffe in the house of commons that if the "gentler way" heretofore pursued to induce British newspapers to stop the "continual fouling of his own nest," did not prove effective, "it was pretty possible to take stronger measures."

"I do not know Lord Northcliffe," said the home secretary, "but he appears to be a gentleman with the curious habit of always itching to destroy the things he has made. Like the prophets of Baal, he leaps on the altars he has made. We, in this country, know how to estimate the value of these jaundiced prints, but they are a disappointment to our allies and a source of disgust to neutrals."

In an editorial this morning replying to the remarks of Sir John Simon, secretary of state for foreign affairs, regarding Lord Northcliffe, the Times says:

"Sir John Simon's speech consists of an elaborate rechauffe of the political intrigue with which we are sufficiently familiar in the pages of the party press. The plain Englishman bent on winning the greatest war in history will, we think, be amazed that a cabinet minister, summoning only the members of his own party, should devote so much enthusiasm and time to an attack on newspapers which do not happen to agree with his politics, but are straining every nerve for the national cause.

"They would be still more amazed if they knew the petty jealousies and subterranean intrigues of which the speech is an outward sign."

DEER HUNTERS JAILED.

Upper Peninsula Men, Who Killed to Sell Meat, Get Ninety Days.

Newberry, Mich., Dec. 1.—Justice of the Peace Harris of this place imposed heavy punishment on O. G. Chambers and James Kirkpatrick who were given ninety days each in jail for killing deer and selling the venison.

They were arrested on the Taquemenon river, Luce county, Saturday by Chief Deputy Baird and Deputies Nelson and Vizena. Two deer in their possession were confiscated, and they were taken before Justice Harris. Because of the circumstances of the case, a severe fine was recommended. Justice Harris imposed one of $100 on each, and, lacking the amount necessary to secure their freedom, both had to accept the alternative of a ninety-day sentence.

Carl Ohlson of Pequaming, who was arrested in Baraga county by Deputy Sleotte on the charge of killing deer without a license, was tried before Justice W. S. Crebassa of L'Anse, by whom he was fined $25 and costs.

MARY FAGAN.

Mary Fagan of 313 Fourth avenue west celebrated her fourth birthday today by donating $1,000 to the Sacred Heart cathedral of Superior, Wis. It was the wish of her father, the late R. H. Fagan, that on each birthday she donate a sum of money to the church in which her parents were married fourteen years ago, the money to be used for some charitable purpose.

Playlet Is Localized

Drama Class Members Present Duluth Version of "The Veneered Savage."

In the original version of the playlet, "The Veneered Savage," two American girls and their cousin, Dick, who are visiting in England, give vivid descriptions of the wildness of America, spurred on by questions asked by their English friends, and the girls wear cowboy suits to carry out the idea that their country is only a trifle removed from savagery. Miss E. Pearl Preston's version, which was given last night before the members of the Evening Drama class and their friends at the home of Mrs. M. Cook, 1021 East Second street, made Duluth the home of the "veneered savages" and Dick and offered a number of local references.

When asked if buffaloes were not numerous where they came from, one of the sisters answered that they were as thick as flies and that the city even had Buffalo flats. She also told her credulous friends that the buffaloes came from Superior, "a sort of suburb of Duluth." The dangers of this outpost of civilization were explained by the startling announcement that there were no nursemaids in Duluth, as it required the strength of men to protect children on their way to the playgrounds and home again.

Painted Duluthian.

The duchess, in trailing black velvet gown, noticed one of the "savages" gazing at a picture of Michael Angelo and remarked upon the fact, but the American, instead of being awed by the likeness of the artist, had a friendly feeling for him, as she said he had painted the portrait of a prominent Duluthian.

The gowns of the cast had been worn by Miss Laura Frankenfield and by Margaret Anglin in "The Awakening of Helena Richie." The setting was the interior of Diddlesex castle, London.

Those who took part were: "Lou Dayton," a Duluth belle, Miss Mae Geary; "Madge Dayton," her younger sister, Miss E. Pearl Preston; "Dick Majendie," a cousin to the girls, Miss Helen Strand; "The Duchess of Diddlesex," Miss Hannah Strand; "Lady Fanny," her daughter, a silent young person, Miss Lillian Dinham; "Lord Algernon Penryhn," her son, a still more silent young person, Miss Exa Cohen; "Footman," Miss Florence Geary.

First Play Presented

This was the first play given by the drama class that has been reading and studying plays since its organization last year.

The other part of the program consisted of a talk, readings and musical numbers. Mrs. J. C. H. Engel spoke of Granville Barker and gave a brief analysis of his play, "The Madras House," a part of which was read by Mrs. E. W. Kaltenbach. Miss Zaidee Gittelson read from Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer," and gave several humerous selections. Mrs. John C. Young, who came recently from Minneapolis to make her home in Duluth, gave as piano numbers "The Brook," by William Pape, and "Good Night," by Nevin.

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Cook for the use of her home. Dorothea Engel and Catherine Kaltenbach assisted about the rooms, which were decorated with sunset roses and potted plants.

The regular meeting of the class has been postponed from next Tuesday night to the following week on account of the concert which will be given by Julia Culp.

Would Stop "They Say—"

"And they do say that——"

"Hush. I belong to the League of the Kindly Tongue. No gossip."

The League of the Kindly Tongue has just reached Duluth. There are no dues, no pledges, no organization, and no meetings.

"The League of the Kindly Tongue was launched Jan. 25, 1914, at Appleton, Wis., to supplement the League of the Golden Pen. At once it met with favor. In nineteen months 12,000 cards were distributed in thirty-six states. Anyone, old or young, is eligible for membership. Initiate yourself today by speaking kindly to some one.

"Every day endeavor to live up to the spirit of the league, habitually seeking to bring help and cheer by speech. If you fail, begin again.

"Talk frankly and naturally, avoiding cant and Pharisaic assumption.

"The great requirement is a sincere interest in others. Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

"Each one who receives a card is requested to secure new members. Start a chapter in home, church, school, lodge, club, or in any group of persons. Or secure individual members.

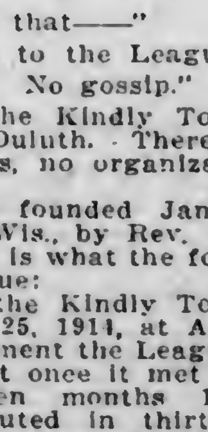
"The league is very simple. There are no dues, no by-laws, no cast iron pledges, no meetings, (unless desired). Its purpose is to induce people to think of their words. Death and life are in the power of the tongue.

"The founder of the league will be pleased to correspond with any one who is interested. As the work is entirely a labor of love, kindly enclose a stamp.

"Membership cards will be furnished free, or the applicant may pay the cost, 1 cent each. Booklets concerning the league will be furnished at 2 cents each. Address William D. Marsh, Appleton, Wis.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

On Earning "Pin Money."



A naive statement in a woman's periodical is interesting because it illustrates the workings of the average woman's mind. Harmless enough in the individual, it is fraught with danger to women as a whole, and is one of the things most resented by men in woman's attitude toward earning a living.

The following paragraph was inserted among others headed "Practical Pin Money Ideas." It related to trimming hats for friends, acquaintances and neighbors: "I go about it this way," says the young woman relating her experience; "first of all my prices are always below the regular charge, and as a result I get plenty of customers, all the work I can do and plenty of pin money." She says she finds the plan very successful and hopes the idea will be of assistance to others.

Bless her heart, it is really pathetic from her side, as well as from that of the regular milliners in the town. She is in ignorance of the fact that she is, in a small way, a cheapener of labor, and to be held askance by the body of women who are earning their living at that trade. If someone else should open a shop in competition with her for mere "pin money," and cut prices below hers, she probably would resent it, though she does not realize that she is interfering with the regular business of others in an unfair manner.

She probably is not dependent on the money she thus earns for her living—it is just "pin money," which will buy her some luxuries she might otherwise lack. Just as sure as you cut prices to make a little "pin money" to buy folderols, you do something that makes it harder for someone else to make a living. There may be an excuse for cutting prices for self-preservation, in legitimate competition, but not for mere "pin money."

Miss Jane Buckley, who spoke on current events, took for her subjects the prohibition act at Hibbing and Chisholm, the admission of Alaska into the Union, and the Ford peace movement.

Unusual Features Distinguish Matinee Musicale Concert

A young pianist's first appearance before the Matinee Musicale, a dramatic trio and flute solos were the distinguishing features of the Matinee Musicale concert given yesterday afternoon at the First Methodist church. The program, which was arranged by Mrs. Elizabeth Morton Dworshak, was a pleasing innovation as no trios have been on the programs this season and flute numbers are unusual. It was also the first appearance of Miss Frances Millicent Berg, who returned recently from her piano studies in Cincinnati. The Matinee Musicale extends a warm welcome to each of its former student members who makes good and gives the club the advantages of her accomplishments. Miss Berg was, by the way, a former pupil of Mrs. Dworshak.

From American Composers.

As the Matinee Musicale is giving special attention this year to American composers, Miss Berg's opening group included two compositions by Americans who were her teachers, a nocturne by Albino Gorno and "Silhouette Dialogue" by Louis Victor Saar. The other number of the group was a prelude and fugue in F minor, by Saint-Saens. Miss Berg closed the program with Liszt's "Venezia e Napoli." In this number especially she showed mature understanding, professional ease and the ability to get her interpretation to her audience.

Miss Adele Lawson has been heard in flute numbers by small groups of musicians on former visits to her sister, Mrs. Bruce Ter Bush, but yesterday marked her first appearance before the Matinee Musicale. "Polka Caprice," by Terschak, was followed by a madrigal by Simonette which was especially well suited to that instrument. Isabel Pearson Fuller was at the piano.

"Ciel Mio Padre," from "Aida," by Verdi, was given by Gladys Reynolds Frey, soprano; John Koneczny, tenor, and George Suffel, baritone. Mr. Koneczny had not sung before the Matinee Musicale for several years, and Mr. Suffel has not been heard for some time. The voices were thoroughly appreciated, and the dramatic number was a pleasing change from lyrics. Mrs. Dworshak was the accompanist for this number.

Program by Students.

The same trio sang "My Soul Doth Magnify," by Saint-Saens, with Mrs. Dworshak at the piano and Miss Madeline Miller at the organ.

Mrs. J. N. McKindley, president of the club, announced that instead of a meeting of the study class there would be a program by the student members next Tuesday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., and that Mrs. K. A. Ostergren would speak on "Enthusiasm" at the meeting of the piano teachers' round table which will be held Wednesday morning, Dec. 8, at the Y. W. C. A.

After National Convention.

A STEP TOWARD THE SHORT BALLOT.

Representative Frank E. Minnette of Stearns county, author of the law for the state regulation of telephones, is out with a heated attack upon the railroad and warehouse commission, condemning the manner in which it is enforcing—or not enforcing—the law and demanding that the commission be made appointive by the governor instead of elective.

The Faribault Pilot, commenting on Mr. Minnette's criticisms, says: "The next legislative session should repeal the law now in force by which the office of railroad and warehouse commissioner is an elective one and confer the power upon the governor to appoint the members of the commission, and hold him responsible for their official actions."

Now while The Herald isn't wholly in accord with the reason offered now for this change, it IS wholly in accord with the proposal. The members of the railroad and warehouse commission most certainly should be appointive by the governor, and not elected by the people.

If the members of the railroad and warehouse commission were appointed by the governor, he would become responsible for their acts, and the people would know where to look when things go wrong in that department. The result would be better service; certainly service reacting more readily to the public need and demand.

Under the elective system there are three reasons why results never will be satisfactory: first, because in an election the fight over the governorship absorbs most of the public attention, so that minor officials receive relatively little attention; second, because the whole commission never is chosen at one election, and it is therefore never possible to make a clean sweep of the office; third, because there are three to divide responsibility between, and the public seldom is able to discover where to locate the blame. If the governor made the appointments, there would be but one to hold responsible for results—the governor himself.

As to the particular instance which occasions Mr. Minnette's demand, that is another matter, though it might be a case in point. We fancy, for one thing, that Mr. Minnette did not get through anywhere near so good a law as he thought he was getting through, and that the delay in enforcing it is due more to the difficulty of making it work than to improper relations between the telephone companies and the railroad and warehouse commission.

Making the commissioners appointive is a step toward the short ballot which can be taken without waiting for a new state Constitution, because the legislature can do it. The legislature certainly should do it.

The change from the appointive to the elective basis was made by a Republican legislature in 1899 when John Lind was governor. It was made for these reasons: Because John Lind was appointing men too faithful to the public interest; because he might appoint Democrats; and because the politicians and the railroad interests knew that if the places were made elective, they could have their will in the Republican state conventions—those were the days of conventions—and nominate men to their liking. All of these reasons—and they were the only reasons—were bad; indeed, they were the worst possible reasons.

The next legislature certainly should make it so that the governor can appoint the whole railroad and warehouse commission, so that the people can then hold the governor responsible for their official actions.

A REAL PUBLIC SERVICE.

In offering to build an astronomical observatory which after he is gone will become public property, and which in the meantime will be freely open to public use, John H. Darling is translating a life-long personal interest into a very real public service.

Astronomy, during all the active years of his life, has been an absorbing avocation to Mr. Darling, and now that he has retired it is his vocation. One result is that he is one of the best equipped astronomers hereabouts. Another result is that he has been prompted to make this generous offer of public service which will be helpful to students and interesting to everybody. Incidentally, this thing of having an avocation to vary the monotony of one's vocation is a thing of exceeding wisdom—enlivening and broadening the active years of life and providing a lasting interest after retirement from active affairs.

It is to be hoped that the city will find itself able promptly to accept Mr. Darling's offer, and that when the observatory is built many will avail themselves of its privileges.

SENATOR NELSON WILL HELP.

In a letter to a local citizen, published in The Herald last evening, Senator Knute Nelson cheerfully puts himself on record as eager to help Duluth get the new Federal building it needs so much, and the need of which he so well realizes.

The spirit of Senator Nelson's letter is admirable, and it will be very encouraging to those who are working for a postoffice building that is in keeping with the needs of Duluth and the territory which is served by government agencies located in Duluth.

It was Senator Nelson who, a generation ago, secured the appropriation for the present outgrown postoffice building. It is characteristic of his lifelong loyalty to the public interest that he responds warmly to the summons to help in the present juncture. Moreover, there are not half a dozen men in the whole congress who can do more to serve such a legitimate and businesslike object as this.

BROADENING THE INCOME TAX.

One of Secretary McAdoo's suggestions about raising the money needed to permit this country to go more largely into the war business is to broaden the income tax—not only to increase the rate on those whose incomes are very large, but to reduce the exemption, and make more people pay income taxes.

Those whose incomes are three thousand dollars a year—four thousand if they are married—are now exempt.

The suggestion is to lower the exemption to two thousand—three thousand for married folks.

A year ago we should have been against that. We should have held that the present exemption is small enough. Now we are for it—we believe it should be done.

Not for the revenue it will bring, for it will not bring a great deal—five million dollars is the estimate.

We are for it now because the nation seems to be bent on enlarging its military establishment. If that is done, the more there are to feel the pinch of the cost of it, the better. The more there are to feel this pinch, the greater check there will be on the enthusiasm of the militarists. And that's going to be needed.

THE CONTROL OF DRINKING IN SWEDEN.

In Stockholm an ingenious device to regulate drinking, the invention of Dr. Ivan Bratt, is being used. It permits a citizen of good standing to be a moderate drinker if he chooses, but prevents him from becoming a drunkard by limiting his supply.

Purchases of spirituous liquor are limited to one liter every five days for each individual. Every person who desires to drink is provided with a small book, something like a railroad mileage book, from which a coupon is detached every time the consumer makes his purchase. Without showing this book no citizen of Stockholm has the remotest chance of getting a bottle of liquor anywhere in the city. If a man is known to be a drunkard, no book is issued to him and he can buy no liquor.

The allowance is liberal enough. A liter is a little more than a quart, and a quart in five days is surely enough for anybody. A man who drinks that much steadily is not a drunkard in the ordinary sense of the word, though he is drinking more than is good for him and if he keeps it up will surely suffer from it physically. Yet it stops drinkers short of drunkenness, and thus greatly curtails the abuse of liquor. It is better than unregulated drinking, and it is at least as effective a temperance measure as prohibition, which has nowhere yet been demonstrated to be a success, save in rural communities where an overwhelming public sentiment makes it reasonably effective. This, the only gain of prohibition, can be achieved as easily by local option as by county or state or national prohibition—indeed, much more easily.

So well is this plan working in Stockholm that the first of the year it will be extended to the whole of Sweden.

In this country, of course, every reasonable and practical effort to keep the saloon within due bounds and to regulate drinking must stand aside until the craze for prohibition is over.

Here's Logic.

Emporia Gazette: For years we have been looking for a valid unshakable argument against woman suffrage. It is too late to help in Kansas, but we reprint this from an anti-suffragist writer in the Brooklyn Eagle as an argument that can't be answered:

"Take child-labor. Who kicks up all the row about that? Not men, certainly. No, suffragettes. Children are perfectly comfortable working in canneries. Those who work in the canneries come from a class of people who are accustomed to labor hard, who have nothing, and if their children didn't work in the canneries they probably would starve to death. Then take all this rot about working girls. They get far more now than they are worth in the way of wages. They were perfectly satisfied to work ten hours a day for ten cents an hour until the suffragettes came along and stirred them up."

Can you beat it?

Talks on Thrift

Issued by the American Bankers' Association.

Take the Proposition to a Bank Man.

Unless all signs fail, the one certain result of the European war is going to be a general stimulus to American industry. Our mills are running to full capacity; our crops are bumper ones; our banks are gorged with money; our people employed at good wages and constantly shorter hours, making things for Europe to eat, and wear and shoot. We shall have great prosperity.

With prosperity comes the promoter, trying to get some of that prosperity without working for it. He will have great schemes to make you (and himself) rich. You first—then himself; (or vice versa). Fakes by the thousand will follow the wake of prosperity, all seeking to separate you from your money. The warning is particularly opportune now: Beware the promoter!

If you are offered any scheme to make money, take it to your banker. If it offers over 6 per cent, turn it down on general principles. The promoter finds poor picking when you take his proposition to the bank man. Ask the banker: Would you go into this with the bank's money? And if he wouldn't—don't you.

Years ago a Western concern organized a bank and offered the stock broadcast. It was a clever scheme—a good scheme, and a profitable one. It had much merit and should have come to a better end. But it was too good, and the promoter could not stand the prosperity it brought him.

Two hard working miners got interested and sought the advice of their banker. He advised against it. "But it pays 10 per cent, and you only 4; and besides, they say the stock will double in value in a year." "Yes, all that may be true," said the banker, "but you're not strong enough to take the risk and for the possible profit you can't afford to chance a probable loss. They went in and in less than six months the bank went broke, and the miners nearly went broke with it—they had plunged. Today that stock lies somewhere in tin boxes, mute evidence of what happens when you go against the advice of your banker.

A certain steamboat captain never earned more than $100 a month, and yet in the course of twenty-five years he was able to raise a family, dress and educate them, provide a handsome home, clear of debt, for them, and leave his widow with enough to support her in comfort for life—all this on $100 a month. He saved half he earned. The secret may have lain with the wife, or with him, or with both; but the result was there just the same. What this man did you can do. He stuck close to the bank; bought his home and paid for it by degrees, carried a fair amount of insurance, never tried any schemes, and held fast to what he got.

The really big things are not hawked about the streets like vegetables. The big deals are not for the "dear public." Henry Ford never offered his stock broadcast. A certain New York undertaker (now bankrupt) did. Standard Oil never went with hat in hand, seeking those who would buy. Big things are for the few; little things for the many.

You worked pretty hard for your money, and it ought to work for you; not overwork, but just keep comfortably busy. It will work right faithfully, for compound interest grows apace; but if you work it too hard, it will, like the faithful old horse, keep going for a time, but eventually fail you. Do not try the impossible. Four per cent with safety is better than 10 per cent with risk. Don't lose your principal trying to get big interest. You must sacrifice one of two things: principal or income. Keep safe and your income will be small but sure; but if you seek large returns, you must of a certainty jeopardize your principal. Better reach your goal by little jumps that land you on the ground each time, rather than take flying leaps in the dark. Thrift consists in leaving some good things alone. The promoter is one. His best scheme is not good enough for you.

The Problem.

I like a church; I like a cowl;
I love a prophet of the soul;
And on my heart monastic aisles
Fall like sweet strains or pensive smiles;
Yet not for all his faith can see
Would I that cowl-ed churchman be.

Why should the vest on him allure,
Which I cannot on me endure?
Not from a vain and shallow thought
His awful Jove young Phidias brought;
Never from lips of cunning fell
The thrilling Delphic oracle;
Out from the heart of nature rolled
The burdens of the Bible old;
The litanies of nations came,
Like the volcano's tongue of flame,
Up from the burning core below.—
The canticles of love and woe;
The hand that rounded Peter's dome,
And groined the aisles of Christian Rome,
Wrought in a sad sincerity;
Himself from God he could not free;
He builded better than he knew—
The conscious stone to beauty grew.

Know'st thou what wove yon woodbird's nest
Of leaves, and feathers from her breast?
Or how the fish outbuilt her shell,
Painting with morn each annual cell?
Or how the sacred pine-tree adds
To her old leaves new myriads?
Such and so grew these holy piles,
Whilst love and terror laid the tiles.
Earth proudly wears the Parthenon,
As the best gem upon her zone,
And Morning opes with haste her lids
To gaze upon the Pyramids;
O'er England's abbeys bends the sky,
As on its friend, with kindred eye;
For, out of Thought's interior sphere,
These wonders grew to upper air;
And Nature gladly gave them place,
Adopted them into her race,
And granted them an equal date
With Andes and with Ararat.

These temples grew as grew the grass;
Art might obey, but not surpass.
The passive Master lent his hand
To the vast soul that o'er him planned;
And the same power that reared the shrine
Bestrode the tribes that knelt within.
Ever the fiery Pentecost
Girds with one flame the countless host,
Trances the heart through chanting choirs,
And through the priest the mind inspires.
The word unto the prophet spoken
Was writ on tables yet unbroken;
The word by seers or sibyls told,
In groves of oak, or fanes of gold,
Still floats upon the morning wind,
Still whispers to the willing mind.

One accent of the Holy Ghost
The heedless world hath never lost.
I know what say the fathers wise—
The Book itself before me lies—
Old Chrystostom, best Augustine,
And he who bent both in his line,
The younger Golden Lips or mines,
Taylor, the Shakespeare of divines.
His words are music in my ear,
I see his cowl-ed portrait dear;
And yet, for all his faith could see,
I would not the good bishop be.
—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Braver Than the Heroes of Homer

Sidney Low in the London Standard.

There is hardly a memorable achievement of heroism or self sacrifice in the records of the past, such as whole peoples treasure among their noblest memories, that is not now equaled or surpassed once a week. Allied and hostile soldiers are performing exploits, almost unnoticed, that in the past would have made them immortal.

"After 'im!" said a wounded British soldier when they offered him water, pointing to a still more desperately injured German. I like that cockney "After 'im" as well as Sir Phillip Sidney's flowing phrase, "Thy necessity is greater than mine."

The deed was the same; but not the reward. Dithyrambics have been penned over the hero of Zutphen; but that other hero of the common people—one does not even know his name nor what became of him. Perhaps he is lying under the clay somewhere in France; perhaps—let us hope it!—he will outlive the war and go back again to bus driving or ticket punching somewhere in England, and never even suspect that if he had been a knight and an Elizabethan he would have been held up as the mirror of chivalry for three centuries.

Chivalry is cheaper now than it was in the Tudor days or any other. "We boast ourselves better men than the fathers before us," says one of the heroes in Homer. We may do so without vainglory. Consider those same Homeric heroes, whom the world has admired for two thousand years: our old friend the swift-footed Achilles, the godlike Hector, the many-wiled Ulysses and the rest. What a lot of working up they required before they exposed themselves to danger—invocations to the gods, long speeches and so forth—and what a fuss they made about dying!

Our folk go out to death with a cigarette between their teeth and meet it with a smile; to death that comes in shapes a hundredfold more appalling than ever it could have assumed upon the windy plains of Troy, where they fought with spears and arrows—death by poison gas and liquid fire and high explosives, death by torture and intolerable agony. Modern heroes endure it all—and make no heroics over it.

In the sea battles of the past they fought half a day till the decks were swimming with blood, and at the last, "slowly and majestically," the Vengeur or the Chesapeake, or whatever it was, settled down with the flag still flying and the guns firing. But in our sea fights and sea raids it is all over in five minutes, and the Good Hope or the Scharnhorst goes under and drowns a thousand men before they can say a prayer. There is no hope for the vanquished ship in a modern naval engagement. Yet men go into action as cheerfully as the bluejackets of Nelson.

We used to hear much of decadence and degeneration. It was common talk that our oversensitized population, educated and pleasure loving, softened by luxury and comfort, would never bear the shock and strain of warfare like their rougher forefathers. Nobody imagined they would bear them much better. Especially was it thought that the "poor little townbred people" would fail in the hour of trial. But they have not done so. In the prime virtues of the soldier, and particularly in courage and endurance, there has been little to choose among the various nations and social classes represented in this Bloody Assize of the East and West. The war has shown that the industrial societies of modern Europe have quite as good nerves and quite as much physical courage as any community of hunters and herdsmen. To the confusion of the theorists it appears that western civilization produces a human type more likely to fail from brutality and violence than from the weakness that cannot face pain and danger.

The Antwerp Road

Henry Van Dyke in Scribner's Magazine: Along the straight, glistening road, through a dim arcade of drooping trees, a tunnel of faded green and gold, dripping with the misty rain of a late October afternoon, a human tide was flowing, not swiftly, but slowly, with the patient, pathetic slowness of weary feet, and numb brains, and heavy hearts.

Yet they were in haste, all of these old men and women, fathers and mothers and little children; they were flying as fast as they could; either away from something that they feared or toward something that they desired.

For that was the strange thing—the tide on the road flowed in two directions.

Some fled away from ruined homes to escape the perils of war. Some fled back to ruined homes to escape the desolation of exile. But all were fugitives, anxious to be gone, striving along the road one way or the other, and making no more speed than a creeping snail's pace of unutterable fatigue.

I saw many separate things in the tide, and remembered them without noting.

For Alliance With England.

The New Republic: The disheartening aspect of the current agitation for military preparedness is that it is animated not by a clear conviction of the international obligations and opportunities of the country, but by a kind of blind suspicion and panic. The proclaimed object of the armament is to defend our national isolation, not to realize a positive policy which will enable us to promote both our own security and the peace of the world. There can be no permanent security unless the pacific nations are welded into an organization sufficiently tough, alert, clear-headed and well-equipped to make their joint power count decisively in the balance against an aggressive disturber of the peace. An increasing understanding between Great Britain and the United States would constitute a necessary condition of any League of Peace, and if it could develop into an alliance it might become by virtue of unassailable maritime supremacy the substance and chief support of such a league.

London "Platt."

The New Republic: When I was on the train from Brussels to Louvain, the day they burned Louvain, I heard the German soldiers who were guarding the railroad bridges shout back to Germans on my train in answer to the word "Lowen!" the word "Platt!" They meant Louvain was "platt," "flat," razed to the ground. And often since, as I have traveled from Dover or Folkstone to London through the quiet English countryside—a countryside untouched for centuries by wars—I could not help imagining German soldiers, like more in Belgium, guarding the bridges of the London and Southwestern railroad, and shouting back in answer to the word "Londen?" the word "Platt." They have said that they would do it. They will do it if they get the chance.

The Demand for a Smaller Legislature is Growing

Editorial Writers in the State Press Indorse the Idea.

A Lasting Benefit.

Waseca Herald: The Duluth Herald suggests that the only way the membership of our unwieldy legislature may be reduced is through a constitutional convention. This is the strongest argument yet presented for a constitutional convention. A reduction of at least one-third in the membership of both our legislative bodies would prove a lasting benefit to the state.

It Gets in Its Own Way.

Argyle Banner: The Duluth Herald and a number of the other papers of the state seem to be of the opinion that the Minnesota legislature is entirely too large. The senate with its sixty-seven members is the largest senate in the United States, and the house with 130 members is far above the average. The legislative salary alone, at $1,000 per biennial session, amounts to $197,000. The cost for a senate of fifty and a house of 100 would be $150,000. If the much discussed interesting idea of a single legislative body of a dozen members were taken up, the members could be paid $5,000 a year for their full time and the cost would be $60,000 against the present $197,000.

But the idea of direct cost is not so important as the item of inefficiency. The legislature is so large that it is unwieldy and it gets in its own way. There is too much money spent for the results obtained. But nothing will ever curtail this ever-increasing membership except a flat limitation in the Constitution to whatever size may be agreed to be ample, whether it is fifty senators and a hundred representatives or less than that.

The Eagle Concurs.

Red Wing Eagle: The Daily Eagle concurs in the agitation which has been started for a smaller legislature. The smaller the better.

Heartily Agrees.

Arlington Enterprise: The Duluth Herald says that the Minnesota legislature, which now consists of 67 senators and 130 representatives, is too large and unwieldy. If reduced to 50 senators and 100 representatives a biennial session would only cost $150,000 instead of $197,000 as at present. Every apportionment has increased the number of members until now it is larger than in most states and much larger than is really necessary for the proper transaction of the law-making business. As the only way the number could be reduced is by a constitutional amendment, and as these are not so easy to pass, a constitutional convention is suggested to write for Minnesota a Twentieth century Constitution in harmony with the times.

We heartily agree with all The Herald says. If we are to have any economy and efficiency in this state the place to begin is with the legislature.

Nobody Asks Them To.

Ada Index: The state efficiency commission intends to recommend a smaller legislature on the ground that a smaller body can do better work. Good idea, but it is pretty safe to say that a majority in the legislature will not enthuse over the plan.

Favors the Convention Method.

Parkers Prairie Independent: The Duluth Herald has started agitating for a constitutional convention, having for one of its purposes the reduction of the state legislature. The Herald believes, and we think is right, that the present number of senators and representatives is too large. Minnnesota has the largest senate of any state in the Union, and the house of representatives is far above the average in numbers. That a reduced number would be fully as efficient as the present is a foregone conclusion, but no man willingly legislates himself out of office and the constitutional convention is proposed as a method which will bring about the needed reform with the least possible trouble.

The Institutional Church.

Ishpeming Record: Why not adapt the church for the proper development of our young people in all necessary ways outside the few hours spent each week in the church for purely religious services? Why not transform the atmosphere of holiness and diffuse it into the warp and woof of the life of its people? The church that has its club and its gymnasium is doing this and will continue to grow, for it represents not only religion, but life itself. It will continue to grow for it seeks not to create a new religion, but to live an old and a true one. By coming out of its shroud of aloofness and reserve it will perform a more fitting life of service, as did the Master, by being all things to all men.

And Vastly More Useful.

Baraga Journal: When a man near Washington can sit at a desk and speak so as to be heard in Paris and Honolulu that is an accomplishment more worthy of pride than a 42-centimeter cannon.

Hancock Copper Journal: To those who are fretting themselves over what is going to happen American industries at the close of the Great War, when there will be no more big foreign contracts for munitions of war, we commend the prophecy of Jacob Schiff, the eminent financial and philanthropist:

"Prosperity is going to stay. It is not going to cease with the end of the war, for which we all pray. We have entered upon conditions that have never existed before. We need appropriate facilities to make them permanent."

The Thing That Proves It False.

Houghton Mining Gazette: So Col. Roosevelt is going to join the Canadian soldiers and go fighting with the allies. We might be inclined to believe this story if somebody could prove that the colonel would be permitted to take thirty or forty newspaper reporters along with him. But, with the press censorship on, what could he get in the way of advertising?

No Doubt Its Author Feels Better.

Calumet News: The Montreal Star suggests that "to prove our absolute impartiality the United States might arrange to fight Germany on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and Great Britain on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. For variety they might take on Mexico on Sundays, if the church-going vote would sanction such Sabbath violation." My, oh my—what a lot of sarcasm!

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinius, the Sunshine Man.

If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love.—John xv. 10.

This did not once so trouble me,
That better I could not love Thee;
But now I feel and know
That only when we love, we find
How far our hearts remain behind
The love they should bestow.
—Richard Chenevix Trench.

Our Lord gives the answer to a difficulty continually perplexing honest Christians—"How am I to learn to love God? I want to do my duty, but I do not feel as if I loved God." Our Lord gives the answer, "Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." Act for God, do and say the things that He wills; direct your thoughts and intentions God-ward; and, depend upon it in the slow process of nature, all that belongs to you—your instincts, your intelligence, your affections, your feelings—will gradually follow along the line of your action. Act for God; you are already showing love to Him and you will learn to feel it.—Charles Gore.

They who, continuing faithful to divine grace, however partially communicated, serve God with their whole lives, will never fail of that one reward, the greatest which even He has to bestow, the being made able to love Him with their whole hearts.—Dora Greenwell.

Conservatism and Progress

Horace Greeley in the New York Tribune (1845): Our conservatism is not of that Chinese tenacity which insists that the bad must be cherished simply because it is old. We insist only that the old must be proved bad and never condemned merely because it IS old; and that, even if defective, it should not be overthrown till something better has been provided to replace it. The extremes of blind, stubborn resistance to change, and rash, sweeping convulsive innovation, are naturally allies, each paving the way for the other. The supple courtier, the wholesale flatterer of the despot, and the humble servitor and bepraiser of the dear People, are not two distinct characters, but essentially the same. Thus believing, we, while we do not regard the judgment of any present majority as infallible, cannot attribute infallibility to any acts or institutes of a past generation, but look undoubtingly for successive improvements as knowledge, virtue, philanthropy, shall be more and more diffused among men.

Full of error and suffering as the world yet is, we cannot afford to reject unexamined any idea which proposes to improve the moral, intellectual or social condition of mankind. Better incur the trouble of testing and exploding a thousand fallacies than, by rejecting, stifle a single beneficent truth. Especially on the vast theme of an improved organization of industry, so as to secure constant opportunity and a just recompense to every human being able and willing to labor, we are not and cannot be indifferent. No subject can be more important than this; no improvement more certain of attainment.

Opportunity.

They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win.

Wail not for precious chances passed away!
Weep not for golden ages on the wane!
Each night I burn the records of the day—
At sunrise every soul is born again!

Dost thou behold thy lost youth all aghast?
Dost reel from righteous retribution's blow?
Then turn from blotted archives of the past

Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven;
Each morning gives thee wings to fly from hell,

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb;
My judgments seal the dead past with its dead,
But never bind a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep;
I lend my arm to all who say "I can!"
No shame-faced outcast ever sank so deep
But yet might rise and be again a man!
—Walter Malone.

Is This Your Rule?

Henry Van Dyke: Never believe anything bad about anybody unless you positively know it is true; never tell even that unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

TRIMMING PLANT THAT SHOULD BE UPROOTED

To the Editor of The Herald:

Would like to reply to Mr. Talburg's letter in last evening's Herald, entitled "Economic Justice" and hope you will again grant me space in Open Court column to do so.

Mr. Talburg divides our big capitalists into two classes, good and bad, and says a few of them are endeavoring to work out a program of economic justice, but does not tell us what the program will be, and it is just as well that he did not. The program to give economic justice, under a capitalistic system, isn't worth mentioning; it's like trimming a plant, that should be pulled up by the roots. He fails to say in what manner the good capitalists are going to hold in check the human greed and avarice of the bad ones' "economic adventures," as he calls them. Would like to ask you, Mr. Talburg, how you intend to do away with greed and avarice without destroying the incentive for it, "profits"?

Right you are; we will always have treachery and cunning, as long as there is something to be gained by it.

You defenders of capitalism have no remedy for existing evils that are worth while. You've been tinkering with the economic problem for many centuries, and society is in a worse state than ever before.

Ex-President Taft, when asked what should be done to give the workers economic justice exclaimed: "God knows," and I would like to say in conclusion, that we Socialists know too. Too many men are getting "something for nothing," and it is only this class of men that need fear "socialism." Respectfully yours,

D. W. BIBBY.

SKATING RINK FOR PARK POINT.

I have been reading in your paper that the city is going to install public skating rinks in different parts of the city but I fail to see about a rink for Park Point. The citizens of Park Point are paying taxes and we would like a rink for the safety of children of Park Point. Many children during the recent years have fallen in holes in the ice. All that would be needed is a special policeman and a warming house under the control of the welfare board. I think the boys will give up hockey every day but Saturday and Sunday and give the other days for skating. On Tenth street the wind is broken by the Duluth Boat club. Thanking you for space,

A PARK POINTER.

WAR A PRACTICAL PROBLEM; SEARCHING OUT THE CAUSES

To the Editor of The Herald:

The great business of the world today is to overcome war.

Pacifist, militarist, preparedness advocate and all have one purpose—to overcome war. It is a practical question for the world to deal with. To say it can't be done is to beg the question. People said that about flying—but the Wrights found the secret. People said it about slavery—it can't be done. But it was done. People said it about abolishing the duel—it can't be done. But it was done. People said it about democracy—it can't be done. But it was done.

People said twenty years ago when dreamers talked about the golden rule in business—it can't be done. But it is done.

People say now war cannot be overcome. That is not the answer. "It can't be done," will not get us anywhere. The practical way is to find what makes war and what forces make against war.

In this war there were three sets of causes.

The immediate cause was the clash between Austria and Serbia over the assassination of the crown prince.

The larger cause was that the world is interlocked. Serbia was tied up with Russia. Russia was tied up with France. Germany and Austria for war purposes were amalgamated. To reach France, it seemed necessary for Germany to go through Belgium. England was tied up with Belgium.

Germany insisted the war should be localized—to keep France out. It could not be localized. The world is all one fabric.

Seeing that Russia and France were to be involved, Germany and its Austrian satellite went ahead nevertheless, so that Germany seems to have wantonly provoked the world war.

Going behind the mere facts of provocation, it seems to be the fact that Germany regarded the war as inevitable. It has got to come, said the German statesmen, and better force it now than wait till the others are better prepared. From their standpoint it was sound strategy. Germany was fit to the last button while France was preparing to get into like readiness, and Russia was lumbering along. If you saw a ring of enemies closing in on you, you would likely do what Germany aimed to do—hit the first staggering blow, break them up before they could get you. If Germany must strike, 1914 was the best time.

France and Russia were already involved. England still had leave to choose. The English statesmen said: We are next. If Germany wins this war without substantial opposition, our turn will come after; better strike now. The rape of Belgium was sufficient cause for England; the threat of war to come was England's reason. It has got to come, said British statesmen; better meet it now than wait for a time when we are at worse advantage.

War was inevitable because all Europe believed it was inevitable.

That merely states the condition. It does not reveal the first cause of war.

We must go back of that. War was inevitable because the wills of nations clashed and there was no other way of adjusting clashing interests but war.

The problem of overcoming war is to find the forces that will reconcile the will of nations to a common interest.

Obviously that does not point to an increase of armaments. The increase of armaments may be necessary on other accounts, but it will serve nothing toward overcoming war. It only reinforces the will of one or another nation. It does nothing to reconcile them all to a common interest.

But war must be overcome or civilization is a failure—which we are not ready to admit.

THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

"Whistling in Heaven," from Mrs. Thomas Kane of Marquette; Miss Marion Lister of Duluth.

"Will My Soul Pass Through Ireland," from Mrs. M. Cudahy of Duluth.

Requests have been received for the following:

"The Dying Cowboy," from Clyde Wilcox of Marquette.

"I wonder if ever a song was sung, but the singer's heart sang sweeter," from Mrs. F. E. Hilton of Pine City.

Whistling in Heaven.

You're surprised that I ever should say so?
Just wait till the reason I've given
Why I say I shan't care for the music,
Unless there is whistling in heaven;
Then you'll think it no very great wonder,
Nor so strange, or bold a conceit;
That unless there's a boy there a-whistling,
Its music will not be complete.

It was late in the autumn of '40;
We had come from our far Eastern home
Just in season to build us a cabin,
Before the cold of the winter should come;
And we lived all the while in our wagon,
While husband was clearing the place
Where the house was to stand; and the clearing
And building it took many days.

So that our heads were scarce sheltered
In under its roof, where our store
Of provisions was almost exhausted,
And husband must journey for more;
And the nearest place where he could get them
Was yet such a distance away,
That it forced him from home to be absent
At least a whole night and a day.

You see, we'd but two or three neighbors,
And the nearest was more than a mile;
And we hadn't found time yet to know them,
For we had been busy the while.
And the man who had helped at the raising
Just stayed till the job was all done;
And soon as his money was paid him,
Had shouldered his ax and had gone.

Well, husband just kissed me and started;
I could scarcely suppress a deep groan
At the thought of remaining with baby
So long in the house all alone;
For, my dear, I was childish and timid,
And braver ones might well have feared,
For the wild wolf was often heard howling,
And savages sometimes appeared.

But I smothered my grief and my terror
Till husband was off on his ride,
And then in my arms I took Josey,
And all the day long sat and cried,
As I thought of the long, dreary hours
When the darkness of night should fall,
And I was so utterly helpless,
With no one in reach of my call!

And when the night, with its terrors,
To hide every ray of light,
I hung my quilt by the window,
And almost dead with affright,
I knelt by the side of the cradle,
Scarce daring to draw my breath,
Lest the baby should wake, and its crying
Should bring us a horrible death.

There I knelt until late in the evening,
And scarcely an inch had I stirred,
When suddenly, far in the distance,
A sound as of whistling I heard.
I started up, dreadfully frightened,
For fear t'was an Indian's dread call;
And then very soon I remembered
The red men ne'er whistle at all.

And when I was sure it was a white man,
I thought were he coming for ill
He'd surely approach with more caution—
Would come without warning, and still.
Then the sounds coming nearer and nearer,
Took the form of a tune bright and gay,
And I knew I needn't fear evil
From one that could whistle that way.

Very soon I heard footsteps approaching,
Then came a peculiar dull thump,
As if some one was heavily striking
An ax in the top of a stump;
And then in another brief moment
There came a light tap at the door,
And quickly I undid the fastenings,
And in stepped a boy, and before
There was either a question or answer,
Or either had time to speak,
I just threw my glad arms around him
Then I started back, scared at my boldness;
But he only smiled at my fright,
As he said, "I am your neighbor's boy, Elick,
Come to tarry with you through the night.

"We saw your husband go eastward,
And made up our minds where he'd gone;
And I said to the rest of our people,
'That woman is there all alone,
And I venture she's awfully lonesome,
And though she may have no great fear,
I think she would feel a bit safer
If only a boy were but near.'

"So taking my ax on my shoulder,
For fear that a savage might stray
Across my path, and need scalping,
I started right down this way;
And coming in sight of the cabin,
And thinking to save you alarm,
I whistled a tune, just to show you
I didn't intend any harm.

"And so here I am at your service,
And if you don't want me to stay,
Why, all you need do is to say so,
And shouldering my ax, I'll away."
I dropped in a chair and near fainted
Just at the thought of his leaving me then;
And his eye gave a knowing bright twinkle,
As he said, "I guess I'll remain."

And then I just sat there and told him
How terribly frightened I'd been,
How his face was most welcome
Of any I ever had seen;
And then I laid down with the baby,
And slept all the blessed night through,
For I felt I was safe from all danger
Near so brave a young fellow and true.

So, my young friend, do you wonder,
Since such a good reason I've given,
Why I say I shan't care for the music
Unless there is whistling in heaven?
Yes, often I've said so in earnest,
And now what I've said I repeat,
That unless there's a boy there a-whistling,
Its music will not be complete.

"Will My Soul Pass Through Ireland?"

Oh! Sogarth aroon; sure I know life is fleeting—
Soon, soon in the strange earth my poor bones will lie;
I have said the last prayer and received the last blessing,
And if the Lord's willing, I'm ready to die.
But, Sogarth aroon, can I never again see
The valleys and hills of my dear native land,
When my soul takes its flight from this dark world of sorrow
Will it pass through old Ireland to join the best band?
Oh! Sogarth aroon; sure I know that in Heaven
The loved ones are waiting and watching for me,
And the Lord knows how anxious I am to be with them
In those regions of joy amid souls pure and free.
Yet, Sogarth aroon, ere you leave me forever,
Relieve the last doubt of a poor dying soul,
Whose hope, next to God, is to know that when leaving
Oh! Sogarth aroon, I have kept through all changes
The thrice blessed shamrock to lay o'er my clay;
And oh! it has minded me often and often,
Of the bright smiling valley so far, far away.
Then tell me I pray, shall I ever again see
The place where it grew on my own native sod?
When my body lies cold in the land of the stranger,
Will my soul pass through Ireland on its way to our God!

Principal Young Says Central Players Furnish Own Suits.

Indications are that no action will be taken on the petition signed by students at the state university requesting the school board to provide a uniform style for football suits worn by the Central high school players.

Principal Young who received the petition yesterday, said that it would not be read to the student body and that in all probability it would be shelved, as members of the squad have always furnished their own suits.

GIVES DINNER TO HIS CLASSMATES

President Wilson Entertains Fifty-Nine Members of Princeton Class of '79.

Washington, Dec. 1.—President Wilson gave a dinner at the White House last night in honor of the Princeton class of '79 of which he was a member. For the evening the president was again "Tommy" the name by which all his classmates knew him while they were students together. Fifty-nine members of the class, including Cyrus McCormick, Cleveland H. Dodge and Robert Bridges, attended the dinner.

The president received his classmates in the Blue room and later conducted them to the state dining room, where a table had been arranged in the shape of a horse shoe. No military or naval aides were present.

A number of informal addresses were made. The president was congratulated on his coming marriage and many stories of college days were told.

WEST END

MAY HASTEN OPTION VOTE

That a county option election will be held in St. Louis county next spring is the opinion of prominent leaders of the Independent Order of Good Templars, Anti-Saloon league and churchmen of the West end. The recent results at Hibbing and Chisholm putting out of business all of the saloons in those two towns by Federal order, will bring about the election earlier than was thought a month ago, it is asserted.

"The sudden closing of the saloons in the range cities will have a direct bearing on bringing about the election early," said Rev. J. J. Daniels, pastor of the Swedish Mission church and member of the state central committee of the Anti-Saloon league. "It is probable that the various temperance organizations will begin their campaign shortly after Jan. 1," he said.

"The temperance organizations working side by side with the Anti-Saloon league will unquestionably get busy within a few days," said L. A. Simonson, grand chief templar for Minnesota of the Scandinavian I. O. G. T. lodge. "Although leaders in the temperance movement believed a short time ago that it might be a year before the election would take place, they now are of the opinion that the time will be ripe for the election early next spring. Putting the range saloons out of business has made considerable change in the situation."

PLAN JUL-OTTA FOR CHRISTMAS

Plans for holding the annual "Jul-otta" services as well as the annual congregational meeting were made last night at the monthly meeting of the congregation of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. The Jul-otta services will be held at 5:30 o'clock Christmas morning and the annual meeting of the congregation will be held at 2:30 o'clock New Year's day.

Charles Person, one of the leading members of the congregation, who recently has moved to Barnum, Minn., where he has entered business, was presented, by members of the finance committee, with a handsome gold mounted umbrella. This ceremony took place near the close of the meeting.

The plans for the Christmas exercises to be held by the Sunday school will be made on Friday evening at a meeting of the teachers and officers to be held at the home of A. Thoren, 26 North Twentieth avenue west.

The Young Ladies' society of the church will entertain this evening at its annual supper. A new England meal will be served in the church basement between 5 and 8 o'clock.

The Ladies' Aid society was entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph Lee, 215 West Fourth street.

THREE FREE RINKS FOR WEST END

The West end will have three free skating rinks. With continued cold weather it is planned to begin flooding these the last of this week or early next week.

The rinks will be situated at Fifteenth avenue west and First street, a short distance east of the Adams school; at Twenty-fifth avenue and Sixth street, near the Lincoln school, and on the Harrison playgrounds at Thirtieth avenue west and Third street.

Each of the grounds has already been banked and is in shape for flooding. Arrangements have been made to have arc lights at each of the rinks.

HERE'S NEW VIGOR FOR OVERWORKED STOMACHS

Hundreds of the best druggists who have been in the drug business long enough to have their own opinion of the best way of selling medicines, say the plan adopted by Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia remedy, is the fairest they ever heard of. The Mi-o-na people don't believe that a medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good. And so Mi-o-na is always sold under a positive guarantee to relieve dyspepsia or to refund the money. You simply leave 50 cents on deposit with your druggist, and if, after you have used the box of Mi-o-na, you decide that it has done you no good, all you have to do is to tell him so and he will return your money.

Hundreds of people can tell how they have been relieved of stomach agonies by using this remarkable remedy. It is not simply a food digester; it is a medicine that puts all of the digestive organs into normal condition and gives ruddy, glowing, vigorous health. A change for the better will be seen after the first few doses of Mi-o-na, and its continued use will soon give the power to eat most anything at any time and not suffer distress afterward.

Mi-o-na is sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not stop all stomach distress. This is the strongest proof that can be offered as to the merit of the medicine.

Nothing lessens a man's success in his work or a woman's fascinating personality more than a weak stomach, with its attending evils. Use Mi-o-na and see how much more there is in life. Get it from Boyce Drug store or any leading druggist in this vicinity.

various organizations and report, if those organizations get behind the program and the members of the legislature know that the people of the state demand the things there set out, I have no doubt that among the bills passed by the legislature at the next session will be those embodying the legislation that this conference agrees should be had."

"Avoid Petty Squabbles."

Governor Hammond said that he had called the conference because he thought there was work for such a body to do and that he had no desire to be prominent in the movement, except as he could as a citizen of the state for the solution of the problems concerning the state. He suggested that the conference might become a permanent organization to meet yearly to discuss the needs of the state. "Above all, avoid petty squabbles," was Governor Hammond's parting word.

Frank W. Murphy of Wheaton was first chosen temporary chairman and Charles T. Kelley of Menahga, temporary secretary, and after a committee consisting of Jean Flittie of Mankato, F. Millard of Canby and F. C. Thornton of Benson had been appointed on permanent organization, the temporary organization was made permanent.

The Chairman's Address.

Mr. Murphy, in accepting, extended Governor Hammond's summary of the opportunity for the body, "so long as there is in Minnesota one man with an insufficiently broad vision, there is work for the men of Minnesota," he said. "So long as a man lives in the state who is undertaking to make a livelihood and develop the state and who does not have the opportunity he ought to have, there is work for the men of Minnesota to do." Mr. Murphy declared that there was no place in the organization for sectionalism or self seeking.

A credentials committee consisting of H. V. Eva of Duluth, J. B. Ludlow of Rushmore, and D. H. Lawler of Morris, reported that practically every county in the state was represented and all present were entitled to votes.

Resolutions Committee.

A resolutions committee, consisting of one member from each congressional district chosen by the delegates from the districts, and the chairman, appointed by President Murphy, was as follows:

Chairman, M. N. Koll, Cass Lake; C. L. West, Austin; H. C. Hotaling, Mapleton; Frank T. Wilson, Stillwater; E. W. Randall, St. Paul; A. F. Wood, Minneapolis; P. J. Seberger, St. Cloud; H. I. Peterson, Litchfield; John Dwan, Two Harbors; Leslie Weller, Moorhead; J. E. Kienitz, Cambridge.

SOLICIT SUPPORT FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE

New York, Dec. 1.—One hundred women aided by 5,000 Boy Scouts are canvassing the city today for the collection of signatures to a petition addressed to New York representatives and senators urging them to support President Wilson's plan for national preparedness. They hope to obtain 200,000 signatures. The campaign is conducted by a committee of the special relief society, who has designated this as "defense day." Already 4,000 voters have applied to the society for blanks and signed them without solicitation. Ten of the largest corporations in the city are canvassing their own employes.

The petition will be sent to Washington in time to reach members of congress before its opening next Wednesday.

Mrs. William Alexander, president of the society, says the movement is intended to show the representatives and senators that they have the backing of their constituents in support of a better army and navy. "It is a test of strength to show them that the people who are crying out against preparedness are a feeble minority," she declares.

WINSTON CHURCHILL SUFFERS IN TRENCHES

London, Dec. 1.—Winston Spencer Churchill, who resigned as chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, to join Great Britain's forces in the field, is mentioned by the Daily Express for early promotion to the rank of general with command of a brigade. The paper says he has chosen the most difficult school in the army, for the grenadier unit to which he is attached, under the command of Col. Jeffreys, is noted for its indifference to personal comfort.

When Mr. Churchill joined the grenadiers, he found himself in a fireless dugout, and supplied with the ordinary army ration. He did not grumble, however, but entered cheerfully upon his task. An officer in the same command writing to a friend about Churchill's experiences, said:

"The first night he shivered visibly and it was some time before we were able to warm him up, but after taking liberal rations he thawed out and talked interestingly for an hour. He was taken for a round of the trenches until 2:30 o'clock in the morning, but in spite of hard gruelling, never complained. He was called again at 6 o'clock and next night, after the usual cold storage he took charge of his company."

ARE INVESTIGATING ALLEGED CONFESSION

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 1.—Federal and county officers today were investigating a "confession" which they say was made to them in the office of Prosecuting Attorney Cyrus Locher late yesterday by Dr. E. W. Ritter, in which Ritter is claimed to have told of having knowledge of plots against munitions plants in the United States.

Ritter was arrested on a charge of passing a worthless check for $50 on Miss Clare Darby. He is being held in $5,000 bail until the story, Federal officers say he told, can be probed. Among the items in Ritter's alleged confession was the claim that his real name is Emerich W. Ritter von Rettaghe, son of a former Austrian count, and a former officer in both the Austrian and German navies. Today, however, Ritter denied to newspaper men that he is the son of a count.

Ritter claims he is the inventor of "liquid fire," officers say, and that he has been experimenting extensively with it in the local gas fields.

Nashwauk Places Closed.

Nashwauk, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the injunction issued by Judge Walker in the state courts preventing Indian Agent Larson from closing saloons here and in Calumet and Keewatin, was never served on Mr. Larson, that official and deputies, acting under direction of United States Attorney Jaques, came here yesterday and proceeded to raid and close all eight saloons. Considerable liquor was spilled in the street, the Olilla hotel bar being the heaviest loser. The Keewatin, Calumet and Stevenson and Leetonia saloons were also closed, and the Western Mesaba today is dry.

MAY HASTEN OPTION VOTE

That a county option election will be held in St. Louis county next spring is the opinion of prominent leaders of the Independent Order of Good Templars, Anti-Saloon league and churchmen of the West end. The recent results at Hibbing and Chisholm putting out of business all of the saloons in those two towns by Federal order, will bring about the election earlier than was thought a month ago, it is asserted.

"The sudden closing of the saloons in the range cities will have a direct bearing on bringing about the election early," said Rev. J. J. Daniels, pastor of the Swedish Mission church and member of the state central committee of the Anti-Saloon league. "It is probable that the various temperance organizations will begin their campaign shortly after Jan. 1," he said.

"The temperance organizations working side by side with the Anti-Saloon league will unquestionably get busy within a few days," said L. A. Simonson, grand chief templar for Minnesota of the Scandinavian I. O. G. T. lodge. "Although leaders in the temperance movement believed a short time ago that it might be a year before the election would take place, they now are of the opinion that the time will be ripe for the election early next spring. Putting the range saloons out of business has made considerable change in the situation."

PLAN JUL-OTTA FOR CHRISTMAS

Plans for holding the annual "Jul-otta" services as well as the annual congregational meeting were made last night at the monthly meeting of the congregation of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-eseond avenue west and Third street. The Jul-otta services will be held at 5:30 o'clock Christmas morning and the annual meeting of the congregation will be held at 2:30 o'clock New Year's day.

Charles Person, one of the leading members of the congregation, who recently has moved to Barnum, Minn., where he has entered business, was presented, by members of the finance committee, with a handsome gold mounted umbrella. This ceremony took place near the close of the meeting.

The plans for the Christmas exercises to be held by the Sunday school will be made on Friday evening at a meeting of the teachers and officers to be held at the home of A. Thoren, 26 North Twentieth avenue west.

The Young Ladies' society of the church will entertain this evening at its annual supper. A new England meal will be served in the church basement between 5 and 8 o'clock.

The Ladies' Aid society was entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph Lee, 215 West Fourth street.

When Mr. Churchill joined the grenadlers, he found himself in a fireless dugout, and supplied with the ordinary army ration. He did not grumble, however, but entered cheerfully upon his task. An officer in the same command writing to a friend about Churchill's experiences, said:

"The first night he shivered visibly and it was some time before we were able to warm him up, but after taking liberal rations he thawed out and talked interestingly for an hour. He was taken for a round of the trenches until 2:30 o'clock in the morning, but in spite of hard gruelling, never complained. He was called again at 6 o'clock and next night, after the usual cold storage he took charge of his company."

ARE INVESTIGATING ALLEGED CONFESSION

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 1.—Federal and county officers today were investigating a "confession" which they say was made to them in the office of Prosecuting Attorney Cyrus Locher late yesterday by Dr. E. W. Ritter, in which Ritter is claimed to have told of having knowledge of plots against munitions plants in the United States.

Ritter was arrested on a charge of passing a worthless check for $50 on Miss Clare Darby. He is being held in $5,000 bail until the story, Federal officers say he told, can be probed. Among the items in Ritter's alleged confession was the claim that his real name is Emerich W. Ritter von Rettaghe, son of a former Austrian count, and a former officer in both the Austrian and German navies. Today, however, Ritter denied to newspaper men that he is the son of a count.

Ritter claims he is the inventor of "liquid fire," officers say, and that he has been experimenting extensively with it in the local gas fields.

Nashwauk, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the injunction issued by Judge Walker in the state courts preventing Indian Agent Larson from closing saloons here and in Calumet and Keewatin, was never served on Mr. Larson, that official and deputies, acting under direction of United States Attorney Jaques, came here yesterday and proceeded to raid and close all eight saloons. DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

DENFELD CLUB MEMBERS DINE

Several Banquets Are Planned for the Winter Months.

The Denfeld High School club held its regular meeting and dinner last evening with sixty-nine present.

The social and entertainment committee announced that the second annual Father and Son dinner will take place Tuesday, Dec. 14. Ralph Nichols is chairman of the committee in charge.

The Mother and Son banquet will take place Tuesday, Feb. 8. This will be the first Mother and Son banquet ever held in Duluth, and the committee expects that it will prove to be more popular even than the Father and Son. The midyear banquet will take place March 10, and on this occasion the club will be host to the girls' club of the school. The closing banquet will take place the latter part of April when the club closes for the year. Richard Duffy, Chester Rosborough, Frank Martin and Raulin Clark, the delegates elected to go to Albert Lea to attend the state boys' conference, entertained the club by giving them the yells they will use at the convention. Following the business meeting and study period, the club adjourned to the gymnasium where four teams are contesting for points in athletic events. The Yale team climbed to the top and now has 12 points. Minnesota dropped to second place with 9 points. Rotterdam ties with 9 points and Cornell stands with 5 points.

James Dormedy is captain of Yale, Ralph Nichols, captain of Minnesota; Harry Johnson, captain of Rotterdam, and Chester Rosbourgh, captain of Cornell. The contest will close Dec. 20. The club last night appointed a committee to present a plan whereby the club can take care of several families for Christmas. Ralph Nichols and Frank Martin are the committee.

FIRST CURLING FOR THIS SEASON

The first curling at the Western Curling rink will probably take place this evening or tomorrow night. The ice is forming and one sheet is said to be ready for games.

A number of members who propose to skip rinks this winter already have their rinks completed. Some of these will be "posted" before the end of the week.

Members of the club believe that before the middle of next week draws will be made for some of the events. At least twenty rinks will be entered, and, according to Frank H. Wade, president of the club, there are likely to be between twenty-five and thirty rinks taking part in the play at the rink this year.

Among those who will skip are Frank H. Wade, T. F. Wieland, Dr. W. E. Judson, Frank M. Ashley, E. J. Zauft, Melvin Olson, Dr. R. S. Forbes, Walter M. Evered, Charles Iltis, Dr. C. R. Keyes, L. A. WILL DRAW IRON FOR FIRST TIME

Blast Furnace at Steel Plant Will Be Tapped.

Late this afternoon it is planned to draw iron from the big furnace at the Duluth steel plant for the first time. Close to 100 tons of iron will be taken out of the furnace with the first tapping and this will be run into monster ladles carried on specially constructed cars. The disposition of the iron will depend on its composition, which will be ascertained by chemical tests.

At noon today the blast had been on the furnace for forty-four hours. Owing to the great size of the furnace, it is believed that it may be close to sixty hours before the first iron can be taken away.

PARK MANAGER BUYS FIRST SEALS

Duluth Societies Also Take Part in Fighting White Plague.

Henry Cleveland, park manager, bought the first allotment of the 1915 Red Cross Christmas seals.

Miss Louise Schneller, visiting nurse, said this morning that Capt. Cleveland purchased 100 seals several days ago and has the distinction of being the first Duluthian to help the local fund. Lots of 4,000 seals each have been given to the Red, White and Blue society and the Linnaea society, the members of which have agreed to sell them among their friends.

Yesterday afternoon the distribution of 200,000 seals in the department stores, drug stores, hotels, the postoffice, motion picture theaters and restaurants was completed and the stamps can now be obtained anywhere in the city. The stands at the postoffice and the Glass Block will not open until Monday, it was announced this morning.

More young women are needed to take charge of the stands, according to Miss Schneller, and this morning she sent out an appeal for at least ten assistants. These young women will take turns at the two large stands, working daily from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Those desiring to help are urged to send their names to Miss Schneller at the city hall.

GET IT FIRST—NOT LAST

When a cold grips your system it is convincing proof that your condition is weakened—remember that. It is risky indeed to simply trust your strength to throw it off, because neglected colds have brought more serious sickness than any other one thing, while weakening cathartics and stimulating syrups are often depressing and dangerous.

The one best treatment for any cold—the one so often relied on when others fail, is the powerful blood-nourishment in Scott's Emulsion, which feeds the very sources of bodily strength to suppress the present cold and generate strength to thwart further sickness.

Get Scott's first, not last—and insist on the genuine—always free from alcohol and injurious drugs.

ELKS' LODGE OF SORROW AT ORPHEUM

Theater Is Engaged, as Lodge Rooms Are Not Large Enough to Accommodate Crowd Expected to Attend.

So great is the public interest in the address to be delivered by Stephen J. Cowley of Great Falls, Mont., at the annual memorial day services of the Duluth lodge of Elks next Sunday, that officers of the lodge have arranged to hold the services at the Orpheum theater.

John E. Samuelson, exalted ruler of the lodge, in announcing the meeting place, said this morning that the assembly room at the lodge is too small to handle the large crowd that is expected to attend the services, and in order that a large number will not be disappointed, the Orpheum theater has been selected. The meeting will be open to the public.

The memorial day services, an annual feature of every Elks lodge in the country to commemorate those members who have passed away during the year, will start at 3 o'clock. Mr. Samuelson will preside and the program will open with a number by the Scottish Rite quartet, Prof. A. F. M. Custance at the piano. There will be several vocal and instrumental numbers, after which Mr. Cowley will deliver the address of the day.

For the last four years the Duluth lodge has endeavored to engage Mr. Cowley for the memorial day services, but each time he was compeled to decline because of previous engagements. This year, however, the invitation was sent early, and Mr. Cowley's acceptance was received two weeks ago.

Mr. Samuelson, in making his announcement, requested that all members of the lodge occupy the center section of the parquet, so that the work of the services may be carried out properly.

Straight, Lank Hair No Longer Necessary

(Guide to Beauty.)

A simple and harmless fluid, hitherto little used for the purpose, has proved so woderfully effective in quickly turning straight hair beautifully wavy, it bids fair to become "all the rage." You may be surprised to learn that this product is nothing more than plain liquid silmerine. More surprised, still, when you see how prettily it dries in the most natural-looking curls, swirls and crinkles you could wish for. It makes a fine dressing for the hair, too, keeping it so soft and lustrous.

A few ounces of liquid silmerine, which can of course be found in any drug store, will keep the hair curly for weeks. It is neither sticky nor greasy, but quite pleasant to use. It should be applied at night with a clean tooth brush—a perfectly lovely wave and curliness will be in evidence in the morning. Best of all, one who acquires the silmerine habit need never again resort to the barbarous curling iron.—Advertisement.

FRENCH ARTILLERY ACTIVELY ENGAGED

War Office Reports Heavy Firing Along the River Somme.

Paris, Dec. 1, 2:30 p. m.—The French official report on the progress of hostilities, given out by the war office this afternoon, says that French artillery has been energetically engaged along the river Somme.

There have been also certain attacks on German aeroplanes in which the French were successful. Otherwise there is nothing new to report.

The text of the communication follows:

"Nothing occurred last night worth recording, with the exception of energetic cannonading by our artillery in the sector of the Frise valley of the river Somme. This activity followed the explosion of a German mine which, however, did no damage.

"In the Artois district one of our aeroplanes yesterday attacked two German machines behind the German lines. One of these machines was compelled to come to the ground. The other fled and was pursued as far as Doul.

"During the day of Nov. 29, a French aeroplane threw down six shells of ninety millimetre caliber on some barracks located close to the railroad station at Lens. These buildings were seriously damaged."

AGREEMENT AT GERMAN EMBASSY

Contract With Hamburg-American Line to Supply Cruisers.

New York, Dec. 1.—The abstract of the Hamburg-American line's agreement with the German government, whereby the former agreed to supply German cruisers at sea with coal and supplies in neutral ships sailing from American ports early in the war, has passed into the keeping of the German embassy at Washington. Dr. Karl Buenz, managing director of the line, so testified today in his trial—and that of three other line officials and employes—on charges of conspiracy, now nearing its close in the United States district court here.

Not only has the abstract of this agreement been given to the embassy for safe keeping, Dr. Buenz testified, but all correspondence on the subject by letter or cable, likewise has formally been turned over to the German government through the embassy at Washington. The cablegrams, it was said, were in the German naval code and were removed to the embassy when it was thought there was danger of their becoming public, through this trial, and thus revealing to representatives of England, France and Russia the key to the German secret code.

WILL INVESTIGATE CAUSE OF LANDSLIDES

President Van Hise to Go to Panama With Other Scientists.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 1.—Dr. Charles R. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin who has been appointed chairman of a committee of prominent geologists and engineers to investigate the causes of landslides which are interfering with the use of the Panama canal, was today granted a leave of absence by the regents of the university so that he may accompany the committee on its trip of investigation to the isthmus. The party probably will leave for Panama on Dec. 11, to be gone about four weeks.

The committee, appointed by the National Academy of Sciences at the request of President Wilson, consists of three geologists, three geophysicists, one seismologist, one physicist and three professional engineers.

Burglars Crack Safe.

Kendallville, Ind., Dec. 1.—Burglars secured $2,000 in cash and $1,200 in postage when they cracked the safe in the Milo Thomas Exchange bank of Corunna, a village near here, early today.

Quick Way to Whiten Discolored Teeth

While the cleansing of the teeth seems fairly well assured by regular use of the tooth brush, this can by no means be depended upon to maintain the whiteness and luster of the enamel. This fact is only too well appreciated by thousands of particular men and women who, in spite of the liberal use of various tooth powders, pastes and liquids, seem unable to remove the tinge of yellow or gray from the front of their teeth, or black or brownish fringes about the edges.

It will be welcome news to all such that every stain and discoloration can be completely and quickly removed by the use of ordinary refined avatol. If used daily instead of the usual dentifrice, the disagreeable tints will not reappear and the teeth will always have that spotless milky whiteness and sparkling beauty so much admired but so seldom seen. The effectiveness of avatol is all the more remarkable because it is so perfectly harmless. Instead of scratching or eating into the enamel or injuring the gums, it helps keep teeth, gums and mouth in a healthy state. Druggists usually have the refined avatol in convenient tubes and it can be used the same way a tooth paste is used, putting just a little on the brush. —Advertisement.

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS OF POLICE COURT

HIST! MUTT AND JEFF AS BURGLARS

Maraud Store, Taking Large and Small Sample of Each Thing.

Hist!

A long, fat burglar and a short, thin one ransacked the Andrew G. Johnson store at 2832 West Third street Monday night.

"A regular Mutt and Jeff party," said Lieut. F. A. Schulte when he learned of it yesterday.

Tired of their adventures in the German, French and English armies, Mutt and Jeff evidently wanted to come back and be plain American citizens in time for Christmas, for they togged themselves out in the latest styles.

This is the list of what Mr. Johnson said was missing:

One pair size 10½ shoes.

Ditto size 4½.

Three large shirts and three small ones.

One large suit and one small one.

One large hat and one small ditto.

One large mackinaw and one small ditto.

Some socks, a sweater and other odds and ends also were missing. The total value was estimated at $71.

The burglars jimmied a rear door.

WILLIAM WAS NO "CHEAP SPORT"

Plunged to Extent of $11.98 for Dress—When Cornered.

Mrs. Rosalia Misunas, 621 West Fifth street, wife of Peter, has a true woman's instinct.

When William Chever, 3823 West Michigan street was touched by her story of hardship and offered to buy her a silk dress, he picked out one costing $4.98, but she steered him past that counter and found one that cost $11.98 instead.

"I didn't want to be a cheap sport," said William in court, "so I bought it, but $12 is a lot of money for a dress and you'd better believe me."

Several other times William didn't want to be a "cheap sport," it appeared from the hearing yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Rosalia was tried on a charge of stealing about $30 from him.

Peter, the husband, also was lodged in jail.

"Now wouldn't that get your goat?" he said. "They think my wife has swiped some money, and right away they look me up.

"Can you imagine it? What have I got to do with what my wife does?"

Judge Cutting dismissed the case against Mrs. Misunas.

DICE WERE MUCH TOO ACCOMMODATING

Two Strangers Always Won and Police Arrest Them.

"Please Mr. Dice—now all together—five sixes."

Emil Noble, 22, shook the dice box back and forth vigorously and rolled out the "bones." Sure enough there were five sixes, three aces and two "naturals."

At least that is the police version of it, after Noble, with William Shield, 24, was arrested last night in a Superior street cigar store by Officer Montgomery.

Various cigar dealers complained of two smooth individuals who always won and gave a description tallying with the men taken into custody a short time later.

Between $400 and $500 in merchandise and cash has been taken from Superior street dealers by the two, it is said, and police suspect that in the two they have the men, who, working a similar game, "cleaned up" range towns to the tune of nearly $2,000 recently.

Both are adept at palming the dice, police say.

Charged with vagrancy, they pleaded not guilty this morning and will be tried this afternoon.

FORD STOPPED AT LAST.

Overturns Vehicles, Calves and Poultry; Checked By House.

Just an ordinary Ford, it was, one of the kind that "ramble right along."

This one rambled into a wagon, dumped a man into the road, upset three calves, made a rooster crow, started a runaway, bumped into its master's house, and stopped, little the worse for wear.

Sam Kaner, 426½ Ogden avenue, Superior, was injured. He also owns the calves, the rooster, and the horse that ran away. Albert Johnson, 106 West Fifth street, owns the Ford.

In the first place, the auto, or rather, the Ford, bumped into Kaner's wagon. This was near Fifth avenue west and Fourth street. The rooster crowed and the horse bolted. Kaner was thrown out and the wheels ran over his left leg.

The calves, in a crate on the wagon, took a tumble at Eighth avenue west and Superior street, but the horse kept going to Garfield avenue.

The auto, or rather, the Ford, balked about this time. When Johnson got out to crank it, he accidentally pushed and the machine started rambling down hill.

HUGGED STOVE TOO LONG

The "Stove" league was going full blast early this morning in a lodging house at 509 West Superior street.

In one corner of the room Ty Cobb, the Detroit marvel, was batting, while in the other corner three football enthusiasts were holding a postmortem over the Yale-Harvard slaughter.

An imaginary "Eddie" Mahan just had kicked an imaginary field goal, and an imaginary "Ty" had just stolen home, when in walked Patrolman Le Beau.

Four men, all of whom police testified had been "hanging around" for some time, were sentenced for vagrancy by Judge Cutting in municipal court today. A fifth, Hugh Millen, 60, pleaded not guilty.

Frank Sullivan, 58, drew thirty days at the work farm; John Shea, 48, will pay $17 or serve fifteen days; Erick Erickson, 55, will do the same, and Fred Williams, 57, will do the same.

GOING BACK TO FARM.

Washburn Boy's Search for Fame and Fortune Began Too Soon.

Dick Whittington, who
in search of fame and fortune had nothing on Towle Silverberg, 14, an ambitious young citizen of Washburn, Wis.

Towle started out with $3 to make a name for himself in the world, but he will go back today with $1.72, minus railway fare, and spend the winter on his father's farm.

He came to Duluth to visit "auntie," Towle first told Capt. A. G. Fiskett, but then he couldn't remember where she lived, so he decided to go on without her aid.

When he told a patrolman that he was "broke" last night, he was taken to headquarters.

MARINE

GET AWAY WITH CANADIAN WHEAT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 1.—Word was received here today that the big lake freighters Col. J. M. Schoonmaker and Shenango, owned by the Shenango Furnace company, had won against the Canadian embargo on wheat and were on their way to lower lake ports with 880,000 bushels.

The Schoonmaker was loading at Port Arthur and the Shenango at Fort William when the embargo on wheat became effective. It included these vessels, and while the Pittsburgh owners felt certain an appeal to Washington would have released their cargoes, they knew navigation was about to close and any delay would mean that the ships must be interned in the Canadian ports for the winter. Officers of the Shenango company took the question up directly with the Canadian government and the cargoes were quickly released.

These vessels, with others of the Shenango fleet, are ordinarily engaged in bringing ore down the lakes, but toward the end of each season they make a voyage for wheat.

SALVAGING WHEAT IN BURNED STEAMER

Houghton, Mich., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the lateness of the season and the fact that the wheat would have to be trans-shipped at the Head of the Lakes anyway, C. E. Grafft, representing the Brooks Elevator company of Minneapolis, purchaser of the damaged wheat cargo in the burned steamer Alfred P. Wright, has arranged with the Copper Range railroad for the shipment of the wheat.

An exception to this is a small cargo of about 20,000 bushels, which last night was shipped in Charles R. Lull's steamer Cream City, the wheat going to a dryer at Milwaukee.

Whitney Brothers of Duluth arrived at 1 o'clock Monday morning with their lighter and salvage plant and began operations at once in the loading of the Cream City. The contractors will send lighter loads of wheat to the Copper Range dock to load it into cars. Mr. Grafft said that he expects to recover in good condition, though wet, about 70,000 bushels of the wheat. He estimates the work will take a week.

From here he goes to Parish, Texas, to take charge of the wheat stored in an elevator recently burned.

BARGE FOUND AND IRELAND RELEASED

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 1.—The barge Connolly Bros., which broke away from the tug Illinois in Monday's snow storm, was located at anchor off Point Iroquois yesterday and was towed into this port.

The steamer R. L. Ireland was released yesterday from Sweet's Point, where she grounded as a result of the storm. The vessel apparently was undamaged.

DAMAGE SUITS ARE EXPENSIVE

Payment of $16,000 By City Causes Shortage in General Fund.

Nearly $16,000 in damage claims and court judgments have been paid by the city of Duluth this year.

As this sum rarely goes over $5,000, the general fund is now short and as a result, Commissioner Voss, head of the finance division, is now planning to postpone the quarterly payment of the hydrant rental amounting to about $12,000, so that the city can go through the present year without being compelled to use the certificates of indebtedness recently authorized by the council. Otherwise, $6,000 of the certificates will have to be advanced to keep the general fund out of debt until Jan. 1.

With the action taken by the council at a special meeting this morning on the claim of John Jenswold, Jr., for payment of the $3,856.86 judgment in connection with the damage suit of Mrs. Pauline Genereau, the total amount paid this year is $15,794.92. The city treasurer is authorized to pay this money, the order to be drawn on the general fund. Mayor Prince and Commissioners Voss and Silberstein were present at the meeting.

Told to Wait.

When Mr. Jenswold presented his claim at the council meeting last Monday, he was informed that the city's finances were too low, and that the claimant would have to wait until the first of the year. In view of the fact that the fund would have been $2,000 short anyway. Commissioner Voss this morning decided to pay the judgment and make arrangements for strengthening the fund until Jan. 1.

"The water and light department does not need the hydrant money at this time," Commissioner Voss said, "and I am sure we can make arrangements to postpone payment of the quarterly rental until after the first of the year. This amounts to $12,000 and will easily carry us over until Jan. 1. Otherwise, we will have to take some of the certificates authorized a month ago."

The largest judgment paid this year was $6,384 to Florence Watson, the young actress, who was injured in a fall off a sidewalk two years ago. Most of the judgments and claims paid were for injuries or accidents that happened prior to this year, but were not settled until 1915. About $1,500 was paid to property owners at Fond du Lac for damages done to their property as the result of the flood in 1913.

Last year the city paid out but $4,000 in damage claims and judgments and only $4,000 was included in the budget for this year.

CUPID IS DOING ONLY FAIR WORK

November with its football weather and an occasional snow flurry did not establish itself as a favored month for Duluth brides this year.

In 1912, during the cold bleak days of the eleventh month, more marriage licenses were issued than during any month of the year. Even June, so often associated with brides, trousseaus, orange blossoms and the like, surrendered leadership to blustery November.

There's a different story to tell this year, however. During the last month, only 112 wedding permits were handed out at the office of the district court, which shows a falling off as compared with the previous month when 120 were issued. In June, 148 couples took wedding vows.

During November of last year, 107 licenses were issued. The record for November 1913 was 123 and for November, 1912, 124.

MUCH DRUNKENNESS SEEN IN DRY HIBBING VILLAGE

Saloon Men Dazed Over Drastic Action But People Like It.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although Indian Agent Larson and his deputies raided the saloons of the village, forty-five in all, yesterday afternoon and made all get rid of their liquor forthwith, generally by spilling it, and the village was supposed to be dry last night, there were an unusually large number of drunken men seen on the streets and there are numerous "hangovers" today. It is said that not in years have there been so many drunken men seen on the streets as last night, while today there are plenty of evidences that liquor can be secured, but just how does not develop.

The traditionally lynx-eyed Indian officials, eight or more, are here today, walking the streets and glancing into the one-time saloons, which are all open, to see whether any liquor is sold. So far as known, up to noon, the Federal agents had made no arrests for lid tilting.

Saloon Men Dazed.

The saloon men are sort of dazed by yesterday's sensational occurrences and don't appear to know just what they are going to do, but of course they will all get into some other line of business, as it seems to be conceded that Uncle Sam will not allow saloons to open here for many moons. The public, outside of those engaged in the saloon business, appear to like the closing of the dramshops unless, of course, they are interested in the way of owning saloon property or selling goods to the saloon men. Most of the saloons had disposed of much of their stock or shipped it out, so on the whole the Indian agents, in their rounds, found comparatively a small amount of liquor to spill, nothing like what was reported in some papers.

Not only are the late saloons open today but people are in them, talking over the doings of yesterday, looking at the fixtures and drinking soft drinks, for some of the places are selling non-intoxicants, but so far as can be learned, no saloon man is taking any chances on furnishing liquor to anyone today. During the height of the raids yesterday when saloon after saloon was visited by the officers and contraband, if found, spilled, large crowds folowed the officers and looked at the novel spectacle, but there was no trouble, no resisting the majesty of the law, despite contrary reports. Not a few spectators were provided with liquor before the officers arrived on the scene, which probably accounted for the large number of drunks seen later in the evening and today.

ADDITION PROBLEM WILL BE TACKLED

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—To solve the Williams addition water problem the city council last evening invited the water and light commission and George V. Williams, who is interested in the addition, to confer with the council next Tuesday night.

To reach the residents by direct service a pipe line would have to be installed to the addition.

The water and light committee reported favorably on the installation of "white ways" on North and South Wyoming avenue and on South Mesaba avenue from Cook to Cherry street.

The park board reported that it was without funds with which to establish and maintain skating rinks and as a result the matter was referred to the street and alley committee and the street commissioner. A warming house was authorized erected at the South side rink, which will be flooded for the first time this month. Rinks will be also maintained at the Roosevelt, Johnson and Northside schools and at the Oliver baseball park.

The following estimates were allowed: Lawrence-McCann, Eveleth, sewage disposal plant, $32,864.88; Eveleth Construction company, storm sewer contract, $4,581.99. That a conduit instead of a pole line should be used in the wiring arrangements at the sewage disposal plant was the report of City Engineer Edward F. Johnson. The change will cost $55. The work will be done by the Star Contracting company of this city.

Four Seek Job.

City Engineer Johnson reported that the cost of installing a sewer in the Mollan addition by day labor amounted to $606.36. The amount was allowed and the property owners benefited will be required to pay for the improvement.

On request of the Commercial club the street and alley committee and the city engineer were instructed to investigate the advisability of building a road from the pest house, on the South side, west to the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific tracks, where the road would be met by a highway to be built by the township of Nichols.

The water and light commission was allowed $2,041.73 for city lighting in November. The commission was also allowed $103.72 for installing a water main in block 143, Pillsbury addition.

The application of George Morgenson to sell medicine was referred to the police and license committee.

ANOTHER MURDER SUSPECT CAUGHT

Grand Rapids, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special Officer Eisenberg of the Oliver Iron Mining company police force late yesterday arrested Steve Kesich at Marble in connection with the murder in a saloon at Calumet Thanksgiving night when Pete Nenoff was stabbed to death during a race war between Bulgarians and Servians. Kesich had been hiding in Marble all the time. He is quoted as saying he saw the whole fight and saw Keeman stab Nenoff.

Four Accused of Murder.

Deputy Coroner E. R. Blair of Coleraine late yesterday concluded the inquest at Marble into the death of Nenoff. The jury found Paul Keeman and three others directly responsible for the killing, the verdict reading:

"That Pete Nenoff came to his death from a stab in the back, given him by a knife held by one Paul Keeman; that Nick Broin, Steve Kesich and 'John Doe,' a big black Austrian, are also guilty of his death as principals being present and aiding and assisting in the murder.

"Also that one Mike Stupar and certain other persons unknown are guilty as accessories after the fact as they did, after the commission of the murder, aid said offenders to escape, with intent that said principals should escape arrest, said Mike Stupar and other persons, then knowing said offenders had committed murder and were liable to arrest."

It is expected that numerous accused arrested in connection with the affair will be taken to Marble at once for a preliminary hearing. Some have retained counsel and will fight the charge.

Witnesses Committed.

Coleraine, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following the inquest held at Marble yesterday by Deputy Coroner E. R. Blair of this village and a jury into the killing of Pete Nenoff on Thanksgiving in a Calumet saloon, Dan Savill, Sam Salvig, George Bosich, Joe Radosovich, and Steve Patrovich were committed to jail to be held as witnesses, they being unable to furnish the necessary $500 bonds. The owner of the saloon where the murder was committed, Zivco Matkovich and his wife, Angelina, were released on a joint bond of $3,000 to appear as witnesses.

A liberal reward has been offered for the arrest of the parties indicted by the coroner's jury.

The funeral of Pete Nenoff was held at Marble yesterday afternoon and the interment took place at Lakeview cemetery at Coleraine.

Zivco Matkovich, the owner of the notorious Calumet saloon, feels that the life of a saloon keeper is not cast in pleasant places. He and his wife are under $3,000 bonds to appear as witnesses. He had no sooner furnished the bond than he was re-arrested by the county attorney and committed to jail on the charge of selling liquor to minors, which fact was brought out at the coroner's trial. On the same day Agent Larson appeared, closing his place of business and destroying $1,000 worth of liquor.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe. Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.—Advertisement.

ARNOLD ON DAIRYING.

Duluth Land Man Will Address Virginia Commercial Club.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—L. B. Arnold of Duluth will address the Commercial club tomorrow night on the question of encouraging dairying in St. Louis county.

Many farmers north and south of the city, many of whom are on the Iron Range road, wish to do dairying in conjunction with their farming and seek financial aid. Local bankers will attend the meeting tomorrow night and are expected to make several valuable suggestions on the financing of dairying work in this county.

The agricultural committee of the local club has given much time to the dairying question.

As a result of the request of the club's transportation committee, a reduction from 10 to 5 cents has been made in the fare to and from Parkville by the Mesaba Electric railway.

CALUMET GETS SHOCK

When Indian Agent Larson Closes Up Saloons.

Coleraine, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Calumet was surprised yesterday morning when H. A. Larson, the Indian agent, with a party of twelve deputies appeared on the scene and proceeded to close up the saloons and destroy all liquors found in them. He found the Matkovich saloon locked and was informed that the key could not be found. He notified them that if the key was not produced at once the door would be forced. The village policeman soon found the key and a little later 540 gallons of whisky were running down the gutter from this one saloon. The other saloons were visited in turn with similar results. At noon Larson and his party left for Keewatin, Nashwauk, Hibbing and Chisholm.

DOG LOCKED IN SALOON.

Amusing Incident of Hibbing's Famous Liquor Raid.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Justice of the Peace Lekve was a central figure in Hibbing's lid order yesterday afternoon—a party which he did not want to play.

It all came about as a result of a little brown terrier that insisted on following Indian Agent Larson all over his raiding excursion inside and outside and down basements and through long alleys.

For over an hour the justice of the peace missed his dog and after a long search discovered his canine friend locked up in one of Third street's closed saloons.

A Hibbing saloonkeeper in a hurry to comply with Indian Agent Larson's request to lock all doors had locked Mr. Lekve's dog inside and it was only after a personal request of the agent that the justice was allowed to go inside the saloon and rescue his pet—finally convincing the government agent that he was not there to purchase a drink or to "carry anything away" only his dog.

THIRTY-SEVEN PLACES IN CHISHOLM CLOSED

One Man Interfered With Government Agents and Is Arrested.

Chisholm, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Getting a tip from Hibbing late yesterday that the Indian bureau agents were headed this way to put on the Indian lid, many of the thirty-seven saloons were closed by the time the officers got here and started on their rounds. Some were not closed and about $1,500 worth of liquor was spilled in the street. Paul Tramontin resisted the officers and was arrested. A large amount of liquor in his place was confiscated. A big crowd watched the officers as they went on their rounds. Three remained here last night to see there was no tilting.

ELY MOOSE ENJOY ANNUAL BANQUET

Ely, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second annual Moose banquet was held by the members of the local Moose lodge at their club rooms Monday evening. The lodge which was organized a little over a year ago now has more than 300 members. Arthur Mattson, Mat Spreitzer, Jr., Walter Hario of this city, and two Winton residents were initiated.

Over 175 members were served. The clubrooms were packed to the doors, with insufficient chairs to accommodate the crowd. This Moose entertainment proved to be the best attended and successful evening ever planned by the lodge.

James Garrity, who organized the local lodge, attended the meeting and banquet. He gave a very appreciated talk on the good of the order and also commented on the steady growth of the Ely lodge. Mayor John A. Harri addressed the banqueters.

Ole Fernlund, whose Swedish stories and anecdotes are famous among the Elyites, kept the diners in an uproar and was called on numerous times for more stories. Arthur Toms, who is also widely known for his imitations and stories could not be present owing to a business engagement. Guy Coffey and Mike Sterk, Jr., gave several vocal solos.

The allowing of the monthly payroll was the only other business transacted.

No answer was received from the architects who drew the plans for the new water system in regards to the using of well No. 8, for domestic and fire purposes.

The fact that Jim Coffey licked Gunboat Smith leads some to think that the Gunner has entered the submarine department of pugilism.

POST-SEASON TALK ON FOOTBALL MATTERS

Mahan Listens to No Offers to Coach Badgers or Any Other Team; Syracuse Meets Oregon Aggies; Pittsburgh Challenges Cornell.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 1.—The position of coach for the University of Wisconsin football team has been offered to no one, according to President Charles R. Van Hise. A report was current that Capt. Eddie Mahan of the Harvard eleven had been offered the position.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 1.—Eddie Mahan, captain of the Harvard football team, said last night that he would not consider any offer to coach a football team until he finished his course of study here next June. Friends of the Crimson leader said he had received several proposals from colleges, but was treating all alike at the present.

Pittsburgh Challenges Cornell.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 1.—The football team of the University of Pittsburgh last night challenged the Cornell eleven for a game to determine the Eastern championship. Neither team lost a game during the season just closed.

The challenge was sent in the form of a telegram to Graduate Manager Kemp of Cornell by Joseph H. Thompson, chairman of the football committee of the local school. It specified that the teams were to meet within the next two weeks on neutral grounds, Philadelphia or New York, being suggested, and the proceeds were to go to charity.

Syracuse vs. Oregon Aggies.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 1.—The 1915 football season will end in the Pacific Northwest today with what is considered the greatest inter-sectional clash in the history of Western football, between the Oregon aggies and the Syracuse university eleven. Betting favors Syracuse 2 to 1.

New Yale Captain.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 1.—Clinton R. Black of New York City, a junior in the Sheffield Scientific school, was unanimously elected captain of the 1916 Yale football team at the annual banquet of the players last night. Black played guard on this fall's eleven.

U. of C. Captain Chosen.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Phil Brick Jackson of Chicago, tackle on the University of Chicago football team this season, yesterday was elected captain of the eleven for 1916.

Mike Glover Gets Best of Ted Lewis; Burke Outpoints Rowland.

New York, Dec. 1.—Jack Dillon of Indianapolis defeated Jim Flynn, the Pueblo, Colo., fireman, in a ten-round bout in Brooklyn last night. Dillon, weighing 175 pounds, conceded eighteen pounds to his opponent. Flynn was severely punished throughout, taking a count of four in the ninth after receiving a hard right to the jaw.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 1.—Mike Glover of this city, scoring frequently with light blows, gained a decision in a twelve-round bout over Ted (Kid) Lewis ,the English lightweight boxer, last night. The punches of the latter were stronger, but less frequent.

St. Louis. Mo., Dec. 1.—Tommy Burke of this city, outpointed Len Rowland of Milwaukee, Wis., in an eight-round bout here last night. The men are middleweights. In the seventh round Burke knocked his opponent down for the count of four.

LITTLE CHANCE OF SUMMER BASEBALL

Minnesota Opposition Gives Proposed Rule Change Little Show.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Final action on the summer baseball question will be left to the institutions composing the Big Nine conference, even though faculty representatives who meet here next Saturday vote for abrogation of the rule prohibiting it, according to Dean A. W. Small, the University of Chicago representative. Small declared that faculty representatives have no final authority on the subject, according to conference rules. A majority vote by the representatives, however, would hold the question open until another vote on it by the conference.

Opposition to a change grew stronger with news that the University of Minnesota would not favor the abolition of the summer baseball prohibition.

Dean Small is slated to succeed Prof. J. F. A. Pyre of Wisconsin as president of the faculty board at its meeting, the office going by rotation in alphabetical order. Prof. E. F. Moran of Purdue, it is expected, will be re-elected secretary.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 1.—Ohio State university's othletic board last night instructed its chairman, Prof. Thomas E. French, who will be the delegate to the Western conference meeting at Chicago Saturday, to support the amateur principles in their present form, until some better administration of the principles is proposed. Therefore, Ohio's vote will be against permitting athletes to play summer baseball.

CHIEF BENDER SUES.

After Federal League in U. S. Court, Alleging Breach of Contract.

New York, Dec. 1.—A suit for alleged breach of contract in behalf of Charles A. (Chief) Bender, the pitcher, was filed in United States court yesterday against the Federal league.

Bender seeks to recover a judgment of $8.666 from the league. The former Philadelphia American star claims he was released unconditionally by the Baltimore Federal league last August in violation of the terms of his contract, which is said to have been for two years at $7,500 per annum.

FULTON LOOKS GOOD.

Challenger for Willard's Title Boxes Three Rounds With Jack Moran.

Fred Fulton and his sparring partner, Frank Moran of Chicago, worked three fast rounds in the Zenith Athletic club gymnasium last evening. The big challenger for Willard's title looked great and moved around with the agility and speed of a spry welterweight.

A badly dislocated nose upon the part of Moran confined Fulton's punching to Moran's body and made the big fellow rather cautious. At that the bout was a corker and showed that Fulton is not only a terrific puncher, but also one of the cleverest big men in the ring.

Pal Brown and Steve Gardner worked three rounds and the boys received a good hand from the crowd. At in-fighting Brown showed that he is still the same wizard as of old.

AMATEUR LEAGUE TO HOLD ELECTION

Braves' Coach Goes to Harvard.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 1.—The election of Fred Mitchell, coach and scout of the Boston Nationals, as head coach of the Harvard baseball team, is announced by the Harvard Athletic association. He is to be engaged for one year. Mitchell has played with the Boston Americans and the Philadelphia Americans as pitcher, and with the New York Americans and Boston Nationals as catcher.

"I DON'T FEAR WILLARD" SAYS BIG FRED FULTON

Challenger for the World's Heavyweight Crown Declares His Belief in His Ability to Defeat Cowpuncher—Isn't Losing Any Sleep Over the Coming Match.

BY BRUCE.

World's champion boxers are always considered a fair field for interviewers. A boxer who is going to battle with the champion for the title should make a more interesting subject. The champion has been champion for a while and has become somewhat used to his surroundings, just a trile blase, as it were. With the challenger it is quite diferent; he should be filled with awe, and in addition should be either enshrouded in ankle-deep gloom, like a prisoner about to be drawn and quartered, or as hugely tickled as a child the night before Christmas.

"Mr. Fulton," we began, "how does it feel to be matched with the world's champion pugilist, the largest man who has ever held the title, and the man who licked Jack Johnson, which was quite some feat, Mr. Fulton?"

Mr. Fulton is one who gets to the point quickly.

"Say, I hope I get a lot of money," quoth he.

"Can you lick Willard, or do you think you can?"

"Say, sure I can. I knocked him flat once and I am figuring on doing it again.

"Well, I figure on using that long left of mine for a while, trying him out and getting my bearings, and then I'm liable to cut in with my old right mitt. I've dropped them all so far; yep, every one of 'em, and that goes for Willard to, and I figure that the big cowpuncher will go like the rest of them."

Can Outbox Willard.

"Where, Mr. Fulton, do you figure you have it on the champion?"

"Well, I think I can outbox the big fellow. Of course, you know, I may be wrong in all this; a fellow has to figure out things for himself. No one is going to help me after I climb in that ring with that six foot seven guy. But I figure that I am faster and a better boxer than the champion, and I figure that I will be a lot better by March 6th. You see most of my improvement has come within the last few months, since Mike Collins took hold of me, and they began to show me something. I can hit hard enough to hurt any one and I believe I will hit Willard a lot."

"Ever since they went and matched me with Willard I have been figuring out a lot of things. No, I'm not losing any sleep or I haven't got the jumps, 'cause the fight could come tomorrow for all I care; but I expect to get cracked and get hurt, too, but on top of all that I expect to win. Anyone who goes into a fight not expecting to get cracked and get cracked good, is a rummy."

At this point of the interview the large Mr. Fulton executed a shift, swung an overwhelming right at the head of an imaginary opponent and then smiled like a man entirely satisfied with the world.

"Willard is bigger than you in every way, perhaps stronger, and will outweigh you by some twenty pounds. Suppose he tears in and carries you around the ring and forces you back all the time?"

"When you have a good left that you can hook or jab them when they come in, it's kind of hard for any of them to do that. I figure I can step back and then pop him, just as I have been popping the others. I like them to come tearing after me; that's what the left hand is made for. Young Corbett popped Terry McGovern with a left when he came tearing in, didn't he? And Jim Corbett peppered Jim Jeffries with a left for twenty-three rounds. If I hit a man with my left I figure on hurting him quite considerable, and if the big cowpuncher comes tearing at me he may stop my left a lot. You know when it comes to reach I got it on Jess a whole inch. That inch, I think, is going to help me a lot.

Fred Is Confident.

"Then you really believe you are going to beat Willard and be the next heavyweight champion of the world—right down in your heart you think you have at least an even chance to win?"

"Surest thing you know! I'd fight any of them right now. You ask me if you think I will be the next champion. Sure I do. I boxed with Willard in Rochester last May and he tried to show me up. The whole darn troupe gathered around the ring to see the big rube, me of course, get a crack on the jaw. When Jess tried all right, and don't let no one tell you he didn't, and when he got too gay and I saw it was a kind of a fight, I let go my right and down he went, just like the others. Like a big rummy I stooped down and helped him up. I should have tried to wallop him out when he got up. But you learn them things. You see I boxed with Jess in a Minneapolis gymnasium before he was champion and then boxed with him after he was champion, and it won't be like I never met him before. Then, besides, he never had nothing on me."

"Don't you think you will kind of have stage fright when you walk over and sit down in your corner on the day of March sixth?"

"No, I don't. But then you can't always tell. Right now I am no more scared of Willard than I was of Andre Anderson the other night in Milwaukee, and you know what I done to Andre. Maybe fighting for a championship will give you stage fright for a while, but I don't believe it. Fighting is my business and a good business man only shows his nerve when he tackles a big proposition. I'm tackling a big proposition in the champion, but it's part of my game, so when you come to figure it out, why Willard has got a lot more to be scared about than me. Whatta you think?"

CURLING DRAWS WILL BE DELAYED

No Official Games Will Be Played Until Later in Month.

While the first curling of the season may be held on Saturday evening of the present week, it is not expected that any draw will be made until near the middle of the month. There are still many names of rinks to come in before the members of the games committee will make the draw of the first officially scheduled event of the season.

A number of the veteran rinks will have the same lineup as last year. The Brewer-Whytes will be intact and the same is true of some other of the best known rinks. It is stated that William Dinham, one of the best curlers of the club, will have a very strong combination this year.

Haley's restaurant is now serving club breakfast from 15c to 75c.

LINDER WANTS BARKELL TO PLAY IN CALUMET

Joe Linder, captain of last year's Duluth Curling club hockey team and now with the Calumet team, has written a letter and requested Russell Barkell of this city, also a member of last year's Duluth team, to come to Calumet and play on the team.

It is not known as yet whether Barkell will accede to the request of his old captain.

Barkell, along with some of the other members of last year's curling club team, were expected to play on the Bagley team of the Duluth Amateur Hockey league during the approaching season.

THIRD FLOOR MEN WIN.

Take Prize Box of Apples at "Y" Dormitory Party Contest.

Third-floor men at the Y. M. C. A. won a box of apples in an athletic contest conducted by the secretaries of the institution in the "Y" lobby last evening.

The athletic meet followed a program of vocal and instrumental music arranged by the officers for all the men residing in the dormitory. The third-floor men won everything and after receiving the apples were compelled to fight against the allied forces of the other two floors for the possession of their prize.

The third-floor men were the final victors in the impromptu fray.

RESPONSE TO APPEAL IS SLOW

Those Planning to Help Duluth's Complete Cripple and Family Believed to Be Waiting for Christmas Season.

The response to the appeal made by The Herald some days ago to aid Joseph Pringle of 2217 South street, and his family to get into business for themselves, has not been nearly so hearty as was expected, although many who were planning to help may be holding back until the Christmas season.

The case of Mr. Pringle and his family is not one of charity, but merely an effort to turn magazine business their way.

Mr. Pringle, as was described when the appeal was made, is a complete cripple. He has not moved a muscle—not even his lips—for six years, and has been confined to his bed for a total of eight years.

The family is supported by what fancy needlework Mrs. Pringle can do in addition to the attention she must give her helpless husband, what little their young daughter can earn, and the liberal though meager contributions which are made by a brother of the stricken man, a marine engineer.

They are brave through it all and have never asked charitable aid. And the appeal made for them by The Herald is not for charity. Friends seek to establish them in a magazine business, that they may obtain means of support from the commissions paid for new subscribers or for renewals. In this way they can obtain money to help in their support and to give a few additional comforts to each of the members of the family.

Christmas is coming, when scores of people subscribe for magazines for friends, sending them as presents, and New Year's is not far off, when thousands renew their subscriptions for magazines they have been taking.

The Pringles and their friends will appreciate it if these subscribers will keep this matter in mind.

JEWS TO BEGIN CELEBRATION OF HANUKKAH AT SUNDOWN

At sundown tonight Duluth Jews will begin the observance of Hanukkah, the festival of dedication, which celebrates the victories of the Maccabees over the Syrians more than 2,000 years ago. The festival lasts eight days.

A legend says that, at the rededication of the temple, a cruse of oil filled every lamp so that the great edifice was resplendant with light. The invaders had destroyed the holy oil set aside for lighting the temple and when this small amount sent its resplendant rays throughout the edifice, the people declared it to be a miracle and in allusion to this, Jews now signalize the festival by lighting the Hanukkah lights each evening. One light is added each evening until all eight lights are burning.

Hanukkah services will be held at Adas Israel synagogue this evening and Temple Emanuel Friday evening. An appropriate sermon will be delivered Friday by Dr. Maurice Lefkovits.

This is one of the favorite festivals in the Jewish calendar, and besides its high significance for men and women, is also a children's holiday, and the religious schools celebrate it with elaborate festivities. In the homes songs accompany the kindling of the lights, and the ritual of the synagogue is enhanced by the recital of selected psalms.

Antiochus, king of Syria, in the second century before the common era, aspired to dominate the countries of the East. He pursued the policy of suppressing all national distinctions and of foisting upon his subjects, in the various countries which had come under his control, the religion and civilization of Syria. This, though Greek in origin, was debased in spirit and practice. The Jews, proud of their traditions and devoted to their pieties and moralities, resented the intrusion and the violence of the Syrian conquerors, who were respecters neither of the conscience nor of the lives of the Jews. Under the leadership of Judas Maccabeus, they made good their loyalty to their faith and homes and met the Syrians on the battlefield. Their defense was valiant and successful, despite the fact that they were few and grappled with a powerful enemy. After signal victories, they achieved their emancipation, and reaffirmed the pious practices of the fathers and, true to the spirit of Judaism, they proceeded at once to the rededication of their temple.

FOR BENEFIT OF TENANT FARMERS

Credit Facilities to Enable Them to Acquire Farm Lands.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—John Lee Coulter, dean of the college of agriculture of the University of West Virginia, in an address before the national conference on marketing and farm credits here today recommended national and state legislation to provide the credit facilities which would make it possible for the tenant farmer and farm laborer to acquire farm lands. He said that the first steps to be taken were:

1. An act of congress providing for a complete scheme of farm land banks.
2. Legislative acts of various states supplementing the national law and providing for state institutions to do various phases of the mortgage business which the national farm land bank would not care to undertake.
3. Legislation by various states simplifying laws pertaining to titles, deeds, foreclosures and exemptions.
4. An up-to-date state bureau of farm lands with a complete list of farms for sale and farms for rent, and as much detail concerning these as possible.
5. A thorough scheme of rural education with county organization so provided that the county headquarters would have a complete list and careful rating of every farm operated within the county.
6. Such state legislation as is necessary to take over by some public service corporation lands not already developed—these lands to be developed, parceled, and sold on advantageous terms to select farmers who do not own any land but are seeking to become permanent settlers, living upon and operating their own farms.

These recommendations followed a discussion of the land problem as it exists in the United States and the quotation of many statistics as to the number of tenants and farm laborers.

GOVERNOR HANNA TO ACCEPT FORD OFFER

North Dakota Executive Will Go Abroad on Peace Mission.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lauding the humanitarian motives back of the mission being organized by Henry Ford, the Detroit millionaire auto maker, to go to Europe and work for peace, Governor L. B. Hanna, who is among the governors and other distinguished men invited, announces that he has decided to accept, and is putting his office affairs in shape to leave at once.

"Since the publication of Mr. Ford's plans and the announcement that an invitation had been extended to me to accompany the delegation from this country, I have received messages and letters from almost every section of the state urging me to accept," the governor said today. "There are many residents of North Dakota of Germanic descent, others of French, Belgian, Russian, English and Scotch ancestry. Without regard to race or creed, all seem united in their desire that this peace movement should be initiated, and that I should participate. Many of them send letters that appeal strongly to one's heart. Some of the writers have brothers and other close relatives on the battlefields. They feel the situation more strongly than the rest of us.

"I realize there may be some criticisms of Mr. Ford's plan. One objection has been raised to the haste with which the movement has been started, another that Mr. Ford may be promulgating the idea merely for advertising purposes, others insist the movement will not be received with seriousness. Objections are always raised to any new idea or movement. I am confident that Mr. Ford is entirely sincere and that he is impelled by the highest ideals, that he is heartsick over the enormous loss of life and wants to do what he can to bring about a world-wide peace movement.

Hopes to Return Jan. 15.

"I feel that I might participate without any great loss of time either to myself or the state. This is the dull season officially. The holiday period will soon be here. The work of my office is well up, otherwise I should not for a moment think of making the trip. I can leave this week and am assured I can return about Jan. 15. I will, in reality, be absent but little more from my office than many professional men are during the holidays, and while I regret to be away from my family during the Christmas period, I feel that if I can be of any assistance in this movement, I should not for a moment consider the personal sacrifice I may be called upon to make.

"It is, I believe, a movement for the common good along the broadest possible lines, and no individual should selfishly hold back through personal considerations if there seems to be the slightest opportunity to bring this destructive warfare to an end.

"The conditions are daily growing worse. Recent announcements from Paris state that France is preparing to send the schoolboys to the front, and within another year only women, children, old men and cripples may be left in that beautiful land. Reports of a similar character are being received from the other leading countries engaged in this struggle. Then there are stricken Belgium and Serbia, in which almost complete devastation is reported as a result of the war. Whatever differences of opinion may exist as to the best methods to bring about the much desired peace, there is one universal idea upon which all can unanimously agree, that humanity cries aloud for a cessation of the daily horrors, which now shock the civilized world."

HEALTH TALKS
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Treatment of Goiter

TRUE to our promise, we continue the subject of goiter, indulging in a few morbid remarks about remedies. Our preceding discussion divulged some of the mysteries of symptomatology of goiter and disclosed our utter ignorance of the cause or causes of these common ailments.

We described three kinds of goiter: (1) Simple goiter; (2) exophthalmic goiter; (3) cystic goiter.

The treatment of simple goiter is, we regret to confess, summed up in one dangerous word, iodine: if, perchance, one should iodine locally or internally in any form as a remedy for exophthalmic goiter one would likely to do much harm. And if one should use it for cystic goiter one would probably be wasting good iodine. But for simple goiter, when you are quite sure it is simple goiter, the sparing use of iodine is the remedy.

While a painting of the swelling once a week or once in ten days with a weakened tincture of iodine is usually helpful, perhaps the wiser plan is the internal administration of some suitable salt of iodine by the family physician. What is one patient's remedy is another's poison, and no one but the physician is capable of deciding what is best for a given case of goiter. One patient will require ten time more iodine than another could safely take, regardless of the size or duration of the goiter.

We still have with us the mystery-loving medicine man (or woman) who delights in strange and shocking remedies. Amber beads, snakes, toads, lizards, spiders, incantations and the magic touch are tried on many cases of goiter, all without avail, except the last-mentioned measure, which is usually quite satisfactory to the practitioner who employs it, drawing out all the way from 50 cents to $50 from the victim. We doubt if even our old friend grandma would have any patience with these absurdities nowadays—not if grandma is the woman we are led to believe from our correspondence with her.

Besides the tincture of iodine (diluted with alcohol, one part of iodine to three or four of alcohol) and the internal use of iodine salts of one sort or another, there are various ointments or oils containing iodine and its salts which are successfully used for simple goiter. But the secret of success is moderation—using too little rather than too much.

The treatment of exophthalmic goiter will be the subject of the next article on goiter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Exercise Before Bedtime.

Is it a good plan to spend ten minutes at physical culture stunts before going to bed, or should one take the exercise earlier in the evening?

Answer—It is a good plan to exercise before retiring. It is especially good for sedentary people, brain workers who do not sleep any too well.

And Stoking the Furnace.

Please set our discordant household aright. We have a quarrel every night over the question of a midnight lunch. Is it right or wrong to take a light lunch before retiring?

Answer—For thin, anemic, nervous, frail, sickly or delicate people a light lunch before retiring is just what the doctor orders. For stout, high-living, lazy, dyspeptic, bilious or overfed persons the rule is to retire without that indulgence.

Dr Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. CONDITIONS ARE REVERSED

Winter Hotel Business Far Greater Than During Summer.

Many Commercial Men Now Visiting Duluth, Says Proprietor.

Summer and winter hotel conditions in Duluth promise to be reversed this year, according to George W. Reynolds, proprietor of the Spalding. While the big tourist trade was not realized last summer as is usually the case, conditions promise to be more than offset by a big winter business.

"Last evening we had seventy-five arrivals at the Spalding before 9 o'clock and this is nothing unusual," he said. "Taking the large number of daily arrivals together with the guests already at the hotel, the Spalding is kept well filled despite the fact that it is the first of December and considered a dull season for hotels here.

"The tourist business last summer was a disappointment to hotel men all over the country. The cutting off of foreign travel did not increase travel in this country as was expected. It was only about three months ago that real activity became evident and prosperity is no longer a 'forecast.' There are more commercial men on the road now than in a long time, and they report the best business in years.

"The reports of the black diamond men are especially interesting. As they come in close touch with the iron industry they are remarkably optimistic just now as the war has set all of the mining operators into motion. Men representing jobbers are all doing a big business and it looks as if the winter would be a good one for hotel men in the Northwest.

"Duluth is already getting a good deal of Christmas trade from the iron ranges and the hotels are receiving numbers of shoppers from the range cities daily. Our range business is now better than ever before."

Mr. Reynolds says that he was never so optimistic regarding Duluth as he is now and he says that new industries will be attracted here from now on as never before.

He feels certain that the tourist business will be at its height next summer and the winter sports will bring many visitors here during the winter.

ZOO ALMOST ASSURED NOW

City Council and Elks' Lodge Reach Agreement at Conference.

At a special conference of the city commissioners and twenty members of the Duluth lodge of Elks yesterday afternoon the former promised to reconsider the proposal of the fraternal body to secure two elk as the nucleus of a zoo, if the lodge members would assist in obtaining the material for an enclosure. This offer was immediately accepted and another conference will be called within a few days to settle the matter.

During the conference yesterday N. B. Morrison, past exalted ruler of the Duluth lodge, and other prominent Elks, including Harris Bennett, David Cone and William Van Burgess, spoke in behalf of the project and promised to obtain the posts and wire for the enclosure without any cost to the city. In a statement prepared recently Mayor Prince estimated that the building of an enclosure would cost approximately $4,500, so that this expenditure will be saved to the city.

CANADIAN LOAN OVER-SUBSCRIBED

More Than Twice Amount Needed Pledged By the People.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 1.—The $50,000,000 Canadian domestic war loan has been subscribed twice over. The finance department announced that although the loan closed yesterday there are still to be received subscriptions placed with banks in distant parts of the country. More than 25,000 separate subscriptions were received.

Finance Minister White issued this statement:

"There will be no financial disturbance or derangement of business by reason of the war loan. All the money received on account of subscriptions will be left on deposit for the credit of the minister of finance with the several banks from which they are withdrawn by the depositors. The installment payments are spread over six months, and the total amount raised by the loan will be spent in Canada; raising, equipping and sending forward Canadian troops.

"It is not generally known that 80 per cent at least of all the Canadian expenditures to date have been spent in Canada. The successful flotation of the war loan will enable the minister of finance to assist to still greater extent the temporary financing of the shell committee for the imperial treasury.

"Up to date, the Canadian government has advanced a total of $57,772,000 in temporary advances to the imperial government to pay for orders placed in Canada by the shell committee. These advances have been from time to time repaid by the imperial treasury."

UNIQUE DEVICE HAS BEEN ADDED

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new piece of apparatus recently added to the electrical equipment of the college of engineering of the University of Minnesota is a unique device for tightening the belts of and lining up dynamos very quickly and with very little trouble on the laboratory floor. Each machine is provided with a bracket with a hole for the spacers directly under the middle of each pulley. A spacer consisting of three simple parts holds the machines apart. By putting the spacer directly under the center of the belt, use is made of the no-rotating moment principle, thus greatly simplifying the spacers. Floor plates have been designed for some of the machines, which can also be used on borrowed machines. Dynamos can now be lined up quickly and effectively in any part of the laboratory in just a few moments. This was designed by Prof. F. W. Springer.

Another very interesting piece of apparatus just finished is a unique portable central station switchboard on ball-bearing rubber rollers. This switchboard may be taken to the machines any place in the laboratory and is of such a skeletonized construction that the wiring both in front and back of the board can be quickly and easily traced. This is made still easier by the use of different colored wires for current and for potential. This switchboard may be used for the study and calibration of alternating current central station equipment, single phase and polyphase instruments, either individually or collectively; for measuring the output of alternators or the input to demand dynamos such as lamps, motors, rotary convertors, etc. One or three phase measurements of all kinds can be made.

The switchboard is equipped throughout with General Electric company instruments. The other portable switchboard built two years ago is equipped with Westinghouse instruments. The switchboard practice of these two large companies is therefore typified.

Valuable Health Hints For Our Readers

CATARRH.

Just because you hawk and spit and your nose is wet, cold, red, sore and a nuisance, don't merely plug it up. You can't cure catarrh by greasing your nose. Take S. S. S. regularly and you will drive catarrhal poisons out of your blood. The membranes will soon recover and no longer continue to accumulate the mucous that gathers and thickens into catarrh. S. S. S. stimulates the cells of the tissues to select from the blood their own essential nutriment. Rapid recovery from catarrhal inflammation in the stomach, kidneys, bladder and all membranes is the result.

MALARIA.

Throughout the country, wherever malaria abounds, are happy, joyful people to whom S. S. S. has given wonderful help in the treatment of malaria after the most sickening torture imaginable.

The gaunt complexion of malaria's victims, the chills and fever, the malarial dysentery that seems to defy all other treatment, the malarial leg, the enlarged liver, the persistent anemia where the blood turns to water and the system wastes away. These are the conditions that S. S. S. so effectually assists in overcoming, by helping to restore the blood to its natural vigor.

STUBBORN SORES.

Sometimes a sore spot becomes indolent. The tissues surrounding it lose tone and are unable to provide sufficient nutriment to stop the drain. It is then chronic Just saturate your blood with S. S. S. This is quickly accomplished, as S. S. S. is naturally assimilated the same as milk or any other healthful liquid.

Nature acts with marvelous rapidity when given the proper assistance, and S. S. S. so stimulates cellular activity that the parts surrounding an ulcer select from the blood the materials that make new tissue. Thus the sore spot rapidly heals in a natural way.

Local applications for any skin disease will afford protection from without, but have no medical value. Eczema, tetter, acne and all such eruptive diseases should be treated with S. S. S.

POISONED BLOOD.

So many different things contribute to poison the blood and the effect is so startling that the sufferer becomes panic-stricken and is led to use harmful drugs. If you have any blood trouble, get a bottle of S. S. S. and take according to directions.

Don't take anything else. Poisoned blood is bad enough without ruining your bones, joints, teeth and vitals with minerals. S. S. S. so stimulates cellular activity that they reject all poisonous influences and select only those materials in the blood that make healthy tissue. This is why its assistance toward recovery is so noticeable and at times remarkable.

S. S. S. is welcome to the weakest stomach and is assimilated just as readily as the most nutritious food. It has helped to cure a host of sufferers.

RHEUMATISM.

Use this remedy for three days and take a hot salt water bath to open the pores. This relieves the lungs and kidneys and assists S. S. S. to utilize the skin as the principal avenue of elimination.

Avoid salts, calomel and other drastic purgatives, as they absorb the moisture from the walls and membranes of the intestines, weaken the muscular action, produce chronic constipation and thus stagnate the system with rheumatic poisons. Get a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store. Don't take a substitute.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable and is prepared only by the Swift Specific Co., 271 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Write for special booklet on any of the diseases mentioned and if medical advice is wanted, write for that also to address given above. Both booklet and medical adviee are free.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LEAVE JAIL FOR HARVEST

Five Austrians Detained at Williston Are Allowed to Work.

Wanted in Canada for Leaving Country, Labor in Wheat Fields.

Williston, N. D., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five Austrians, arrested several weeks ago in this county at the instance of Canadian immigration officials, who charged the men with departing from Canada contrary to the military laws, paid two guards to watch them while they worked on a threshing crew near here.

This was permitted by officials when the men pleaded earnestly for an opportunity to work, insisting that their only reason for quitting Canada for the United States was their desire to obtain employment, conditions in Canada, particularly as they effect cities of nations with which Canada is at war, being decidedly unsatisfactory.

Pleading with local authorities after being jailed, the men declared they had families to support, and were anxious to earn money, and it was their proposition that a guard be chosen to accompany them to their place of work. This arrangement was conceded, and for three weeks the Austrian prisoners have had the novelty of paying their own guards.

Have Money in Bank.

The five aliens have about $600 on deposit in local banks, and all appear thrifty.

It was the attempt of the wife of one of the men to come to the United States that led to the capture of the five men, Canadian officials intercepting the woman and also obtaining information from her, through letters she carried, of the whereabouts of the missing Austrians.

Inspector Hall of the United States immigration office at Winnipeg, spent several days here investigating the case. The eventual return of the five Austrians to Canada is anticipated.

FARGO AUTOIST IS CENSURED BY JURY

Alleged to Have Been Driving Recklessly When He Killed Young Man.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The coroner's jury which inquired into the death of W. H. Le Turmay, who on the night of Nov. 9 was killed on the North side of the city when his bicycle collided with an automobile driven by C. I. Gross of this city, found that Mr. Gross was driving in a careless and negligent manner althought it was not their belief that the evidence was sufficient to make him criminally liable for the death of the young man.

How Accident Happened.

Le Turmay was riding a bicycle on Ninth street north and was nearing the intersection of that street with Second avenue north when Mr. Gross in an automobile swung around the corner turning out far eough to run into Le Turmay, whom Mr. Gross did not see. Le Turmay was thrown into the windshield of the automobile and sustained injuries from which he died in a short time. Witnesses testified that Gross was driving at a rapid rate of speed which made it impossible for him to turn the corner without taking a wide swing.

MUST COME BEFORE COURT BY APPEALING

North Dakota High Court Turns Down Tax Commission Test Case.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 1.—If the state tax commission's validity is to be tested, it must be done through the lower courts and reach the supreme court on appeal, as the supreme court has refused to entertain jurisdiction in the case of A. C. Hinckley of Bismarck against the tax commission. No reason was given for the procedure. It was only last week that the court accepted jurisdiction in the suit brought by a Fargo trust company to test the constitutionality of the state bonding bill.

Application was made to the court by Newton, Dullam & Young for a temporary injunction, restraining Carl Jorgenson, state auditor, from issuing any more warrants on the grounds that the law creating the tax commission is invalid.

When the application had been formally stated, the court notified the attorneys interested that the court rejected the motion for want of jurisdiction.

In Burleigh County Court.

There is pending, however, in the Burleigh county district court a suit involving the same point as that raised by the Hinckley suit. This is the action brought by John Sullivan of Mandan to test the validity of the state immigration act. It will be heard next month, but if the best of speed is maintained a final decision probably could not be reached for several months.

In the motion made before the court Monday the validity of the tax commission was squarely attacked on the ground that the law creating the commission also provided for an appropriation in violation of the state constitution.

COPPER INDUSTRY BOOMS.

John D. Cuddihy of Calumet Talks on Arizona Conditions.

Calumet, Mich., Dec. 1.—John D. Cuddihy, president of the Lake Superior & Arizona Mining company, who has returned from a visit to the property in Arizona, announces that Samuel T. Trengove, a mining engineer who was engaged to make a thorough survey of the property, will arrive here today to report to the directors and stockholders.

Mr. Trengove is one of the best known engineers in the country, having been connected with Western as well as South African mining properties as consulting engineer and in other capacities. He is a graduate of the Michigan College of Mines, and a product of the Copper country.

Mr. Cuddihy reports that copper mines in the West and Southwest are enjoying an era of prosperity and evidence of a boom is manifest in practically every camp. The northwestern states, he reports, also are prospering and a boom of huge proportions is expected in the lumbering states.

The sheriff took the man into his car and brought him to consciousness long enough to learn that he was Isaac Ojala of Osceola. The car was turned around and the man taken home. Sheriff Cruse believed he had been struck by an automobile, but at his home Ojala recovered and explained that he simply was drunk and had fallen in the road, the cuts on his head resulting from that accident.

Rev. Mr. Broome took for his subject, "A Friend of Publicans and Sinners," from the text, Luke xviiii, 7: "They murmured saying, that he has gone to be a guest of a man that is a sinner."

Women Save $5 Using Gasoline

Says It is so easy to dry clean and nothing shrinks, fades or wrinkles.

Save $5 to $10 by doing your own dry cleaning. Here is a simple and inexpensive way to clean and brighten children's coats, suits, caps, woolen garments, Swiss, lawn, organdie and chiffon dresses, kid gloves and shoes, furs, neckties, ribbons, silks, satins, lace, yokes, silk shirtwaists, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it readily dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned. After a little rubbing out they come looking as clean and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

Any woman can do home dry cleaning in a few moments at little cost and save lots of money. It is as simple and easy as laundering, and you can't make a mistake. Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline, and your druggist will sell you two ounces of solvite which is simply a gasoline soap. Then a wash boiler or large dishpan completes your home dry cleaning outfit.

POLICE WOMAN OF FARGO IS LET GO

Woman's Clubs of City Angered Over Her Dismissal.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local club women and other social workers are up in arms over the dismissal of Mrs. Irma Erwin Poppler as policewoman.

The dismissal of Mrs. Poppler came as the result of the failure of the city commission to provide for the pay of a policewoman in the annual appropriation ordinance, the intention being to retain Mrs. Poppler with the understanding that she was to attend to the duties of the office of the Associated Charities as well as those of policewoman. This Mrs. Poppler refused to do, stating that she could not carry on her policewoman duties in a proper manner were she to be burdened with the additional work of the Associated Charities.

Chief of Police C. H. Troyer was then instructed by Commissioner of Police Dahl to ask Mrs. Poppler to hand in her resignation and he did so. Mrs. Poppler informed the chief that it had been her intention to leave the work on Jan. 1 and it is stated that arrangements were then made to retain her until that time, but this Mrs. Poppler refused to do and stepped out of the office last night.

Held Job Three Years.

The retiring policewoman has been in the office for the past three years and the women's clubs of the city and social workers of the community in general were greatly pleased with the work that has been done. Her work has been not so much the capture and punishment of criminals as it has been to prevent crime and to guard the young girls of the city at places of amusement.

SLOW FREIGHT IN PURSUIT

Face Trial for Brutal Assault and Theft of $35.

Stories of an exciting chase in which two alleged robbers were pursued and captured by a justice of the peace, assisted by a town constable, deputy sheriff, station agent and a slow freight train, were graphically related by witnesses who appeared this morning at the trial of Miles Bulotovich on a charge of highway robbery.

Bulotovich was jointly indicted with Mile Zerhovich by the November grand jury for robbery in the first degree, an offense punishable by a sentence of not more than forty years in state's prison. On Oct. 7 last, in the town of Mesaba, it is claimed that they waylaid one George Polonier, beat him almost into insensibility with a pair of brass knuckles and robbed him of $35. The men demanded separate trials.

Tracks in Snow.

Poloiner recovered sufficiently to tell his story to the station agent, Jacob Schmidt, who summoned James Morairity, village constable, and started on the trail of the two men. It had been snowing, and the footsteps of the alleged holdup artists were traced along the railroad right-of-way. Then Aleck McRae, justice of the peace for Mesaba township, was notified of the breach of the peace and dignity of the community, and with Thomas Hanson, deputy sheriff, caught a freight train out of Mesaba in pursuit of the fugitives.

Midway between Mesaba town and Allen Junction the two suspects were spotted by Justice McRae and Deputy Sheriff Hanson. They alighted from the train, and after running up to the men, placed them under arrest. One of the pair threw something away. The deputy sheriff instinctively guessed.

"What did you throw away those brass knuckles for?" he inquired of the prisoners.

Bulotovich stated that it was because they did not want to be caught with the goods, or words to that effect. The next day Hanson's suspicions were confirmed. The snow had melted and the weapon was found where one of them had tossed it. The authorities also found $35 on the men.

The case is being tried before Judge Ensign. Thomas J. McKeon is representing the defendants and Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, is prosecuting.

GRANT PLEA OF RAILWAY

D., W. & P. Permitted to Make Improvements to Protect Public.

Pioneer Ordinances Revised; "Gun-Toting" Act to Be Amended.

At a special meeting of the city council this morning the commissioners accepted the plans of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railroad for a footbridge over the tracks near Munger avenue and for a watch tower at Seventy-third avenue west and Redruth street, and also awarded the contract for erecting a new chimney on the city incinerator plant to the Gogebic Steam Boiler Works on their bid of $635.

The meeting was called at the request of Commissioner Silberstein, safety head, who wanted immediate action on the contract for the incinerator plant chimney. The old stack blew down several weeks ago and the erection of a new one has been found necessary. An ordinance appropriating the money was also introduced by Commissioner Silberstein.

At the council meeting last Monday, J. L. Pickles, chief engineer for the Canadian Northern, asked permission to erect a footbridge and a watch tower so that the public will be protected in crossing their tracks. His plans were turned over to City Engineer Ayres and with his recommendation a resolution granting permission to make the improvements was adopted by the commissioners today.

The ordinances revising the old measures, which prohibited the crossing over gutters and the excavating in streets without permits, were passed today. They will be in effect on Jan. 1.

The ordinance regulating the sale of firearms was given its third reading this morning, but action was postponed at the request of Commissioner Silberstein, who said that he will introduce two amendments at the meeting next Monday. Boys under 18 years of age will be permitted to buy guns, with the consent of their parents, while the provision compelling persons to obtain permits will be dropped.

Second reading was given the ordinances appropriating $4,000 for the maintenance of the new armory in 1916; $1,043 to pay for the annual report of the state examiner, and $750 for filling in underneath the Lincoln park bridge, and the measures regulating the fees to be charged by the city clerk and the duties of the harbor master.

MILLER CASE GOES TO JURY

Trial of Ralph H. Miller, alleged "dip" charged with picking the pockets of S. L. Reichert, treasurer of the Duluth Street Railway company, of $1,600 in an elevator in the First National Bank building on Sept. 25 last, was concluded this morning. Shortly after 11 o'clock Judge Dancer gave the case to the jury. Up to 2:30 o'clock this afternoon no verdict had been returned.

Miller did not take the stand as a witness in his own behalf, and the defense introduced but little testimony. In summing up to the jury, however, Walter F. Dacey, Miller's attorney, argued that the prosecution had not proven that Miller was the one who had taken the money, and asked the jury not to convict him merely because they might be suspicious of him.

RALPH H. MILLER.

The county attorney in his address to the jury pointed out the state's theory, which is that Miller and two accomplices in the elevator jammed Mr. Reichert and extracted the money from him in the shuffle. The prosecutor also called attention to the fact that among the personal effects taken from the person of the defendant was a route card of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus. He argued that this was just the sort of thing one might expect to be found in the possession of a professional pickpocket.

Yesterday afternoon the prosecution introduced in evidence a photograph taken from the "rogue's gallery." It was shown to Thomas S. Wood, attorney for the Duluth Street Railway company, whose office Mr. Reichert intended to visit when he ascended in the elevator on the day that his pockets were picked.

Mr. Wood identified the picture as that of a man he had seen in the fifth floor corridor shortly after the larceny, but before he had heard of it. J. J. Haley, restaurant proprietor, testified that the photograph was that of a man who had lunched at his place with Miller on the day before the theft. The picture was also identified by W. B. Richardson, the elevator operator, as one of the men in the car with Mr. Miller and Mr. Reichert. William A. Watts, attorney in the First National Bank building, who has offices with Attorney Wood, also testified to having seen a man in the building about that time who would answer to the description furnished by the photograph.

DICKINSON PEOPLE WANT PUBLIC BUILDING

Dickinson, N. D., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local people wonder what the Federal government has done with a $90,000 appropriation for a new postoffice building here.

The city officials have obtained copies of the congressional record of the Sixty-second congress, and provision is made therein for the building. The appropriation for Dickinson is carried along with appropriations for Jamestown of $75,000, and a like amount for Valley City.

From the supervising architect's office of the treasury department in Washington comes the statement that as soon as the government does make an appropriation, the work will be commenced.

A site for the building has been bought and paid for, but though it is four years since the supposed appropriation was made, nothing has ever materialized from the same.

BETHEL CARES FOR GREAT ARMY

More Than 76,000 Men Sleep There During Year; 20,000 Given Free Lodging; Sunday School Draws Hundreds of Children; Upkeep From Voluntary Subscriptions.

According to the figures of the Duluth Bethel society in its annual report for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, the Bethel hotel housed enough men last year to make an army almost as big as the whole force of King Peter of Servia. In all there were 76,583 men given lodging and of this number 20,894 slept free of charge. The army of the unemployed has disappeared to a large extent, but the steady flow of men seeking new positions in Northern Minnesota, always makes the Bethel a Mecca for the "down-and-outer" as well as the laborer who wants a safe place to sleep at a small price.

Voluntary Subscriptions.

The work of this organization is kept up by voluntary subscription and by the small fees charged for service, food and shelter. A great deal of the work is done without charge to those cared for. The interesting report of Supt. R. E. Ramseyer follows:

"To the contributors of Duluth Bethel society—It is with pleasure that we present to you a brief statement of the work accomplished for the year ending Oct. 31, 1915, which completes the third year of the Duluth Bethel society's work for men in the new building, and the forty-fifth year of the society's work in this city and Northern Minnesota.

"This is one of the oldest rescue societies in America and the citizens of Northern Minnesota have reason to be proud of this society and the good work which it is doing without saying much about it. One member on its board of directors has served the society with his best thought and endeavors for more than forty-two years and is still actively interested in the work.

"A total of 76,583 men slept at the Bethel during the last year—of this number 18,246 slept on the floor. These were the unemployed and destitute men that had to be cared for in this manner for 110 nights and they received one meal a day at the Bethel's expense. There were 52,646 meals and lunches served during the year, of this number 20,329 were given free to the needy. Each day men are sure to come that need temporary help. These, with the large number that come for help certain seasons in the year mean an expense to the Bethel that runs up into thousands of dollars each year. More than 48,000 items of charity were given cut the last year.

Sunday School Popular.

"The great good to which the new Bethel building is put at all times can best be shown by the fact that during the winter months on Sunday afternoon, as a rule, hundreds of men have to be asked to walk the streets for two hours so that the children may have the reading room and chapel for that time. A total of 314 religious services were held in the building with an attendance of 42,287 people. At these services a great amount of good is accomplished.

"The Sunday school work is one of the most important activities of the Bethel. During the year 14,179 children and teachers attended, 371 children from 216 homes are enrolled, it is our aim to give temporary help to those families whenever necessary.

"Our Sunday school visitor knows actual conditions in each home. There were 588 garments given to these families during the year as well as other necessities of life.

"Items of expense in this work are for Christmas gifts to each child; in the early spring a flower plant to each child, a custom instituted by Dr. Salter. Also the annual Bethel picnic is quite an expense; 700 attended this last summer and each one was a guest of the Bethel.

SUSPECTED OF BANK ROBBERY

Duluth Police May Have Much Wanted Minneapolis Thieves.

Old Clothes Did Not "Fit" Seven-Passenger Limousine.

In Hugo A. Eden, 21, painter; Edward W. Bell, 39, taxicab driver, and John A. Emple, 28, automobile man, police believe they have at least one of the three armed desperadoes who robbed a Minneapolis bank of $1,500 Monday.

An employe of the bank and a Minneapolis detective left for Duluth today in an attempt to identify the men, arrested yesterday by a squad of five patrolmen, headed by Lieut. F. A. Schulte and Sergt. John Englert.

The bank robbers entered the Camden Park State bank on Washington avenue north during business hours and held up three officers and four depositors at the point of revolvers. Then they locked them in a vault and fled.

Clothing worn by the three men when they arrived in Duluth yesterday driving a seven-passenger Premier limousine attracted police attention, as it did not "fit" the automobile.

Instead of coming down town, they registered at the Twelfth avenue hotel, Twelfth avenue west and Michigan street, purchased a case of beer, which they took to their rooms, and proceeded to make merry.

Five in Party.

At first there were five in the party, but two men left, saying they would return shortly. Evidently getting wind of the arrest of their friends, they have made good their escape, police say.

Held for investigation, the three told conflicting stories. Two men, Bell and Empie, agreed that they had driven the car from St. Paul, while Eden denied all connection with the others, said he lived in Superior, and that he had ridden with them from the Wisconsin city only. He gave his home address as 2424 John avenue. Clothing tags were scattered about the room, and the three admitted under pressure that they had just purchased new clothes, according to officers.

Empie, when taken to the Bertillon room at headquarters today, first refused to be "mugged" and denied that he ever had been arrested before. Later, when confronted with his picture, he admitted being arrested in St. Paul in 1912 for grand larceny, and later for deserting from the army.

Unwilling to Be Measured.

Bell was willing to have his picture taken, but objected strenuously when Supt. Gust Lahti took his measurements. Police believe they have identified him as Jerome Miller, alias Herman Grove, arrested here Jan. 7, 1911, and sent back to Freeport, Ill., to face a robbery charge. Later Miller served two years in the Joliet penitentiary.

From descriptions given him by Minneapolis officers over the telephone, Chief McKercher said he was practically satisfied that Eden, the youngest of the three, was one of the bank robbers.

Eden carried a large .32-caliber revolver when he first came to Duluth, and had $97 on his person, in gold and bills, when arrested, police say.

H. F. Chandler, proprietor of the Northern hotel of St. Paul and owner of the limousine in which the five men made the trip from St. Paul, arrived here on a morning train and took charge of the car. He said it had been borrowed from him by a St. Paul taxi man after the latter had had an accident to his own machine, and that it was not stolen.

WORKING OUT SALARY RAISE

Police Will Not Be Given Amount of Increase Requested.

Safety Head and Chief Expect Settlement in Two Weeks.

A definite settlement on the proposed salary increase for patrolmen is expected within the next two weeks.

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, said this morning that he and Chief McKercher were at work on some plans that would be agreeable to all the officers and that no action would be taken unless they were favored by every member of the force.

A blanket increase of 20 per cent as requested by the patrolmen is too large, according to Commissioner Silberstein, and as a result, he is working on a plan to provide all the uniforms for the police officers without any cost to them, instead of a raise. Should they refuse such a proposition, then a salary increase will be allowed, he said, but it will be far from the amount they ask.

At the request of Commissioner Silberstein, Chief McKercher has prepared the following figures, showing what an officer's uniform will cost: Double-breasted uniform for chief, captain and lieutenants, $35 to $45; single-breasted uniform for patrolmen and sergeants, $32.50 to $40; one extra pair of trousers each year, $8 to $10; raincoat, $12; shoes, $5 to $7.75; overshoes for winter, $2.25; winter cap, $2.50; fur coat, $100 and up.

At the present time officers buy all their uniforms, caps and shoes and it is Commissioner's Silberstein's belief that they will fare much better, if the city supplies them with the equipment, rather than accept a small raise and continue equipping themselves.

Final action on he matter will be taken before the Christmas holidays, Commissioner Silberstein said.

RESTRICTED ICE FIELDS

Companies Must Not Cut Between New Duluth and Lester River.

Ice for public consumption cannot be cut anywhere between Commonwealth avenue and the Lester river.

This is the chief provision of the new ice ordinance now being prepared by Health Director Fahey and which, in all probability, will be introduced at the council meeting next Monday.

The reason for this restricted district is that sewers empty all along the water front and that it is dangerous to public health to use ice cut there.

The ordinance, however, will not prohibit the cutting of ice in the restricted district, when it is to be used for commercial purposes only, such as storage and ice cream packing.

H. P. Reed, vice president of the Security bank of Hibbing, who has talked with prominent officials of all the affected companies, both here and in Duluth, assured the correspondent today that the officials are all gratified over the settlement and that the companies will make prompt payment as agreed.

CLOQUET HUNTERS KILLED MUCH GAME

Cloquet, Minn., Dec. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The deer hunting season which closed yesterday has been a very successful one as far as the hunters who went up into the woods via Cloquet are concerned. The fact that the state game and fish commission interpreted the law passed by the last legislature as limiting each hunter to one deer or one moose, instead of one each, as heretofore, did not seem to discourage or deter the nimrods, who flocked into the woods in large numbers, and most of those who went into this region got their quota, as evidenced by the number of carcasses brought into Cloquet over the D. & N. E. railroad, which made six runs into the woods from Cloquet with extra cars to accommodate the hunters, and has hauled about 300 deer during the season. While deer have been very plentiful, the hunters report rabbits, partridge and ducks were very scarce.

Robert Robbestad of Cloquet got a fine 800-pound bull moose at Sullivan, and another moose was reported shot by a Pine City hunter near Floodwood. About thirty carcasses arrived last night on the last trip of the season over the D. & N. E. railroad.

DR. BELL FORESEES TRANSMISSION OF THOUGHT FROM HEAD TO HEAD

In the Future Men With Coils of Wire About Their Heads and Separated By a Transmission Line of a Thousand Miles May Come Together for Communication of Thought By Induction, the Famous Inventor Predicts.

H. E. C. Bryant in the New York World: Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, famous around the world as the inventor of the telephone, expects at some future time to make experiments looking to the transmission of thought long distances through the medium of electrical induction.

On the evening of May 18, Doctor Bell attended the annual meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, held in New York, where he received the Edison medal for meritorious achievements in electrical science. On that occasion Doctor Bell, in the course of a brief extemporaneous address, threw out the suggestion that it is not too much to expect that at some future time men with coils of wire about their heads, separated by a transmission wire a thousand miles long, "will come together for communication of thought by induction."

For Scientists to Work Out.

When seen in the spacious library of his home in Washington, where he very humanly drew out of one pocket a much used briar pipe and from another extracted a well-worn tobacco pouch, the great but modest inventor of the telephone consented to discuss the possibilities of thought transmission.

"What I said in New York was nothing more than a suggestion that had came to me as I sought to look into the future," said Doctor Bell. "It is for the electrical scientists of the future to work out. I was thinking of the many apparent 'impossibilities' that may be within the range of possibility. Many people have the idea that electrical changes are going on in the brain during the processes of thought. It occurred to me that if this is true a man might put a coil of wire around his head and induce in that coil of wire a corresponding electrical disturbance and could carry that to a distant point around another man's head and induce a similar disturbance inside the coil where the other man's brain is located."

He Tried the Experiment.

Asked whether he had any idea of conducting such an experiment himself, Doctor Bell lapsed into a reminiscent mood.

"Several years ago I made a very brief experiment with an assistant, Prof. Ellis. We used improvised coils. He put one on his head and I put one on mine. Then we separated a little distance. He told me what he was thinking about and it was entirely different from anything in my mind at the time, and I dismissed the matter as not promising.

"About two years later Professor Ellis one day remarked that we did not give the idea a fair trial, because he had a sick headache at the time and experienced a feeling of nausea. I remembered that I, too, experienced a sensation of nausea during the brief experiment and expressed regret that he had not made this suggestion at the time, the idea occurring to me that perhaps sensations of different kinds could be communicated more readily than thought."

In this connection Dr. Bell recalled having read in the Philosophical magazine, the leading scientific publication of England, in its issue of July, 1914, an article dealing with the subject of visual sensations produced by electrical changes in a coil of wire placed around a man's head.

"The article was illustrated," he said, smiling broadly, "by a striking drawing, showing a man in a sitting posture with a high coil of wire around his head that looked much like a chimney. This conveys the idea of an induction coil such as I spoke of in New York."

Dr. Bell expressed the opinion that electrical development is still in its infancy.

Mystery of Nature's Vibrations.

"We have electric lighting, heating, power and speech," he said. "We also have a perfect swarm of electrical appliances that have come into use in recent years. All of our knowledge of the external universe is derived from our senses and science already has brought electricity to the service of practically all of our senses. The scientists of today and of the future must invent machines practically to apply new senses, as the wireless receivers do.

"The fact that nearly all recent developments have had to do with vibrations strikes me as being very significant. The highest vibration of sound is 32,000 per second while the lowest radiant heat is about 1,000,000 vibrations. Between those two widely separated points numerous vibrations exist in nature, but we have no sense by which to perceive them. We have developed electrical waves by wireless which come in this great gap, wireless receivers being tuned to respond to different degrees of frequency within the gap.

"Nearly all of the information we get of the external universe comes through sight, and that takes cognizance of only one octave of vibrations. The gap consists of many actaves, and we have no senses to perceive them. Yet wireless telegraph receivers do perceive them, and there is an enormous future before the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in developing electrical receivers to explore the great gap. This is the great field of the future in electricity as I see it."

How He Discovered Telephone.

The inventor of the telephone, in spite of many years which he has spent in most serious work, has not failed to enjoy himself as he has gone along. Now, at the age of 68 he is radiantly happy enjoying excellent health and ready to join in a hearty laugh at every worthy bit of humor.

Dr. Bell remarked that at the time he discovered the telephone he was learning telegraphy.

"After I heard a human voice over an electric wire I had no further use for the telegraph," he said, "and my study ceased right there."

The scientist's conversation finally drifted around to the wireless telephone.

"There is absolutely no doubt that wireless telephony is here," he said. "I am frank to say that I do not know the present status of its development, for the good and sufficient reason that the men who are working with it know how to keep their scientific secrets. That it is an established fact and has every promise of great future development, however, goes without saying.

Future Will Surpass All Dreams.

"Of course, the wireless telegraph will hardly displace the modern wire machine, for the reason that it is hard to keep a wireless communication private. Most telephone conversations are of a private nature. Wireless telegraph messages are picked up by all operators who have their receiving instruments properly adjusted. And so it will be with the wireless telephone, at least for many years to come.

"Meanwhile the field of electrical invention in the future is simply inconceivable. One might dream dreams and see visions, but the wildest stretch of the human imagination cannot conceive of what the future will bring forth."

COULD YOU PASS IN MOTHER GOOSE?

Chicago Post: Following a drill for efficiency recently held for the assistants of the Chicago public library, one of them submitted an examination paper as a test of culture in the sphere of child lore.

It was designed with humorous intent, and it occurs to us it might form a means of entertainment for a summer evening on the porch, affording the gentle mental exercise suitable to the season.

Here are the questions:

1. For what person or persons was the wool of the black sheep destined?

2. Describe the maneuvers of the French army as recorded by M. Goose and give number of men in the French army.

3. Give short biographical sketch of Solomon Grundy and mention seven important events in his life.

4. Who killed Cock Robin.

5. Discuss the social significance of the botanical arrangement in Quite Contrary Mary's garden.

6. Describe the co-operative system of domestic economy in Jack Spratt's household.

7. Describe briefly the astral phenomena which led to the elopement of two useful kitchen utensils.

8. How many court musicians were maintained at the court of Old King Cole?

9. Name and describe article on which Miss Muffet sat.

10. Who stole the Queen of Heart's pastry?

1. Compare Schopenhauer on the "Vanity of Existence" with the Old Woman who lived under the hill.

2. Give a mathematical survey of the Ten o'clock scholar's attendance.

1. What was the net result of the efforts of the royal forces (both infantry and cavalry) to restore Humpty Dumpty to his former estate? Do you see in this any lessons as to the failure of a militaristic system?

2. Describe the co-operative expedition of Jack and Jill and the ensuing catastrophe. From the point of view of emancipated womanhood, ought Jill to have preceded Jack down the hill?

3. Explain, by a diagram, the encounter of the Lion and the Unicorn. Do you see in this any prophecy as to the outcome of the war in Europe? Does the Unicorn typify Germany?

4. In view of the reflections upon the condition of highways in Gloucester, contained in the account of the visit of Dr. Foster to that city, should the rhyme be forbidden in the public schools as detrimental to commercial interests and contrary to the loyal spirit of "Don't knock; boost!"?

The latter questions, however, are less a test of knowledge than a provocation to controversy.

WHEAT TRADE IS UNCERTAIN

Canada's Action Forces Traders in Market to Cover Contracts.

Operators in the grain markets have had some strenuous experiences during the last few days' trading.

The manner in which the trade has absorbed the enormous offering on the Northwestern markets has been the surprise of dealers. That record tonnages of spring wheat could have been marketed during the last few weeks without forcing heavy recessions in prices is regarded as indicating that the holes left in millers' supplies the country over, were larger than had been supposed. Grain merchants contend too that they have not by any means been plugged up yet, and they look forward to receipts selling with substantial all-rail shipments right through the winter months. A prominent Duluth operator indeed expressed the opinion within the last couple of days, that all the spring wheat remaining in this country would be required by millers. He contends that there will be little, if any, surplus available for export after flour-making requirements have been taken care of.

Run on Spring Wheat.

Reason for these exceptional conditions in view of the heaviest crop yield of wheat in the history of the Northwest is partially found in the fact that the selling of winter wheat had been so long delayed and that much of it is not proving satisfactory for making standard grades of flour. That resulted in the early call for winter wheat from millers being supplied by hard wheat growers. Attention is besides directed to the fact that export trade of millers has been showing remarkable gains this season, and opinions are that the movement will be active for some time to come. American and Canadian wheat growers are furthermore likely to be helped out through the probability that the great bulk of the European requirements must be filled from these markets up till next March at least owing to scarcity of boat tonnage to bring grain from Australia and high freight rates. These developments are being taken into consideration by operators who, on account of the bumper crops, were bearish on the markets three months ago. Whether prices will continue to be upheld in view of the accumulations that must come about in Northwest elevators after the close of navigation, is regarded as an open question. On that account some prominent traders have expressed their disinclination to stay long on wheat at around present prices.

The commandeering of approximately 15,000,000 bu. of wheat in elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William was not such a potent market factor as had been expected. Holders of the grain will be settled with on the basis of quotations as they stood at last Saturday's Winnipeg close. The disquieting feature from a trader's point of view is that they may be forced to go out into the open market to pick up grain to cover contracts as the Canadian government has refused to recognize trades whose carrying through was dependent upon the wheat seized. How some of them will eventually come out can only be as yet conjectured. It is argued, however, that with the present heavy inflow of grain and no undue scrambling for it, traders up there should be in position to cover their requirements without being badly hurt.

Liberal Cash Premiums.

A feature in the wheat market this fall has been the liberal premiums paid for cash grain at all points. That has helped out growers wonderfully and has proved an incentive to them to push along their marketings. These premiums are thought to be almost certain to be eliminated after the close of navigation.

Compared with a week ago cash wheat at Duluth yesterday, at $1.03¼, showed an upturn of ⅞c. The December and May futures were up 1⅞@1¾c respectively.

Durum has also been strong of late, following inquiry for macaroni flour making and the filling of some export business. At its close yesterday at 98⅝c cash durum showed a gain of 2⅛c from a week ago.

Flax Bulge Stemmed.

Though declines came about through a show of apathy on the part of crushers, cash flaxseed at $2.02¾ yesterday registered a gain of 2¼c in the week in spite of recent breaks extending to over 1c. The easier situation in the seed is attributed to a desire on the part of oil men to stem the bulge that had been in evidence for some time. It is noted that prices are now around 15c higher than they stood on Nov. 1 and that since Oct. 1 the bulge has extended to over 31c. Some authorities in the trade contend that the possible shortage of supplies has been sufficiently discounted for the present. There will be nothing special doing in the oil trade before next spring, and in the meantime a considerable tonnage of seed is still coming along from Argentina.

WOULD STOP PEACE EFFORTS OF AUSTRIA

Said to Have Been Object of Kaiser's Visit to Vienna.

Rome, Dec. 1, via Paris.—"The real object of Emperor William's visit to Vienna was to put a stop to efforts Austria is making, by means of negotiations through Madrid with the Vatican, to obtain a separate peace with the Quadruple entente," says the Tribuna. "Vienna and Berlin disagree on the questions of peace. Berlin desires to treat separately with each of the allies, so as to break up the Quadruple entente and then to crush England, but Vienna desires a real and lasting peace to end the tension which rapidly is becoming too great for Austria to bear."

Violates Chicago's Traffic Regulations and Is Nearly Run Over.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Joseph G. Cannon, en route to Washington to resume his seat in the national house of representatives, narrowly missed death or serious injury here today, according to employes of the Union League club. "Uncle Joe" had left the club and started diagonally across Jackson boulevard, disregarding Chicago's traffic regulations, when a shout of warning from Dennis J. O'Neil, doorman at the club, halted him. A big limousine bore down on the congressman while he stood irresolute. The chauffeur threw on his brakes, realized he couldn't stop his heavy car and then swerved it across the path of opposite bound traffic. He missed another automobile and Mr. Cannon by inches.

TWO KINDS OF PIPE.

L. C. Wilson in the Engineering Magazine: Up to about twenty-eight years ago hand puddled iron was used entirely for making pipe; for various reasons steel had not been successfully welded, and as the quantities needed were comparatively small there was no trouble in supplying the demand. With an increasing use of pipe, however, the discovery that steel could be welded when treated properly, and the discovery of cheaper and better processes of making this material, caused it to be employed more and more, and two classes of pipe appeared on the market—iron and steel. With many manufacturers in the field different grades of these appeared, and now there are a number of such grades; in fact there is as much difference between some of the wrought irons as there is between it and the steels, and there is a corrsponding disparity between the latter. All of this has tended to increase the confusion, and inasmuch as any new material is liable to be looked upon with suspicion, it is perhaps only natural that there should have arisen much lack of agreement regarding the length of life which iron pipe, as contrasted with that made from steel, might be expected.

SALVATION AT LAST FOR POOR "HUBBY"

Madame Can Now Match Colors By Number and Save Her Spouse From Many Anxious Hours of Courting Certain Displeasure—All the Principal Shades Have Been Standardized.

Madame can now match colors by number and save her spouse from many anxious hours of courting certain displeasure. All the principal shades have been standardized.

Did you ever see a poor, lone man standing in front of a dry goods counter, a bit of cloth in his hand, a look of distress on his face and the certainty of feminine displeasure in his heart, and all because he was trying—honestly, but in vain—to match a piece of goods his wife had given him?

A man simply can't do it—that's all. At least, the average man can't, and it's nothing less than vicious for a woman to give him such a task. In fact there 's sound basis for a theory that no woman ever does impose such a task on her husband except when she is looking for a chance to scold him, and hasn't been able to find a sure one within a reasonable period.

But all such troubles are over, if we can believe the following, written for the New York World by Karl K. Kitchen:

Nearly every woman knows the trials and tribulations of matching any colored fabric. It's often a day's work to find a pair of stockings to match the cloth tops of your shoes. And then you're often wrong! Under the electric light in the store they matched perfectly; in the daylight they were not a match, but a mess.

In these days, when it is essential for a well-dressed woman to have hats and shoes to match her gowns and stockings to match her shoes, matching fabrics is one of the greatest indoor sports. But if it is difficult for a woman to find the right shade of blue or green, can you imagine the troubles of seven men trying to decide which of fifty so-called navy blues is the true navy blue?

Yet this is just what seven men—composing the color committee of the Textile Color Card association—have done. Not only have they decided what shade of blue navy blue really is, but they have standardized 105 other "trade colors."

All Goods to Be Numbered.

In the future, when you want to match your brown shoes, you will not have to visit a score of stores with a sample and trust to your eyesight or to a color-blind clerk. Your shoe will have a trade color number, and stockings bearing the same number will match them exactly.

But how will the stockings be numbered, you ask? And how will all the thousands of pieces of dress goods and ribbons be numbered so that they may be similarly matched?

The explanation is simple.

The silk manufacturers, as well as most of the interests in the textile and allied industries, have standardized colors through the Textile Color Card association. For several weeks a color committee, composed of representatives of the big manufacturing, jobbing and retail houses, has been working on the problem. They have produced a color card which is called the standard color card of America. This card contains 106 trade colors, each one numbered to indicate the strength of the color as well as the several colors that are combined to give a certain effect.

Matching Fabrics Made Easy.

As practically all the manufacturers, jobbers and retailers of silks and colored fabrics have agreed to adopt this standard color card, and as more than 80 per cent of the color consumption of the country is to be found in these 106 tones, the trials and tribulations of matching and shade of any color will soon be a thing of the past. Every colored silk, fabric and accessory manufactured will be numbered according to the standard code. Matching a shade of any color consequently resolves itself into a comparison of figures.

The Textile Color Card association was organized under the auspices of big associations of millinery, dry goods, cloak and suit, silk and dress fabric to do the work. The association appointed a committee of seven of the foremost color experts in America. This committee worked for weeks on the standardization. The association invited the manufacturers, jobbers and retailers interested in the project to submit samples of all the various colors and shades handled by them. These samples of silks and fabrics which were submitted were then classified according to shades.

This classification revealed that there were more than two thousand different shades! For instance, there were at least fifty different shades of blue, each one of which was called navy blue by the manufacturer or jobber who submitted it. There were almost as many shades of green called Nile green. The object of the color committee was to decide which one of the fifty so-called navy blues was the true navy blue, which shade of green the true Nile green, and so on throughout the two thousand shades.

Agreed on 106 Colors.

With infinite pains and a tremendous amount of work, the committee finally agreed on 106 standard trade colors. Dyers were then employed to produce the standardized trade colors. The standard color card will be issued to thousands of manufacturers, jobbers and retailers all over the country. The color card, which is in the form of a book, contains 106 pieces of colored ribbon, each named and numbered.

Not only have the names been standardized, but also the numbers. The numbers which have been given to the various shades indicate the strength of the color, as well as the several colors that are combined to give a certain effect.

For instance, the standard number for turquoise is 6,153. The first, second and third figures indicate the relative proportion of the component parts of the color. The fourth figure indicates the strength of the color designated by the first three figures. The first figure, 6, indicates the principal color, blue. The second figure, 1, indicates that the principal blend is white; the third figure, 5, indicates that the secondary blend is green, and the final figure, 3, indicates that the color is light in strength.

So, if wifie says she is going downtown to get some 6,007, do not be at all alarmed. She is simply after Yale blue. And she will get it without difficulty on her first trip. She won't get electric or any other blue by mistake—if the clerk at the department store can read numbers.

MOTHERS SHOULD KNOW MORE THAN JUST HOME WORK

Mrs. P. P. Claxton, Wife of the U. S. Commissioner of Education, Is an Example of the Application of Her Theory as Stated.

Washington Star: It is most fitting that the wife of the United States commissioner of education should be principally interested and prominently active in matters which pertain to education.

As in the case of Mrs. Philander P. Claxton, when sincerity goes hand in hand with zeal, an example of real efficiency is provided, and one sees in addition what aid the wife of a public man may bring to bear in the province of her husband's activity.

Put More Life in Life.

Mrs. Claxton stands among the ranks of those who are seriously concerned in disseminating knowledge and demonstrating principles for the adjustment of the American citizen to the world in which he lives.

"To teach people to put more life into their lives," as she tersely states it, looms large and strong as the underlying aim of her activities. By membership and officership, and above all persistency, in a large number of American schools and organizations, she attempts to find possibilities for widespread application of her principle.

One of her most notable affiliations is with the National Congress of Mothers and the Parent-Teacher association. She is the national peace chairman of this organization and the vice-president of the Washington branch.

"This is a movement sweeping the United States at present," she explained, "for the education of mothers and the close co-operation between parents and teachers for the exchange of viewpoint in their relation to the children.

Must Know More Than Home.

"As we all know, a great percentage of the mothers of this country have left school at an early age—many before reaching even the eighth grade—and these women are often without the first fundamentals of knowledge which make for improvement in living conditions and happiness in the home.

B fi—— etaoin shrdlu cmfwyp vbgk ai

"Heretofore little attention has been paid to these women; no one has thought of bringing them in touch with the progress of the world outside the four walls of their homes or of acquainting them with the modern discoveries which make for power and contentment.

"By the activities of the Mothers' congress we hope to give these women more light on life—the life they must lead. We are instituting a series of lectures on all of the subjects which pertain to the serious pursuit of being a mother and a homemaker, for there is a great difference between a housekeeper and homemaker. We give talks on sanitary methods, preparation of meals, rearing children, buying food, and so forth. But we do not limit our range of subjects. We do not disregard the other side, that is, the human side. Lectures on travel and books are presented to provide a little of the wonder of life for these women who, in most cases, have been too occupied or perhaps too disregarded to comprehend it.

"I believe that it was Kipling who said, 'He knows not England who only England knows,' meaning that a knowledge of only a single thing is so deadening that one soon grows not to know even that. How applicable is this idea to the attitude of the mother who knew not her home because it was all she knew!

Began at the Bottom.

Mrs. Claxton is a cultivated daughter of the South. Before her marriage she was Miss Mary Hannah Johnson of an old Tennessee family. Early in her girlhood she realized that she wanted to equip herself for a life work. She began at the bottom of the ladder in library work and climbed up until she became the head of the largest and first free public library of Tennessee. She received part of her training from the University of Chicago.

"I am glad," she remarked, "that I am one of the Southern women who do not feel my restrictive compunctions about going out into the world to earn their living. The past generations of our gentle born and gently bred women felt it degrading to work for a livelihood. Consequently a number of our women ruled by these false ideals make absolutely nothing of their lives. Some even now are floating along and becoming drags on society.

'I have seen so many instances of women not knowing how to work and consequently not being able to cope with the world that I am a hearty advocate of vocational training in the public schools as the surest remedy for such a condition.

"Girls, as well as boys," insisted Mrs. Claxton, "should be taught a profession or trade by which they can always command a decent living if circumstances force them to be self-supporting. Teach them something and teach them to do it well. Help our girls to find a niche in life."

NEVER GOT DRUNK BUT ONCE

But on That First Spree of His Life, Lansing Pearsall Broke Into a Private House and Was Shot Dead for a Burglar.

Kansas City Star: A crumpled figure lay on the floor of St. George's Episcopal rectory in New Orleans, shot by a kindly faced, silver haired churchman, who had believed him a burglar intent on murder.

That was the end of a model young man, whose twenty-one years of life had been marked by rectitude, all undone by one night of carousal. There are two homes in New Orleans where sorrow has come to stay for a long, long time because of that night.

A grand jury has exonerated the Rev. Byron Holley, rector of St. George's, and declared that he shot in defense of his life and home. The young man's father has exonerated the priest. But that cannot dispel the rector's regret.

And the father and mother of Lansing C. Pearsall, their grief is beyond words. No explanation can mitigate it. The shadow on that home, too, will remain.

Probably Mistook House.

The grand jury which investigated the case found that young Pearsall had been refused a room at a hotel because of his intoxicated condition and had walked to the rectory, where, probably under the impression that it was his own home, and not wishing to disturb the family, he had wrenched a lattice trellis from one side of the house, carried it around to the other side and used it as a ladder to reach a window, which he pried up and entered. This took him into the rector's study. The rector, who twice had been robbed within a year, heard the noise and, taking an automatic revolver, proceeded to investigate. He saw the intruder in the dim light and believed him to be a negro.

"Who are you and what do you want?" he demanded.

"I'm the man next door," said the supposed burglar.

There is no house next door, the rectory adjoining the church and the lots on the other side being vacant, so the priest ordered him to go. Instead the intruder made a move to put his hand in his hip pocket, the rector thought, and started forward instead of toward the door or window, and Mr. Holley fired.

First Spree His Last.

It was only after the neighbors had been summoned by Mrs. Holley and the police had arrived that the rector learned that the man he had shot was not a negro.

The grand jury found, too, that young Pearsall had left his home late in the afternoon before to get some medicine for his mother, who was ill, but instead of returning with it had it sent from the drug store. How he had employed the time before his appearance at the hotel where he was refused accommodations did not appear, but the grand jury could readily imagine. A night watchman whom the young man met on his way to the rectory bore out the hotel man's account of his condition.

As a boy young Pearsall went to school in New Orleans and then to the Tennessee Military academy and ranked high in his classes. He was employed as a timekeeper for the Texas & Pacific railroad, of which his father, Nathan G. Pearsall, is claim agent. He was bright, energetic, prompt and efficient, and was in line for promotion. Apparently, his last spree also was his first. John Barleycorn merely exacted his due a little sooner than usual.

The Minister's Romance.

The New Orleans tragedy has recalled the life romance of the rector. The marriage of Rev. Byron Holley and Mrs. Elizabeth Knapp in New York city on June 30, 1913, marked an epoch in an affair of the heart that began in Rochester, N. Y., thirty-nine years before that date. At that time they were engaged to be married, but Mr. Holley, with his father, moved to Atlanta, Ga., and the separation of the two young persons brought about an estrangement.

Mrs. Knapp was Miss Sanborn then. After Mr. Holley left she became the bride of Albert G. Knapp of Washington. About the time of her marriage Mr. Holley married Miss Fanny E. Campbell of Atlanta. He previously had entered the Episcopal ministry. In time Mr. Knapp died, as did Mrs. Holley. Mr. Holley and Mrs. Knapp, after a separation of thirty-eight years, met in the mountains of North Carolina during the summer of 1912. Their old love was rekindled and they soon became engaged. The marriage ceremony was performed in the cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. Mr. Holley's church in New Orleans is one of the wealthiest and most fashionable there.

MRS. SARAH SCANLAND.

Mrs. Sarah L. Scanland is secretary of the Women's Justice League of Denver, which is making earnest efforts to bring employer and employe together on a common basis and settle the prolonged mining difficulties of Colorado. The officers of the league saw young Rockefeller when he was in Denver, and he promised them that there would be no discrimination hereafter between union and non-union men in the mines controlled by the Rockefeller interests.

PAT WAS READY FOR HIM.

Chicago News: On Pat's arrival in New York his Yankee friend began to boast of the heat, which, he said, was so hot that it burnt the wings off the flies.

"Oh, that's nothing to the heat in Ireland. Why they have to feed the hens on ice cream to keep them from laying boiled eggs."

At Winnipeg December oats closed ⅝c at 39c asked and May 1⅜c up at 41⅞c.

At St. Louis December wheat closed at $1.03½ and May at $1.07⅞c.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.04¼, and calls at $1.06½.

After showing some hesitancy on the start the wheat market turned strong today, and substantial advances were recorded.

The upturn was brought about through the reported working of grain for export at the seaboard and reports of a short interest outstanding. Advices from Winnipeg said that operators there had resorted to concerted buying to replace the tonnage of wheat commandeered by the Canadian government. As a consequence quotations there moved up around 2¾c from yesterday's close in the near future. Reports are current to the effect that there is a large short interest in Winnipeg December, and a strong market in it is forecasted.

Shippers were good buyers of wheat on the Duluth market today to cover contracts for grain to go forward before the close of navigation. Receipts were slightly off from the volume at which they had been running of late, and considerable grain is wanted by all accounts. Stocks in elevators have been rapidly cut down during the last few days, so that it is now taken for granted that the houses here will have been emptied by the time the last boats leave the Head of the Lakes for the season.

Supplies are reported today at 11,762,000 bu, but actual stocks are only around 6,000,000 bu, taking into consideration grain loaded out on boats during the last three days.

Trading in durum was a feature in today's market, it showing strength on the springing up of buying to cover contract requirements.

December wheat opened ¼c off at $1 and advanced 1¾c up to the noon-hour. May opened ¼c off at $1.04¼, and bulged 1⅞c.

December durum opened ¼c off at 97½c, and advanced 2c. May opened ¼c off at $1.01¾, and gained 2¼c.

Flax Trading Narrow.

Operations in flaxseed were comparatively light but a stronger tone was shown at the start on the appearance of fair inquiry from crushers. Quotations eased off from their high at the end of the first three hours' trading, with a partial withdrawal of support from crushers. Price changes in day were fractional.

December flax opened ¼c up at $2.01, and closed ⅝c off at $2.00⅛ bid. May opened ¼c up at $2.07, and closed ¼c up at $2.07 asked.

At Winnipeg, December flax closed ⅛c up at $1.82½ asked, and May ⅜c up at $1.89¼.

At Buenos Aires, flax closed 2⅞c off at $1.35⅜, and London ⅞c up at $2.33⅜.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Demand for wheat continued good on the Duluth board of trade today. Cash No. 1 northern sold at 3c over December. Sales of the lower grades were better, No. 2 northern selling at the December price in some cases. Durum was in active call and No. 1 was traded in freely at 1½c over the December price.

* * *

No. 1 northern wheat commandeered by the Canadian government was settled for at $1.04¾; No. 2 at $1.03¼, and No. 3 at 98¾c.

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The general undertone is firm with the market quiet. Manitoba offers were scarce and winters were firmly held. Spot market was steady, but dull, unchanged to ½d lower. Cargo market was quiet, Manitobas and winters 3d lower. Plates unchanged and Indians not offered. The short interest in Manitobas was apparently satisfied for the moment and the trade is awaiting further developments of the Canadian government.

"Argentine and Australian offers of the new crop were larger, but Argentine freights have further advanced and Australian tonnage is very limited, therefore fears are expressed regarding shipments. This is serving to keep the trade nervous."

* * *

A Winnipeg wire said: "Carruther's buying of a large amount of December wheat looks like for exporters. Think some arrangement has been made by shippers here to pool their interests and replace lines."

* * *

In Argentina heavy general rains are bringing some complaints regarding flaxseed. Buenos Aires was easy, thereby meeting the advancing freight rates.

* * *

Price Current says: "Winter wheat sowing was late throughout the surplus producing states on account of the wet condition of the soil which has also been unfavorable for the germination and growth of the plant, so that the percentage of growth condition is from 10 to 15 per cent below normal throughout the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and Oklahoma, the condition being much better in Nebraska and worse than that in Missouri where it is about 20 per cent below normal. This comes with a decreased acreage of 20 to 25 per cent and a low growth condition, with the possibility of further damage by winter freezing and the critical conditions that arise during the growing season, hessian fly, chinch bugs, etc. We have the prospect of a materially reducing production of the winter wheat crop next season as compared with the crop of 1914, and the crop that was promised at the beginning of the growing season of 1915."

* * *

Minneapolis reported very good demand for cash wheat and choice blue stem was ½c higher. One northern blue stem sold at 2c to 4½c over December, and 1 northern velvet chaff at 1½c to 2c over December.

* * *

At Winnipeg 1 northern sold at 4c over December and No. 2 northern at 2c over. This is a cent to a cent and a half lower than yesterday.

* * *

Russell's New York News said: "Freight rates are firm but chartering limited owing to uncertainty as to the export situation. Export demand for wheat yesterday was placed at about 1,200,000 bu of American wheat mainly Duluth and durum. It included about forty loads of Gulf wheat said to be to replace commandeered Canadian wheat. A small business in Canadian wheat was reported of grain that was in transit, and there was further inquiry for American wheat. A report from Winnipeg claims the seizing of Canadian wheat was to fill boats sent over by the British authorities. The admiralty, it is said, sent a fleet of twenty steamers to take the grain, and the dominion government was without wheat to fill the steamers and therefore took the course pursued."

* * *

The Trunk line railroad officials have united in an agreement to end the export freight congestion. It is understood that a committee has been appointed which will meet from day to day, and take whatever steps may be necessary. No new embargoes were reported placed yesterday in addition to those already in force.

C. A. Johnson, general manager for E. W. Wagner & Co., Chicago, was a visitor on the Duluth board of trade today. He expressed himself optimistically regarding prospects for active trading during the winter months. Chicago operators are feeling bullish regarding the market situation in corn and oats at the present, he averred. Corn has had a sharp upbound and it is believed that the oats market will be due for a twist shortly in view of the light stocks being carried in the Middle West and the big feeding requirements.

"It is felt that the wheat market will be helped by some good spurts of export buying during the next few months, but it is thought quotations will not be advanced much beyond their present levels," said Mr. Johnson. "The slow movement of winter wheat and its poor milling quality has been a factor in maintaining quotations on spring wheat, but it must be remembered that the great bulk of the winter wheat crops remains to be marketed."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Foreign Buying of Futures Rallies Wheat Prices After Decline.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Foreign buying of futures rallied the wheat market today after a decline at the opening. Large deliveries on December contracts were chiefly responsible for the initial weakness. It was said, however, that the wheat thus handled went ultimately in the main to export houses amply able to take care of the property. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ½c lower with December at $1.04½ to $1.05 and May at $1.07¼ to $1.07¾, were followed by an upturn all around to well above yesterday's finish.

Later a decided advance took place, helped by word of record breaking flour shipments at Minneapolis and by advices that requisitioned wheat was being loaned by the Canadian government to shippers to fill contracts and that the amounts loaned were to be returned as quickly as possible. The close was unsettled, 1¼c to 1¾@1⅜c net higher, with December at $1.06¼ and May at $1.09@1.09⅛.

Corn, like wheat, was bought on European account. Offerings were small, and the market tending higher. After opening a shade to ⅜c up, prices scored moderate additional gains.

The market later touched new high record prices for the season. Shorts were alarmed by the fact that no corn whatever had been delivered on December contracts. The close was nervous at 1⅜@1½c to 1½c net advance.

Oats reflected the action of corn. Trade was light.

Absence of selling pressure allowed provisions to rise. Lower prices for hogs had but little effect.

Prices Going Down.

Washington, Dec. 1.—The average of prices of meat animals, hogs and cattle, sheep and chickens, paid to producers decreased 7.3 per cent from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15, the department of agriculture today announced. In the last five years, the prices declined in like period 4.2 per cent. On Nov. 15 the index figure of prices for these meat animals was about 5 per cent lower than a year ago; 7 per cent lower than two years ago; the same as three years ago, and 18.6 per cent higher than four years ago. Hogs averaged $6.36 per 100 pounds on November 15. That is 9.3 per cent lower than a year ago; beef cattle $5.85 or 2.8 per cent lower; veal calves, $7.69, or 1.1 per cent lower; sheep, $5.18 or 10.7 per cent higher; lambs, $6.76 or 10.1 per cent higher; and chickens $11.50 per 100 pounds, or 3.6 per cent higher.

SPECIALTIES MANIPULATED

Some Have Violent Decline, While Standard Stocks Are Heavy.

Severe Slump in the Sugar Shares Marks Final Hour.

New York, Dec. 1.—Changes in standard shares were slight, but mainly upward in today's early dealings, while specialties once more bounded forward, South Porto Rico Sugar advancing 7 to 163 and Cuban-American Sugar 2 to 175, both new records. Pronounced gains were also made by Sears-Roebuck, Texas company, Diamond Match and United States Industrial Alcohol, the latter scoring a new maximum on its 4¾-point rise to 129¾. American Coal Products and such recent favorites as Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel, Lackawanna Steel, were appreciably higher. American Can was fractionally lower and New Haven fell a point to 75½.

Some specialties added to early gains today while others became reactionary. American Can preferred fell 2 to 110 on failure of the directors to act on the deferred dividend and Diamond Match and Mercantile Marine preferred were lower by 2 points or more. An isolated feature was the 20-point rise to 185 in G. W. Helme, one of the Tobacco group, on declaration of an increased dividend. In the main, however, the market was one of professional manipulation.

Railroads were more neglected than usual, some active stocks of that class remaining unquoted. Trading in the second hour was nominal. Bonds were steady.

Leading railway shares became heavier after midday and early gains in numerous specialties were materially reduced or altogether cancelled. Outside interest was utterly lacking and dealing dwindled.

Manipulation of specialties, some of which fell violently later, and heaviness in standard stocks featured today's professional operations.

A severe slump in Sugar shares, Cuban-American falling 22 to 155 and Porto Rico 9 to the same quotation, marked the dull last hour. The closing was heavy.

London Stocks.

London, Dec. 1.—American gold bonds were sold freely today at easier prices, while American railroad shares were dull and drooping, the higher exchange rates being responsible for the setback in both cases.

Chicago Livestock.

WESTERN STEEL PLANTS PROSPEROUS

Enlargement Necessary to to Care for Increasing Orders.

Western steel plants are sharing fully in the volume of orders being distributed over the country, and capacities are being taxed to their limits.

The Inland Steel company has started work on a plant addition at Indiana Harbor that will increase its open-hearth furnace capacity 50 per cent. A blooming and finishing mill will also be erected.

The improvements projected will cost between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000, and will be paid for out of earnings. Officials of the company aver that its plants are booked to capacity up till July 1 next. The number of employes on the payroll exceeds 6,000, as compared with 3,000 last year.

How tight manufacturing conditions are in the steel trade was shown this week in the fact that the car companies all bid high on inquiries for 9,000 steel cars from the Pennsylvania railroad. The plants are so loaded up at the present that their managements are anxious that the placing of new orders should be deferred for a time.

IDLE MAN GOT RICH ON OTHERS' EFFORT.

In the Woman's Home Companion Anna Steese Richardson, writing "Mrs. Larry's Adventures in Thrift," tells how certain Long Island farmers have solved the problem of selling their garden stuff to New York consumers at a fair profit. When they began they found that with the best of tomatoes to sell they could make no profit. Indeed their books showed a loss. They did the natural thing—made a careful investigation of the New York marketing situation. What they discovered is described in the following extract taken from Mrs. Richardson's article:

"'That investigation proved to us that the commission men of New York city had the Standard Oil company and the meat trust beaten a thousand miles.

"'Among those to whom we had shipped, we found seven speculators, men who never handled or saw the goods. One man sold immediately to another firm, which proved to be his wife; another man secured three commissions by selling our produce to the green grocers through two other "firms"—one was his wife, the other his 19-year-old son. You see, in case of any trouble he could show two sales.

"'We found men who had no offices, who had no bank account for their business, who had no clerks, who had absolutely no expenses, but who were making big money off the producer and the consumer. One man had an elegant home in Brooklyn and a beautiful summer place in Maine. He owned a steam yacht and three automobiles, but he did not contribute one single cent to the up-keep of New York city, in which he did his business, nor to New York state. He was not even paying a license as an ordinary peddler would have to do. He did not have to file any statement of his financial returns with the state treasurer as other business concerns do—yet he was getting enormously rich on his commissions. He was one of the men who had promised us to sell at the best prices which grocers were paying, minus the commission. And our returns were six or eight cents a bushel for tomatoes.'"

It is estimated that if the oceans evaporated they would yield about 4,500,000 cubic miles of salt.

JUDGE MORRIS' DECREE DOES NOT END ACTION IN RANGE LIQUOR CASE

Three Cases Pending to Prevent Enforcement of Indian Treaty.

Application for Permanent Injunction Will Yet Be Heard.

Two Other Cases Will Raise Other Points of Law.

THREE ACTIONS PENDING.

Three separate and distinct actions are pending in the United States courts against the government officials to restrain them from enforcing the provisions of the Indian treaty of 1855. Briefly, they are:

1. Action brought on behalf of saloon keepers of Hibbing and Chisholm. Government officials ordered saloons closed. The saloon men applied for a temporary injunction, which Judge Page Morris denied. Application for permanent injunction will be considered when case is finally tried on its merits.

2. Action brought by the Brainerd Brewing company to restrain government agents from enforcing the treaty provisions. Case still pending.

3. Action brought by the Gund Brewing company of La Crosse against the railroad companies, seeking judgment for an injunction to compel the railroad companies to transport beer to individuals within the territory for private consumption and not for the purpose of sale or barter.

When Judge Page Morris of the United States district court handed down a decision Monday which had the effect of clamping on the "lid" at Hibbing and Chisholm, he did not end the litigation between the range town saloonkeepers and the government agents. The court dissolved the tempo-

NEW CHARGES IN COMPLAINT

Lieutenant Governor O'Hara Charged With Depleting Treasury of $10,000.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 2.—New charges relating to legislative committee expense funds were contained in an amended bill of complaint filed today in the Sangamon county circuit court by Fayette S. Munro, as attorney for J. B. Fergus, the taxpayer whose previous injunction suits were responsible for the calling of an extra session of the legislature.

The bill filed today contains new charges against Lieut. Gov. Barratt O'Hara and members of the legislature, asserting that Andrew Russell, state treasurer, and James J. Brady, state auditor, knew that irregular payments were made and asked that these latter officials be made personally liable for

TEUTONIC CAMPAIGN AGAINST MONTENEGRO IS PROGRESSING STEADILY; TWO TOWNS TAKEN

HEAVY LOSS TO INVADERS IS REPORTED

Next Move of Austro-Germans in Balkans Is in Doubt.

May Be Against Franco-British Forces or the Russians.

Von Mackensen's Troops Withdrawing to the Bulgarian Border.

Berlin, Dec. 2, via London.—Teutonic forces, pressing their campaign against Montenegro, have occupied the towns of Plevlje and Jabuka in northeastern Montengro, near the Serbian border, German army headquarters announced today.

Penetrating Montenegro.

London, Dec. 2.—The Germans are now engaging the Montenegrins on the Montenegrin frontier and at heavy cost have penetrated some distance beyond the border. Yet this struggle is not comparable to the serious and sanguinary fighting which marked the Serbian campaign last month and which has now almost ceased.

Notwithstanding all the entente negotiations at Athens, the Greek situation today remains much as it was a month ago. It is now clear that Greece has determined not to demobolize or withdraw her army from Saloniki. Though a deadlock seems to have been reached negotiations are still under way.

No change of significance was reported on either the western or the eastern front during the last twenty-four hours.

In Transitory Stage.

Military events in the Balkans are apparently in a transitory stage which may preface another German offensive but whether this will be made against the Franco-British troops which hold all that remains of Serbia or against the Russians should they launch an

COUNSEL CLAIMS U. S. DID THE SAME THING

Attorney in Argument for Buenz and Others Refers to Supplying Dewey's Ships in Spanish War.

New York, Dec. 2.—Counsel for the four indicted officials of the Hamburg-American line whose case goes late today to the jury, went back, in his summing up today, to the days of Dewey at Manila for what he termed a parallel and a vindication of the acts of his clients in sending coal and supplies from American ports to the German fleet in the South Atlantic in the early days of the European war.

"Was this wrong?" asked William Rand, Jr., chief of the defendants' counsel, who summed up the case. "Was this conspiracy to deceive and defraud the United States? Let's see, let's go back a few years to the time when Dewey sank the Spanish fleet and blockaded the port of Manila from May to August, 1898.

Dewey's Ships Needed Supplies.

"Dewey's ships needed coal and supplies during that blockade. How did they get them? Why, it is no secret. An American firm at the British port of Hongkong, Jackson & Evans, I think it was, loaded the coal and supplies and provisions on British steamers and cleared those steamers for the Chinese port of Macao. And for Macao these ships sailed out of Hongkong. Their manifests made no mention of supplies. The manifests said these steamers were loaded with scrap iron.

"What happened? This so-called scrap iron—these supplies of food and coal, were transferred to Dewey's ships at sea. The carrier vessels then went to Macao really loaded with scrap iron, but it was scrap iron loaded from the ruins of Cavite, battered down by Dewey's guns.

"Has anybody ever been sent to jail for this? The first man has yet to say that in sailing out of Hong Kong with supplies for American warships these steamers, their owners, agents, or shippers committed an offense against her majesty, the queen of England.

"What is the difference between that and this? What was a crime in August, 1914, must have been a crime in August 1898. The laws have not changed. No—it was not a crime then; it is not a crime now; it is simply a question of whose ox is gored."

MU[illegible]T CONFINE VISIT TO NEUTRAL STATES

Passports to Warring Nations Given Only to Those Whose Business Makes Trip Absolutely Necessary.

Attempt Made in Belligerent Country to Stop War Might Be Considered as Promoting Sedition.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Secretary Lansing announced today that members of the peace party planning to sail on the ships chartered by Henry Ford will not be given passports to belligerent countries, but only to neutral states in Europe.

Secretary Lansing made it plain that passports were given to American citizens for belligerent countries only when business made it absolutely necessary to visit there or when they were invited by some governmental agency in those countries. Mr. Lansing explained that no distinction was being drawn between members of the peace party and other American citizens and that the general rule of the department of state was being applied.

Not of Urgent Character.

The ruling, however, was generally interpreted as meaning that the United States does not regard unofficial missions in efforts to make peace by private persons as business of an urgent character.

Very few applications have been made for passports to visit belligerent countries, the plan of the peace party being to assemble a convention in one of the neutral countries and put into operation their plans using a neutral capital as a base.

Officials of the passport bureau have not held up any passports for persons of American birth but it was admitted today there have been the usual difficulties with reference to naturalized persons and the compliance with state department technical regulation with reference to photographs.

Inez Milholland Boissevain, the suffragist, was refused a passport because her husband is a citizen of a foreign country. The names of others who may have experienced difficulty in getting passports were not disclosed.

Not Sanctioning Ford Move.

Officials of the state department said today there seemed to be some impression in Europe that the United States government in some way was sanctioning the Ford plan and they emphasized that there was not the slightest ground for such intimation.

Each application for a passport will be subjected to the closest scrutiny; it being feared, as one official said, that "a wolf in sheep's clothing" might get aboard the ship and while playing the part of an advocate of peace be in reality a spy. The department is de-

Paris, Dec. 2.—Italy gave her adherence on Monday to the London agreement of the other Entente allies not to conclude a separate peace, says a Milan dispatch to the Matin.

Lieut.-Gen. Count Cadorna, chief of the Italian general staff, who was to have visited France for a conference with the French and British commanders and for an inspection of the western battle front, has been compelled to forego his trip, the Matin's correspondent says, because of the intensity of the fighting on the Italian front, especially along the Isonzo. Gen. Porro, under chief of the general staff, will be sent as a substitute and will arrive in Paris, Dec. 5.

If it is true that Italy gave adherence to the London agreement on Monday and an earlier dispatch from Rome said formal announcement of her decision was made to parliament by Foreign Minister Sonnino, the step was taken almost simultaneously with more or less detailed reports that Austria had instituted through the Vatican tentative negotiations for a separate peace. It has been asserted also that Emperor William's visit to Vienna was taken to circumvent such action on the part of Germany's allies.

BRITISH LOST 88 SHIPS LAST MONTH

Six Hundred and Fifty-Two Lives Lost By Sinking of Craft.

London, Dec. 2.—Reports received by the board of trade during November tell of the sinking of fifty-three British steamers with a total net tonnage of 61,072 with the loss of 646 lives. In the same period the loss was reported of thirty-five British sailing vessels of 4,977 net tonnage with six lives. So far as the figures show only twenty of the steamers were sunk by German warships and ten by mines but 495 of the lives lost were on steamers sunk by German warships.

These figures do not record the total casualties for November, but merely the reports received, some of which relate to previous months.

CHINA NOT TO JOIN ENTENTE POWERS

Has Not Even Been Asked to Do So, Says Pekin Statement.

Pekin, Dec. 2.—The Chinese government made formal denial tonight that it had considered the possibility of joining with the Entente powers, or had been requested to do so.

The statement issued by the foreign office follows:

"The Chinese foreign office has never considered the possibility of abandoning neutrality and joining any belligerent or group of belligerents.

"The Chinese government has not received a proposal to that effect from, or opened such negotiations with any power or group of powers."

Withdrawing From Haiti.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

British casualties, military and naval, from the beginning of the war to Nov. 9 last, totaled 510,230, Premier Asquith announced today. Naval casualties were 12160. Of the total 108,923 were killed, 6,940 of these being officers.

Apparently the Bulgarians have not occupied Monastir in Southern Serbia, although its evacuation by the Serbians was reported several days ago.

Artillery exchanges continue on the Franco-Belgian front, but with lessened intensity, the French war office report states.

Definite announcement comes from Italy that the Italian government has given its adherence to the agreement of the Entente powers that no separate peace should be signed. It is reported that Italy's action was not taken until Monday of this week, almost coincidentally with the rumors that Austria was endeavoring to negotiate a separate peace.

Fifty-three British steamers and thirty-five sailing vessels were reported sunk in advices received by the board of trade at London during November. The total net tonnage of these vessels was 66,049. Lives lost numbered 652. Only twenty of the steamers are shown by the figures to have been sunk by German warships, but of the lives lost 495 are declared to have been of persons on steamers sent to the bottom by German war craft.

THICKENING OF THE PLOT

New Duluth Domestic Drama Has Now Become a "Quadrangle."

Revenge, Theme of Latest Act of "Thriller" of Real Life.

Seeking revenge upon Matt Sebol, an alleged former lover, Antonia Komletinsky, belle of New Duluth, has evolved a domestic quadrangle which out-Chambers any modern novel, or out-Broadhursts any modern play.

Smilingly she faces a possible penitentiary sentence, because she says she is willing to go to prison, if she can take Matt with her, and make him pay the penalty for his fickleness.

For some time Antonia has been the wife of John Komletinsky, 313 Commonwealth avenue, but several months ago, meeting Sebol, she realized that she had at last found her true affinity, and that it was Matt she loved, not John, according to the police version of the scramble.

In true lovers' fashion, it is claimed, Antonia and Matt plighted their troth, regardless of John, and to them the world was full of possibilities.

Happy in the belief that soon she could obtain a divorce from John and marry Matt, Antonia began suit against her husband, seeking to have the matrimonial knot untied.

Scarcely had the pleadings been filed when Matt forgot her entirely and announced his intention of marrying a newcomer to the colony, police say.

Beside herself with rage because of this new development, Antonia swore that she would be revenged upon him, and persuaded her husband, John, to accompany her to the Sebol wedding.

Matt, spying Antonia and John from his window, was frightened and detailed two friends, who were to keep her from the room at all costs. Antonia was kept from the wedding, but the friends were too thorough about it, and when she exhibited a black eye in court next day they were sent to the work farm for fifteen days each, in default of a $17 fine.

Now they are both in jail, unable to furnish $500 bail, and Antonia smilingly refuses to say the word which might save Matt from facing the January grand jury.

They refused to waive examination and will be heard tomorrow before Judge Cutting.

CHRISTMAS TREE AGAIN

Mayor Prince Is Making Plans for Municipal Event.

Another municipal Christmas celebration is being planned by Mayor Prince.

Although details have not been arranged as yet, the mayor said this morning that he would again call on Supt. Fred Ward of the work farm for a monster Christmas tree and local concerns to help decorate it, so that the expense to the city will be very light. A program similar to that followed out last year will be prepared for the celebration on Christmas eve, Mayor Prince announced today.

Supt. Ward said that he would gladly supply the city with a tree and that he has had his eye on a giant fir for the last ten months. Last year the tree supplied by the prisoners at the work farm was sixty-five feet high. Assistance will also be offered by the telephone and electric companies, it was announced by officials this morning, they having put the tree in place and decorated it with electric lights for the celebration last Christmas.

It is the plan of Mayor Prince to light the tree on Christmas eve, when a huge bonfire will be started and burned throughout the evening. If the weather will permit, a band concert will be given, with singing by local choral societies on Christmas day.

Last year the tree was placed on the courthouse lawn and the celebration took place on the public square. Mayor Prince is now negotiating with the courthouse officials for the use of the lawn again this year, he said this morning.

"The celebration will be given again this year," he said, "because it was such a success during the holidays last year. The tree will be lighted on Christmas eve and will be illuminated each evening during Christmas week. If plans materialize, there will be a program of music on Christmas day."

A Fine Aid For Mother-to-be

We are all greatly indebted to those who tell their experiences. And among the many things which we read about and are of immediate importance to the expectant mother, is a splendid external remedy called "Mother's Friend." This is applied over the muscles of the stomach. It is deeply penetrating in its influence. Mothers everywhere tell of its soothing effect, how it allays pains incident to stretching of cords, ligaments and muscles. They tell of restful comfort, of calm, peaceful nights, an absence of those distresses peculiar to the period of expectancy, relief from morning sickness, no more of that apprehension with which so many young women's minds become burdened. It is a splendid help. Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" from your nearest druggist. Ask your husband to get it for you. Then write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 408 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a very handsome and instructive book. It is filled with suggestive ideas of great help to all women interested in the subject of maternity. And best of all are some letters from mothers that are real inspirations. Write today.

FIVE GENERATIONS.

Five generations are represented in a family group picture presented to Mrs. J. H. Neil, 418 North Eighth avenue west, by a sister living in Merrill, Wis.

On Nov. 4 last, when Jacob Vanderhoof of Superior, Wis., the man in the picture, died, there were forty-six grand children, sixty-eight great grand children and one great, great grand child, in the family.

Mr. Vanderhoof was 99 years old, and on Feb. 13, would have passed the century mark. The others in the picture are: Mrs. Rachael Lang of Merrill, Wis., his daughter; Mrs. Jennie Lee of Merrill, his grand daughter; Mrs. Blanche Engstrom of Merrill, his great grand daughter, and Mrs. Engstrom's infant daughter, Mildred.

Mr. Vanderhoof was Mrs. Neil's father. This unusual picture was taken but a short time before her father's death, at Merrill.

BOARD OF EDUCATION CANNOT LEGALLY AID PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS

Attorney General's Office Sends Its Long-Awaited Opinion.

No Expense for Social Center Work May Be Incurred.

City Council Will Be Forced to Meet Budget Alone.

Playgrounds in Duluth may not be operated jointly by the city and board of education.

Schools may not be used for religious meetings, unless a majority of voters petition for the privilege.

Adults may not use school playgrounds.

The board of education may not incur any expense in connection with social center work in schools.

Opinion Read to Board.

Clifford L. Hilton, assistant attorney general of Minnesota, in a lengthy opinion read to members of the board of education committee on schools at their weekly meeting yesterday, answered five important questions by J. R. McGiffert, board director, and forwarded by Supt. R. E. Denfeld.

Under a strict interpretation, Mr. Hilton says the board of education has no right to allow schools to be used for social center work.

"Knowing that the schools are being used in that way throughout the state, however," commented Mr. McGiffert, "Mr. Hilton does not forbid the use. In fact his statement is not definite, and I see no reason why we should make any change.

"The board must be careful, however, not to widen the scope of the social center work in the schools, or to allow it to be widened."

Referring to school and municipal playgrounds, Mr. Hilton frowned upon a co-partnership between city and school district.

This means that Director J. R. Batchelor's budget for 1916, calling for between $8,000 and $9,000 to insure continuance of municipal playgrounds, must be satisfied by the city council, if the work is to go on, without depending upon $4,000, which directors of the board of education included in their general 1916 budget, for municipal play.

"I concur in the conclusion reached," he wrote, "that 'there is no power, express or implied, that authorizes the board of education to maintain playgrounds and recreation facilities for the general public of the city.'

"Partnership" Illegal.

"I most heartily concur in the conclusions reached by the board's attorneys to the effect that it would be unlawful for the board of education of the city of Duluth to enter into an arrangement with the city of Duluth whereby there should be a joint conduct by the school district and the city of the playgrounds at the joint expense, the control of said grounds and the conduct thereof to be exercized by a joint board representing the governing bodies of the school district and city."

Several other questions, asked of C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of education, by City Supt. R. E. Denfeld, Nov. 5, were referred by him to Mr. Hilton.

These are the questions:

"Has the board of education of the independent school district of the city of Duluth a right to maintain and conduct supervised playgrounds on the school premises, and appropriate money for the maintenance thereof?"

"If they have such right, may they conduct such supervised play on Saturdays and during the vacations, and appropriate money for the maintenance thereof?"

Privileges of Adults.

"If they have a right to conduct such playgrounds, may they permit adults, not of school age, to use such playgrounds during any part of the day?"

"Has the board of education of the independent school district of the city of Duluth a right to permit the use of school buildings for social center purposes; if so, have they a right to incur any expense in connection therewith?"

"Has the board of education of the independent school district of the city of Duluth any right to permit the use of school buildings for religious purposes, except upon a petition of a majority of the legal voters of the entire independent school district of the city of Duluth?"

Answering the questions, Mr. Hilton wrote: "The first and second questions are answered in the affirmative.

"A strict interpretation would require that the third, fourth and fifth questions be answered in the negative."

Explaining the fourth question, and his answer, Mr. Hilton wrote:

"It does not appear from the fourth inquiry what is meant by 'social center purposes.' If we take it for granted that such purposes are purposes distinct from the furnishing of education along scholastic and kindred lines to the school children of the district, then school district moneys cannot be expended therefor. If the so-called 'social center purposes' are, however, such as do not interfere with the use of school property for school purposes; are not within the purview of the paragraph hereinafter quoted; are carried on at a time and are of such a nature as not to occasion an expenditure of school district money to any extent; and the school board in the exercise of sound judgment and discretion decide that such use of the school property will not be at all detrimental to the primary purposes for which said property is held, then such board may grant permission for such use."

Miss Addams' Condition Not Serious.

Washing Won't Rid Head Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it enitrely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Advertisement.

LESCHES IS PARANOIAC

Witnesses Declare Priest Who Shot Bishop Is Mentally Irresponsible.

Winona, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trial of Father L. M. Lesches on the charge of assaulting Rt. Rev. P. R. Heffron, bishop of Winona, on Aug. 27 last, with a revolver with intent to kill, continued in the district court here today. The defense this morning called witnesses to show that Father Lesches was mentally irresponsible at the time of the shooting and that he is now a paranoiac.

E. C. Dean, county attorney of Martin county, Minnesota, testified that Father Lesches had consulted him in regard to starting a suit for damages of $20,000 against Bishop Heffron for alleged ill-treatment of him in refusing to assign him a parish or give him what he considered adequate support. Mr. Dean testified that a year ago Father Lesches had consulted him in regard to entering the insane asylum at St. Peter for treatment.

Wilfully Violated Quarantine.

Dr. McGroarty of Easton testified that Father Lesches had openly and wilfully violated quarantine for diphtheria and was continually seeking medical advice for fancied ailments.

Dr. W. V. Lindsay, county physician of Winona county, who attended Father Lesches at the jail here, gave it as his opinion Lesches was a paranoiac.

Dr. Arthur Sweeney, a St. Paul alienist, testified yesterday afternoon that Father Lesches is insane and has homicidal tendencies.

Closing arguments will be made this afternoon, with a possibility that the case will go to the jury late today.

DEATH CLAIM WILL BE DISTRIBUTED AMONG HEIRS

Judge Dancer in district court today signed an order fixing Jan. 15, 1916, as a date for a hearing on the petition for an order distributing among heirs, money collected from the Northern Pacific Railway company in settlement for the alleged wrongful death of Charles W. Johnson. The petition for distribution was filed by the widow, Eva T. Johnson, who with the exception of a 14-year-old daughter, is the only heir. As administratrix of the estate, Mrs. Johnson settled with the railway company for $2,500. Johnson was killed on Jan. 28, 1915, under the wheels of a freight train. There were no witnesses to the accident.

ALL GAME MUST BE SHIPPED BY SUNDAY

Properly Tagged, It May Be Stored Until Jan. 31.

State game laws allow five days after the close of the season, which came to an end on Nov. 30, for shipping deer and moose. Carcasses may be held in storage until the last day of January, provided retaining tags are placed on them. After the passing of January carcasses will be seized by the game authorities.

Deer and moose carcasses are still being shipped into Duluth and it is expected that a large amount of game will come into Duluth from various stations to the north between now and Sunday.

ATTORNEYS SUE FOR FEE IN DIVORCE CASE

William A. Wagner, local liquor dealer, who secured a divorce from his wife, Minnie Wagner, a few months ago, is now entangled in a dispute with his attorneys over their charge for legal services in connection with his divorce case and other matters.

In district court today Harris & Pearson, attorneys, filed suit against Wagner to recover $679.30 claimed to be the amount due for legal services rendered between Jan. 10, 1914, and Dec. 10, 1914. The principal item is a $500 charge for handling the divorce case for him.

Williston Man Appointed.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 2.—J. W. Jackson of Williston resigned as member of the state board of control and Governor L. B. Hanna appointed W. B. Overson, Williston, state senator, to the position. Jackson has been on the board since it was organized three years ago.

Discolored or Spotty Skin Easily Peeled Off

The discoloring or roughening to which many skins are subject at this season may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There's no more effective way of banishing chaps, blotches, pimples, freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process itself doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face. Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness, are treated by a simple solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this produces a truly marvelous transformation.—Advertisement.

WISCONSIN HUNTERS KILLED FEWER DEER

Couderay, Wis., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deer hunting proved a disappointment to many hunters in the southern part of Sawyer county. There were 435 deer shipped out from stations in this section this year compared with 1,310 last year, and it is a conservative estimate that there were 1,500 hunters in the woods in Southern Sawyer county.

The one-buck law reduced the number of deer shipped out, but many reckless hunters killed a great number of does which were left in the woods for wolves to feast upon.

OPEN LETTER TO GOOD FELLOWS FROM FOUNDER OF THE ORDER

To the Editor of The Herald:

Four years ago I wrote you a letter that was responsible for starting The Herald Good Fellow movement in Duluth.

Each year since that time I have watched the work with the closest interest, and have done what I could to help. This year I am glad to see you have taken it up again.

Let's get matters straight at the start. You and I have talked this Good Fellow movement over together, Mr. Editor, and I think we understand it alike. It is not an opportunity for anybody to parade their charity, for the first principle of the movement is secrecy and the second is personal service.. Perhaps they should be reversed, but those are the two chief requisites.

Originally the movement was confined to bachelors like myself, in fairly comfortable circumstances. I happen to have neither kith nor kin dependant on me. I am far from being wealthy, but have an income sufficient for my needs and a little more. Four years ago I fell to casting up my moral accounts one evening, and decided that I was about a moral bankrupt. I had no particularly vicious habits, but smoked a little more than was good for me and drank a little more than was good for me. I had moreover, achieved the condition of being a perfectly selfish being. I thought of nobody's comfort but my own, and did only the things that pleased me. It was brought home to me by a little incident that is not material here, but I decided to try to do at least one unselfish act during he Christmas season. After thinking it over I decided to play Santa Claus to at least one family that Christmas, and to save the money needed for it by denying myself some of the luxuries. I quit smoking and drinking for about a month and spent the money I would have spent for liquor and tobacco, on that family. I went personally and investigated their case, found what they needed, and supplied those needs as best I could with the smallest possible fuss about it.

At that time, Mr. Editor as you know, I also wrote an open letter to all "good fellows" asking them to do the same, and you published it. I told them that there were many others in the same position as myself, who woke up on Christmas morning with a grouch and a "head" from spending too much for food and drink, and urged them to spend that money where it would do the most good, saving themselves the evil effects of over-indulgence and adding a little sunshine to the sum total of the world's happiness.

The "good fellows" I referred to then were the "hail-fellow-well-met" type. Since then the meaning of the word has changed, and the class has broadened. It now includes any person who cares to come in, but the purpose is the same, and the conditions are the same. No "Good Fellow" is supposed to let his work be known; and every "Good Fellow" is supposed to include personal service with his giving. It is aimed to help the giver as much as the recipient. You, Mr. Editor, have in the past acted as the clearing house between the Good Fellows and those they aim to help, and I am glad to see you are willing to repeat. The plan of action, then, is simply this: Any man, woman or child who wants to play the role of Good Fellow goes to you, Mr. Editor, gets the name and address of some family deserving of aid, goes directly to the home of that family, verifies their needs, and then proceeds to fill them to the best of his ability. That's all there is to it, only let me add the advice to do it early.

GOOD FELLOW.

Good Fellow's letter covers the case. The Herald is simply the clearing house, and in order that The Herald employe who conducts it may also comply with the rules, he is known simply as the Good Fellow Editor. The Herald gets its lists of deserving cases from many sources, but they are all checked by the Associated Charities workers before being given out. The lists will be available after tomorrow, and they will be added to daily. They contain names of individuals and families of all sizes. Any person may call personally, telephone or write to The Good Fellow Editor and get a name. If the Good Fellow calling is known to be responsible and a respectable citizen of the community, that will end the connection of the Good Fellow Editor with the case. The Good Fellow is expected to do the rest. If the caller is unknown to the Good Fellow Editor, a check will be kept on the case to see that the case is not dropped.

No money is solicited and none is wanted by The Herald. The service and the personal interest mean more than the mere money. Neither does the Good Fellow Editor want provisions or clothing. It's "no fair" wishing the work on somebody else That isn't playing the game according to the rules. Duluth has many well organized charitable organizations which receive contributions. The idea of the Good Fellow movement is personal service and personal interest, and they mustn't be lost sight of.

WOULD KEEP SEX STORIES AND TAINTED FICTION FROM CHILDREN

The subtle and evil influence among children of sex stories and the tainted fiction of the dime novel is being fought tooth and nail during Children's Book week at the public library. The state library commission is working in connection with the local library to raise the standard of books for children on the home library shelves.

The local library officials emphasize the fact that at this time of year many families are renewing or taking out new subscriptions to magazines, and that parents should look to it that the literature subscribed for meets the needs of the little folk and that no periodical addicted to the publication of harmful stories be ordered for the home.

Books of the Nick Carter, Jessie James and Diamond Dick class are persona non grata at the public library. But wholesome books of adventure such as the delightful stories of Robert Louis Stevenson, Sir Walter Scott and other noted writers of boys' books, are being displayed for the perusal of parents.

The display of children's books at the library is attracting wide interest among the mothers of Duluth, and the book dealers say that the demand for good juvenile literature has been greatly increased by the helpful cooperation of the library with the stores.

CHILDREN SHAMED INTO CARING FOR AGED MOTHER

St. Louis county poor authorities will not assume the care of a sick and aged woman who for the past five weeks has been occupying a cot at St. Luke's hospital.

Her family of four sons and a daughter, all grown children, thought the burden of caring for their mother, a hopeless paralytic, too much for them and conceived the notion of bundling her off to the county poor house.

The story of how she was taken to a local hospital where her children paid for one week's care and then repudiated the bill, referring the hospital authorities to the county, and of a subsequent attempt to have the aged woman taken to the poor farm to spend her declining days, was related in Tuesday's Herald.

Yesterday, the children changed their minds and decided that they could provide their aged mother with a home for the rest of her days. She was removed from the hospital to the home of her sons on West Second street. "Since the story was published," said A. P. Cook, clerk of the poor commission, yesterday, "we have had no more requests from the children to have their mother taken to the poor house."

LITTLE GIRL MOTHERS NINE

Daughter of Austrian Miner Is Keeping the Family Together.

Father Is Making Heroic Struggle to Provide for the Children.

Both heroic and pathetic has been the struggle of an Austrian miner of Virginia and his 13-year-old daughter to provide a home for his family of ten motherless children and to keep the wolf of want from his door during the last month, according to John G. Ross, humane agent, who yesterday afternoon reported the case to the directors of the Humane society at their December meeting.

"The family," declared Mr. Ross, "is composed of the father, aged 45, and ten children ranging in age from 13 to a year-old baby. The mother is an inmate of the state asylum for the insane at Fergus Falls. Annie, the 13-year-old girl, is housekeeper for the father and the other children. On a recent visit to the place, Annie complained that she was feeling ill. I found her to be in a very weakened condition, probably suffering from a severe case of tonsilitis.

"I immediately sent Dr. Crowe to the home, but had to leave Virginia before he returned. I took up a big bundle of clothing for the children, but found that they are in need of more. The smallest child, a baby, had nothing to cover it but a wee bit of a shirt, and the other children that were home were barefooted. A number of them were in school, but the others could not go for lack of clothing and shoes.

Greatest Need.

"The names and ages of the children are: Anna, 13; Ignatz, 12; John, 11; Stanley, 10; Mary, 9; Louis, 8; Angela, 7; Joseph, 6; Frank, 2, and Rosa, 1. Their greatest need at present is to have a woman come in two or three times a week and help them with the housework. I hope that the people of Virginia will take care of this, but if not, I shall endeavor to arrange for it from other sources."

Several weeks ago, Agent Ross visited the home and found conditions much better than he did on his last visit. Annie, the oldest girl, and her 12-year-old brother, were attending night school and the family were making a go of it. With the advent of cold weather and the need of fuel, clothing and other necessities, the father's fight has been more of an uphill one.

Mr. Ross declares that the father works in the mines during the day and always comes directly home to his family when his work is over and helps prepare the evening meal. Usually he assists his daughter Annie to make a bannock in the big bread pan for the crowd. The children who are old enough to work are industrious and assist in keeping the house neat and clean.

"The father is satisfied that he can work out his own salvation with his big family, but is somewhat worried about clothing for the children," Mr. Ross said. "In past years his wife has made most of the children's clothes, and of course, he can't do that this year."

To Examine Children.

Mandan, N. D., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.) — Physical development of Mandan children will be watched by the public schools. Every child in the schools will be given a physical examination which will be compared with records of a year ago, when a medical examination was made. In this manner, it is expected that deficiencies in the growth of children during the year will be revealed, and the attention of the parents will be called to these features.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Miss Blanche Rose, a well-known actress, who darkened her gray hair with a simple preparation which she mixed at home, in a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the required shade. This will make a gray haired person look 20 years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of hair, relieves itching and scalp humors and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."

SCHOOL OFFICIAL PUT UNDER ARREST

Held for Refusing to Allow Boys to Attend.

Charged with refusing to allow two boys to attend school, Samuel Miller, 51, chairman of the Rice Lake township school board, was arraigned before Judge F. H. Cuttting in municipal court yesterday for contributing to the delinquency of a minor child. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Edward Schubisky.

The arrest followed Mr. Miller's refusal to permit Ray Campbell, 10, son of T. H. Campbell, and another boy, 16, to attend the Rice Lake school, according to the deputy sheriff.

Both boys live in an adjoining township, it is said, and the school board of that township demanded that they come there to school, rather than to go to Rice Lake. Mr. Miller on this account, it is said, barred the boys. Mr. Campbell said it would be a hardship for the boys to walk to the school in their own township, when the Rice Lake school was much nearer.

Mr. Miller pleaded not guilty and furnished $25 bail for his appearance at a hearing tomorrow.

SAYS LID HAS NOT HURT TRADE IN GRAND RAPIDS

"All communities on the western end of the range are now on an even plane, as far as the drink question is concerned," declared E. C. Kiley, editor of the Grand Rapids Herald-Review, who was in the city yesterday with Mrs. Kiley. They returned to Grand Rapids in the evening.

"Grand Rapids was one of the first cities affected by the Indian treaties, and we have not suffered in the least. At present we are enjoying the greatest fall business in the history of the city."

ENLARGE DUPONT PLANT.

Barksdale, Wis., Concern to Make Sulphuric Acid.

Washburn, Wis., Dec. 2.—The new sulphuric plant of the Dupont Powder company at Barksdale near here, will be in operation within two weeks, according to Supt. F. T. Beers.

This will place the Dupont company in a position to manufacture nearly four times as much sulphuric acid as formerly. The buildings which comprise the new plant are six in number and with equipment represent an expenditure of over $1,000,000. Nothing but the most modern equipment will be installed. Owing to a delay in the shipment of pipe fittings and apparatus which must come from Philadelphia, Pa., two carloads were shipped by express and arrived yesterday.

Winter sold the entire crop for seed wheat to a line elevator company at a figure in advance of the current market price.

NEW HIGH RECORD OF ARRESTS MADE

November Was Busy Month for Police; Small Percentage of Women in Total; Most Arrests Are Made in Usual Trouble Centers.

Arrests in November numbered 713, including fourteen women, a new high record for Duluth, according to records at headquarters yesterday.

This record is one of the best of indications of the city's prosperity, according to Chief R. D. McKercher, for whenever men have money and are spending it, the list of arrests grows. A large majority of the men arrested came from West Michigan and West Superior streets, or from Lake avenue south, as other parts of the city were as orderly as ever.

Better conditions prevail as a result of the police campaign against disorderly rooming houses in the business district, judging from the report, which shows a small number of arrests of females.

At headquarters the "blotter" showed that 643 men and 14 women were arrested. Included in this total are 49 prisoners brought downtown from the West end station.

West Duluth officers were active during the month, and have thirty-eight arrests to their credit. This is double the number arrested in September and considerably above the October record.

New Duluth, according to Lieut. "Bob" McDermott, had eighteen arrests and less disorder than during the previous two months. In September the New Duluth officers set a record, making twenty-nine arrests.

Mrs. Anna Linder, R. F. D. 5, Dassel, Meeker Co., Minn., writes: "For two years I suffered with that terrible disease, chronic catarrh. Fortunately I saw your advertisement in my paper and I spoke to my sister about your medicine. She wrote to you and I got your advice free of charge. I took Peruna and am well and a mother of two children. I owe it all to Peruna. I would not be without that great tonic for ten times its cost, for I am well and strong now, and cannot speak too high terms of its value as a medicine."

In a later letter Mrs. Linder writes: "I cannot express my thanks enough to you for all the good your medicine has done for me and my family. This spring I took cold and it settled in my kidneys. At first I thought it was kidney trouble. I took Peruna as directed on the bottle, and in a few days I was all right, so I owe my health to Dr. Hartman and his remedy."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

MINNESOTA DEVELOPMENT CONFERENCE IS SUCCESS

Arrangements Made to Continue and Perfect the Organization.

Revolving Fund Amendment Is Strongly Indorsed By Convention.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The All-Minnesota Development conference yesterday afternoon heard the problems of the state outlined by speakers from all parts of the state, received suggestions for the solution of those problems; elected three new officers; arranged for machinery to cultivate and perfect the organization; adopted resolutions and adjourned.

The three officers elected, in addition to President F. W. Murphy of Wheaton and Secretary Charles T. Kelley of Menahga, are: First vice president, C. G. Selvig of Crookston; second vice president, J. B. Ludlow of Rushmore; treasurer, E. W. Randall of St. Paul.

Provision was made for perfecting the organization by continuing the resolutions committee with the addition of the officers to work out a constitution and by-laws and to call another conference in St. Paul about mid-winter.

Good Start Made.

On the whole the meeting was a most important and a most satisfactory one. Governor Hammond was warmly congratulated on all sides for starting a movement that holds great possibilities for the future. It is believed that the statewide organization, representative as it is of all interests, can hasten development as could no other agency. One fact in connection with the meeting, noted and commented upon by the delegates from the northern counties, was the apparent lack of misinformation and misunderstanding as to the agricultural possibilities of the cutover lands. Speakers from all sections of the state were agreed that anything that would hasten the settlement of the cutover lands should be generally supported. The expressions were most gratifying to those who are working for the adoption next year of Amendment No. 1, the revolving fund amendment.

The resolutions adopted follow:

"The All-Minnesota Development convention, representing all sections of the state, in meeting assembled at the new state capitol on Wednesday, Dec. 1, 1915, for the purpose of expressing the aims, purposes and desires of said convention in the matter of a program of development for the entire state, do hereby adopt the following resolutions:

Revolving Fund Amendment.

"This convention unhesitatingly asks of the people of the state of Minnesota full and enthusiastic support of the revolving fund amendment, No. 1, which is to provide that the legislature may enact into law the right to use $250,000 for developing state lands, the costs of which to be added to the lands so improved and sold by the state to individuals.

Rural Credits.

"We recommend that such legislation as may be necessary to improve rural credit conditions be enacted by the national congress and state legislatures after full investigation of the needs.

State Highways.

"We are in favor of the most liberal state aid, the expenditure to be properly safeguarded, for the improvement of our public highways, the main or trunk lines to be given the first attention, and to be constructed with a view to permanency, and under competent supervision. Realizing the benefit of using the road drag, we urge a more specific enforcement of this law.

Immigration.

"We favor a more liberal treatment of the immigration department."

Resolution offered from the floor and adopted holding that the principal need of the state is more farmers, and that the encouragement of immigration should be one of the main objects of the association.

Soil Survey.

"Resolved, That until such time as provision is made by law for an accurate soil survey of the state of Minnesota, this association deprecates and condemns the circulation of existing maps purporting to give information as to soil, and which purported information is necessarily unreliable, erroneous and misleading, and we favor legislation providing for an accurate soil survey of the state.

Weed Control.

"We recommend that the legislature give careful consideration to the Canadian weed control act.

Education, Civic and Social Development.

"We approve and commend the extension service of the university, normal and high schools which promote more efficient organization for community welfare and civic and social development throughout the state.

"We urge the getting together of city and country for mutual good will and better understanding concerning common interests.

Drainage Outlets.

"Whereas, in all parts of the state the drainage of certain large areas depends on provision being made for outlets of a more general character, therefore,

"Resolved, that we favor state aid for large drainage outlets which, when developed, will serve not restricted areas, but large areas whose development will be of general, as distinguished from private benefit.

State School Fund Loans.

"This convention recommends the support of the constitutional amendment, which provides for the loaning of state school funds on improved agricultural lands in Minnesota.

Forest Protection and Reforestation.

"We indorse the general proposition of forest protection and reforestation, but believe that the legislature should provide that the selection of lands for reforestation should be in the hands of persons who are primarily interested in saving land for agriculture and not primarily interested in selecting for reforestation purpose lands which can ultimately be utilized for agricultural, stock and dairying purposes.

Permanent Organization.

"Resolved, that this association be made a permanent organization, devoted to the development of the entire state, with provision for such subsequent meetings, annual or otherwise, as may be determined, and to be held at the state capitol.

"Resolved further, that we recommend such modification of existing laws as will permit boards of county commissioners to appropriate funds to assist incorporated development organizations along lines now provided, but without requiring unanimous action of such boards of county commissioners."

A resolution was offered from the floor and adopted, urging greater efforts in the conservation of the game and fish of the state.

Committees.

"Resolved, that appropriate committees on investigation, legislation and such other subjects as deemed necessary, be appointed at this meeting, whose province it shall be to work out practical working plans of operation with appropriate recommendations, and report to the next meeting of this organization."

MILLER MUST SERVE TIME

Faces Five to Ten-Year Term for Grand Larceny.

Believed to Have Been Connected With Robbery of S. L. Reichert.

Ralph H. Miller, 22, must serve from one to ten years in a state penal institution for the part that he played in picking the pockets of S. L. Reichert, treasurer of the Duluth Street Railway company, for $1,600 in the First National Bank building on Sept. 25 last.

A jury in Judge Dancer's division of the district court yesterday afternoon found him guilty of the crime of grand larceny in the first degree. The verdict was reported shortly before 4 o'clock. The jury had been out five hours. Miller will be brought before the court for sentence later.

When Mr. Reichert stepped out of the elevator on the fifth floor of the First National Bank building on the day of the theft, he felt in his pockets and found that a package of money had been stolen from him. Then he remembered that while in the car, he had been crowded by Miller and two other men whom the police believe to have been accomplices. Mr. Reichert grabbed Miller but the other two men walked from the fifth floor and escaped. The money was not found on the prisoner.

Miller did not take the stand when put on trial. It is understood that the young man has a record, having been arrested as a "dip" in other cities. He was unable to give the local police a satisfactory explanation concerning his presence here.

MILWAUKEE FIRE IS BEING PROBED

Concern Supplying Allies With Material Is Suspiciously Burned.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 2.—Fire, believed to have been caused by an explosion, destroyed the plant of the French Battery & Carbon company, 120 South Dickinson street late last night entailing a loss of $10,000.

In addion to the plant of the battery company, three railroad cars were burned, and the factory of the Northern Electric company, adjoining, was also damaged. Just before the blaze was discovered, passers-by at the plant heard an explosion. Shortly after, flames were seen shooting from the plant, and by the time the fire department arrived, the entire building was burning.

The French Battery & Carbon company, which manufactures dry cell batteries, has a large business in the United States and Europe. Since the beginning of the war, it has been supplying the allies with large amounts of goods. An investigation by the police has been started.

TRADE SETS NEW RECORD

Duluth Wholesalers More Prosperous Than Ever Before.

All Holiday and Staple Goods Moving Fast at Good Prices.

That wholesale trade in Duluth is on the ascendant, and that operations in manufacturing quarters have been gaining month by month this fall, is the verdict among the various concerns.

Executive officers of some of the leading local enterprises aver that the volume of business being put through at the present is the best in their experiences. Reports of extension projects are current, and generally speaking more extended merchandising campaigns are being planned to become effective with the beginning of the new year.

"Business at wholesale," remarked an officer of F. A. Patrick & Co. today, "showed a nice gain in volume for the month of November and every indication points to a good business for December.

"Threshing in the agricultural sections has been practically completed; farmers are finding a ready market for their grain, mining sections is well employed, so that the situation is much brighter than it was a year ago. Mail orders for wool products are very heavy, and there is every indication that business is active throughout the entire country."

Hardware Prices Advance.

Sales managers of the Kelley-How-Thomson company, and the Marshall-Wells Hardware company expressed gratification over the tonnage in general hardware lines being shipped out over the territory. Future orders are mounting up exceptionally well and current business is good.

The price tendency in hardware continues upward. Taking note of advances about to be announced, it is intimated that quotations in tools and shelf hardware will average up 20 per cent higher than a year ago. Wire and nails figures have this week been advanced $2. Woven wire is up one-half point and black and galvanized sheets $3 and $4 a ton.

Shoe Sales Heavy.

F. E. Church, manager of the Northern Shoe company, reported a large gain in aggregate trade put through last month over the figures of a year ago and that his company's factory has been busier so far this season than at any time since it was established.

Shoes and felts and rubbers samples for next fall's trade are being gotten together and will be taken out by salesmen early in January. The company's new skating shoe will be a feature in the list. It is intimated that on account of the short dress vogue and the impression that added support is afforded for the ankles, skating shoes for next winter will be made with higher tops.

Record Month Reported.

"Our business for last month was 50 per cent ahead of the same period in 1914, and it was the best November in our history," said C. E. De Witt, president of the De Witt-Seitz company.

Trade was well distributed over the Northwest with Montana and North Dakota making perhaps the best relative showings. That was due to the prosperity brought about through bumper crops, and activity in the Butte mining district. The revival over Northern Michigan, Mr. De Witt described as phenomenal. Mail orders have been satisfactory, showing that retailers are being already compelled to do considerable sorting up. The company's mattress factory is operating with an increased force.

Says Business Booming.

C. U. Reitan, manager of the Duluth Paper & Stationery company, was also optimistic. "Business is booming with us and there is every indication that the activity is going to hold for some time," he said. Trade in holiday stationery and notions is the feature at present. On account of the shortage in various chemicals, bleaching powders, etc., owing to the war, the markets are strong in nearly everything in the paper line. Further advances are expected in wrapping and building papers, and dealers are consequently ordering heavily to get in at the present basis. Paper bags have gone up and cotton goods are higher, in line with the firm cotton market.

The local paper and stationery house is arranging to increase its force of salesmen early in the new year.

HALF MILLION FOR PAVING

Many Important Jobs Are Planned for Next Year.

Expenditures Will Far Exceed Those of Last Season.

One half million dollars will be spent for paving during 1916, according to Commissioner Farrell, head of the works division.

Although the paving program has not been completed, as many of the petitions for the contemplated improvements have not been filed as yet, he said yesterday that $500,000 is a conservative estimate for the work to be done on the public streets and alleys during the next spring and summer. During this year a total of approximately $400,000 was spent for street improvements, out of which the city must pay $120,000 for street intersections. Next year the city's cost will be about $125,000.

Street improvements already assured for next year include the paving of Grand avenue, from Twenty-ninth to Fifty-fourth avenue west; First street, from Sixth to Twenty-third avenue east; First street, from Twentieth to Thirtieth avenue west; Central avenue, from Cody street to the D. M. & N. tracks; Forty-fourth avenue west, from Superior to McCulloch street; Minnesota avenue, from Thirty-eighth to Forty-third street; Railroad street, from First avenue east to St. Paul slip No. 1; Kenilworth avenue, from Vermilion road to Livingston avenue; Sussex avenue, from Snively road to Kenilworth avenue; Fifth avenue west, from Superior street to the court house; Red Wing and Faribault streets, from Woodland avenue to Colman's addition. Petitions for these improvements are now on file.

Petitions for paving Superior street, from Sixteenth to Twenty-third avenue east, and Tenth avenue east, from Sixth to Eleventh street, were presented this week and if found to contain a sufficient number of signatures, will be included among the 1916 improvements.

Among other improvements contemplated by Commissioner Farrell, for which he expects petitions during the coming winter, are the following: Third street, from Lake to Eighteenth avenue east; Eighth street, from Second avenue west to Fourteenth avenue east; Roosevelt street, from Fifty-first to Sixty-first avenue west; Second avenue east, from Second to Sixth street; Sixth avenue east, from Fourth to Eleventh street; Twenty-second avenue east, from Superior to Third street.

THREE SMOTHERED TO DEATH IN MUD

Auto Overturns and Buries Its Occupants in Marsh Near Gary, Ind.

Gary, Ind., Dec. 2.—Two men and a woman were smothered to death in the mud under their automobile which overturned and ground its occupants into the muck of the West Gary marsh last night.

The fire department was called to extricate the bodies of the three victims who have been identified as Mrs. Anna Adkins, 25, of Hammond; M. H. Goodrode, 38, of Chicago, and J. Thompson, 45, of Needles, Cal. Another man seen in the automobile has not been heard from.

The wrecked automobile was discovered by R. M. Schofield of Griffith, Ind., a pedestrian, who noticed the tail light of the car gleaming at the side of the road. He investigated and saw one of the woman's feet sticking out of the mud. Police and firemen were summoned and took out the bodies after much labor.

ELKS PLAN CONVENTION

Arrangements for State Meeting Next June Are Outlined.

Duluth Lodge Is Preparing to Entertain 3,000 Members.

Preliminary plans for the annual convention of the Minnesota State Elks' association to be held in Duluth on June 15 and 16 next, were made at the opening meeting of the general committee held in the lodge rooms last evening.

The committee, headed by A. J. McCulloch, was appointed last week by John Samuelson, exalted ruler of the lodge, and consists of fifty prominent members of the local order, who will be in complete charge of the 1916 convention. For the present the members will endeavor to raise sufficient funds to finance the entertainment for the 3,000 visiting Elks and their families, who are expected to attend the convention.

Within the next few weeks the general committee will be divided into sub-committees and active work in preparing the two-day program will begin.

The convention will open on the morning of Thursday, June 15, and will include an excursion to Fond du Lac, an automobile ride to the steel plant and Morgan Park and an official ball during the two days. Details for the gathering will not be announced until after the first of the year. It is also planned to conduct an extensive publicity campaign throughout the state, so that the 1916 gathering will have the largest attendance in the history of the state association. Last summer the annual meeting was held at Faribault.

The first meeting of the general committee last evening followed a dinner given for the members by the officers of the lodge. Those on the committee are: A. J. McCulloch, chairman; Thomas Sexton, secretary; George Munsey, Harris Bennett, Commissioner J. A. Farrell, J. T. Armstead, W. S. McCormick, P. B. McTague, A. B. Kapplin, R. C. Bruen, William Bloedel, P. E. McCormick, John J. McGrath, J. L. McGrath, J. L. Crawford, E. C. Alstead, E. F. Baker, Louis Bieberman, Chief Joseph Randall, H. J. Huber, Fred G. Kleyn, G. H. TEUTONIC CAMPAIGN AGAINST MONTENEGRO IS PROGRESSING attack against Bulgaria from the east, the present situation gives no indication. A Saloniki dispatch, reporting withdrawal of Field Marshal von Mackensen's forces from the Serbian front to Bulgaria is interpreted in some quarters as confirmation of the second alternative.

With Prisrend in Bulgarian hands, both the Austro-Germans and the Bulgarians have formally announced the completion of their Serbian campaign. Vienna officially estimated the capture of more than 60,000 Serbians by Gen. von Koevess' army during the month of November alone. Moreover it seems certain that the Serbians in their retreat over Albanian mountain passes, encumbered by civilian refugees and made more difficult by wintry weather, were forced to leave behind them a large part of their equipment, heavy artillery, motor cars and transports.

rary restraining order directed against the Indian agents and refused the application for a temporary injunction pending trial of the action in which a permanent injunction is sought.

The decision on Monday was not upon the merits of the case. The only question raised and passed upon by the court was upon a motion for a temporary injunction restraining the government officials from enforcing the liquor provision in the treaty of 1855 during the pendancy of the action. In other words, the temporary injunction sought for was to restrain the Indian agents from in any manner interfering with the Hibbing and Chisholm saloonkeepers until the action had been tried upon its merits and finally disposed of.

Two Questions Raised.

At a trial of the Hibbing-Chisholm case on its merits, two questions have been raised. First, it is claimed that while the provision contained in the treaty was originally valid, it has since become invalid, for the reason that the Indians residing within the territory are no longer Indians, but are citizens of the United States, having become such principally from the fact that all of them, or practically all of them, have received their allotments. In this connection it is further claimed that aside from ceding the territory they have subsequent thereto ceded each and all and every reservation originally reserved in the territory covered by the treaty, and that the territory covered thereby is no longer Indian territory. It is also claimed that the Indians residing in the territory affected have renounced their tribal relations and are no longer under the control, supervision and guardianship of the government.

Secondly, it is contended, that Hibbing and Chisholm are not within the treaty territory. The easterly boundary line of the Indian territory is described as follows:

"Commencing at the point where the East Savannah river empties into the St. Louis river, which is in the village of Floodwood; hence up the St. Louis river to the mouth of the East Swan river; thence up the East Swan river to its source, and from there to the most westerly bend of the Vermilion river.

"The contention of the saloonkeepers is that the East Swan river is the westerly branch of three separate and distinct streams, one having its source in the so-called Kelley lake west of Hibbing; the second having its source in the Longyear lake on the shores of which is located the village of Chisholm; the third having its source in a swamp or marshy land west of Hibbing and east of the village of Alice."

The restraining order issued by Judge Page Morris and subsequent proceedings offered an opportunity to litigate the question as to whether or not the East Swan river had its source in Kelley lake or in Longyear lake. If on this application for a temporary or preliminary injunction, the court should have found that the source was in Kelley lake, he would have issued the injunction until the case was finally disposed of on its merits.

Within Treaty Territory.

Having found that the source of the East Swan river was in Longyear lake, Judge Morris also found that Hibbing and Chisholm were within the treaty territory and therefore discharged the order to show cause why a temporary injunction should not issue, leaving the case open to be decided upon its merits, which will undoubtedly be done when the case is tried by the introduction of evidence. The saloon keepers will endeavor to show by evidence that the Indian no longer exists as an Indian, or in other words that the territory has become a white man's territory. Evidence will also be offered in proof of the contention that the source of the East Swan river is in Kelley lake and not in Longyear lake. And if the court should ultimately find in favor of the saloon keepers upon these two contentions, it will then order judgment in favor of the saloon keepers and issue a permanent injunction, enjoining the government agents from attempting to enforce the treaty provisions.

In other words, the case of the Hibbing and Chisholm saloon keepers has not been tried on its merits. The court has only passed upon a preliminary motion, but has in denying a motion for a temporary injunction held that the source of the East Swan river is in Longyear lake. This, however, does not amount to a judgment upon the merits, and does not bind the court as to what its decision ultimately may be. It does, however, close the saloons at Hibbing and Chisholm pending trial of the action and until the case is disposed of on its merits.

Enforcement of Treaty.

Two other actions are pending in the Federal courts with respect to the Indian treaty and the attempt of the government agents to enforce its provisions. In one action, the Brainerd Brewing company is suing for an injunction against the Indian agents, contending, first, that the Indians no longer exist within the limits of the territory ceded, as Indians, only as persons of Indian blood, and that they are citizens of the United States, and for that reason the liquor prohibition in the treaty is no longer in force. It is also claimed that, even though the provision should be still in force and some Indians still existing within the territory, as wards of the government, it could have no application to the manufacture and introduction and sale of beer within the prohibited territory, for the reason that the treaty specifies ardent spirits and wine, and does not refer to beer. It is pointed out that all congressional legislation has no reference to beer, it only referring action to ardent spirits, wines and other liquors. Beer, not having been recognized as a liquor or an intoxicating beverage at the time that the treaty was made, cannot, it is claimed, be included or read into either the treaty provision or the congresional acts enacted subsequent to the making of the treaty.

The other action was brought by the Gund Brewing company of La Crosse against the railroad companies, seeking judgment for an injunction to compel the railroad companies to transport beer to individuals within the territory for private consumption, not for the purpose of sale or barter. The brewing company takes the position that every citizen within the United States, regardless of where he resides, is entitled to the same rights and privileges that a citizen of any part of the United States is entitled to, and that under the Constitution he is entitled to receive beer for his own personal use, regardless of the provision in the treaty; that the treaty provision must give way to the Constitution; in other words, that the Constitution is greater than any treaty that can be made in behalf of the United States with any government, any people, or Indians.

AFTER YOU ARE FORTY

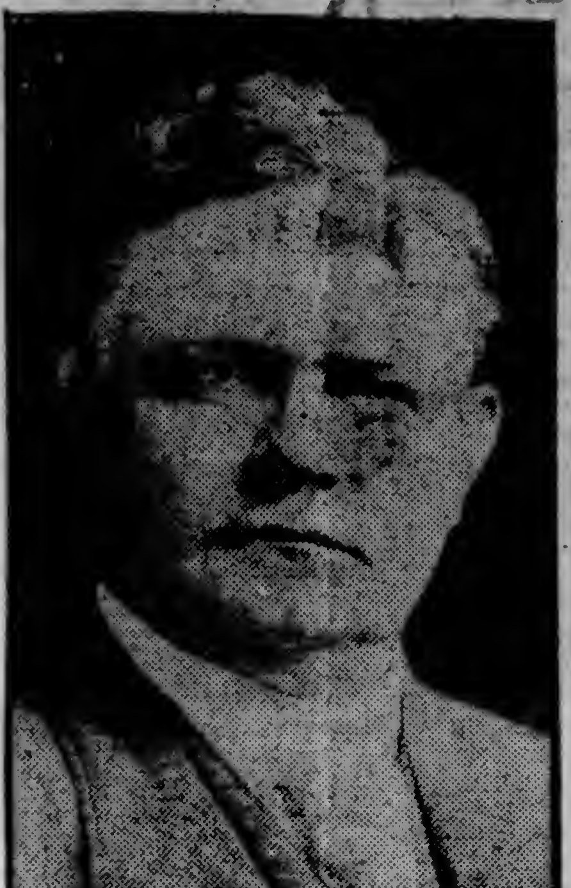
Forty is the age of greatest effort with most people. Vitality is used up at the most rapid pace. The struggle to secure a competence for old age produces nerve strain, the failure to succeed causes worry, nervous breakdown, neurasthenia.

Middle-aged people find that they cannot run as fast, nor are they as agile as in youth. The internal organs also feel the effect of age. The digestion resents things that it accepted before, the heart palpitates on slight exertion, the muscles of the back ache after a day's work. Your blood is thinner and not so bright a red as formerly.

When these things occur, whether you are fourteen or forty, you need a tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suit most people's need because they are non-alcoholic and they really build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful for growing children and for men and women whose nervous energy has been overdrawn. They are certainly worthy of a trial in every case of weak nerves and thin blood.

Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price 50 cents per box, or six boxes $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write today for free booklets on the blood and nerves.

BRINGS SUIT TO CONTEST THE ELECTION OF TOLEDO'S MAYOR



GEORGE A. MURPHY.

Toledo, Ohio, Dec. 2.—A suit to contest the election of Mayor-elect Charles M. Milroy, was begun yesterday by attorneys acting in the behalf of George A. Murphy, former expelled chief of police, whom Milroy defeated at the election a month ago. The suit is based on the contention that second choice votes are unlawful.

The bill charged "that there was a well-defined scheme and plan by which various persons sought to deplete the state treasury" and that the auditors and the state treasurer not only failed to prevent the consummation of this alleged scheme, but "knowingly and wilfully allowed various persons to receive certain sums of money."

That the lieutenant governor failed in an attempt to obtain an appropriation of $10,000 for the expenses of his white slavery investigating committee.

That thereafter he planned a "trick and device whereby the treasury was to be depleted of the sum of $10,000."

That nine vouchers in the name of Charles F. Trick, Clairborne S. Close, Ralph Pope and F. H. O'Hara for pretended services were signed by the lieutenant governor, and that with one exception all were delivered to one person who obtained the money.

That the nine vouchers for various odd amounts totaled exactly $10,000.

UNITED STATES WILL NOT GIVE FORD PEACE PARTY PASSPORTS

The state department does not contemplate that it could stop wireless messages being sent out from a neutral European country calling the soldiers from the trenches, but the belief was expressed today that such messages would necessarily be received in belligerent countries by official government stations and would be promptly suppressed.

Legal authorities in the state department expressed the opinion today that if the peace party went to any belligerent country and attempted to stop the war they might be considered by the country involved as promoters of sedition and treason. The state department has refused a request to send an agent to New York for the special purpose of issuing passports to members of the party.

Ford Announces Plans.

New York, Dec. 2.—Henry Ford returned to New York from Detroit today and made his first announcement of definite plans for his peace expedition which will sail for Europe Saturday on the Scandinavian-American liner Oscar II.

Mr. Ford denied that he had any intention of instigating a strike among the soldiers in the trenches. He said that during the voyage members of his party would be selected as permanent peace delegates to remain in Europe. He expects other neutral nations to send delegations to meet the American peace seekers at some place to be decided upon later, probably The Hague. A general conference will then be held to decide on further steps.

Mr. Ford proposes that the delegation from each neutral country appoint five members of a permanent body. This volunteer court of arbitration will map out schemes for the establishment of peace in the hope of devising terms acceptable to all the belligerents.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE IN THE WATSON CASE

Court Declares Mistrial of Charges Made Against Georgia Editor.

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 2.—A mistrial was declared in Federal court here yesterday in the trial of Thomas E. Watson, the Thomson, Ga., editor and author, charged with having sent obscene matter through the mails. The jury which had had the case before it since Tuesday afternoon reported it could not agree.

Jurors said the vote stood 10 to 2 for acquittal from the first to the last ballot and the foreman reported to the court that the jury "might remain here thirty years and it would never reach a verdict."

The district attorney did not indicate whether he would again place Watson on trial.

The language cited in the indictment occurred in articles attacking the Roman Catholic church, printed in periodicals published at Thomson, of which Watson is editor.

The trial began last Friday, the defendant, as a member of the Georgia bar appearing as his own counsel. He also was the only witness for the defense.

BULGARS HAVE NOT OCCUPIED MONASTIR

Paris, Dec. 2.—Telegraphing from Athens under date of Dec. 1, the correspondent of the Havas agency says:

"The Bulgarians have not yet occupied Monastir. The Serbian army has evacuated the city leaving only a few officers and a small detachment of troops to preserve order. It is supposed the Bulgarians are waiting for reinforcements before entering the city.

"The Serbian commandant at Monastir posted notices throughout the town advising all inhabitants who feared the treatment they might receive at the hands of the Bulgarians to leave the place and that Serbian troops would be engaged in protecting their flight toward the Greek frontier. Serbian refugees who continue to arrive at the Greek border are suffering frightfully from cold, the weather registering 10 degrees Fahrenheit above zero.

URGES EVERYONE TO QUICKLY GET ON WATER WAGON

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.—Advertisement.

ILLINOIS SOLONS RECESS TO FEB. 23

Special Session of Legislature Completes Most of Its Work.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 2.—The special session of the Illinois legislature late last night completed most of the work for which it was called and recessed until Feb. 23. The senate adopted resolutions favoring another special session for the enactment of further foot and mouth disease appropriations and asking the Federal government to reimburse the state for money paid out for slaughter of diseased cattle. The resolution asked the governor to include in its call for a special session provisions for the enactment of legislation creating the white slave investigating committee, the insurance investigating committee, the building law codification committee, and the commission on uniform laws.

Indications last night were that there would be two special sessions early in the year—one the recessed session and the other called in answer to the resolution adopted by the senate last night.

Embroidery Hoop Pin Trays.

Ordinary wooden embroidery hoops have been found useful in a good many ways not originally intended. The Youth's Companion says that they form the foundations of very attractive pin trays. To make one of these trays, use either a pair of six-inch oval hoops or a pair of four-inch round ones. Cover them by winding with half-inch satin ribbon—the round trays will take two yards of it, and the oval trays, two and one-half yards. For the bottom of the tray use a piece of heavy silk, preferably with a figured pattern that lends itself to the shape of the tray. Cut the piece of silk one-half inch larger all round than the smaller hoop, stretch it very tight across that hoop, and sew the edges of the silk to the outside of the hoop. Then place the large hoop over the smaller, and the tray is finished. If the hoops fit tight before they are covered, it will be necessary to sandpaper the sides to allow room for the ribbon covering and the bottom piece. The joining of the ribbon on the hoops should be done on the inside of the larger one and the outside of the smaller one, so that the seams will not show when the hoops are put together.

Four small glass push tacks, such as are sold at photograph supply stores, make excellent feet, and add somewhat to the effectiveness of the tray; but they are not necessary. If a more ornamental tray is wnated, the outside of the larger hoop, or the rim of the tray, may be decorated with fancy stitches—either brierstitch or featherstitch—in colors that harmonize with the tones of the silk used for the bottom of the tray.

Will Be "Miss Duluth" At Pilgrim Noelfest

MISS CONSTANCE MITCHELL.

Sh-h-h! It's not only a dark secret, but a deep one as well. What? Why, the identity of the mammies who will have charge of the plantation dinner that will be served at the Noelfest which the Ladies' Union of Pilgrim Congregational church will hold tomorrow afternoon and night in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church. And that isn't the only secret, for it isn't being told who Juliet is: Juliet, the grand opera star, who will trill and thrill for about ten minutes at a time in one of the side shows. Of course there is to be a Romeo. Other side shows will be the mirrorscope, where pictures of the Panama-Pacific exposition will be shown, and a gypsy tent, where fortunes will be told.

"Miss Duluth Entertains," a pantomime, will be given at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Constance Mitchell will be "Miss Duluth," Mrs. C. H. Dunning will be the maid, and Miss Duluth's callers, who will represent men of different occupations and stations in life, will be Lawrence Scott, Russell Duncan, Frank Falk, Ralph Pinneo, Elbert Wade and Mr. Allensworth. The pantomime, Charlie Chaplin and Ole Olson will be free attractions.

The goose has become a regular member of all Pilgrim sales because of its popularity with the children. For a small consideration it will open its mouth and out will come a present.

Mrs. Duncan Hostess.

Mrs. Charles A. Duncan will be the hostess at the Japanese booth where tea will be served. At 3 o'clock Mrs. O. J. Larson will sing a Japanese lullaby. Those in Japanese costume, who will assist Mrs. Duncan, are Mrs. Martin L. Jenks, Mrs. Howard Manley, Mrs. David Duncan, Mrs. J. A. Bradley, Miss Eunice Simonds, Miss Margaret Beattie and Miss Teresa Beattie. Brewer Mattocks and Master Hart, dressed as Japanese pages, will pass the cups. The tea garden will be in charge of Circle No. 1, of which Mrs. James L. Crawford is chairman.

Mrs. T. J. Davis bought the green decorations that were used at the Charity ball and presented them to the Noelfest committee. Ropes of ground pine and evergreen trees will give the parlor a Christmas appearance. The dinner tables will be decorated with white candles and southern smilax.

Circle No. 4, of which Mrs. R. A. Webster is the chairman, will have charge of a booth in addition to the dinner. This booth will be decorated in the national colors.

Small shoppers will be attracted to the booth of Circle No. 2, of which Mrs. W. N. Hart is the chairman. Here doll finery will be on sale and there will be a few things for real babies. Finely dressed dolls will be a specialty.

A background of frost and trimmings of evergreens will be used at the candy and fancy work booth of Circle No. 3, of which Mrs. W. A. McGonagle is the chairman.

The sale will open at 1 o'clock.

The majority of them are conducted by secretaries of the association and the young women themselves after the plan of college and university association meetings. Last week Miss Ida M. Dodd, industrial secretary, reviewed the book "Everybody's Lonesome" and made appropriate application to the lives of association girls. Next Sunday Miss Lydia Nelson will speak on the words of Christ "Be of Good Cheer." All young women are invited to these informal meetings. Those who are not members of churches are especially invited to come to the meetings, which are followed by social hours.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Keeping a Cash Account.

If there were places where women could take lessons in the art or knack of spending money intrusted to them, domestic happiness, I believe, would be increased two-fold. There are cooking schools and schools of embroidery and others to give instruction in other lines. It is only recently that attention has been directed toward the subject of household finance and economics. It is a most important subject.

The first requirement of the woman who knows too little about the cost of supplies, what is actually needed and what leeway must be made for incidentals and unexpected needs that are always cropping up, is a cash book, in which every item of expense may be set down.

This is extremely valuable, for two reasons in addition to the methodical training it gives. It creates a record that makes it possible to experiment week by week in the effort to reduce expenses and, more than all else, serves as conclusive proof to the head of the family, when he asks you what you did with the money he gave you last week, that it has not been wantonly squandered.

There is nothing more discouraging to the woman who does her best with the money allotted her for household expenses than to have a doubt raised as to her management, or even her integrity, as sometimes happens, with regard to the disposition of the family funds. Most husbands do not mean to be unfair in the matter, nor are they always when they charge their wives with poor management. Certainly many women do not give the matter due consideration, while others, though careful and conscientious, cannot always account for funds through lack of any bookkeeping.

A cash account certainly would be the means of helping both classes.

Bureau of Standards Issues "Measurements for Household"

Tells How to Get Best Results for Least Cost—Lighting and Temperature Among the Topics.

From the Springfield Republican: Economical housekeeping is not a mere matter of having hash for lunch instead of chops. If it were only as simple as that perhaps it would be easier to make purse and pantry keep step, even with the eccentric habits that purses have taken under our Nineteenth century methods of filling them. But unfortunately the best intentions in the world and hash in all its seventy-nine varieties won't stop up leaks in other branches of the family budget. In heating, for instance, or lighting, or refrigeration, the housekeeper's problem in economics is not to get along with as little as possible, but to get the family needs properly met by spending as little money as possible; this is a very different matter, and a matter that leads us through bypaths of many sciences if we follow it up persistently. Still it isn't reasonable to expect one woman to be at the same time an expert physicist, chemist and cost accountant, even though we do continue to take it for granted that she is at once a trained cook, a skilled dressmaker and a first-class nurse. Accordingly the national bureau of standards at Wshington is coming to her rescue with a pamphlet called "Measurements for the Household," a pamphlet which gives in usable form the practical household bearing of the results of much scientific investigation.

Question of Lighting.

Lighting is one of the subjects treated. What kind of lighting is most economical? Of course comparing your monthly bills for a certain type of gas fixture with your neighbor's for a certain kind of electric lamp, proves nothing at all as to the real cost. It would prove nothing even if the two houses used their lights exactly the same length of time in exactly the same number of rooms, or there would still be the question of which fixtures gave more light; anyone who is willing to sit in the dark can keep his light bills down, to be sure, but he hasn't made any very helpful discoveries on the economy of lighting. What the housekeeper wants to know is not what sort of fixtures are cheapest, but what sort are cheapest for a given amount of light, and here the bureau's scientists are ready with an answer. Their answer is a comparison of the cost of producing 1,000 candle-hours by means of various illuminants; the cost is based on the following prevailing prices: Candles, 12 cents a pound; kerosene, 15 cents a gallon; gas, $1 for 1,000 cubic feet; electricity, 10 cents a kilowatt hour.

At these rates a gas or kerosene mantle will use up 5 cents in fuel; a tungsten electric lamp, 11 cents; a kerosene flame 20 cents; an open gas flame or a gem electric lamp, 25 cents; a carbon electric lamp, 35 cents; and the candles used by our frugal forefathers, $2.08. A neat little row of silhouets lines up the various types of gas burners in the order of the gas they burn in a given length of time. First comes the open fishtail-flame burner, with an average cost of 6 cents; then the inverted mantle and upright mantle, with an average of 3.5 cents; then the open flame turned down very low, one cent; then the pilot light, two-fifths of a cent. The moral is plain for the family who go down to dinner leaving the gas turned as low as they can turn it, but think they can't afford the convenience of a pilot light because it would use up so much gas. This last comparison of costs is not as conclusive as it looks at first, for it doesn't take into consideration the fact that one mantle gives many times as much light as one open flame, or the fact that an inverted mantle wastes almost none of its light in upward rays that are not useful for ordinary purposes, which cannot be said for the upright mantle.

Temperatures.

Temperature is another subject on which it is well to have definite facts. Milk, for instance, we know should be kept cold; but how cold? The bureau's pamphlet gives a starting point in the information that milk kept at 60 deg. Fahrenheit develops about fifteen times as many bacteria in the course of a day as milk at 50 degs. Studies made by the government's scientists show that air cooled by ice in an icebox drops straight down, and is replaced by more drawn in from the top. The coldest place, therefore, is right under the ice, and that is where the butter, milk and meat can best be kept. Ice frees the incoming air of its odors, so if strong foods must be kept in the refrigerator the place for them is right over the ice.

When it comes to the measures themselves, thermometers and bushel baskets are notorious contradicters. The householder is advised to test his own thermometers for ordinary purposes, and to use no clinical thermometer that has not been standardized by the bureau or by a reputable maker. Melting snow will test the 32 degs. mark, and steam the 212 degs. mark, except that in working for the boiling point it is necessary to allow for the hight above sea level. Yardsticks and foot rules should be made of metal or else of well-dried wood metal bound at the ends. Food can be more accurately measured by weight, and should be bought so, as far as possible, but spring scales should be avoided unless they are checked by accurate weights.

WILL CLOSE ENGAGEMENT.

Tonight "The Birth of a Nation" will close its engagement of nearly three weeks at the Lyceum.

The slave trade in America, slavery as it existed prior to the war and the progress the colored people made after the war are well exemplified in "The Birth of a Nation."

This phase of political conditions is traced strikingly from the importation of the first slaves to the troubles that grew out of their freedom and consequent enfranchisement and the subsequent tribulations of the South under carpetbag rule.

As a sort of prologue to the drama, the arrival of the first "cargo" of slaves is presented with historic fidelity. From this the scene changes to ante-bellum days, depicting the conditions of tho negroes in the South at that time. Then comes the turmoil of war, and, finally, the rule of black over white, with a mulatto lieutenant governor in the capitol of South Carolina and the Ku Klux Klan riding through the country-side to rescue their women and preserve their traditions.

Music lovers are as pleased with this presentation as they would be over a big musical event, as its score of martial music, patriotic airs and folk songs is played by an orchestra, which greatly enhances the emotional power of the splendid work.

Theater Gossip.

SOME BIG SCENES IN LYRIC FILM.

A circus, a canal and a canal boat form the settings for winsome Marguerite Clark's latest picture, "Still Waters" at the Lyric today. A company of Paramount-Famous Players spent three weeks on the banks of a great canal in order to get the scenes which show little Nesta (Marguerite Clark) and her old grandfather on the canal boat which is their home. An entire circus was leased for the purpose of getting the action which takes place in and around the big tent life, when the ringmaster, having marked Nesta for his prey, attempts to force his attentions upon her.

"Still Waters" was written especially for Miss Clark by Edith Barnard Delano, the well known novelist. The Lyric is the new home of Paramount pictures.

Fun and laughter in abundance are furnished by the celebrated comedian, Eddie Foy, and the seven little Foys. Father Foy is funny enough, but the seven little Foys are even funnier. They will be at the Rex Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

NEW SHOW AT THE GRAND

A pleasing program of vaudeville and photoplays makes up the bill for the week end at the New Grand beginning today. Heading the vaudeville part of the program are the Three Mori Brothers in their latest European novelty, "Japanese Pastimes," which include juggling, gymnastics, acrobatics and thrilling and daring hand and foot balancing.

Dunbar and Connolly offer a conglomeration of wit and humor. Some new songs, and clever dances as well as rich and interesting repartee and other good things in a vaudeville way mark them as one of the hits of the bill.

Robert and Robert, a man and a dog in an impressive skit, "A True Friend," have one of the best novelties of the bill. The dog Robert seems endowed with almost human intelligence and goes through his part of the performance without a hitch or any prompting whatever.

Heading the photoplays is "The Woman's Share," a two-reel drama with a strong plot and a timely theme, ably played by an all-star Vitagraph cast. One of "The Ventures of Marguerite" stories, "A Society Schemer," two comedies and the Hearst-Selig News make up the remainder of a well put up entertainment.

ISAAC BROWNSTEIN BUYS A GOLD BRICK

Chicago Jeweler Complains to Police of Deal Put Over on Him.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—The parting of the ways came today to Isaac Brownstein and Aaron Sherman, friends of long standing and both jewelers, when Brownstein with tears in his eyes complained to the police that his friend Sherman had aided in persuading him to buy a gold brick.

"It is not alone the money, though $360 is much money," said Brownstein at the police station after making the charge. "But that this, my friend, would use me so!"

According to Brownstein a test of the supposed bar of gold was made with alcohol instead of acid before he bought the brick. "After I got it I put acid on it and it was only brass," he said.

Brownstein after making a formal charge against Sherman was willing to accept his friend's offer to pay half of the cost of the gold brick but the police refused to permit the compromise.

LITTLE LIQUOR WAS DESTROYED

John Adams, secretary of the Mesaba Wholesale Liquor company of Hibbing, who is in Duluth today, claims that little liquor was destroyed in Hibbing as the saloon men of both Hibbing and Chisholm had been carrying a very low stock for the last thirty days.

"Very little liquor was shipped in from outside during that time," said Mr. Adams. "Most of the stock was bought in Hibbing and bought in very small quantities. I know that there were very few barrels of whisky on hand, and I also know that most of the liquor destroyed after the closing of the saloons, was beer. Hibbing saloon keepers had prepared for the closing, and when it came they had very small stocks."

"I don't know what I am going to do," said he, "and a lot of the others have not the least idea as to their future occupation. But we do know that we are going to keep on fighting. We haven't given up yet. We don't believe that Hibbing is in the Indian treaty district, and we are going to try to prove we're right."

THEY REFUSE TO EAT

At periods in most childrens' lives they fail to relish their meals and refuse to eat even the delicacies prepared to tempt their appetites. They lack ambition, and growth seems impeded, which causes anxiety and worry.

To compel them to eat is a grave mistake, because nutrition is impaired. Healthful exercise in fresh air and sunshine is important, but equally important is a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion three times a day to feed the tissues and furnish food-energy to improve their blood, aid nutrition and sharpen their appetites.

The highly concentrated medicinal-food in Scott's Emulsion supplies the very elements children need to build up their strength. They relish Scott's—it is free from alcohol.

STEEL PLANT IS FEATURE

Federal Reserve Bank Agent Makes Most Optimistic Report.

Recognizes Opening of Duluth Plant as of Prime Importance.

Optimism is the keynote of the November report of John H. Rich, agent of the Ninth district regional Federal reserve bank at Minneapolis. The blowing in of the Minnesota Steel company's blast furnaces here is especially referred to as a favorable development. The report says:

"The notable feature of the month in the Ninth Federal reserve district has been an increasing optimism over the immediate business outlook and prospects for at least the first half of 1916. November as a whole has been the best month of the year. Collections are very good. Orders are large. All classes of business are active and the lumber business, in which there has been some depression, has undergone a very noticeable improvement. The predictions of representative concerns in all parts of the district are that December will be a big month and that the new year will start with business on an active and healthy basis, and with a very favorable outlook. Financial circles are beginning to look for a more active demand for money.

Opening of Duluth Plant.

"A development of the month, that will later exert a favorable influence upon lines of business using steel and steel products, is the opening of the new plant of the Minnesota Steel company at Duluth. This concern, which is owned by the United States Steel corporation, has blown in furnaces that will require 2,000 tons of iron ore daily and will have a production for the present of 1,000 tons of pig iron per day. Its present payroll is from 1,500 to 1,600 men, with wage disbursements of approximately $100,000 per month. Steel billets will be the only production at the plant for some weeks to come, because of delay in completing the equipment of the rail and other mills. When in full operation, the plant, which is one of the most modern in the United States and is of great extent, will produce a full line of plates, structural shapes and other steel products. The plant of the Universal Portland Cement company, which is being completed in conjunction with the steel plant, will begin operations on Feb. 1. The policy of both companies has been to retain as many of the men employed in construction as can be used. The steel and iron industry regards the new steel plant as a guarantee of prompt delivery of material, and reports that it will enable many large concerns to reduce the amount of stock usually carried, and the investment therein.

Heavy Ore Shipments.

"November closes with unusually heavy shipments of iron ore down the lakes and with the close of navigation very near at hand, reliable estimates are that the shipments from the Minnesota ranges this year will be approximately 9,000,000 tons ahead of last year, and equal to the heaviest previous season the ranges have known. The very heavy production has created a condition of great business activity and optimism throughout the northern section of Minnesota, which is reflected outside of the mining districts.

"The railroad and terminal situation continues good. At the Twin Cities and at the Duluth-Superior terminals the various lines have been able to take care of the incoming rush of wheat without congestion. There have been some reports of car shortage at local points, but reports from the individual lines show no difficulty in meeting the situation, although should the traffic movement increase to any appreciable degree, there will be difficulty in providing cars to move it.

Big Wheat Movement.

"Receipts of wheat in Minneapolis and Duluth from Sept. 1 to Nov. 20, inclusive of bonded wheat, were 115,807,000 bushels, as against 88,047,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis receipts for this period are 10,901,000 bushels ahead of last year and Duluth receipts were 6,859,000 bushels ahead of a year ago.

"Flour production, for some time past, has been upon a maximum basis, while there have been heavy demands for both flour and wheat to fill foreign orders and very large purchases of wheat for mills in all parts of the country. These demands have drawn heavily upon incoming wheat, absorbing the greater portion and leaving only a limited amount to go in store. For the week ending Nov. 20, Minneapolis mills produced 459,405 barrels of flour, to which Duluth-Superior mills added 45,200 barrels and the so-called 'outside mills,' 284,265 barrels.

Agricultural Conditions Good.

"Over the district as a whole farmers are in excellent condition. A considerable amount of farm construction work is under way. Reports from line lumber yards show a good demand for material for permanent improvements. The movement of grain is general. A very large amount of grain is held back in storage on the farm. It is noticeable throughout the grain territory that a considerable amount of temporary storage has been provided this year in the form of metal grain bins or rough wooden structures built in the fields, and that a large part of the crop will move very gradually to the market in accordance with future price advances. Farmers are looking for an advance in grain prices, and there has been a general disposition to not market more than sufficient to meet current obligations and provide for late fall work."

DIRECTORS INNOCENT OF ONE OF CHARGES

Court Throws Out Part of Testimony Against New Haven Men.

New York, Dec. 2.—William Rockefeller and his ten co-defendants accused as one time directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, of criminal violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, were declared innocent yesterday of one of the principal charges preferred against them by the government. This was the alleged unlawful acquisition in 1907 of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway company, a line with a New York charter, but which the government charges was bought by the New Haven to prevent its extension into New England as a competitor.

Judge Hunt, presiding at the trial threw the government's testimony out of court, ruling that it had failed to show that the defendants had any criminal intent in acquiring the road. This was at the end of two days of argument by counsel and testimony by Charles S. Mellen and others as to whether the road was projected and acquired for the purpose of carrying on interstate commerce.

The court held that, while the original projectors of the road may have had some such purpose in mind, there was nothing to show that the New Haven directors had such a purpose in acquiring it—in effect that the Westchester was an intrastate line.

While the government begged leave and was granted opportunity to submit further evidence to prove the contention, Judge Hunt made it plain that it would have to be of the strongest character to upset his ruling, which ordered all the Westchester testimony thus far given, stricken from the record.

AGUA PRIETA MAY BE AGAIN ATTACKED

Gen. Obregon Bringing Back Troops for Defense of the City.

Douglas, Ariz., Dec. 2.—Prospect of another attack on Agua Prieta, with consequent menace to this city just across the border; concern over the safety of Americans in territory where Villa's scattered forces are roaming, and the possibility of a reorganization of the Villa government and the election of a new president by the sovereign convention to be held soon at Juarez, were the focal points of interest today in the series of quick moving events in Mexico.

Gen. Alvaro Obregon, the Carranza chieftain, was at Agua Prieta today, having made a hasty trip by automobile from Nogales, Sonora, last night, to assist Col. Dato Campbell in arrangements for defense against a threatened attack by Villa forces.

Mining men here are much concerned over the reported capture by Villa soldiers of John Cunningham, an Oklahoma attorney, and G. Hendricks, H. G. Southern and Rafael Varela. The last three named are owners of the La Osa mine near Churunibabi, fifteen miles north of Nacozari.

The four men were last seen on Monday when they left Fronteras for La Osa mine. Since then nothing has been heard from them. Arrivals tonight from Esqueda reported fighting all day near Cos, a few miles north of Nacozari, indicating that the military train bearing nearly 700 Carranza soldiers had not succeeded in retreating to Nacozari as was reported, but probably had been trapped and the men forced to battle with a much larger force of Villa troops.

Fire at Emporia College.

Emporia, Kan., Dec. 2.—Stuart Hall, the main building at the college of Emporia, was destroyed by fire early today. Defective electric wiring is believed to have been the cause. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

FOR MINNESOTA!

The meeting yesterday in St. Paul of the All-Minnesota Development Conference, which gathered at the call of Governor Winfield Scott Hammond, was in many respects one of the most notable events in the history of the state.

Minnesota is at last on the right track. In the past there has been too much tendency to saddle the word "Minnesota" with geographical belittlements—there has been too much "Southern Minnesota," too much "Western Minnesota," too much "Northern Minnesota." The time has come to band together for JUST MINNESOTA—and the All-Minnesota Development Conference points the way and supplies the machinery.

The meeting was splendidly representative of the whole state. It elected a live set of officers. It adopted a practical and constructive set of resolutions. It decided on a permanent organization.

It was an eye-opener to the men from the north to find the men from the south fully acquainted with the problems and possibilities of Northern Minnesota, and as ready to work to meet these problems and to realize these possibilities as the men of the north are to do the like for the problems and possibilities of the south.

It is significant that the first plank in the platform of progress is a warm approval of Amendment No. 1, the reclamation amendment, which if it can be ratified at the polls next year will become the most important measure ever adopted by the state and its people.

The resolutions are broad, statewide in their scope and splendidly constructive. They urge national and state work for rural credits, and the ratification of the constitutional amendment authorizing the loaning of permanent state funds on improved farm property; they urge greater liberality in road work; they press for a more liberal treatment of the immigration bureau; they ask for a state soil survey, which is vitally needed; they recommend broader educational facilities; they urge city and country to get together and discover and forward their common interests; they recommend drainage outlets on a large scale; they favor forestry work, but when it comes to selecting lands for forestry purposes they wisely recommend that the selection be made by those interested primarily in agriculture, which would be an assurance that the state forests will not absorb land that can be used for farming; they urge better conservation of game and fish.

This movement is for JUST MINNESOTA—for a wider policy of state development that will profit all sections alike. No section can prosper without benefitting the whole. No section can be unjustly held back without injuring the whole. Through the agency of the All-Minnesota Development Conference there is at least a medium for joint work behind which can be put the mighty impact of the whole state; and this is a thing for which this newspaper has hoped and work for years.

A noble start was made yesterday in a movement that in after years will be looked upon as opening a new era in the state's history. Success to it!

A BIG PUBLIC SERVICE.

The public night school is comparatively a recent development in education: yet it is rapidly coming to be one of the most important, particularly when it takes up technical subjects, and by helping young men and women to equip themselves for earning a better living strives to remedy the failure of the day public school to meet the practical needs of society.

Duluth has made admirable advances in this direction, and as the years pass its activities will certainly grow, probably with rapidity.

Chicago has what is probably the largest and best night public school in the world —the Lane Technical evening school. Its registration this session is nearly six thousand, and the actual attendance during one recent week was nearly four thousand. Classes have been formed in every subject for which there is a serious demand, and the work covers a wide field. Some of this year's new courses are automobile engineering, design for interior decoration, steam engineering, chemistry for engineers, vocational guidance, embroidery and braiding, advertising and salesmanship and metallurgy for foundry foremen.

Students may have high school work and the first two years of college at the Lane school. Many who have been unable to take ordinary high school courses because they had to go to work are not only getting a high school education, but a good deal of what they would otherwise have to go to college to get. The following figures of nightly attendance in some of the studies, given by the Chicago Herald, will give some idea of the activities of this highly practical institution:

Business course	238
Chemistry	90
Bookkeeping	352
Electrical department	275
Drawing	451
Machine shop	135
High school English	202
Physical education for women	189
Sewing and millinery	433
Spanish	154
Stenography	360
Typewriting	192
Woodshop	133

The students conduct a weekly paper; have a weekly dance; help at Sunday concerts; maintain an orchestra; stage plays; and attend free moving picture shows given at the school.

Chicago may well be proud of this exceedingly valuable institution, and other cities, to the limit of their capacity, should emulate it.

Along about now it is always appropriate to spend an evening reading Dicken's "Christmas Carol."

PROSPERITY!

Watch Duluth grow!

Last evening a number of startling facts about what is going on in Duluth these days were collected in a local article in The Herald. Here are some of them:

There are three thousand more men employed in Duluth today than there were a year ago. That's payrolls—and payrolls make the foundation of the prosperity of all of us.

Bank clearings in Duluth for November were by many millions the largest in history—fifteen millions more than for the same month a year ago.

Deposits in Duluth banks are the largest on record—millions ahead of 1912, Duluth's best previous year in banking.

In November the Duluth market handled more grain than in any other month in its history—five and a half million bushels more than in November last year.

Building permits for the month were more than half again as many as in November of last year.

Railroads, with much larger crews than usual, are having difficulty in keeping pace with the business that offers.

Merchants, retail and wholesale, are enjoying the biggest business on record, even in times that ranked as abundantly prosperous.

Theaters are doing the biggest business they ever knew—and that's a pretty good index because amusements are luxuries.

All this, with the winter, usually a dull time, just beginning!

It will be a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year in Duluth, sure enough!

Watch Duluth grow!

The moving picture machine in school may do to teach geography and history, but not even the movies will interest some boys in arithmetic.

THE COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS.

Last year Duluth had a community Christmas tree which was a big success. Everybody had a good time, and the results were better neighborliness, a kinder mutuality and a broader appreciation of the spirit of Christmas.

Mayor Prince, under whose auspices last year's celebration was held, is planning to have it again this year. That's good! Let's all get into the game and help make it bigger and better than last year.

It would relieve the congressional argumentation peril materially if that body could be induced to put the quietus on that old standby, "leave to print."

WHO SHALL MAKE MUNITIONS?

"Any scheme," says the Boston Transcript, "to prohibit the private manufacture of powder and shells by private manufacturers, and give a monopoly in the making of war munitions to the government, is vicious and unpatriotic."

Is it? We wonder!

Of course no such scheme is seriously proposed. What is seriously proposed by some is not to prohibit the private manufacture of munitions, but simply to provide that the government shall make all the munitions IT uses.

That's different. The idea of that is to make it so that private interests won't have a selfish incentive to encourage extravagance in national military expenses.

That's neither vicious nor unpatriotic. Quite the contrary, in fact. It seems like a pretty wholesome idea.

It is notorious that shortly before the war it was shown in the German reischstag that the Krupps tried to bribe the Paris Figaro to print false news of the purchase of machine guns by France. What the Krupps wanted to do was to scare Germany into scrapping all her equipment and buying a new outfit—to the profit of the Krupps.

It is monstrous to permit the existence of a condition that gives citizens of a country a selfish interest in promoting war.

What would you give for a European kid's chances for a merry Christmas?

And yet, if Ford should manipulate an end to the war, who'd care who did it just so it was done?

It is said that high altitudes diminish the efficiency of gasoline. If that rule applies to the price, it won't be long before the stuff won't be worth a tenth of what it costs.

The Forecast

By Savoyard.

Washington, Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Our dear, delightful, guileless Republican friends pretend to be in very optimistic mood. I met one of them, an Ohio journalist, resident at this capital, at the Press club the other evening, and he gravely assured me that the election of 1916 would be a mere formality, so certain is he of the triumph of the G. O. P. In vain I represented to him that more signs pointed to a Democratic victory than to a Republican. He was deaf to all I said and contemptuous of my history, which I shall give you, such as it is.

Since and inclusive of 1860 there have been fourteen presidential elections. I mention the year because it was in 1860 that the first Republican was elected to the presidency. Now let us run the thing down and see how frequently the result of the congressional election two years preceding the presidential election forecast the result of the presidential election.

* * *

In 1858, two years before Mr. Lincoln's first election, the Republicans secured a plurality in the Thirty-sixth congress chosen that year and two years later Mr. Lincoln was elected president by a plurality of the popular vote and a majority of the electoral vote. In 1862 the Republicans had a majority in the Thirty-eighth congress, choosing Schuyler Colfax speaker, and that election forecast the re-election of Mr. Lincoln in 1864. In 1866 the Republicans had a majority in the Fortieth congress, again electing Schuyler Colfax speaker, and Gen. Grant, the Republican candidate, carried the country for president in 1868. In 1870 the Republicans had a majority in the Forty-second congress, electing James G. Blaine speaker, and Gen. Grant was re-elected president two years thereafter.

Now we come to 1874. That year the Democrats swept the country for the first time since 1856. Michael C. Kerr was elected speaker, and two years later, as all intelligent men know, and all candid men agree, the Democratic candidate for president, Samuel J. Tilden, was elected president. The year 1878 was the first real exception to the rule that the by-congressional election forecast the result of the presidential election. In 1878 the Democrats got a majority in the Forty-sixth congress, of which Samuel J. Randall was speaker, but in 1880 James A. Garfield was elected president, owing to the fact that he carried New York by a slender plurality.

In 1882 the Democrats secured a majority in the Forty-eighth congress, John G. Carlisle was chosen speaker, and two years later Grover Cleveland was elected president. And now we come to the second exception. In 1886 the Democrats had a majority in the national house of representatives. Mr. Carlisle was again chosen speaker, but owing to a treaty of amity and mutual advantage between the "Party of Great Moral Ideas" and the grog-shop in the Empire state, Ben Harrison, the Republican candidate, carried New York and became president.

But in 1890 the Democrats swept the country, got the biggest majority in the house of representatives any party ever had in that body, chose Charles F. Crisp speaker of the Fifty-second congress, and two years later Grover Cleveland, the Democrat, again was elected president. In 1894, owing to the financial panic that was spawn of the Republican legislation known as the Sherman silver law, the Republicans carried the congress, electing Thomas B. Reed speaker, and two years later that party secured the presidency for William McKinley. In 1898 the Republicans had a majority in the Fifty-sixth congress, David B. Henderson, speaker, and two years later McKinley was re-elected president. In 1902 the Republicans carried congress, choosing Joseph G. Cannon speaker, and in 1904 the Republican candidate, Theodore Roosevelt, was elected president. In 1906 the Republicans for the seventh successive time gained a majority in the national house of representatives, chose Joseph G. Cannon speaker, and in 1908 that party elected William H. Taft president. Those eight successive Republican victories, each and all, were due to that 16-to-1 nonsense the Democratic party linked itself to when it repudiated Grover Cleveland.

* * *

But in 1910 the Democrats swept the country, attained a big majority in the Sixty-second congress, chose Champ Clark speaker, and two years thereafter Woodrow Wilson was elected president on the Democratic ticket. And in 1914 the Democrats not only secured a majority in the house of representatives of the Sixty-fourth congress, but materially increased their majority in the senate, to such a degree that for the first time since the birth of the Republican party seats on the Republican side of the chamber will be requisitioned to accommodate Democrats who cannot find room on the Democratic side of the chamber.

The foregoing mighty nearly establishes the rule that the party which gains a majority in a house of representatives chosen in mid-term of a president succeeds in electing the president the following grand quadrennial inquest of the nation. Even counting Hayes as duly elected we have the rule eleven times with three exceptions since 1860, a period of fifty-five years, and if we except Hayes—and we have the testimony of U. S. Grant, Roscoe Conkling and David Davis for that—the rule has maintained twelve times in a possible fourteen.

I see nothing to discourage the Democrats in the situation. And remember the G. O. P. will have to tell the Germans in their platform, in their campaign literature, in their stump eloquence, and in their newspaper press, where its candidates stand on this proposal to put an embargo on the sale and shipment of munitions of war to the allies who are now in death grapple with Germany on the field of Mars in Europe. This year the G. O. P. was silent on that subject, and reaped a rich harvest of votes as a consequence. Next year "silence" won't do.

Paying for Preparedness

New York World: There are signs of dissatisfaction among the leading advocates of preparedness over the administration's plan of making wealth instead of poverty bear the greater burden of the cost. They seem to be pleased enough with the proposed retention of the duty on sugar, which is largely paid from the consumption of the poor. But the proposed extension of the income taxes especially grieves them as a new "aggression upon people of any substance."

Those who compose the navy leagues and the security leagues and the other leagues for larger measures of national defense are generally people of substance. They are also people of intelligence. They are in no haze of mind that these measures cost money, and that more money means more taxes unless we are going to shuffle the burden off on the next generation through bond issues.

How shall this money be raised? Chiefly by taxes on poverty or chiefly by taxes on wealth such as taxes on incomes?

Lord Northcliffe recently said that "before the beginning of next year my income tax will be $2.50 on every $5 of income," and he declared himself and his class reconciled to this condition. Our income-tax rates do not at most exceed 7 per cent, and will not largely exceed the present rates of from 1 to 7 per cent, under the proposed administration plan which would extend them to somewhat smaller incomes than are now taxed.

If the patriots of preparedness think this plan is an "aggression upon people of any substance," against 50 per cent income taxes in England, just how deep is their loud devotion to the cause of securer national defense? Is preparedness worth while only insofar as the costs can be assessed against poverty in taxes on consumption?

The Influence of Dreams.

Pascal: If we dreamt the same thing every night, it would affect us as the objects we see every day. And if an artisan were sure to dream every night for twelve hours' duration that he was a king I believe he would be almost as happy as a king who should dream every night for twelve hours on end that he was an artisan.

Mexico and the Catholics

Editorial in the New York Evening Post.

Today's publication of the long letter of the president's private secretary, Mr. Tumulty, to a fellow-Catholic, with accompanying documents, is undoubtedly to be taken, first of all, as an effort of the administration to allay Catholic feeling in this country. This has shown itself much inflamed by Mr. Wilson's course towards Mexico, and particularly by the stories of shocking cruelties to priests and nuns which have come across the border. The charge has been made that these outrages were committed by the soldiers of Carranza's armies, if not under direct orders of the military authorities, at least with their wicked acquiescence. Hence, it has been alleged, to recognize Carranza as de facto president of Mexico is to make our government tolerant of monstrous crimes, and to offer a deadly insult to the Catholic church. It is not only Catholic citizens and newspapers that have taken up the cry. Mr. Roosevelt has, in pursuance of his avowed purpose to "tear Wilson to pieces," caught up the reports from Mexico, given them full credit, and made them the basis of railing accusations. It must be to such assertions as his that the Tumulty letter refers when it says: "Any effort to drag out all the horrors of a fratricidal war and put them on parade, to paint only the dark side, to keep open wounds when that country is prostrate in sorrow and its people praying for peace, is scarcely a labor which any friend of Mexico would undertake, or in which any man could find pride."

The question of fact is admittedly difficult. It will not be disposed of by this official publication. Indeed, Mr. Tumulty frankly concedes that in the turmoil of civil war in Mexico, with guerrilla bands operating in various parts of the republic, horrible things have been done. But he contends that the Washington administration has done all that it could to safeguard Catholics in Mexico. He also asserts that there has been a vast exaggeration of the actual outrages, and, in particular, that the accounts of widespread violation of nuns by a ruthless soldiery have been without warrant in fact. After careful official inquiry, not one authentic case of this infamy has been brought to the knowledge of our state department. It is hard, if not impossible, to prove a negative in such a matter. We presume it to be highly probable that there have been a few cases of outraged nuns. But it is certain that there have not been nearly so many as freely charged. And to some specific allegations the Tumulty letter gives a quietus. For example, in "The Book of Red and Yellow," printed by the Catholic Church Extension Society of America, there is a chapter dealing with "The Persecution of the Sisters." One of the latter makes a sworn statement about what she saw with her own eyes, in which occurs the following:

> In Mexico City I have seen with the utmost regret many religious who have been victims of the unbridled passions of the soldiers. Many I found bemoaning their misfortune, being about to become mothers, some in their own homes and others in maternity hospitals. Others have allowed themselves to be carried away by their misfortune and have given up all, filled with desperation and shame. They complain against God, saying that they have been abandoned by Him.

To this, Mr. Tmulty is able to oppose the testimony of the vicar-general of the archbishopric of Mexico City, Antonio J. Paredes. In a report dated Jan. 22, 1915, he says:

> With reference to the violation of nuns (senoras religiosas), I am positive that no one of them within the archbishopric has suffered an attack upon her honor, and I have been unable to confirm the rumors that violated nuns have arrived in this capital from other places. Inasmuch as all religious affairs come to the office of which I am in charge, I consider the above rumors as entirely false.

This is authoritative for these particular charges, and ought to make even Mr. Roosevelt hesitate before believing every story of the kind that comes to him.

If the Mexican government of today is severe in its attitude towards the Catholic church, this is no more than all Mexican governments have been for the past sixty years. There can be no understanding of the Catholic question in Mexico today which does not take into account what has gone before. Mexico has a body of anti-Clerical legislation so drastic as to make the most extreme measures of France in recent years seem mild by comparison. The so-called "Laws of Reform," worked out by Lerdo and Juarez and Comonfort during the struggles of many years, were an attack upon the ancient privileges of the Mexican church more sweeping than anything which Carranza has done or proposed. Whether those anti-Clerical laws were justified or not, we do not here discuss. Our sole point is that they, and the treatment of priests and nuns that went along with them, were never alleged as a reason why the United States should not recognize those earlier Mexican presidents. But now we are told that Carranza ought not to be recognized because he is anti-Clerical, and because crimes such as used to stain former revolutions in Mexico have again been committed during the past three years. Nowhere is there any proof that Carranza himself is personally responsible; but everything that drunken soldiers or roving bandits have done is laid upon his shoulders. This is manifestly unfair.

We must try to keep distinct the question of outrages in Mexico, and the question who bids fair soonest to restore peace and order in Mexico. Abhorrence of the crimes cannot be too great. If the criminals are caught, their punishment cannot be too severe. But we submit that all this is beside the point of what is to be done by outside nations to help Mexico to her feet. It is a neat point which Mr. Tumulty scores when he remarks that the other countries which joined the United States in deciding that Carranza was the man for the great Mexican work, are all Catholic countries.

Tumulty on Mexico

New York World: Reports have been widely circulated in this country about the treatment to which Roman Catholic priests and sisters have been subjected at the hands of Gen. Carranza, and in the belief that these charges were true, opposition has been expressed to the recognition of the Constitutionalist leader by the administration. In his letter to Dr. James J. McGuire, Mr. Tumulty, secretary to the president, meets the question frankly.

By the records of the state department and by the investigations made by United States consuls and special agents in Mexico it is shown that the reports of outrages against nuns cannot be substantiated. The testimony of the vicar general of the archbishopric of Mexico City in a written report to Mr. Silliman is to the same effect. Nowhere did he find proof in support of the charges, except in the case of certain priests who fell into the hands of the followers of Zapata.

In a country so large as Mexico, torn by civil dissensions and under the changing control of hostile commanders and undisciplined soldiers, it would be strange if crimes of cruelty and intolerance had not sometimes been committed. But the attitude of the United States government has been consistently to warn Carranza and others against the persecution of priests or acts of injustice toward the religious orders. Unsubstantiated rumors whose origin is untraceable cannot be made to outweigh with a fair-minded public the actual records as they stand.

Political Straws in the Minnesota Breezes

Off-year Campaign Talk by Minnesota Editors.

Maybe the G. O. P. Knows No Such Man.

Gully Advance: Why doesn't the G. O. P. of Minnesota mention some man for governor who believes in letting the office seek the man, instead of the man seeking the office? Everyone of those so far mentioned is a chronic officeseeker and not one of them would have a ghost of a chance in defeating Governor Hammond. The governor has for years defeated and put out of commission for all time to come fully as worthy men, if not more so, as any of the said mentioned candidates for the Republican nomination, who opposed him for congress, without the least difficulty; and if he is nominated, he will no doubt again defeat his opponent, not on a run, but on a walk.

Let It Soak In.

Bemidji Sentinel: The Walker Pilot says that Julius Schmahl for governor, H. H. Flowers for secretary of state and P. H. McGarry for congress makes a good ticket to run through a wringer. Just stop a minute and let that soak in.

Clapp and Eberhart.

Thief River Falls Times: With Clapp and Eberhart alone in the race for congress it looks as though Eberhart will have a shade the best of it. Clapp is strictly on the "outs" with the "regular" wing of the party and he is not very strong with the Progressives. Eberhart has demonstrated at various times that he can pull down "some" vote in the state and, while he was somewhat smeared with the "brewery odor" in the last campaign, it is possible that he may be able to pull together enough votes to grab Senator Clapp's seat in congress. The game is young yet though and a candidate may appear who will put both Clapp and Eberhart in the clear.

The Secretaryship of State.

Warren Register: The secretaryship of state is the job for which there will be a lot of aspirants next year, provided Julius Schmahl decides to let go of it then. Among the men mentioned as probable candidates are Rines, Bjornson, Arneson, Langum, Larson, Burrows, Flowers and several others whose names we are unable to recall at this moment, with the Twin Cities and Duluth, the Irish and the Germans still to be heard from. One beauty about running for that office is that the candidate does not have to have a platform for everybody to take a knock at.

A Tip to the G. O. P.

St. Hilaire Spectator: The state press is worrying over the election of a suitable Republican candidate for the governorship. Governor W. S. Hammond is going to be returned for another term in any case, so the Republicans ought to select a "goat" that would take overwhelming defeat with good grace.

And That Seems to Include the Fairmont Sentinel.

Ada Herald: The Republican newspapers seem to be more than willing to support Dan Lawler for any old office or place that he will be a candidate for—on the Democratic ticket.

Hammond and Republicans.

Virginia Virginian: Judging from the comments of the state press, it appears that the next campaign will have about the same results as the last one. One Democrat, Governor W. S. Hammond, and all the other state officers Republicans. We are well satisfied and feel that the prospective results of next year will be best for the state. Governor Hammond is probably more firmly intrenched in his position than any executive since Governor John A. Johnson.

A Democrat's Thanksgiving

Chicago Herald: Carl Schurz was one of the noblest and most picturesque of Americans. He came to the United States at a year spiritually akin to this. Men were eagerly struggling for the truth of democracy and the reality of liberty. It was a stirring time.

Europe was going through a great revolution and it would have nothing to do with Schurz's radicalism. A few years after the young hero arrived in America he was sent by Missouri to the United States senate. He left in his "Reminiscences" a picture of his feelings as he took his position at Washington, a picture which retains its thrill today. Said he:

> I vividly remember the feeling which almost oppressed me as I first sat down in my chair in the senate chamber. Now I had actually reached the most exalted public position to which my boldest dreams of ambition had hardly dared to aspire.
>
> I was still a young man, just 40. Little more than sixteen years had elapsed since I landed on these shores, a homeless waif saved from the wreck of revolutionary movement in Europe. Then I was enfolded in the generous hospitality of the American people opening to me, as freely as to its own children, the great opportunities of the new world. And here I was now a member of the highest lawmaking body of the greatest of republics.
>
> Should I ever be able to repay my debt of gratitude to this country and to justify the honors that had been heaped upon me? To accomplish this my conception of duty could not be pitched too high. I recorded a vow in my heart that I would at least honorably endeavor to fulfill that duty; that I would conscientiously adhere to the principle salus populi suprema lex; that I would never be a sycophant of power nor a flatterer of the multitude; that if need be I would stand up alone for my conviction of truth and right, and that there would be no personal sacrifice too great for my devotion to the Republic.

The Truth About the Temperance Movement.

John Koren in the Atlantic: However gratefully improvements must be acknowledged, contentment with the present state of temperance reform were but gross indifference. Usually high planes of living are reached by many a faltering step; but we are told now that temperance will become an inevitable virtue by the simple means of national prohibition. The vociferous clamor for it is a logical outgrowth of the temperance movement under its present generalship, yet it compels the admission openly avowed by a few of its candid adherents that state-wide prohibition has not fulfilled the rosy expectations of its sponsors. The superficial reasons for this lie at hand. In defiance of "ironclad" statutes, Federal regulations concerning interstate shipments, the limitation of quantities that may be imported for private use, the fidelity in policing, and so forth, intoxicants have always found their way into forbidden territories in sufficient bulk to frustrate the object of prohibition completely, or in greater part, through illicit sales. For confirmation one need but turn to the sinister figures published annually by the United States commissioner of internal revenue, of the persons who pay the Federal tax as liquor-dealers in prohibition states, let alone the numbers who avoid such risk, and the immense growth of illicit distillation which the Federal government seems unable to check.

The Gospel of Labor.

The Lord of love came down from above to live with the men who work.
This is the rose that he planted, here in the thorn-cursed soil—

Thank God for Work.

Charles Kingsley: Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do that day which must be done whether you like it or not. Being forced to work and forced to do your best, will breed in you a hundred virtues which the idle never know.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1895.

With impressive ceremony Duluth lodge, No. 133, B. P. O. E., met in lodge of sorrow yesterday afternoon at the Lyceum and honored the dead of the year. On the stage, seated in a semi-circle, were Rev. W. W. Dawley, J. B. Cotton and the officers of the order at their respective stations, as follows: W. W. Walker, exalted ruler; M. H. Crocker, esteemed leading knight; J. H. McFadzean, esteemed loyal knight; F. E. Culver, esteemed lecturing knight; J. L. Fuller, secretary; D. T. Adams, treasurer; J. A. Eden, esquire; W. N. Smith, tyler; Fred Reynolds, chaplain; T. C. Phillips, inner guard. Dr. Dawley delivered the sermon, speaking on the beauties of a perfect friendship, and Joseph B. Cotton gave an eloquent eulogy of the dead, paying touching tribute to Dr. Fred Barrett, the only member of the Duluth Elks who had died during the year.

Senator David B. Hill has canceled his lecture tour, owing to the small audiences which gathered to hear him at Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth.

W. A. McKay and C. G. Culver have arranged to open a skating rink in one of Culver Bros.' mammoth warehouses on Lake avenue.

The banquet of the Business Men's association has been postponed until Dec. 18 on account of a telegram received by President Graves from Sir William Van Horne, president of the Canadian Pacific railroad, who was to have been the principal speaker, stating that he cannot come on the date originally set.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinius, the Sunshine Man.

Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off.—I Kings xx, 2.

Put on the whole armor of God.—Eph. vi, 2.

Was I not girded for the battlefield?
Bore I not helm of pride and glittering sword?
Behold the fragments of my broken shield,
And lend to me Thy heavenly armor, Lord!
—Anon.

Oh, be at least able to say in that day,—Lord, I am no hero. I have been careless, cowardly, sometimes all but mutinous. Punishment I have deserved, I deny it not. But a traitor I have never been; a deserter I have never been. I have tried to fight on Thy side in Thy battle against evil. I have tried to do the duty which lay nearest me; and to leave whatever Thou didst commit to my charge a little better than I found it. I have not been good, but I have at least tried to be good. Take the will for the deed, good Lord. Strike not my unworthy name off the roll call of the noble and victorious army, which is the blessed company of all faithful people; and let me, too, be found written in the Book of Life; even though I stand the lowest and last upon its list. Amen.—C. KINGSLEY.

A Fable of Prejudice.

The New Republic: Once upon a time I knew an old man who was president of a smallish railroad. For years it had been his policy and his pride to fill vacancies among the general officers by promotion. Other railroads, he used to say, are welcome to get their executives by looking the country over and bribing stars out of their orbits. Our own boys, he used to say, are good enough for us. Only once had Mr. Bolton made a considerable mistake. His general manager, as every one admitted, was a failure. Every one rejoiced decently when this general manager died, and every one assumed that the place would be filled by the general superintendent. There was much to justify the assumption. Mr. Franklin had begun as a telegrapher and worked his way upward. Throughout his career he had had Mr. Bolton's approbation. He was competent, industrious, straightforward.

Great was our surprise when he was passed over and an outsider appointed, despite the almost unanimous protests of the directors. Several years later I found out Mr. Bolton's motive. Mr. Franklin, just before the vacancy occurred, had married his second wife less than a year after his first wife's death. Did such an act lessen his qualifications for the general manager's job? Of course not, but Mr. Bolton had his prejudice. The fiery old man would not listen to reason. He had his own standards of loyalty. And he had lived up to them. His first wife had been dead seven years before he married a second. His second had been dead five years before he married a third. He is survived by his fourth.

Interlude.

The days grow shorter, the nights grow longer,
The headstones thicken along the way;
And life grows sadder, but love grows stronger,
For those who walk with us, day by day.

The tear comes quicker, the laugh comes slower,
The courage is lesser to do and dare;
And the tide of joy in the heart runs lower
And seldom covers the reefs of care.

But all true things in the world seem truer,
And the better things of the earth seem best;
And friends are dearer as friends are fewer,
And love is all as our sun dips west.

Then let us clasp hands as we walk together,
And let us speak softly, in love's sweet tone,
For no man knows, on the morrow, whether
We two pass by, or but one alone.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

What Is Happiness?

John Galsworthy in Atlantic: The aim of human life, no doubt, is happiness. But after all, what is happiness? Efficiency, weath, material comfort? Many by their lives do so affirm; few are cynical enough to say so; and on their deathbeds none will feel so. Not even freedom in itself brings happiness. Happiness lies in breadth of heart. And breadth of heart is that inward freedom which has the power to understand, feel with, and, if need be, help others. In breadth of heart are founded justice, love, sacrifice; without it there would be no special meaning to any of our efforts, and the tale of all human life would be still no more than that of supremely gifted animals, many of whose communities are highly efficient, and have instinctive unity founded on experience of its utility, but none of that conscious altruism which is without perception of future benefit to self, and works from sheer recognition of its own beauty.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WAR A PRACTICAL PROBLEM; THE BUSINESS OF TODAY

To the Editor of The Herald:

If there is no way to reconcile the conflicting interests of nations, they are right who say that wars are inevitable and we must plan to avoid them at best we can, and, when war can no longer be avoided, to come out of it the best we can.

But that takes too much for granted. The practical method of solving a problem is to consider all the factors before giving it up. "It can't be done" is no answer.

Now the outstanding fact is that the nations have to live together in this world. It was not true a hundred years ago. Each country lived to itself. It has been true only in our time. And until this war upset everything, we did not realize how true it is. The war itself has shown us that we are all knit together in one. Remote from the seat of war, the United States is involved in the war in a thousand ways. Not merely by blockades, legal or illegal, but by the very fact of war. Because of the war we cannot buy and sell, we cannot go and come. South America, even more remote than the United States, was thrown on its beam ends by the war.

Realizing that fact, we must recognize not that wars are inevitable but that the overcoming of war is inevitable.

And that in turn shows us our great task in the world today. It is not to be what is called prepared. We shall train men more or less, we shall have ships and guns more or less. But that is not the important matter. The important work is to overcome war.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

The Herald acknowledges with thanks the receipt of the following poems:

"The Face on the Barroom Floor," from Belva Olson of Cloquet, and from Miss Ethel McKeever.

"Over the Hills to the Poorhouse," and "In the Baggage Coach Ahead," from Ethel McKeever. There are three different versions of the former, all of which Miss McKeever sends, but the best known is published.

Requests have been received for "Little Blosson," from Belva Olson of Cloquet.

Over the Hills to the Poorhouse.

What! No, it can't be that they have driven
Their father, so helpless and old
(O God! may their crime be forgiven),
To perish out here in the cold!
O Heavens! I am saddened and weary;
See the tears how they course down my cheeks!
Oh, this world it is lonely and dreary,
And my heart for relief vainly seeks.

For I am old and I'm helpless and feeble,
The days of my youth have gone by;
Then over the hills to the poorhouse
I wander alone there to die.

Ah, me! on that old doorstep yonder
I've sat with my babes on my knee;
No father was happier or fonder
Than I of my little ones three;
The boys, both so rosy and chubby,
And Lily, with prattle so sweet!
God knows how their father has loved them,
But they've driven him out in the street.
For I'm old, etc.

It's years since my Mary was taken,
My faithful, affectionate wife;
Since then I'm forlorn and forsaken,
And the light has died out of my life.
The boys grew to manhood; I gave them
A deed for the farm! aye and more,
I gave them this house they were born in,
And now I'm turned out from its door.
For I'm old, etc.

Oh, children! loved children! yet hear me,
I have journeyed along on life's stage,
With the hope that you all would be near me
To comfort and cheer my old age.
My life blood I'd gladly have given
To shield and protect you; but hark!
Though my heart breaks, I'll say it, you've driven
For I'm old, etc.

But perhaps they'll live happier without me;
Farewell, dear old home! ah, farewell!
Each pathway and tree here about me
Some memory precious can tell.
Well, the flowers will bloom bright as ever,
And the birds sing as sweet to the morn,
When over the hill from the poorhouse,
Next spring, the old man shall be borne.
For I'm old, etc.

"The Face on the Barroom Foor."

It was a balmy summer evening, and a goodly crowd was there
Which well nigh filled Joe's barroom on the corner of the square;
And as songs and witty stories came through the open door,
A vagabond crept slowly in and posed upon the floor.

"Where did it come from?" Some one said.
"The wind has blown it in."
"What does it want?" another cried.
"Some whisky, rum or gin?"
"Here baby, sick, if your stomach's equal to the work."
"I wouldn't touch him with a fork; he's as filthy as a Turk."

In fact, he smiled as though he thought he'd struck the proper place.
"Come boys, I know there's a kindly heart among so good a crowd
To be in such good company would make a deacon proud.

"Give me a drink, that's what I want, I'm out of funds you know
There, thanks, that braced me nicely, God bless you one and all
Next time I pass this good saloon, I'll make another call,
Give you a song? No, I can't do that, my singing days are past;
My voice is cracked, my throat worn out, and my lungs are going fast.

"Say, give me another whisky and I'll tell you what I'll do
I'll tell you a funny story, and a fact, I promise too,
That I was ever a decent man not one of you would think;
But I was, some four or five years back. Say give me another drink.

"Fill her up, Joe, I want to put some life into my frame
Such little drinks to a bum like me are miserably tame;
Five fingers—there, that's the scheme and corking whisky too.
Well, here's luck, boys; and landlord my best regards to you.

"You've treated me pretty kindly, and I'd like to tell you how
I came to be the dirty sort you see before you now.
As I told you, once I was a man, with muscle, frame and health,
And but for a blunder, ought to have made considerable wealth.

"I was a painter—not one that daubed on bricks and wood
But an artist, and, for my age, was rated pretty good;
I worked hard at my canvas, and was bidding fair to rise
For gradually I saw the star of fame before my eyes.

It brought me fifteen hundreds pounds, and added to my name,
And then, I met a woman—now comes the funny part—
With eyes that petrified my brain and sunk into my heart.

"Why don't you laugh? 'Tis funny that the vagabond you see
Could ever love a woman, and expect her love for me;
But 'twas so, and for a month or two her smiles were freely given,
And when her loving lips touched mine it carried me to heaven.

"Did you ever see a woman for whom your soul you'd give,
With a form like the Milo's Venus, too beautiful to live;
With eyes that would beat the Kohinoor, and a wealth of chestnut hair?
If so, 'twas she, for there never was another half so fair.

"I was working on a portrait, one afternoon in May,
Of a fair haired boy, a friend of mine, who lived across the way,
And Madeline admired it, and much to my surprise,
Said she'd like to know that man that had such dreamy eyes.

"It didn't take long to know him, and before the month had flown,
My friend had stolen my darling, and I was left alone;
And ere a year of misery had passed above my head,
The jewel I had treasured so, had tarnished and was dead.

"That's why I took to drink, boys, why, I never saw you smile
I thought you'd be amused, and laughing all the while,
Why, what's the matter, friend? There's a tear drop in your eye;
Come, laugh like me; 'tis only babies and women that should cry.

"Say, boys, if you give me just another whisky, I'll be glad,
And I'll draw right here a picture of the face that drove me mad.
Give me a piece of chalk, with which you mark the baseball score—
You shall see the lovely Madeline upon the barroom floor."

Another drink, and chalk in hand, the vagabond began,
To sketch a face that well might buy the soul of any man.
Then as he placed another lock upon the shapely head,
With a fearful shriek he leaped and fell across the picture—
Dead.

Cumberland, Wis., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert Miller, a farmer living seven miles northwest of here, was accidentally shot Tuesday while hunting rabbits. HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Hygienic Value of a Thermostat

WHAT is called an equable climate is generally conceded salutary for the average individual. Certainly it is healthful to maintain a fairly equable temperature in the living rooms throughout the winter months, because it is exposure to excessive warmth, more than anything else, that lowers one's natural resistance to that group of specific bacterial infections vulgarly known as "colds." These respiratory diseases are not cold air diseases; they prevail most widely in temperate climates, in moderate spring and fall weather more than in very cold winter, in the Southern states more than in the extreme northern inhabited countries, per thousand population. The indoor plague, let us say, rather than "colds." When you catch the indoor plague you have been handed something very definite; but when you "catch cold" you merely have a delusion, if you think the great outdoors has anything to do with it.

Since the bacteria of the indoor plague survive best when the air is warmest, and since the human host thrives best when the air is fairly cool, most people have learned instinctively to regulate the indoor temperature by the thermometer, and to keep it between 60 and 70 deg. Fahrenheit.

But it takes a lot of patience, sometimes even unseemly language, to regulate the furnace by the thermometer. And besides there are often too many engineers in the family, and too many engineers will put out the fire.

A thermostat solves the problem. A good thermostat costs, installed, from $30 to $60, but we venture to say it is economical, not alone in its hygienic aspect, but as a fuel saver as well. Best of it all, it saves father—or, in these days of equal suffrage, perhaps mother—the painful labor of rising in the cold, cold morning to turn on the drafts.

Figuring on the basis that each attack of indoor plague costs a family, on the average, $30, we conclude that a thermostat pays for itself inside of ninety days in this climate. It does so by converting the changeable indoor atmosphere into an ideally equable climate, fit for any invalid.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Baths and Fever.

Please explain in detail why patients with fever are given ice-cold baths? This seems a cruel practice.

Answer—Never knew of such a treatment. The Brand bath treatment of typhoid fever is a good treatment. The bath is never below 60 deg. F., and it is usually started at 85 or 90 deg., which is quite comfortable, then gradually lowered during the fifteen or more minutes by the addition of pieces of ice or colder water, but the thermometer in the tub is always under the nurse's eye and the water never becomes colder than 60 deg., which is by no means cruel. Active friction of the skin throughout the bath maintains a reaction, and as a matter of fact patients enjoy the apparent "ice-cold" bath. But remember, baths are not given to bring down fever, but to rouse the dull, nervous system and enliven the depressed circulation.

The Best Kind of Corset.

Is a high corset or a low one more hygienic?

Answer—A low one. The less of it the better.

CENTRAL PUPILS WILL VOTE TO DECIDE PRETTIEST GIRL AND MOST HANDSOME BOY

Series of Nine Contests Will Be Begun Friday; Biggest Bluffer, Laziest Boy, and Most Bashful Pupil Will Be Chosen Later.

At Central high school tomorrow the students will decide who is the prettiest girl and the most handsome boy in the school. Only boys will be permitted to vote in the former contest, while none but the girls will be given the ballot in the latter event.

Tomorrow's elections are but two of nine similar affairs to be held between now and Dec. 17. The feature committee of the school Zenith board, in an attempt to get something new into the book, originated the idea, and it is expected to meet with considerable enthusiasm among the students.

There will be three elections next week. On Monday the "biggest bluffer" will be chosen; on Wednesday the "laziest boy" will be determined, and on Friday the "biggest grafter" will be singled out from among the students. On Monday of the following week the "most bashful person in school" will be bequeathed his title; on Wednesday the "biggest roughneck" will find himself the center of attention, and on Friday the final election will be held. These latter selections are expected to cause the greatest interest, for the most popular boy and the most popular girl will be determined by a vote of equal suffrage of the students.

The contests are already causing great enthusiasm among the students, and it is expected that there will be no delinquent voters among the student body when the contests are being run off. Election booths will be held all day and precautions will be taken to see that no person casts more than one vote. Members of the Zenith board plan to keep the identity of the winners a secret until the annual makes its appearance in the spring.

HAMMOND AND BRACKEN URGE SALE OF THE RED CROSS SEAL

Governor W. S. Hammond and Dr. H. M. Bracken, executive officer of the Minnesota Public Health association, in communications to the citizens of Minnesota commend the Red Cross Christmas seal sale and the campaign to prevent tuberculosis in this state. They also urge co-operation with the officials in making Tuberculosis week, Dec. 6-12, a success.

Their letters, given out yesterday, follow:

"To the Citizens of Minnesota:

"Some years ago the Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis had an unique exhibit at one of its annual conferences which it was my pleasure to attend. One feature of the exhibit impressed me very much—so much in fact that ever since whenever I have heard the word tuberculosis my mind has gone back to that exhibit. The feature to which I allude was an electric bulb suspended on the stage in view of the entire audience. The bulb was made to flash at intervals of thirty seconds. A card with this statement was attached: 'Every time this lamp flashes a human being somewhere in the civilized world dies of tuberculosis.' I was appalled at the statement and have ever since felt that every method and device should be employed to rid the world of so terrible a disease.

"In Michigan, I am informed, the physicians are requested by the governor to conduct examinations, free of charge, of worthy persons who are suspected of having tuberculosis, and it is to be hoped that Minnesota physicians will be disposed to do likewise. I understand that if the disease is detected at its inception it is not only possible to save the person affected, but its communication to others will be prevented.

"The sale of Red Cross stamps serves a double purpose: first, it calls attention to the financial outlay in caring for tuberculosis and it is therefore of educational value, and secondly, it furnishes means to carry on the work of preventing and relieving a disease which claims one of every four persons dying between the ages of 15 and 50.

"I am glad to see that efforts are being made everywhere to combat the ravages of tuberculosis, and I feel that the Minnesota Public Health association is to be commended in its efforts to make Tuberculosis week, Dec. 6 to 12, one in which the people will be instructed in the fight to prevent and eradicate this evil. I assure you of my best wishes in your undertaking.

"Very truly yours,
"W. S. HAMMOND,
"Governor."

"To the Citizens of Minnesota:

"The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis has set aside a week designated as Tuberculosis week, Dec. 6 to 12. It is to be hoped that the citizens of Minnesota will give thorough consideration to this subject during the time set aside.

"Two special days have been designated by said association, one known as "medical examination day," the other as "children's health day." Both of these are important features, not only in tuberculosis work, but in general health work.

"It has been found that while the death rate has materially decreased for those under thirty years of age, the death rate is increasing for those over forty.

"As to children's health day, it is now recognized that probably a large percentage of the infection from tuberculosis occurs in childhood; hence the great need for more attention to the children.

"H. M. BRACKEN,
"Executive officer of the Minnesota state board of health."

How To Get Rid of a Bad Cough

A Home-Made Remedy that Will Do It Quickly. Cheap and Easily Made

If you have a bad cough or chest cold which refuses to yield to ordinary remedies, get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking a teaspoonful every hour or two. In 24 hours your cough will be conquered or very nearly so. Even whooping cough is greatly relieved in this way.

The above mixture makes a full pint—a family supply—of the finest cough syrup that money could buy—at a cost of only 54 cents. Easily prepared in 5 minutes. Full directions with Pinex.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup preparation takes right hold of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough in a way that is really remarkable. Also quickly heals the inflamed membranes which accompany a painful cough, and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. Excellent for bronchitis, spasmodic croup and winter coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children like it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex,"—do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

MURDEROUS NEGRO'S VICTIM HAS RECOVERED

Escanaba, Mich., Dec. 2.—Edward Fish, who was seriously wounded by Jerome Wilson, the negro who later killed Sam MacGregor at Nestoria and then took his own life in the Baraga county jail, has recovered from the effects of the bullet wounds and has left the hospital here where he had been a patient since the shooting occurred. One of the three bullets, which the negro shot at Fish, passed entirely through his body. One struck him in the left shoulder and another on the right side of the back and passed through the liver and one lung.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

Written for The Herald By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: DEC. 5.

II Chron. xxvi, 8-21: Uzziah's Pride and Punishment.

CONNECTION.

We had some lessons about Joash, king of Judah. He started off well and kept it up as long as the priest Jehoiada lived, then got tired, did poorly and was murdered. His son, Amaziah, who was a much stronger man, began fairly, got puffed up, sought war with the king of Israel, was badly whipped, and that so outraged the people that they put him to death. His son, Uzziah, was not only a great but a good man. He almost restored the days of Solomon, so splendid was his reign. His neighbor at the head of the northern kingdom, Jeroboam, was a very able and enterprising man. Those were great days, but—we will see.

THE LESSON.

I.

His Brilliant Success. 8-15.

"And the Ammonites gave tribute to Uzziah; and his name spread abroad even to the entrance of Egypt; for he waxed exceeding strong. Moreover Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem at the corner gate, and at the valley gate, and at the turning of the wall, and fortified them. And he built towers in the wilderness, and hewed out many cisterns, for he had much cattle; in the lowland also, and in the plain; and he had husbandmen and vine dressers in the mountains and in the fruitful fields; for he loved husbandry. * * * And he made in Jerusalem engines, invented by skillful men, to be on the towers and upon the battlements, wherewith to shoot arrows and great stones. And his name spread far abroad; for he was marvelously helped till he was strong."

1. CONQUEST.—He was able, as we learn in the first verses of the chapter, to defeat the Philistines and build cities for his own people in their territory and to drive back the Arabians from desirable lands. He also compelled the Ammonites to pay him tribute, and he sent his name and fame as far as Egypt.

2. COMMERCE.—He established a foreign commerce, which was a new thing, and captured the port of Elah down on the Red sea, a strategic point that Solomon had taken, but had not taken advantage of, and which Jehoshaphat had not been able to recapture. Little kingdoms, like Moab, owned his overlordship and paid annual tribute. The first year or two he showed his wisdom in opening up trade, the greatest commercial achievement in the history of the nation. The explanation of it is in the statement in verse 4 that "he did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord." He starts well. He has great talent. He has unlimited opportunities.

3. AGRICULTURE.—For this he had a special fondness and set an example that was contagious and profitable. He was a practical farmer, both in agriculture and in stock raising. For the stock he gathered water during the scanty rainfalls in artificial cisterns and held it for times of drought. It was good statesmanship as well as good business. He raised the new cry of "back to the farm," and gave agriculture a new vogue by being a model farmer with his well-kept tenants and vine dressers, his fine crops and his high-grade livestock.

4. PREPAREDNESS.—Verses 11-14, omitted, tell of "military preparedness," with an army of 2,600 officers and 307,500 soldiers, well equipped with the armor and weapons of the day and drilled for action. They did fighting, too. With one army he drove back invaders and carried on foreign wars; with the other he defended the strategic points. His borders were well patrolled by mounted police. He strengthened the walls of Jerusalem, built towers and constructed engines for throwing missiles. He did wonders, but trouble was coming.

II.

His Bold Sins. 16-18.

"But when he was strong, his heart was lifted up, so that he did corruptly, and he trespassed against Jehovah his God; for he went into the temple of Jehovah to burn incense upon the altar of incense. And Azariah the priest went in after him, and with him fourscore priests of Jehovah, that were valiant men; and they withstood Uzziah the king, and said unto him, It pertaineth not unto thee, Uzziah, to burn incense unto Jehovah, but to the priests the sons of Aaron, that are consecrated to burn incense; go out of the sanctuary; for thou hast trespassed; neither shall it be for thine honor from Jehovah God."

1. SELF-INDULGENCE.—That is usually the lapse of those who are "strong." He surely was strong in his material prosperity and personal influence. To get "lifted up" on that account, when God was really the source of his good fortune, was a great weakness. It seems that every good king they ever had went wrong to some extent before he got to the end. He would start in by doing "that which was right in the sight of the Lord," and then after the Lord had given him good success he would loosen up and sometimes go to the dogs. We thought better of Uzziah. Adversity makes manhood. We are fronting the question right now whether we can stand the prosperity we are having. It is a great economic as well as ethical question. Wealth usually leads to self-indulgence. He had failed to put a stop to the idol worship at the first and this is partly the result of it.

2. ARROGANCE.—Few can keep down arrogance when in power. It led Uzziah to sacrilege. Militarism is a bad thing, though a certain amount of preparedness may be necessary. As he ruled army and people and cowering nations round about, why not rule religion, instead of conforming to God's plan? He swept aside the method by which God would protect public worship from disorder and indecency and did two forbidden things—went into the temple and attempted to burn incense, when a priest alone was allowed those two privileges. The bold and determined effort of the priests to stop him was superb; they called him down in fine fashion. What will God do about it?

III.

His Sudden and Tragic Defeat, 19-21.

"Then Uzziah was wroth; and he had a censer in his hand to burn incense; and while he was wroth with the priests, the leprosy brake forth in his forehead before the priests in the house of Jehovah, beside the altar of incense. And Azariah the chief priest, and all the priests, looked upon him, and, behold, he was leprous in his forehead, and they thrust him out quickly from thence; yea, himself hasted also to go out, because Jehovah had smitten him. And Uzziah the king was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt in a separate house, being a leper; for he was cut off from the house of Jehovah; and Jotham his son was over the king's house, judging the people of the land."

1. LEPROSY.—His ferocious anger and his inflated egotism were useless as a protection. Any kind of drastic surgery is justified when a man is to be saved from blighting blasphemy and evil doing that will prevent others. God is to be worshiped, not worked. It was a tragical end to that unlawful invasion of God's prerogative. God will have no one tell Him what laws to make. We find in Uzziah arrogance and lack of a sense of responsibility, all because he cut loose from God. The leprosy was deserved by him and a deterrent to others.

2. DETHRONEMENT.—A leper is forbidden, because unfit, to rule. Put him out. Abdication was voluntary because necessary, as a leper must live apart. He dropped suddenly and was no better than anybody else. Poor fool! He now has time to think of his folly, while his son sits on the throne.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The fact is, militarism and the militarist ideal costs heavily, demanding a terrible price from the happiness and morals of a people. It makes exactions upon the public revenue, which mean a heavy burden of taxation upon the poor, and practical enslavement of the peasant population; it alienates class from class; it draws the best young men from the land to a life of glittering unproductiveness; it creates an order of persons who fatten on the peculiar gullibility which always accompanies devotion to war, as though God had permitted men and women to suffer from a sort of penal stupidity; and above all, it ministers to self-satisfaction, vanity and pride.—Goss.

In 1201 Simon Tournoy, after he had excelled all his contemporaries at Oxford in learning, and become so eminent in Paris as to be made the chief doctor of the Sorbonne, grew so proud that, while he regarded Aristotle as superior to Moses and Christ, he considered him as but equal to himself. He became such an idiot at length, as not to know one letter in a book, or one thing he had ever done.—Pollard.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Why is true piety hard to maintain with great prosperity?
2. What are the dangers of militarism?
3. Why should every one trace his worthy prosperity back to God?
4. Why does not God now punish such bad rulers in such drastic ways?

DIFFERENT TYPES OF COLLEGE MEN

Dr. John W. Hoffman Gives Address to Central Boys' Club; Delegates Chosen for Albert Lea Meeting; "Y" Boys Will Help Furnish Their Building.

The Central High School club met at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. last evening for dinner, and instead of the boys doing regular work, Dr. Hoffman gave a very interesting talk on "Some College Men I Have Known." He described several men who went to college. Some went simply for a good time and sold themselves out cheap for temporary popularity, and finished by being sent home in disgrace. He told of others who had backbone enough to resist many of the popular customs and who in the end won the respect of the student body.

After the talk the committee in charge of raising funds to send delegates to the high school conference at Albert Lea, put on an auction. Following the auction Erling Sodahl and Herbert Miska played a violin duet.

The following boys will attend the convention, which opens tomorrow and closes Sunday night.

Denfeld High School club—Richard Duffy, Chester Rosbourg, Frank Martin, Raulin Clark.

Boys' department Y. M. C. A.—Charles Fraker, John Hearding, Erling Sodahl, N. D. McLeod, J. R. Batchelor.

The members of the boys' department are going to have some part in furnishing their new building, which is now under construction. Each of the ten committees is endeavoring to raise enough money to buy a piano for the main clubroom and the first big event will come off Friday and Saturday, Dec. 10 and 11, when Thomas Furniss will give a benefit program at the Lyric theater.

Notice to Lakeside and Woodland People.

We are making two trips daily (Sunday excepted) to Lakeside and Woodland, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. On these trips we take trunks, freight boxes, parcels, etc., at the same price that we charge on like deliveries in the city proper. This is considerably less than the price charged by other companies.

If you have anything at the depots or in any part of the city, including West Duluth, or even Superior, Wis., you can just call our office on the telephone and we will arrange for delivery at your door, thus saving you the trouble of coming down town.

If you have any shipments of freight to be made and will call our office we will pick up the goods, see that they are properly marked, making out the shipping bill and also prepaying your freight on same, if desired, thus relieving you of considerable trouble and annoyance. There is no additional charge for this clerical work. On goods going to Canada or other foreign points we arrange to make out the manifest without extra charge.

We are trying to work up this business so that we can give even better service. You can help a good deal by giving us your business.

UNUSUAL CHIEFLY IN LACK OF SNOW

November Temperature Is Average, But Rain Heavy; Other Statistics.

According to Weather Forecaster H. W. Richardson, November temperature averaged about normal, but the total precipitation was more than twice the usual amount, which was due to the heavy rains that fell on Nov. 7 and Nov. 10. The heaviest precipitation was on the night of Nov. 7-8, when 1.81 inches fell.

The total snowfall for the month was six inches less than usual, there being but .7 inch of a fall on the 22nd and 23rd. At the end of the month there was no snow on the ground, a very unusual feature at this season of the year, according to Mr. Richardson. Since Nov. 22 there has been more or less thin ice in St. Louis river and bay and in the central and eastern portions of Superior bay. The greatest snowfall registered in November since 1880 was ten inches in 1892.

As to temperature the highest was 52 degrees on the 6th, and the lowest was 4 degrees on the 22nd. The highest for the month since 1870 was 73 degrees on Nov. 3, 1903, and the lowest was 29 degrees below zero on Nov. 29, 1875.

During the past month the wind velocity reached thirty-five miles an hour or more on twelve days, and the highest wind was fifty-six miles per hour on the 19th.

There were two clear days, fourteen were partly cloudy and an equal number were cloudy.

MAY ENTER ORE TRADE

Boats Put Out of Package Freight Business Will Be Altered.

Western Transit Company Has Tentative Plan If Congress Gives No Relief.

In case the Panama canal act is not amended so that it excludes the Great Lakes, at least one of the package freight companies proposes to enter the boats with which it transports merchandise between Duluth and Buffalo now, in the grain and ore trade for next season, with a prospect of making good money during the fully expected heavy season, and later selling its fleet. This company is the Western Transit company, which owns a fleet of package freighters, and which is affected by the order of the interstate commerce commission divorcing the rail-and-lake lines.

G. L. Douglas, agent for the Western Transit company here, said today that this is the present plan of that company.

"We are being driven out of the package freight business," said Mr. Douglas, "unless congress sees fit during the coming season to exclude the lakes from the operation of the act. In case it does not we will have to otherwise employ our boats until it is possible to dispose of them at adequate figures. Next season will be, all shipping men believe, the greatest year in the movement of coal, ore and grain, particularly of the latter two, that the Great Lakes have ever seen. It is our plan, in case the Panama canal act is allowed to stand as it is, to remove the middle decks of our ships, close the side ports and use the boats in the grain, coal and ore trade.

May Sell Boats.

"It is probable that we will be able to sell them at a decent figure next year in view of the fact that ore shippers are seeking tonnage. The steamer Yale, sold a few days ago to the Breitung company, ore shippers, is smaller than any of our boats; but the shippers seem to want their own tonnage as far as they can. We may dispose of the boats to some of these."

Mr. Douglas, acting under orders from Buffalo headquarters, has notified the Duluth board of trade, where the company has its offices, that the lease, which will expire Dec. 30, will not be renewed. He has also dropped one employe, will drop another Dec. 10, and has notified the others, with the exception of four, that they will be out Jan. 1, and had better act accordingly. The four retained will be used to clean up the business such as claims, and when they have finished that, they, too, will be out, unless congress relents and changes the Panama canal act.

Mr. Douglas and his family will leave for Buffalo on Dec. 12 to remain two months, after which they will return to their home here. After that Mr. Douglas' plans are as yet unformed.

Others Uninformed.

F. W. Winship, agent for the Mutual Transit company, and M. S. Mead, agent for the Anchor line, the two other companies affected by the Panama canal act, have, as yet, received no instructions and do not know what the outcome will be. H. S. Noble, general manager of the Mutual, is in the city, but had nothing to say on the matter.

"I do not believe that anything will be settled as to the future much before spring," said Mr. Winship.

Twin City and Chicago office forces of the different companies are being let go, and preliminary arrangements are being made at all points served by the companies for a quick close-up in case there is no modification of the law.

LOOK FOR COAL SHORTAGE HERE

Shipments From East Close After Unsatisfactory Season.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 2.—With the end of this week coal shipments from the Pittsburgh and West Virginia fields up the Great Lakes will close with the principal operating companies not altogether satisfied, busy as the past few months have been. Operations early in the season were so delayed that mines have been unable to catch up with the demand and coal company officials say that if the winter is normal there will probably be a coal shortage in the Northwest.

Some mines already are affected by a car shortage, while river interests, because of consumption at home, also are handicapped in sending coal to Southern markets.

FORD WOULD CHARTER BOATS

Wires for Information of Craft Available for Australian Trader.

No Boats Loose on Great Lakes—Ships at Premium.

The Ford Motor company is looking for boats that are open for charter to Australia.

Today The Herald received a telegram from the Ford Motor company's headquarters at Ford, Ont., in which inquiry regarding such foot-loose craft was made, which read as follows:

"Are there any freight boats in Duluth or Superior available for charter to Australia? Answer."

G. A. Tomlinson, individually a large vessel owner, and president of the Superior Shipbuilding company, also a director of the American Shipbuilding company, and D. T. Helm, another large local vessel owner, were asked concerning the matter. Both said that there are no boats on the Great Lakes, to their knowledge, of Welland canal size, which are available for that kind of charter or any other, as boats on the lakes just now are at a premium and will continue to be next season.

May Be Trying New Plan.

Just what the Ford company wants with boats for Australian charter is not known, unless it is desired to ship Ford cars to the Antipodes in ship lots. There has been some talk, based on remarks made some time ago by Henry Ford, head of the company, to the effect that the time was not far distant when Mr. Ford would have his own ore carriers carrying iron ore to his own furnaces from his own mines or mines leased from others, and that these boats would be employed in not only carrying the ore, but in transporting the Ford cars to all parts of the world. It may be that the company wishes to charter ships to experiment with this method of transporting its own products in its own chartered ships.

That the Ford company has started—if it has—this plan at an inopportune time is conceded, for never in the history of the lakes were boats of almost every size so greatly in demand. Next season is expected to be an unusually active one, and many ore shippers who have been content in the past to charter what they could with the feeling of assurance of getting all the tonnage they needed during the season, are now in the market to buy boats of their own.

Many have already acquired the nucleus of fleets, and so pressing is the demand that a number of ore shippers have purchased boats that have heretofore been regarded as poor carriers so far as financial return was concerned, because of their small size.

SHIPMENTS JUST DOUBLE

Ore Docks That Have Closed Report Increase of 100 Per Cent.

Only Four More to Close—Three Run Until Next Week.

The ore shipping season ended at two more docks yesterday, these being the docks of the Duluth & Iron Range road at Two Harbors and that of the Soo road at Ashland. The Soo shipped from the Gogebic range to Ashland, and the season there is now finished, for the Northwestern docks at Ashland will wind up their business tonight.

The business for the year at the Great Northern docks at Allouez bay, which was expected to be wound up today, will not end until Monday and perhaps Tuesday, for three more boats are expected to load there. They will be the last docks to quit business for the season, the steamer Arcturus taking the last load from the Two Harbors docks yesterday evening.

The only other docks handling Lake Superior ores are those at Escanaba and Marquette, and these are not expected to quit business until next week. For that reason the grand totals for the season of shipments of Lake Superior ores cannot yet be given, but the figures received from the docks that are through show that they shipped out close to 100 per cent more ore than they did last year.

From five docks that have quit, there was shipped, this season, 26,226,776 tons, against 13,515,694 last season, an increase over last year of 12,711,182 tons. These docks and their total shipments for the season, this year and last, are as follows:

	1915. Tons.	1914. Tons.
Duluth, Missabe & Northern	15,437,419	6,318,295
Duluth & Iron Range	8,642,942	5,579,929
Northern Pacific...	173,047	137,664
Soo (Superior)....	960,595	721,662
Soo (Ashland)....	1,012,773	758,144
Totals	26,226,776	13,515,694

Special Weather Bulletin.

The weather bureau at Washington issued at 9:40 o'clock this morning, the following advisory weather bulletin:

"Winds of moderate force and mostly west to south and generally fair weather with normal temperature probable on the Great Lakes during remainder of week. A disturbance now approaching the North Pacific coast will reach the Great Lakes Sunday or Monday and will be attended by high winds and rain or snow."

Port of Duluth.

Arrived—J. C. Wallace, Goulder, Kopp, Wainwright, J. A. Donaldson, W. D. Crawford, F. G. Hartwell, coal; D. R. Hanna, J. J. Sullivan, Lagonda, Colgate, light for grain; Duluth, Northern Wave, Lakeland, merchandise; North Star, light for flour; Renown, oil.

Departures—Superior, merchandise; Hemlock, Renown, light; E. N. Saunders, Sonora, grain; Wickwire, ore.

MOVEMENT OF GRAIN GROWS

Heavy Shipments From Port Arthur and Fort William; Coal Light.

Latest Crop Figures Are Satisfactory Beyond All Expectations.

Large increases in the grain movement, and a falling off in coal receipts, figured the last week at Fort William and Port Arthur, the Canadian Head of the Great Lakes.

F. & W. Jones, Fort William vessel agents, say in their weekly review:

"Coal arrivals during the week show a slight falling off compared with last week's arrivals. Ten cargoes arrived, all being bituminous and all in American bottoms. Despatch has been good at all the docks. Coal shipments to this port are practically through and it is expected that only two more cargoes will come here this season. Car shipments remain about the same, only sufficient to meet the actual demands.

"Grain movement has continued active during the current week. Seventy-four vessels have loaded grain, as against fifty-six for the week previous. Of these forty-three were billed to American ports and thirty-one to Canadian. The total amount shipped up to Friday, (the latest date available) was 12,346,359 bushels.

"Receipts from the West in the same period totaled 13,277,396 bushels, thus showing a slight surplus over shipments. Elevator stocks in consequence have shown a slight advance, being 23,563,011 bushels, against 22,923,186 bushels on our last report.

"The latest actual crop-figures are now on file and reveal a position satisfactory beyond all expectations. The total of all grains harvested are computed by the Grain Dealers' association as 689,691,200 bushels, while those computed by the Grain Growers' association give the total of all grains as 742,163,155 bushels. It is generally conceded that the latter figures are approximately correct. These are made up as follows:

Wheat, bu	341,589,635
Oats, bu	330,157,002
Barley, bu	62,714,095
Flax, bu	7,702,423

"It is estimated that of this there will be retained in the West for seed, fed and milling 40,000,000 bushels of wheat and 150,000,000 bushels of oats and other grains, thus giving approximately 552,000,000 bushels for shipment east of Fort William and Port Arthur. Of this there has already gone east to date 115,900,000 bushels, and it is computed that an additional 30,000,000 to 35,000,000 bushels will probably go East by water between now and the close, thus leaving an unparalleled amount in round figures of 400,000,000 bushels on hand after navigation has closed. It is expected that Eastern all-rail shipments will probably absorb 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 bushels of that amount during winter months, leaving 330,000,000 to 350,000,000 bushels to be held in store at the Head of the Lakes and Western points. While it will be remembered that a large quantity of this will be held in the farmers hands, and therefore will not reach the market till some time in the spring, still, it is evident that there will be an unprecedented amount for which storage must be provided at the Head of the Lake terminals.

"It appears evident that there should be good demand for storage at Fort William and Port Arthur to load after the close. This should be particularly evident when it is remembered that the total elevator storage capacity at the Head of the Lakes is only about 45,000,000 bushels and that the Western line elevators can only take care of an additional 60,000,000 to 70,000,000 bushels.

"Stocks in store at date, receipts and shipments during the week:

	Stocks.	Receipts.	Shipments.
Wheat	18,045,853	10,083,624	9,788,328
Oats	4,074,382	2,572,436	2,314,967
Barley	770,972	427,996	198,966
Flax	672,304	187,338	44,044

COAL DOCK MAY CHANGE LESSORS

Reiss No. 4 Likely to Be Transferred to New Company.

Negotiations are said to be going on which may result in the transfer of the C. Reiss Coal company's No. 4 dock at the foot of Thompson avenue in Superior, East end, to the Pittsburgh & Ashland Coal company, which is desirous of getting located at the Head of the Lakes. The latter company has docks at Ashland, Wis.

The Reiss company has the dock well stocked now, and, it is said, the transfer will not take place even if the negotiations are successful, until after May 1, 1916, so that the company may have time to dispose of the fuel now stored there.

Dock No. 4 is owned by the Northern Pacific Railway company, which built it many years ago, soon after the road itself was built into Superior. It has been operated under leases for the greater part of the time since then, and was controlled by the Pittsburgh Coal company before the Reiss company leased it. The latter company has spent a large amount of money, in the neighborhood of $250,000, it is said, in extensions and improvements to the dock and has greatly increased its capacity.

"COP'S" WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE.

May Pearl Hennold Says Her Husband Was Cruel.

Tilford M. Honnold, patrolman on the city police force, is defendant in a divorce suit filed yesterday afternoon in district court by his wife, May Pearl Honnold, who charges him with having treated her cruelly throughout their married life and who says that she fears that he will do her personal violence unless he is restrained by an order of the court. Honnold is cited to appear in court Saturday and show cause why he should not pay his wife temporary alimony and why a restraining order should not be issued against him.

The Honnolds were married Nov. 24, 1903, at Brainerd. She charges that he has, on numerous occasions, struck, punched, slapped and attempted to choke her and, that he has instilled her with a fear that he might do her grievous bodily harm. Last week, she declares, he threatened to break up housekeeping and remove the furniture to different places. She alleges that he threatened to take some of it to the police station. Honnold is 37, and she is 34.

AUTOISTS URGED TO BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

Automobile owners are asked by Health Director Fahey to assist his department in the sale of the 1915 Red Cross Christmas seals.

"We have several hundred large cards advertising the 1915 seal," he said this morning, "and these will fit the radiator on any automobile. If owners will tie the cards on their radiators, they will not only keep their engines from freezing, but will help us considerably in advertising the seals.

"Cards can be obtained by calling at the health department and if used by owners throughout the city, think what a wonderful help it would be."

A total of 200,000 seals has been distributed throughout the city and they can be purchased at any time now. Booths will be opened Monday morning at the postoffice and the Glass Block store, it was announced yesterday.

OPPOSITION TO CLOTURE RULE

Will Not Be Approved By Democrats Without Strong Fight.

Pomerene Opposes Clark as President Pro Tempore of Senate.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The contest over the adoption of a rule to provide for cloture of debate, was renewed when senate Democrats continued their caucus today.

The way for action on the measure had been paved as the result of an agreement reached by the special rules committee proposing limitation of debate to prevent filibustering. The cloture rule would provide means for forcing a measure to a vote whenever filibustering tactics become apparent.

Indications were that the rule would not be approved without a vigorous fight. Several Democratic senators had announced their intention to oppose it.

A lively contest also is promised over the caucus selection tomorrow of a president pro tempore of the senate. Senator Clarke of Arkansas, who is a candidate for re-election to that place will have Senator Pomerene of Ohio, as an opponent. The entrance of the latter into the race is the culmination of opposition to Senator Clarke because of his antagonism to the ship purchase bill at the last session. Administration senators had sought, however, to allay the opposition for the sake of party harmony.

Democrats of the ways and means committee again worked on committee assignments in the hope of completing their task today. The Republicans of the house also caucused over the assignment of the minority to committee places.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frederick T. Price was indicted by the county grand jury today, charged with first degree murder in connection with the death of his wife, Mary Fridley Price, member of a well-known Minnesota family. The indictment came after testimony of several witnesses regarding events that followed the finding of Mrs. Price's body at the foot of a high cliff along an automobile road here Nov. 28, 1914.

Price told authorities that his wife had fallen from the cliff while trying to rescue a pet dog.

TO RECOVER ON BOND.

Action Against Ely School Contractors on Trial Here.

Suit to recover on a surety bond furnished by the Boyd Construction company, contractors, for the high school building erected at Ely last year, was brought to trial yesterday afternoon in district court by the Paine & Nixon company against the United States Fidelity & Guaranty company. The contract for the school was let to the construction company on June 2, 1914, for 129,300. The contractors secured building supplies from the plaintiff. It is claimed that the contractors failed to settle the bill and now owe $1,710.70. The plaintiff concern asks judgment for this amount. The case is being tried before Judge Dancer and a jury.

COURT RECEIVES GOOD SUM IN FINES

The West Duluth branch of municipal court, which is presided over by Judge Harry W. Lanners, paid to the city $413.24 during the month of November.

M. S. Lloyd, clerk of municipal court, today turned over to the city treasurer a check for that amount. This is the first time that this has been done in this city, as it follows the system recently installed by O. B. Thayer, city accountant.

A total of $336 in fines was paid by the various prisoners, and costs, added to the fines, amounted to $57.24. In two cases prisoners forfeited $10 bail.

Twenty-two cases, including nineteen criminal and three civil actions, were handled.

FIRE WARDEN BUSY.

WILL BUILD TWO CARS.

New Plan to Provide Ambulance and Car for Chief.

After a conference with Fire Chief Randall yesterday, Commissioner Silberstein decided to remodel the chief's car for the proposed motor ambulance and to use the present body of the machine for a new chassis.

As a result, he arranged this morning to advertise for bids on building an ambulance body on the chief's car and supply the city with a 60-horse power engine and chassis for the rebuilding of a car for the chief. Bids will be opened within two weeks, and it is expected that the two cars will be ready for use by Jan. 1.

It is Commissioner Silberstein's belief that the two cars can be built at a small cost and at the same time give the chief a high-powered car, which he needs, and supply the city with a completely equipped motor ambulance. He estimates the entire cost for both cars at $3,000.

In addition, Commissioner Silberstein is now negotiating for a new police car to take the place of the old Franklin and will shortly advertise for bids, he said this morning.

EASTERN RAILROADS ARE RUSHED, SAYS HATHAWAY

Allen E. Hathaway, Duluth passenger agent of the Great Northern, returned today from a trip to New York, Washington, Philadelphia and other Eastern cities.

According to Mr. Hathaway, business in the East is very prosperous and the railroads are blockaded at many of the Eastern terminals because of the large volume of grain that has been received.

"Down East they are talking about prosperity," said Mr. Hathaway today. "I saw more busy persons down in that part of the country than I have seen in years."

TO FILL FARGO JOB.

Police Woman to Be Removed From Chief's or Commissioner's Control.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo probably will have a policewoman who will be removed entirely from the control of the commissioner or chief of police with the exception that both the policewoman and the police force are expected to work in conjunction where necessary.

The removal of Mrs. Irma Erwin Poppler from office as policewoman created quite a furore in the city especially among social workers who took the matter before the city commission and urged that the office of policewoman be not done away with. The commissioners claim that they intended to maintain the office although no appropriation has been made for the pay of such an officer in the annual appropriation budget.

Commissioner R. B. Blakemore introduced a resolution instructing the commissioner of police to employ an educated and trained policewoman at a salary of not to exceed $1,000 a year and instructing the city attorney to draw up an ordinance for presentation to the commission creating the original office of policewoman thereby removing the office from under the control of the commissioner of police or the chief of police. The resolution was adopted.

McKinnon is seeking a burglar who invaded the home of James Dunphy here yesterday and when caught rifling a room by a maid choked her into insensibility then escaped. The robber is described as being about 40 years old, 5 feet 10 inches in height, dark hair, red mustache, black slouch hat and brown suit. The countryside is aroused over the attack, and a posse will probably be organized tomorrow.

OBSERVATORY IS ASSURED

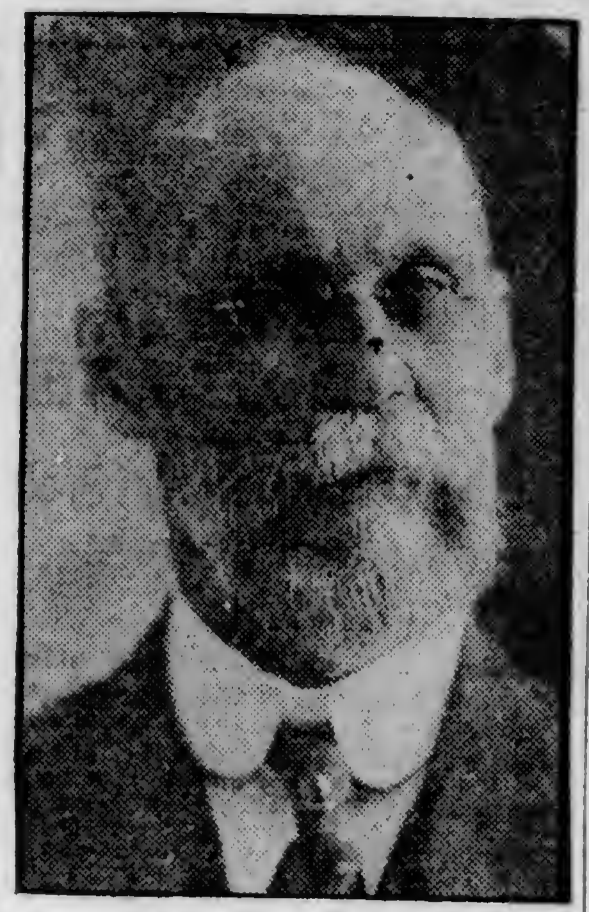
City Council Accepts Offer Made By John H. Darling.

City commissioners yesterday afternoon decided to accept the offer of John H. Darling to erect an astronomical observatory on a public playground.

A resolution accepting his proposal will be introduced by Mayor Prince at the council meeting next Monday afternoon, providing also that the title of the property shall remain unaffected by the erection of the observatory and that a contract to this effect shall be drawn up and signed by the city attorney and Mr. Darling.

At the council meeting last Monday Mr. Darling, who was assistant United States engineer at the local port for thirty years, and who is known as one of the ablest students in astronomy in this part of the country, appeared before the commissioners and presented his offer. He proposes to erect a private observatory building to cost about $3,000 and equip it at a cost of $3,000 more, on the easterly corner of the public playground at Ninth avenue west and Third street.

In explaining his proposition, Mr. Darling said that he planned to use the observatory for his own pleasure and study, but that those interested in the study of astronomy would also be permitted to use the building at stated times. He would also make provision, he said, for the turning over of the building, either to the city or some educational institution that will care for it after his death. His proposal was taken under consideration, pending an opinion from the city attorney.



JOHN H. DARLING.

It is Mr. Darling's plan to erect a brick structure, with a 20-foot dome and an adjoining library, the building to cost approximately $3,000. He also plans to install a nine-inch refracting telescope, equatorially mounted and clock driven to cost $3,000, making a total expense of about $6,000.

Yesterday afternoon City Attorney Greene informed the commissioners that the city has the authority to grant Mr. Darling permission to erect the building.

GRAND FORKS BOARD HAS BEEN ENJOINED

Cannot Proceed With Erection of Proposed High School.

Grand Forks, N. D., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local board of education has been permanently enjoined from proceeding with the construction of a $260,000 high school, for which contracts were recently granted. A group of citizens successfully prosecuted the injunction proceedings through the district court. Judge Charles A. Pollock of Fargo determining the issue, holding with the plaintiffs that the board had exceeded its authority in attempting to undertake such an elaborate building.

While the board of education last evening decided to make an appeal of the case to the supreme court, it will be months before a decision will be forthcoming from that body.

Judge Pollock held that the state law which governs levies makes it impossible for the board of education to transfer moneys levied for one purpose to another fund for another purpose. It is contended that such proceeding would open the way to fraud and deceit, though no such charge was hinted at in this case.

The Healy Plumbing & Heating company of St. Paul and the Grey Construction company of Watertown, S. D., had the contracts.

COMPOSE DIFFERENCES.

Crosby School Board, Long at Loggerheads, Finally Agrees.

Crosby, Minn., Dec. 2.—The members of the Crosby-Ironton school board who have been at loggerheads for some time standing 3 to 3 on various propositions coming up for action, have composed their differences and are working together.

Dr. McCoy has been appointed clerk for the remainder of the year at a salary of $35 per month, and his back salary of $140 has been ordered paid.

R. J. Sewell, Edward Romain and J. B. McCoy were appointed a committee to go to St. Paul and see about obtaining money from the state to meet the monthly estimates of Jacobson Bros., of Duluth, who are erecting the $100,000 high school.

It has been decided to establish night schools at Crosby and Ironton. Sessions will be held on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock beginning next week. Reading, spelling, writing and arithmetic will be taught and the pay of the teachers has been fixed at $1.50 per night, the supervisors to get $2 per night.

HOPE FOR NEW ARRANGEMENT

Council Would Have the Recreation Work Kept Up.

City officials are still hoping that the school board will be able to make some arrangement to continue its activities in connection with playground and community center work.

On learning of the opinion handed down yesterday by Clifford L. Hilton, assistant attorney general, to the board of education that a combination with the city of Duluth would be illegal, the commissioners expressed the belief this morning that some favorable arrangement still could be made. It is pointed out that the school board could hire J. R. Batchelor, the present recreational director, and have him do all the work at the schools, if the members desire to broaden the scope of community center work, while the city could continue him in charge of playgrounds and ice skating rinks.

"We will make no plans whatever," Mayor Prince said this afternoon, "until we hear from the school board, or have an opportunity of learning the exact nature of the attorney general's opinion. Our appropriation of $4,000 for next year will be spent for special playground and recreational work just the same, but I am in hopes that the board will make some arrangement that will pass the objections now raised by the state officials.

"Of course, it would be impossible for the city to handle it all alone, in case the board refuses to co-operate in any manner whatever, but our appropriation will be utilized for this work, nevertheless."

Among the plans suggested is one, whereby Director Batchelor would be used as long as the $4,000 lasts during the next year, while another is that he be dropped from the city payroll after Jan. 1, when the ice skating rinks could be placed in charge of Park Manager Cleveland. This plan would do away with several community centers now in operation and the normal class for young men and women interested in playground work.

Members of the commission said this morning that no action will be taken, but that the entire matter will be left in the hands of Mayor Prince, as the money already appropriated is included in his 1916 budget.

YALE CREWS MAY HAVE NEW PRACTICE COURSE

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 2.—The announcement that Yale crews would have their spring practice on the Housatonic river below Derby on a four-mile course recommended by the crew committee, received the attention of Yale undergraduates today. The crews will abandon the harbor entirely. Should the Housatonic prove to be an ideal course arrangements will be made to transfer by barges the George Adee boat house, which cost $100,000 to erect.

The recommendation of the crew committee favoring the change does not come as a surprise. Recently a number of former oarsmen who examined the river reported informally that in their opinion a four-mile course was available which was as good as or even better than that at New London on the Thames river. The new course is available not only for crew practice, but for intercollegiate regattas.

CONVICTED OF STEALING "MOJAKKAA" INGREDIENTS

Two Go to Work Farm for Taking Herring to Brew Favorite Soup.

First course: "Mojakkaa."
Second course: Herring.
Third course: Apples.

"First you 'snipe' an apple from a sidewalk counter, then you 'snipe' a herring from a dock on Lake avenue and then you make the mojakkaa from the herring—and then you eat."

"Mojakkaa" is a consomme sort of soup made from herring.

Three-course meals of this kind have been common on Lake avenue south, on West Michigan street and on West Superior street, police say, but they caught two herring "snipers" last night.

Edward Smith, 34, arrested by J. Callahan, got sixty days at the work farm, while Matt Kannainen, 48, arrested by Officer Grinager, was sentenced to thirty days.

Smith's extra "jolt" was added when the court learned that he had just been discharged from the state penitentiary.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Washington, Dec. 2.—Reports of business conditions throughout the country from Federal reserve agents are, in the main, favorable and show improvement for November, according to information from these sources published today by the Reserve board.

Boston, one of the least optimistic of the twelve reserve district cities, says that their business has improved "but slightly, if at all," but that the economies of the past months are not now being so rigidly observed and that the public generally is spending money more freely than in the past, due presumably, among other things, to the fact that labor is more generally employed.

Rescuers today found two men who had been trapped by the explosion. They were so weak they were unable to talk but physicians believe they will recover.

Judge Booth refused to permit the prisoner to pay a fine, saying that robbery of the mails was too serious a crime and that the people expected protection.

BANK ROBBER IDENTIFIED

Hugo E. Eden One of Three Men Wanted in Mill City.

Officers From Minneapolis Complete Work of Local Police.

After one of the cleverest pieces of work in weeks, police yesterday identified Hugo A. Eden, 21, as one of three armed men accused of holding up officials of the Camden Park State Bank of Minneapolis Monday during banking hours and robbing them of $1,500.

The bank robbers locked bank employes in a vault and then fled westward, it was believed, commandeering a wagon and making good their escape. Eden, with Edward W. Bell, 39, and John A. Emple, 28, was arrested as a suspicious character Tuesday evening.

Eden's two accomplices got wind of a police raid on their rooms in the Twelfth Avenue hotel, Twelfth avenue west and Michigan street, and fled. Bell and Emple were proved to be St. Paul taxicab drivers who brought the party to Duluth in a seven-passenger limousine, believing that they were hunters. The "hunters" were to pay them $100 for the hire of the car.

John Peterson, a teller of the bank, M. C. Passolt, a Minneapolis detective, and Charles Brown, special officer of the Minneapolis Bankers' association, arrived in Duluth last night and removed all doubt as to Eden's identity, police say.

When the three robbers, unmasked, entered the bank, Eden, seeing a revolver in a desk drawer, put it in his pocket, according to Mr. Peterson, who said:

"He picked it up, gave it a pat, and put it in his pocket, saying: 'I'll take that because I'll need it in my business.'"

Eden doesn't know that the revolver was found among his effects in the room he rented at the Twelfth Avenue hotel here Tuesday. He has admitted serving a term in the Minneapolis workhouse, and has partially confessed knowledge of the robbery, police claim.

Eden at first said he was a painter and gave his address as 2424 John avenue, Superior.

The limousine was claimed yesterday by H. F. Chandler, proprietor of the Northern Central hotel of St. Paul, who said he rented it to Bell and Emple when they told him about a party of three hunters they were to take north for $100.

Upon arriving in Duluth, the five men at once went to the Twelfth Avenue hotel, and then two of Eden's friends left, saying they would return in a little while. They have not been seen since.

FARRELL TO TAKE OVER GARBAGE WORK

Safety Head Will Introduce Ordinance Authorizing the Change.

Within the next two weeks Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, will introduce a resolution placing Commissioner Farrell, works head, in charge of garbage collection and the operation of the city incinerator plant.

It is the pan of the council to have Commissioner Farrell take charge of the plant on Jan. 1 and to continue its operation in the works division in the future. At present the plant is in charge of the health department.

Shortly after the first of the year, Commissioner Farrell plans to start negotiations for the erection of a $20,000 central incinerator plant near the present building. He will institute a systematic collection system when he takes charge of the work on Jan. 1, he said today. The 1916 budget includes $10,000 in the works fund to carry on this work during the year.

ASK COURT TEST OF ORDINANCE

Oneota and Hazelwood Club Asks City to Start Friendly Suit.

Members of the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club at their regular monthly meeting last evening adopted a resolution asking the city to start a test suit in district court to determine the validity of the ordinance regulating water and gas extensions and the assessments on abutting property.

A copy of the petition was received by City Clerk Borgen this morning and will be read at the council meeting next Monday.

In view of the fact that the ordinance, passed June 8, 1914, has never been tested in the courts, the water and light department compels each property owner petitioning for water or gas extensions to sign a guarantee to pay the cost of the improvement, in case the assessment is thrown out by the courts. This is done to protect the water and light department from any possible loss, but entails considerable work and trouble in obtaining the guarantees and it is the objection to these that caused the adoption of the resolution by the Oneota and Hazelwood club.

Manager Reed of the water and light department said that a test case would definitely settle the validity of the ordinance.

The village payroll for November amounted to $21,847.90. The checks were distributed this morning, and the banks are readily accepting them this afternoon. None of the old checks for back payrolls are being cashed, but the November checks are accepted at their face value.

ENTITLED TO AID UNDER THE LAW

Holding Little Property Does Not Invalidate Widow's Claim.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 2.—A widow with five children under the age of 14 years, who owns a homestead on which there is a mortgage and who receives a small rental from a house on the rear end of her lot, is entitled to aid under the mothers' pension law, even though she is able to work and earn sufficient funds to support the children, according to an opinion by Attorney General Owen to the district attorney of Green Bay today.

The administration of the law, the attorney general says, is placed somewhat exclusively in the hands of the county judge or judge of the juvenile court in whom a large discretion is vested. The state's attorney believes that in this particular case aid should be given; that it is the policy of the state to provide such aid to every mother so situated as will enable her to spend some time with her children at home.

CEMETERY CASE BEING TRIED SECOND TIME

A jury was drawn in district court this morning to retry the case of Michael Scanlon against the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, an action in which the plaintiff is seeking $3,000 damages because the mining company had consigned the body of his daughter to an unmarked grave after it had been removed from a Negaunee, Mich., cemetery which had been sold to the company.

Scanlon claims that he buried his 4-year-old daughter in the Catholic cemetery at Negaunee in 1906 and that in 1910 after the burial ground had been purchased by the mining company it was removed to a new resting place without his knowledge and that he has not been informed as to the whereabouts of the new grave. The company claims that if Scanlon will tell where the old grave was in the old cemetery, it will be able to locate the new grave. The case was tried at the May term of court, but the jury disagreed.

TIME KILLERS.

Chicago News: "I just happened upon an interesting fact regarding my favorite author, Sir Walter Scott," said the man with the horn-rimmed glasses.

"What was it all about?" asked the man who was reading batting averages, trying to appear interested.

"It said that notwithstanding the enormous amount of literature which Sir Walter turned out he was never seen to work. His most intimate friends never set eyes on him with his pen in hand, and they began to entertain doubts as to whether he was really an author at all."

"How did Sir Walt put it over?"

"Simplest thing in the world. His wife gave him away. Sir Walter was a genius in more ways than one and his manner of working proved it. He labored while his friends slept. He would arise at 3 a. m. and apply himself to his tasks until called for breakfast. He found he could accomplish more in those four wee sma' hours than in all the rest of the day put together. I'm going to try Sir Walter's method next week and attempt to catch up with myself."

"What's the idea?"

"I can't do my work at the office any more. Too many friends. I arrive at my desk at 8 a. m. and before I've had time to roll the top back the first caller arrives. He is never on a business errand, but wants to talk war or baseball. This individual seldom leaves before the next arrives. The second visitor is probably an old school chum, a distant relative or perhaps just a casual acquaintance who has heard that I keep a box of cigars on my desk and he wants to sample them.

"The second man leaves after getting a cigar, maybe, but he seldom gets as far as the elevator before my door opens for the third interrupter. Number three is probably an agent selling a three-speed safety razor or a rapid-fire lathering brush. I naturally become interested in his demonstration and before I know it a golden hour has gone permanently.

"I believed in signs at one time. I bought several of them and hung them up, but they had no effect on my callers. A placard with 'This is My Busy Day' on it never saved a minute for any one. I've had a man occupy three solid hours telling me how he won $2 in a poker game, while he faced a sign over my desk bearing the printed request, 'Make Your Visit Short.'"

"I guess old Scott had the right idea," said the man with the batting averages.

SHERIFF OF N. Y. GETS $60,000.

New York Evening Post: This may be an off year in politics, but the richest office in Greater New York, that of sheriff of New York county, is to be filled at the November election. It pays almost $60,000 a year in salary and fees. That's more than a United States senator receives in his full term of six years.

A sheriff cannot succeed himself. He doesn't need to, for a single term means a fortune to the incumbent.

The sheriffs who have held office during the last eight years have received in addition to the two years' salary of $24,000 the following amounts in fees:

Nicholas J. Hays (1906-1907)	$ 70,103.91
Thomas F. Foley (1908-1909)	92,594.84
John S. Shea (1910-1909)	95,623.91
Julius S. Harburger (1912-1913)	98,769.24
Max S. Grifenhagen (1914)	45,147.34
Total	$402,329.24

Besides, there were little driblets accruing to ex-sheriffs who held office prior to 1906. These driblets amounted to $5,995.20.

Sheriff Grifenhagen, elected on the 1913 fusion ticket, prepared a bill for introduction in the 1915 legislature turning all fees into the city treasury, but the very suggestion created such a revulsion of feeling at Albany that an amendment was suggested that would have doubled the sheriff's compensation. It was proposed to amend the Grifenhagen bill so that the sheriff would get all fees. The bill failed of passage.

THROWING OUT BUOYS.

Chicago News: On board a ship one day the cry went up: "A man overboard!" and the captain gave orders to a new sailor, who was an Irishman, to throw out two buoys.

The sailor, seeing two boys walking on the deck, threw them overboard. The captain, in a state of excitement, declared that it was cork buoys he wanted thrown overboard.

"Bedad," said Pat, "how was I to know whether they came from Cork or Tipperary?"

BROTHER EXPLAINED IT.

Los Angeles Times: A certain 4-year-old, who has recently come into possession of a small pocket flashlight, and whose little mind has since been largely taken up with its construction and equipment, was overheard discussing family matters with little sister, a few years older.

"I don't know what's the matter with papa," said sister. "He frowns so much and never laughs any more."

"Well, sister," was the reply, "maybe his laugh battery is broken."

ON THE IRON RANGES

SPECIAL AGENTS FINDING NO CASES OF LID-TILTING

Tell Hibbing Police Chief Saloon Men Are Obeying Their Orders.

Road to Buhl, Which Continues Wet Place, Reported Very Popular.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Herald correspondent was informed today by the Indian agents that not to exceed $250 was the value of the liquor confiscated in local saloons and that all reports of larger amounts were gross exaggerations. It is rumored that some of the saloon keepers stored liquor in other places and that the government men will remain here for some time to watch against any effort made to retail it.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The special Indian agents who continue here to see that none of the forty-five saloon keepers who were put out of business Tuesday afternoon are selling liquor are gumshoeing about but apparently find no cases calling for arrests as none has been made. One of the agents told the chief of police today he believed the saloon men were obeying orders and not selling any intoxicants. Special Agent Larson, the head of the force, is at Chisholm today. Mr. Larson is not very communicative to the press and makes few if any statements as to his moves.

Good Road to Buhl.

The road to Buhl, about ten miles distant, where eight saloons are still running, not being in the Indian territory, is reported to be very good and auto parties to and from that place are said to be very popular. The saloons open there are said to be doing a thriving business.

The Indian agents not only raided all local saloons Tuesday afternoon but even went out to a resort kept by a woman named Wallace, between here and Chisholm where liquor concealed in a roothouse was seized.

About twenty-five of the forty-five saloons of Hibbing today are dispensing soft drinks and disposing of various kinds of non-intoxicants. It is said that the saloon men are gradually adapting themselves to the changed conditions and while they were astounded by the government's drastic action Tuesday in summarily closing their places they are slowly coming to the conclusion that what is is and that settles it. Those who remain in the soft drink business are expected to make a bid or demand to have their rents reduced but this matter is only now in the tentative stage.

A dry Hibbing has not proved the wonder expected and many predict that when conditions are all adjusted the village will go forward and continue to grow and be about the best community on the range.

Drug Stores Not Affected.

A rumor gained wide circulation in this village and in Chisholm that the drug stores would be forced to have their prescriptions filled in other cities because they would not be allowed to have alcohol in stock, which is used in a great many prescriptions, was declared to be without foundation by drug store owners.

Every drug store will be allowed the use of as much alcohol as they absolutely need and the department at Washington furnishes the proprietors with a permit that allows the importing of the spirit into the city.

Indian Agent Larson and his assistants gave warnings to the drug store owners and clerks as to what discretion to use in the use of alcohol in regards to prescriptions—calling on them yesterday afternoon.

Raid Chisholm Home.

Chisholm, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Indian agents were numerous here Wednesday and all are ferreting out plants of booze. They made a raid on two private dwellings yesterday afternoon, getting a good supply of wine at the home of Louis Roth and at the home of a foreigner near the Range Lumber company's office. They poured a cask of wine in the street. Wagons loaded with liquor scurried to the woods to the north and south in an endeavor to save the holdover supplies. No arrests have been made, the agents simply telling everyone that they must clean up or suffer the penalty in the future.

Deputy Indian Agent Ellis said in reply to a question on the likelihood of a crop of blind pigs springing out of the closing order: "No chance whatever for the blind pig industry to flourish here. We have been up against many worse situations than is presented here by the large foreign population and have always succeeded in wiping out illegal traffic in alcoholic liquor. Chisholm and Hibbing are both easy towns to patrol, the roads and railway lines leading into each town being few. Then again when we confiscate a few automobiles and land a few of the most daring smugglers into the Federal jail the daring oozes from the toes and finger tips of those not caught and complete abandonment of blind pigging usually follows. No, the blind pigs are not worrying us. The Indian territory is dry and dry for good."

Many of the saloon men are making preparations to open out in other lines of business, some into the soft drinks trade, others to farming, while others are looking for work in the woods and mines.

A well known saloon man said, "I am glad the suspense is over. I have been thinking ever since the agitation first began to close the saloons that the goose was cooked and that it was only a matter of time until the order would be enforced. I am going to take up a piece of land and will build upon it immediately in preparation for clearing next spring. The saloon business is founded on air anyhow—bubbles I might say—and I'm through with it for all time."

Sees Better Condition.

"What is your opinion as to the effects, good or bad, on the future of the village through the closing of the saloons," asked the reporter of a business man. "I believe the closing of the saloons will give us an awful bump for a month or two, but in the end we will have business on a more solid foundation. Credit business will be better, more goods will be sold and a better class of citizens will take the place of those who will leave town because they cannot get their favorite poison. On the whole I am in favor of the dry town."

"What effect will the closing order have on the real estate business," asked the reporter yesterday of a leading dealer. "The effect will be good for the town," came back the ready reply. "Chisholm's money circulation is limited to the expenditures by the mines, the township board, the village council, the school board and the small payroll of the Swan River Logging company with a few minor industries to supplement them. When a big proportion of that cash goes to pay for liquors sold in Chisholm to outside breweries and distilleries, the cash circulation is reduced by just that much and by the way that sum is considerable when one stops to consider the number of saloons that had to be supported. When that drain on the village's cash stops the people will have money to buy homes and in time the home builder will cultivate a community spirit that will be beneficial to the town. We are better off without the saloons."

An Easy Way to Increase Weight

Good Advice for Thin Folks

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

There is a preparation known to reliable druggists almost everywhere which seemingly embodies the missing elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This modern treatment is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims, through regenerative, reconstructive powers, to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to the starved, broken-down cells and tissues of your body. You can readily picture what result this amazing transformation should produce as with increased weight the cheeks fill out, hollows about neck, shoulders and bust disappear and from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh is added to the body. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Boyce Drug store and other leading druggists of this vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

NOTE:—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired. —Advertisement.

UNRULY BOY FAILS TO MAKE GETAWAY

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unruly boy in the custody of Miss Anna Hehr, deputy probation officer, found more than his match in the woman officer yesterday afternoon.

As she was escorting a youngster to the office of C. E. Everett, range probation officer, the truant suddenly started on a run down Pine street.

Miss Hehr started pursuit and the chase was a merry one while it lasted. Through alleys and over fences, on one street onto another the youth led the way, but Miss Hehr was on his heels and at the Northern hotel on Pine street, where the boy ended his run after coming back along Pine street, Miss Hehr caught her youthful prisoner and marched him into the police station.

WILL ADVERTISE FOR ROADBUILDING BIDS

Township of Balkan and Stuntz to Improve Hibbing-Chisholm Highway.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of supervisors of the town of Stuntz and the town of Balkan with officials of the villages of Hibbing and Chisholm last evening, at the town hall, a resolution was passed that the town of Stuntz advertise for bids for the paving of the Chisholm-Hibbing road up to the line where Balkan township begins and past that boundary with either tarvia, bithulitic or concrete.

The meeting, which was an enthusiastic one, was attended by many citizens, who are interested in the building of a permanent roadway.

James Butchard, supervisor from the town of Stuntz, called the meeting to order and in his opening remarks he stated the necessity of the building of a new road and that it should be started as soon as the snow left the ground.

Supervisor Bates from the town of Balkan stated his objection to the building of a permanent thoroughfare, giving as his reason, that the town of Balkan would be unable to stand the cost of the road that would run through its boundaries.

Would Buy Crushed Rock.

J. C. McKusack, representing the Barrett Tarvia company, said that his company would be willing to buy the crushed rock from the town of Balkan and would pay a fair price for it, thus lessening the cost of the share of road to be put in by the town of Balkan to a considerable degree. He also extended an invitation to the various officials to inspect the tarvia roadways in Minneapolis.

Mr. Bates in reply stated that the proposition would be put up to the rest of the members of his township board.

The resolution which followed called for the opening of the bids on materials for the roadway on the fifteenth of this month and will be a road, twenty-four feet wide.

Mayor Power expressed his personal opinion, as well as Trustee Burrows, that they are in favor of a new permanent roadway.

WEDDED BY FATHER.

Two Harbors Minister Officiates at Daughter's Marriage.

Two Harbors, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Meta Maye McKee, only daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. H. McKee of this city, was married last evening to Howard Owens McIlroy, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. McIlroy in the presence of a number of friends at the home of the bride's parents. The father of the bride read the ring service before a bower of Southern smilax and yellow chrysanthemums. Four girl friends of the bride, the Misses Hazel Barto, Ruth Wurster, Madge Fisher and Marion McIlroy, stretched white ribbons which marked the bridal pathway. Little Miss Harriet McIlroy, a sister of the groom, carried the ring in a white chrysanthemum. The bride and groom entered unattended while Miss Verna Goltz, of Neenah, Wis., played Mendelssohn's wedding march. Carl McKee, brother of the bride, sang "Because" at the close of the ceremony, and Robert McKee, also a brother of the bride, sang "Little Grey Home in the West," accompanied by Miss Maybelle Owens.

The bride wore white crepe chiffon and lace, a tulle cap with pearl banding and carried a shower boquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley. The ribbon bearers wore silk gowns in shades of yellow, blue, pink and green. The ring bearer wore a dainty lingerie frock.

The rooms were decorated with yellow Southern smilax, ferns and chrysanthemums. The same color scheme was carried out in the dining room where a dainty luncheon was served, following the ceremony by Mrs. R. B. Johnstone, Mrs. A. N. Hunter, Mrs. William Wurster, and Mrs. J. Edward Olson.

The couple left for Minneapolis where they will visit a few days. The bride wore a going-away suit of midnight blue velvet trimmed with beaver, with hat to match.

The bride has been a resident of this city for two years during which time her winsome ways has won her many close friends. Mr. McIlroy has resided here all his life and is employed by the Iron Range railroad in the local yards. The young couple will be at home to their friends at 325 Cedar street after Dec. 20.

WARMER

This clear cold weather spurs those who have been dilatory, to an ambition to "put 'em on," and as there are many who pride themselves on their ability to stand cold without that protection, these first really cold mornings of the season find many shivering and looking as though they have a hard time to keep from weakening and surrendering. This morning was sharp but bright, and the day is developing into a pretty one. The absence of snow with ice-making weather seems quite agreeable, thank you.

A year ago today was bright and cold. The sun rose this morning at 7:35 o'clock and will set this evening at 4:20 o'clock, giving eight hours and forty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Colder weather prevails from the lake region southwestward to Texas, while over Atlantic states, the Rocky Mountains and the Northwest the temperature has risen. Freezing conditions extend southward to and including the greater portion of Texas and New Mexico. During the last twenty-four hours light snow or rain fell over the Eastern lake region. Ohio and Lower Mississippi valleys and Pacific coast sections. The winds in the lake region are westerly and light to moderate in force."

BANK CLERKS NEARLY CAUGHT BY RAIDERS

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—How three bank clerks after business hours unconsciously became trapped in a swerving mass of humanity, being ordered from a barroom by Indian Agent H. A. Larson and his assistants on Tuesday, has leaked out.

In a local bank building a hallway leads from a side door into a saloon. Three hatless clerks, noticing the bearing down upon the place of a cordon of agents, like hundreds of others, entered the building to see what was going on.

Their curiosity was aroused and they sought information. In a minute the side, back and front doors were locked and the three hatless, coatless clerks were in danger of having their dignity badly shattered by being pushed out of the front door with the rest of the morbid crowd, when one of them, more brave than the rest, appealed to Agent Larson.

"Can't you leave us out of the door we came in by," was the request.

"We are not drinking men and our modesty forbids us being shoved out into the street."

The explanation that followed opened the door to safety and three sheepish bank clerks did not have their dignity ruffled by their own curiosity.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE, SAYS AUTHORITY

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts to Flush Kidneys If Back Hurts.

Omit All Meat From Diet If You Feel Rheumatic or Bladder Bothers.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Advertisement.

NO MORE BACKACHE NO MORE MISERY

Hundreds of people have been relieved of the agonies caused by weak, diseased or clogged-up kidneys by using Solvax, the new remedy that quickly reaches the source of all kidney complaints.

If you suffer with pains in your back and sides or have any signs of kidney or bladder trouble such as rheumatic pains, puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired and run-down, or bothered with urinary disorders, Solvax will quickly and surely relieve you of your misery.

Solvax is probably the most potent remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such troubles. It neutralizes, dissolves and makes the kidneys sift out all the uric acid and poisons left by the blood, and renders the kidneys and urinary organs clean, vigorous and healthy.

Many of the best druggists say that no medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good. Solvax, therefore, sells under a positive guarantee to quickly relieve the worst cases of kidney trouble or your money refunded. Try Solvax today and if you cannot see and feel a decided change for the better just go to the druggist from whom you bought it and tell him you want your money back and he will return it without question. This is the strongest argument that can be offered in behalf of any medicine. Solvax is sold in Duluth and vicinity by Boyce Drug store and other leading dealers. —Advertisement.

CHARGE MAY BE DROPPED

Allegations Against North Dakota Elevator Result in Hearing.

Concern Alleged to Have Violated Law Against Unfair Combinations.

Bisbee, N. D., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Atlantic Elevator company of Minneapolis, alleged to have violated the state law governing unfair combination, after a hearing here, practically succeeded in convincing Assistant Attorney General Bitzing that no such discrimination exists.

Agents of the elevator company from Bisbee and other points testified that they had been instructed to pay above the list price for No. 1 wheat, and that the discrimination did not in any manner apply to Bisbee.

It was also pointed out that the Farmers' Elevator company, an independent concern, was paying above the list price for the same grade of wheat, and it was maintained by the agents that the grain was really worth more than the market price.

This is the second instance recently in which an investigation has been made by the attorney general's office in the matter of alleged unfair discrimination.

The report of the hearing conducted here will be considered by Attorney General Linde, and it is expected that the matter will be dropped, the attorney general taking the position that the price paid was simply the result of keen and fair competition.

MEETS HIS FATHER FOR FIRST TIME

South Dakotan Comes to Cass County, N. D., and Visits Parent.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seeing each other for the first time in their lives, W. J. Botkins of Harwood, Cass county, and Harry Shepard of Mitchell, S. D., father and son, are getting acquainted with each other at the Botkins home at Harwood.

Harry Shepard, who is now 35 years of age and is employed in the postoffice in Mitchell, was born after his father and mother separated. The separation was complete, as the two never heard of each other afterward and Mr. Botkin, who has resided at Harwood for a number of years, never knew whether the child that was expected was a boy or a girl, or for that matter whether it had lived. The mother later became Mrs. Shepard and the boy took the name of his stepfather.

Learns Father Is Alive.

Henry Shepard learned later that his real father was somewhere in the world and after he grew of an age to make it possible has been exerting every effort to locate his father, should he still be living, and if not to find out where he was buried. For the past twenty-eight years Shepard has been living at Mitchell, during which time twelve years has been spent in government employment, but it was only a short time ago that he learned that his real father was alive and was living at Harwood. Correspondence confirmed the fact that Shepard has found a father and that Botkins had found a son.

As soon as Shepard could secure a leave of absence he started at once for Harwood and father and son are making up for the lost years and are getting acquainted with each other and holding a sort of reunion or rather union.

GRAND JURY WILL MAKE UNIQUE TEST

Probers to Drop Dummy Over Cliff Where Woman Was Killed.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 2.—The Hennepin county grand jury will go to a point on the East River drive and hurl a dummy from a cliff to the sharp rocks below, as a result of the testimony offered yesterday that Mrs. Mary Cridley Price, member of one of Minnesota's best known families, could not have met death a year ago in the manner described by her husband, Frederick T. Price, a traveling man. Although no charge was entered against him, Price was arrested and placed in the county jail yesterday to be held pending action by the grand jury, it was announced.

Husband's Version of Tragedy.

In the gathering darkness one evening, an automobile carrying the Prices and C. D. Etchinson, a friend, stopped on the river road. Later Price reported to the police that while he was making a slight repair on his car, his wife, trying to rescue her pet dog, which hovered on the brink of the cliff, fell over with the animal.

She died in a few minutes. Witnesses, including a police surgeon, declared the body could not have landed in the spot indicated by Price and that death apparently was due to a blow on the head.

Relatives of Mrs. Price recently brought about Price's indictment on a charge of bigamy because a divorce from one of his three wives was found to be illegal, and thereby prevented him from obtaining, among other things, $10,000 in cash given as a present to Mrs. Price by her father shortly before her death and held in a safety deposit vault by Price.

The Prices were well known in social circles.

About 100 shoppers were in the immediate vicinity of the scene. The thief eluded capture after zigzagging around corners for a dozen blocks. The police have found no trace of him yet.

GAME WARDEN IS BUSY.

William Munch of Crookston Catches Number of Lawbreakers.

Crookston, Minn., Dec. 2.—Game Warden William Munch has just secured the conviction of several violators of state game laws.

Near Wilton, Beltrami county, he arrested Harry Knapton, for trapping out of season. In Knapton's possession were found ten muskrat skins. Knapton was taken before Municipal Judge Crowl, at Bemidji, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

At Nymore, E. E. Hart was arrested for trapping out of season. Eight rat furs were found. Hart entered a plea of guilty before Judge Crowl at Bemidji, and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

The arrest at Nymore was followed by another at Gonvick on a similar charge. One mink and twenty rat pelts were confiscated from Hilmer Lindstrom. Judge A. Monsurd assessed him $10 and costs.

Fifty-eight rat skins and two mink hides were found in the possession of two trappers, L. T. Gunn and F. S. Benhallegon, who began trapping before the opening of the season, in Maple Ridge township, Beltrami county. Each paid a fine of $12.50 when taken before Judge C. M. Thompson, at Nebish.

Judge Thompson also presided when W. S. Fauhl was brought from Alaska township, Beltrami county, accused of shooting more than one deer. Fauhl pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $52.30. Besides a 153-pound buck, one mink skin was also taken from Fauhl.

The confiscated property, totaling ninety-six muskrat skins, four mink pelts, and one deer, will be sold by the state game department at St. Paul.

NO LONGEVITY RULES.

Milwaukee Soldiers' Home Inmate, Nearly 101, Says He's Lucky.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 2.—Thomas Kelly, who is nearly 101 years old, has no rules for longevity.

"I've had uncommon good luck," he explained, when asked to what he ascribed his long life.

Thomas Kelly is a bit hard of hearing, and he doesn't remember things as well as he used to. He is an inmate of the soldiers' home and a patient in the hospital. But he's spry and active, and there's none in the home that likes his smoke or his meals better than does Thomas Kelly.

"Have you taken any liquor or smoked in your life?" he was asked.

His answer showed that age has not impaired his discretion.

"I smoke a bit, to be sure," he replied, "and,"—here he showed a fine distinction in the matter of words—"take a bit of stimulant now and then. But that's all."

Mr. Kelly was born in Boyle, County Roscommon, Ireland, on Dec. 23, 1814. He enlisted in the Seventh Wisconsin regiment in 1861. He's having a fine time at the hospital, and the nurse and he seem to have a little private joke between them that Thomas Kelly appreciates highly.

WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

Instead of nasty, harsh pills, salts, castor oil or dangerous calomel, why don't you keep Cascarets handy in your home? Cascarets act on the liver and thirty feet of bowels so gently you don't realize you have taken a cathartic, but they act thoroughly and can be depended upon when a good liver and bowel cleansing is necessary—they move the bile and poison from the bowels without griping and sweeten the stomach. You eat one or two at night like candy and you wake up feeling fine, the headache, biliousness, bad breath, coated tongue, sour stomach, constipation, or bad cold disappears. FRANK GOTCH MAY COME BACK AND MEET STECHER

Growing Indications Are That the Humboldt Farmer Is Getting Fidgety and May Take Another Mat Whirl—How Fred Fulton Started Fighting.

BY BRUCE.

THERE is something, a little bird, or other auguries of even more potent portent, which tells us that Frank A. Gotch is going to be lured from the rural sanctuary of his Humboldt home and brought onto the mat with young Joe Stecher, the most sensational wrestler by far that the world has as yet witnessed.

Just the other day Gotch got into communication with Ed Emith of the Chicago American.

"If the public demands that I come back to the mat, maybe I will," said Gotch. "It's up to the public."

Well, you know bringing the dear old public into the argument is generally one of the first indications that the person playing fifty-fifty with the public is about to fall.

Gotch is awfully interested in Stecher. The big Humboldt man went to Omaha last summer to see Stecher in action against Charley Cutler. Gotch saw quite enough to make him believe that the Nebraska boy is the wonder man of the age.

The so-called retired wrestling champion of the world had his portmanteau all packed to journey to Lincoln Thanksgiving afternoon and take a look at Stecher and Yussiff Hussane fight it out on the mat. Something came up at the last moment to prevent the big farmer from watching the mat miracle man flatten Hussane out two times in nine minutes.

* * *

Will Gotch Come Out?

MAYBE you have observed a little girl or maybe a kid at a party, off in a corner, possibly merely innocently forgotten by the others for the time being. But the hurt look on a child's countenance at such an occasion is quite enough to indicate the hurt.

All of us are more or less children just "growed" up. Some of us have our little niches and others have filled a big place in the affairs of the world. The larger one's splash has been in the big pond of life, the harder it is for the prodigious splasher to get on speaking terms with forgetfulness and oblivion.

Were Gotch, the veteran of the mat, past master of every trick and move, but with a body that has lost suppleness, strength, speed and endurance, and Stecher, a mere boy in years, to meet, the sporting world will stand agape with interest and view the conflict.

It would be a great hour for Gotch—a great hour until he lost. His old legion of followers would rally again and thousands would think of the big Iowa farmer as the peerless and dauntless athlete of old. The sporting limelight of two hemispheres would be cast on the ruddy countenance of Frank Gotch.

And then—Well if Gotch were beaten he would go back to his many acres, a sadder but wiser man, robbed of a title that he could no longer hope to win back, a has been, no longer possessed of the undaunted look of a man who has never met his master.

After Hussane, the big Bulgarian, returned from Lincoln, Neb., he declared that Stecher was a miracle worker with the most awful pair of legs of any man in the world.

"Stecher couldn't do that to me," said Gotch after he watched the young Nebraska plowboy make Charley Cutler writhe and groan on the mat.

Don't be too sure, Frank; remember what Hackenschmidt said before his first match with you?

How Fulton Started.

DO you want to know how Fred Fulton first got the idea into his head that he could really fight? Jim Corbett licked a bully out in San Francisco and became convinced of the fact that he was a great scrapper. Stanley Ketchel licked a rowdy in a Butte saloon. Fred Fulton licked seventeen fellows one afternoon in Beatrice, Neb.

That story sounds terribly exaggerated, much more so in fact, than the yarns told of the Count of Monte Cristo. But Fred swears it is so and says if he could get hold of some of the fellows he walloped there would not be the least trouble in verifying the tale.

"A chum of mine," the big fighter began, "got into trouble by throwing some solution in a girl's eye during school hours. I think it was a sort of accident, but the boys back there got awfully down on my chum.

"One day I was walking down the street and some of the school boys began to bawl me out. I was just 17 years old then and I guess most of the other boys in that crowd collected on the corner were about the same age.

"I was sure gawky in those days. First they called me a big rube and then got mean and sarcastic, sort of taking it out on me for what that chum of mine had done. Finally I got mad and told them I could lick anyone in the crowd.

"They formed a ring and the biggest guy in the gang and myself went to it. I was big and rangy in those days and could always hit. I guess I'm a natural hitter. Anyway I soon had that fellow licked and was just going to put him away, when the whole darn gang jumped onto me.

"Say, I swung with both hands, kicked, scratched and bit. They swarmed over me like worms on a leaf. They got me down and was giving me fits, when I managed to break loose and started to run.

"About five of the fellows had got enough before they got me off my feet. That left about a dozen of them and when I broke away and ran down the street, they gave chase.

"If they had been wise they would have stuck together. But one fellow could run faster than the others, and he began to gain on me. I waited until he had become separated from the rest of the herd, then slowed down and when he was up to me, swung a right on his jaw that left only eleven in the hunt.

"It was a running fight for nearly a mile from town. I cracked them out one by one until there was only four left. As they were the smallest and weakest of the bunch, I sailed in and knocked two of them flat and chased the other two half way through a muddy marsh by the road side.

"Licking that whole gang gave me quite a reputation back there as a fighting man. Shortly after that I came to Minnesota and got the idea that I wanted to be a regular fighter. Everybody laughed at me when I started out. After that fight back in Beatrice I always thought I could scrap, and I guess I'll always think so, unless that big cowboy gives me an awful licking."

BROWN MATCH IS UNCERTAIN

Mandot Not Likely to Come Here; Rivers Being Considered.

It remains uncertain as yet as to what opponent will be chosen to meet Pal Brown here on Dec. 17.

Today it was stated that it is not likely that Joe Mandot will meet the range lightweight. Negotiations are on with Jose Rivers, the sensational Los Angeles Mexican. Johnny O'Leary, lightweight champion of Canada, is another possible opponent under consideration.

O'Leary is one of the best lightweights in the country today, according to a number of leading fistic authorities. This is the boy who recently went twelve rounds with Champion Freddy Welsh. O'Leary is also credited with a victory over Red Watson. Up in Canada they claim that O'Leary is one of the greatest boys in the boxing game.

Brown announced yesterday that in the event of his failure to get on here in Duluth, that he would trek east with Joe Thomas in search of ring work.

Thomas declares that he will have Brown's eyes thoroughly examined and will then place the boy under a systematic course of training.

PLAY SECOND SET OF GAMES

Quints Led By Karon and Farah Are Winners.

Semi-Finals in Central High Round Robin Set for Friday.

The second set of games in the Central high school round robin basket ball tournament was played yesterday at the school gymnasium. Team No. 6, captained by Karon, defeated Team No. 5, led by Shaw, by a score of 11 to 8. Team No. 8, captained by Farah, administered a 12-to-10 beating to Gogins' five.

Both games were fast and hot all the way through. The playing was considerably better than that which was exhibited in the first set of games and the players did not exhibit as much early-season inaccuracy in locating the baskets. There is, however, room for considerable improvement, and with more practice the candidates who will be out for the big team are expected to have rounded into form.

The semi-finals of the tournament will be played off tomorrow. Team No. 1, led by Fee, will meet Teeam No. 4, captained by Rosenberg, these two quints having been the victors in the first set of games played Monday. Because of yesterday's results, Karon's team will meet Farah's quint in the second game. The winners of these two games will meet on the following day to decide the championship of the series. The lineups of yesterday's games:

Team No. 5—Shaw, forward; Boyer, forward; Christoferson, center; Newcomb, guard; Wellburg, guard; Nott, forward. Team No. 6—M. Karon, forward; Lindsay, forward; Furni, center; Garon, guard; I. Karon, guard. Field baskets—Christoferson, 1; Boyer, 1; Newcomb, 1; M. Karon, 4; Garon, 1. Free throws—Shaw, 2; I. Karon, 1.

Team No. 7—Fraker, Maggard and Brand, forward; Gogins, center; J. Hendrickson, guard; S. Hendrickson, guard; Rakowsky, guard. Team No. 8—Hoyt, forward; Miller, forward; Tulman, forward; R. Walsh, center; Farah, guard; Hermanson, guard. Field baskets—Gogins, 1; Maggard, 3; J. Hendrickson, 1; Farah, 2; Hermanson, 2; Miller, 1; Tulman, 1.

JUNEAU WILLING TO QUIT BADGERS

Coach Writes Offer to Regents' Committee Conducting Investigation.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 2.—William Juneau, coach of the University of Wisconsin football team, last night sent a letter to the board of regents committee, in which he said he was willing to quit as football coach. Juneau's athletic contract has until July 1, 1916, to run. His letter says in part:

"As a loyal alumnus of Wisconsin I want to say that under no circumstances do I wish to be considered as head football and baseball coach for next year. I have as my purpose only the best wishes of Wisconsin."

Juneau's letter follows the investigation now in progress of the athletic situation at the state university.

Succeeds Brother as Captain.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 2.—Charles Essman yesterday was elected captain of the 1916 football team of Christian Brothers college. His brother, Walter Essman, was captain during the season just ended.

ST. PAUL HAS GREAT CARD

Gibbons and Ahearn Will Top Best Fight Bill Yet Offered.

Eastern Followers of Boxing Believe Phantom Will Be Defeated.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fight fans who attend the Gibbons-Ahearn battle at the St. Paul Auditorium Friday, Dec. 10, will be given a rare treat in the shape of an all-star bill. The Capital City Athletic club's matchmakers have been scouting the country for two weeks in an effort to locate the classiest men they could get, with the result that four fine bouts have been arranged, making thirty-four rounds of real fighting.

The card will consist, first of all, of the big bout for the middleweight championship, in which Mike Gibbons, America's phantom fighter, will be pitted against Young Ahearn, the European champion. This event is scheduled for ten rounds.

In the East it is felt that Ahearn is the man who will take the measure of "Pompadour Mike." If there is any man living who can do such a thing the Westerners want to see him. They question very much the European's ability to do it, although it is realized that he is a tough customer.

That Gibbons, himself, realizes this fact is indicated by the strenuous program he is following each day in his training. Yesterday Mike put in as tough a day as he has ever experienced since he started fighting. In the morning he did his usual road work and in the afternoon boxed eleven rounds with the toughest men he could find.

Mike started with big Al Palzer, with whom he went three rounds. He then took on Jack Clements, a light heavyweight, for three more rounds. Jack Burke, a lightweight, was his next opponent and he finished the festivities with "Saph" McKenna, a shifty, clever little bantam. This program gave Mike a chance to get in all styles of work.

Palzer to Appear.

Al Palzer, the gigantic Minnesotan, will be seen in the second event on the program. Palzer will have for his opponent Andre Anderson, the Chicago heavyweight, who recently met defeat at the hands of Fred Fulton. They too will travel ten rounds if they complete their schedule.

The curtain raiser will find two clever featherweights battling. Jimmy Azine of Duluth, Minn., will go up against Eddie Burke, one of St. Paul's string of bantams. They will fight four rounds.

For the semi-windup the matchmakers have selected Billy Whelan, the St. Paul boy, who has been making rapid strides in the past year, and Johnny Ray of Pittsburgh.

SYRACUSE'S SKILL DOWNS WESTERNERS

Oregon Aggies Unable to Do Anything With Eastern College Eleven.

Portland, Or., Dec. 2.—With the aid of a bewildering assortment of plays, the Syracuse university football team defeated the Oregon agricultural college here yesterday 28 to 0.

The Eastern aggregation got the jump on the aggies the moment the latter kicked off, and scored two touchdowns before the Westerners got their hands on the ball. With one exception, the aggies' defeat was the worst they have suffered this season. They had gained considerable prestige earlier in the season by defeating the Michigan aggies.

Perfect execution of numerous complicated plays was what gave the visitors the advantage on the offensive. On the defensive their line tossed back interference and downed the runner with clockwork regularity.

White and Schlater, Syracuse's giant guards, and the entire back field played a stellar game. For the aggies, Abraham at right halfback, was the team's mainstay.

Ped Champion Charged.

New York, Dec. 2.—Charges of professionalism were formally made last night against George Goulding, the world's champion walker, who belongs to the Toronto A. A. of Canada, at a meeting of the local registration committee of the Amateur Athletic union by William H. Parry, a former national champion walker. What specific offense Goulding committed was not made known. The committee refused to throw light on the case, saying that it wanted to investigate the charges before making them public.

IS FORMING NEW LEAGUE

Six Teams Will Be Included in Intermediate Organization.

Commercial League Will Play Another Game Friday Night.

To provide for the basket ball enthusiasts of the local Y. M. C. A., who were unable to get into the Commercial league, which is now playing its preliminary round, a new intermediate league was organized by Physical Director Olson last evening. There will be at least six teams in the new league, two of them composed of players from the "Y" dormitory. The Central Business college will be represented and Louis Eacobacci, R. Mason and Ben Wood have been instructed to "round up" players to form teams.

A large list of prospective players has been handed to Mr. Olson and from these he hopes to form teams almost the equal of the big league. Final arrangements for the make-up of each team will be completed this week. A schedule will then be drawn up and the games will be played every Wednesday evening. It is expected that the league will be a great aid in developing green material for use in the Commercial league of later years.

Tomorrow night the third set of games in the preliminary round of the Commercial league will be played. The Northern Electrics will attempt to break their losing streak when they meet the Northern Hardware quint, and the fast Kelley five will attempt to maintain its lead by downing the scrappy Fenton-Duby aggregation. Both of these games will be close and snappy contests, and as the men have about worn off their early-season rustiness some exceptional playing is promised.

CHRISTY MATHEWSON IS ACCOMPLISHED CUSS

The Master Moundsman Is a Great Money Getter and Is Also Great in Other Lines.

There is no man in baseball, nor has there been for ten years, who is making the money that Christy Mathewson has made on practically no investment. For a long time Matty was the highest-salaried man in the game.

Big Money for Stories.

Last year he got $5,200 for fifty-two baseball stories and an occasional magazine contribution. He has an insurance business, which dovetails with the diamond game. He has good investments by reason of the entree he gained through his baseball connections. He's said to be worth $150,000, although always a conservative manipulator. But—

List of Accomplishments.

Matty has been for ten years the greatest pitcher in the game.

He's now the best golf player in baseball.

Only Bob Wallace can make things interesting for him in billiards.

Nobody in baseball can make things interesting for Matty in chess or checkers. He has toured the Y. M. C. A.'s on exhibition tours.

He plays a better hand of bridge than anybody in his profession, so good that his income from this alone is not to be spoofed at.

He's now touring the country as a marksman.

He can play poker so well that he'll break up a game by merely "sittin' in."

CURLING AND SKATING ARE ON FOR SATURDAY.

There will be curling and skating at the Duluth Curling club on Saturday evening. The sole bar to this program can only be the weather. With cold reigning today and Friday it is certain that the first curling of the year will take place in the big clubhouse on Saturday evening.

Icemaking is very well under way at the present time. Unless there is a decided rise in the thermometer, the roar of the stanes will be heard.

Navy Football Championship.

New York, Dec. 2.—The sailors of the battleship Wyoming of the Brooklyn navy yard, won the football championship of the Atlantic fleet by defeating the team of the New Hampshire of the Norfolk station in the final game of the series here yesterday, 6 to 0. The contest did not lack hard fighting, as for three periods the ball was in play in the middle of the field. Old-fashioned football, with a few attempts at the forward pass, marked the play.

BELIEVES DULUTH WILL HAVE GOOD HOCKEY

To the Sporting Editor of The Herald.

I was interested and somewhat amused to read an item in this morning's paper emanating from St. Paul that Duluth would not play "senior hockey" this year.

I remember the winter the curling club had an intermediate hockey team, that St. Paul sent a team up here under the name "White Bear," the pick of St. Paul's players. When these boys got here they at first refused to go on the ice, stating that they were not in the intermediate class, and expected to meet the senior curling club team. They further stated that they played "senior hockey." They played, however, and in my opinion our intermediate team played one of the best games ever staged on the curling club ice. It was smooth and scientific, and the St. Paul boys never had a "look in."

This simply proves that it is not the name you sail under that counts, but the quality of play you deliver.

Never fear, Duluth will have senior hockey, strictly amateur, and we have faith that the people will stand by our home boys. If perfection does not come this season it will next, and in the seasons to come.

Duluth, Dec. 2.

FAST HOCKEY EXPECTED FROM AMATEUR TEAMS

Local Players Will at Last Have Opportunity of Playing in a Covered Rink and Under Most Favorable Conditions—Teams Are Chosen From Pick of Duluth Puck Talent.

TEAMS AND MANAGERS.

Universals—Ed Harris, manager.
Bagleys—Al Swanstrom, manager.
Big Duluths—Ed Norsted, manager.
Northern Hardwares—Dave Larson, manager.

Starting Dec. 21 the Duluth Amateur Hockey league is expected to have the most prosperous season in the entire history of the local league.

For the first time in the history of the association that has kept the game alive in Duluth, its teams will have the opportunity to play the puck game in a covered rink and under conditions that make for the best article of hockey.

With four teams that have been chosen from the very pick of the hockey talent of Duluth, it is expected that the grade of hockey offered the fans this year will not suffer in comparison with that offered last season.

Laird Goodman is the backer of the Duluth Universal team. C. H. Bagley is behind the Bagley team, while Williamson has ever been a stanch supporter of the Big Duluth aggregation.

R. D. Annis of the Northern Hardware company has likewise been the man behind the Northerns during the parlous times through which local hockey has passed.

With four business men of standing lending their support to the league, with the officials of the curling club bending every energy to make the game an unqualified success this season, with by far the best teams that have ever represented Duluth in the field, it devolves upon the fans of the city to support what promises to be the corner stone of Duluth's future greatness as a hockey center of international fame.

An Experiment in Sport.

For several years there has been a "Big" team at the Duluth Curling club. For some reason or other there was not complete satisfaction given by this aggregation, without a doubt one of the best hockey teams in the country.

There have been insistent demands that the local players be given a chance. This season the local players and the local teams are going to be given the greatest opportunity in the world to make good. If the Duluth players make good under the favorable conditions accorded, it is then up to the fans of Duluth to make good.

Winnipeg worked out the same experiment that is about to be tried here under the auspices of the curling club, and Winnipeg is, under normal conditions, perhaps the greatest hockey center in the world.

It is believed by those who have bestowed both time and effort to build up hockey in Duluth that the time is ripe for Duluth to develop some hockey stars of its own. It is also believed that competition among local teams, if the competition is close and classy, will create a genuine interest in the game.

All of the players will start the season in the pink of condition. With each team manager having a large squad of players to choose from, it is believed that the four teams finally decided upon to represent the Universals, Big Duluths, Bagleys and Northern Hardware company will settle into a stride of hockey that will furnish some of the best brand of winter sport that Duluth has witnessed in years.

Marquette Coach Resigns.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 2.—Dr. John P. Koehler, for two years coach of the Marquette university eleven, today resigned his position to resume his practice of medicine. Koehler's resignation came unexpectedly. The Marquette athletic board has asked him to sign for another year, but he refused. He came to Marquette as coach in 1914.

CHORUS ELECTS OFFICERS.

Glen-Hunt-Wood Organization Holds Annual Meeting—Morton Director.

Election of officers was the principal business befort the annual meeting last night of the Glen-Hunt-Wood Male chorus. In addition, the members voted for an annual assessment of $1 per member. The chorus is working in conjunction with the Glen Avon choir on portions of Gounod's "Redemption," and also has a number of selections for male voices only. Following are the officers elected last night:

BIG SUM FOR JEWS.

Duluth Contributions to Be $5,000 for War Sufferers.

Duluth's contribution to the funds for Jewish war sufferers in Europe will total $5,000 by the first of the year, according to Dr. Maurice Lefkovits of Temple Emanuel.

Three contributions totalling $4,500 have already been mailed to the war relief committees in New York, he said, while the local branch of the Jewish Relief society will send approximately $500 between now and Jan. 1. A meeting of the committee is to be held Sunday at the Hebrew Sunday school, 312 East Third street.

"Although a special appeal has been made by Albert Lucas, executive secretary of the central committee, because of Hanukkah, which began last night," Rabbi Lefkovits said, "we didn't need any such reminder, as we were going to send in our share, and more, too."

TRAFFIC HEAVY OVER THE ENTIRE COUNTRY

Car Shortage Becoming More Acute, Say Railway Men.

Remarkable activity in the movement of freight over the entire country is reflected in statements of railroad earnings now coming out. All parts of the country are sharing in the betterment with the Northwestern and Eastern trunk line systems perhaps making the most favorable records.

It is said that despite the best efforts of transportation officials and favorable operating conditions, the car shortage is becoming more acute. Duluth grain men aver that shippers in some parts of the West are now obtaining cars with difficulty and that condition is considered to have been responsible for an easing up in receipts here during the last few days.

The Northern Pacific made its best earning record in October more than three years. Net revenue for the month came to $3,378,718 as compared with $2,580,084 last year.

The Milwaukee road's net for October was $3,434,691, as against $2,683,710 a year ago.

The Omaha's net revenue for October was $650,432 as compared with $553,572 for the corresponding month a year ago.

TURNS FIRE EXTINGUISHER ON BURNING LUMBERJACK.

Brainerd, Minn., Dec. 2.—Ed Murphy put out a fire and saved the department a run. A lumberjack went by the Murphy store in the Ransford block with his pocket blazing. Mr. Murphy ran down the street with a fire extinguisher and put out the fire and nearly put out the man, too.

SCHIFFMANN'S NEW BRONCHIAL REMEDY

For Bronchial Asthma, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Coughs.

The Lyceum Pharmacy is willing to lose the profit which would be made on a bottle of Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant, and announces that they will sell a regular 50c bottle of this remedy for 25c (half price) to persons presenting the coupon below, but only for the first bottle to each person.

Although a remedy for Bronchial Affections, and Coughs or Colds might not have yet been required so far this season, it is more than likely that some member of the family will need some before it is over, and it will pay to take advantage of this opportunity now and buy a bottle at half price, instead of putting off until later and paying full price.

While losing money, they have decided to give the public an opportunity of trying this most excellent, successful, new remedy at no greater price than they would have to pay for almost any ordinary cough remedy, and are positively certain that it will be found the best medicine ever used for Coughs, Colds, Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup and Hoarseness.

Besides having a chance of securing the very best remedy possible, at half price, you also get as much as would cost you $2.00 to $3.00 for the same quantity of ordinary, old-fashioned, ready-made kinds, because a 2-ounce bottle makes a whole pint (128 teaspoonsful) when mixed at home with simply a pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water, as directed. It is altogether different from any other medicine. It positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic, as do most cough medicines. It is most pleasant to take and absolutely the best and safest for children.

Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy, as if it does not give perfect satisfaction and even more—if it is not found the best remedy ever used for any of the above complaints, go back and the above druggist will refund your 25c just the same as with Schiffmann's famous Asthmador. Can anything be fairer? You will be the sole judge and your money is not wanted if you are not satisfied. Better buy a bottle at once, while fresh in memory, otherwise you might forget it. The cost could also be reduced by inducing a neighbor or some friend to buy half the quantity.

TWENTY-FIVE CENT COUPON—NO. 4.

This coupon and 25c is good for one (only) 50c bottle of Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant at The Lyceum Pharmacy if your name and address is filled in.

The city of Duluth does ordain:

Excavating in Highways Without Permit Prohibited. City to Excavate—When.

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, company or corporation whatever to make any excavation for any purpose in the streets, avenues, alleys, highways and public grounds of the city of Duluth, without first having applied for and received a permit so to do from the division of public works of the city of Duluth, as hereinafter set forth.

Provided, that in all cases where excavation is made in the roadway of any street, avenue or alley for private sewer connection, or where a trench is dug for private sewer connection and at the same time to serve for water and gas mains or either, then the trench shall be made by the division of public works of the city of Duluth. No such excavation shall be made except at the cost of the owner of the property served, and upon his written application.

Provided further, that no plumber or other person shall excavate from the curb to the property line or under the sidewalk without having a permit, in writing, from the division of public works for the making of such excavation, and no such permit shall be granted without a deposit of $10, or more if deemed necessary by the division of public works, being made by the person making the excavation, to guarantee the restoration of the sidewalk to proper condition, or any person may, in the discretion of the division of public works, be allowed to make a deposit of Fifty dollars ($50), in lieu of said $10 deposit, to guarantee the restoration of the sidewalks for a period of one (1) year from such deposit. Such a deposit may be retained by the division of public works for a period of one (1) year after the completion of the job, or for so much of said year as may be necessary, in the judgment of said division, to allow the department to determine whether the sidewalk has been properly reconstructed.

Exceptions as to City Employes and Others in Case of Urgent Need.

The foregoing shall not be held to prevent excavations under the direction of competent city authorities, by employes of the city or by any contractor of the city or his employes in pursuance of contract from the city of Duluth for the improvement of any street, avenue, alley, highway or public ground in said city, or the building or repairing of sewers, drains and conduits, or the laying or repairing of water and gas pipes belonging to the city of Duluth by the city officials or employes of the city, nor shall it prevent any person, company or corporation, which has been granted by law or ordinance the right to excavate in said highways for the construction of gas or water mains, or for the construction of electric light or power appliances, street railway or for other similar purposes, when the necessity for such excavation is so immediate by reason of the bursting of a pipe or main, falling of wires or other similar accident as to prevent such person, company or corporation from applying to said division receiving such permit, but shall apply to all cases where such permit can be secured prior to such excavation without serious injury or danger to persons or property during the time necessary to make such application and receive such permit.

Permit Must Be Taken Within Twelve Hours.

Said division of public works may, if they desire, place the time for the commencement of said excavation sufficiently far off to enable them to make an examination of the condition of said highway or public ground before said excavation is made; and may require the person making said excavation to deposit with them such sum of money as may be necessary to reimburse said city of Duluth for any settling or sinking at the place where said excavation is made which may take place within nine months after the excavation shall have been filled or restored.

And said person making said excavation or causing the same to be made shall cause said excavation to be lighted with a red light during the night time as hereinafter set forth. If said excavation shall not occupy more than ten feet in length there shall be one red light placed on the side of the obstruction towards the unobstructed portion of the street and one red light on the curb towards which the obstruction extends. If more than ten feet in length and less than fifty, then two pairs of red lights shall be used, one pair of lights at each end of the obstruction, each pair so arranged that one light shall be at the curb side of the obstruction and one on the side toward the open street. FRATERNITY BAR TO WAR

Minnesota Grand Overseer of A. O. U. W. Addresses Members.

West Duluth Lodge Elects Officers and Dines on Venison.

"The lack of the fraternal spirit, such as is taught in the fraternal organizations that thrive in this country is the cause of the titanic struggle in Europe," said E. F. Carlston, grand overseer of the Minnesota lodge of the A. O. U. W., in an address before nearly 200 members of the Workmen order, gathered at Gilley's hall, 322 North Central avenue, to attend the annual venison feast held by West Duluth lodge No. 145.

"Fraternalism teaches the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God," said Mr. Carlston. "This has been forgotten in this war. I was in Canada a short time ago and while there saw a part of the results. Men, who a short time ago were splendid specimens, were returning from the battlefields. The carload of human beings brought back were wounded, but got through with their lives. Some lacked limbs, some had been shot several times through the body and were paralytics others had great holes torn in their faces and pieces of flesh grafted on to make the sight less horrible. These are but a few of the fortunate. Others, thousands of them, are lying in ditches dug by their comrades and will be numbered among the great unknown dead."

Mr. Carlston gave an eloquent address on the spirit of fraternalism and the teachings of the love of man for man as taught by such organizations. Such a feeling of brotherhood, he said, has been displayed by the Order of Workmen since its organization forty-seven years ago.

Their Financial Benefit.

W. M. Barber, grand master of the society, of Long Prairie, spoke for a half hour on fraternal organizations from a financial standpoint. He followed the progress of fraternal insurance societies since their first organization up to the present time and compared the figures with those of old line companies. The figures were given to show that the fraternal societies are permanent.

Among the other speakers were Joseph A. Schumacher, past grand master workman; M. J. Filiatrault, Charles Silger of Minneapolis; William Burdick of Lampson, Wis., and E. W. Merritt.

The election of officers was the principal business taken up by the lodge. The officers elected are: A. C. Baumgartner, past master workman; Humphrey Jones, master; D. A. Crosby, foreman; Frank A. Booren, overseer; T. F. Olsen, recorder; John J. Moran, financier; M. J. Filiatrault, receiver; Herbert Cavanaugh, guide; Peter Kynchila, inner watch; Conrad McNellis, outside watch, and F. A. Booren, trustee for three years.

Plans were made for holding the annual installation of officers on Wednesday evening, Jan. 19. Arrangements will be made to have a joint installation with West Duluth lodge No. 85, Degree of Honor. J. A. Schumacher will be installing officer. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of D. A. Crosby, M. J. Filiatrault and H. A. Watt.

Following the business meeting and addresses, the venison supper, prepared by Mrs. P. Gilley, was served in cafeteria style.

FIRST STEEL ON TUESDAY

Blast Furnace Has Turned Out Three "Heats" of Iron.

Late Monday night the first steel ingots will be turned out from the open hearth furnaces and early in the forenoon of Tuesday the first steel billets will be a reality at the Duluth Steel plant according to present plans of officials. It is believed that the iron from the blast furnaces will be of the proper quality to make the grade of steel wanted by early Monday morning.

The first heat of iron was taken from the blast furnace yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The second heat was tapped at 1:45 o'clock this morning and the third heat was taken out at 10:15 o'clock this morning. The heats will now be taken off regularily at about six hour intervals from the big furnace.

Eighteen hours after being taken from the blast furnace the iron will be converted into steel. On an average officials say it takes about twelve hours for the journey of the iron from the tap at the furnace until it is poured into the ingots at the open hearth furnace. An hour or two and sometimes longer is given for the steel to set in the ingot forms and then it is taken to the stripping room where the ingot is placed in the soaking pits for reheating. The "bath" in these pits takes about four or five hours and from there it is turned over to the blooming mill for shaping and cutting into billets.

Since the turning on the blast for the second time late Monday afternoon there has been no hitch in the work at the plant. The operations have moved with a precision and regularity beyond the best expectations of the officials.

WILL SPEAK ON WORK OF ASSOCIATED CHARITIES

E. A. Silberstein, president of the Duluth Associated Charities, has been invited to attend the meeting of the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club on Dec. 15, and speak on the work of the associated charities. The invitation was extended at the meeting of the club held last night at the Merritt school, Fiftieth avenue west and Sixth street.

The club adopted resolutions asking the city officials to bring a friendly suit in the courts for the purpose of testing the validity of the ordinance passed on July 8, 1914, governing the water and gas extensions. The proposed suit is brought with the view of doing away with the former practice of guaranteeing 8 per cent on the cost of the work.

CAPTAIN THINKS HE STRUCK SUBMARINE

Believes He Accidentally Rammed Submersible in Straits of Gibraltar.

Newport News, Va., Dec. 2.—Capt. Glassen of the British steamer Inverkip, which went into drydock here for rush repairs today, says he believes he accidentally rammed a submarine while passing out the straits of Gibraltar on Nov. 6.

The Inverkip, from Valencia to Norfolk in ballast to load coal, was about one hour's run from Gibraltar when there was a great shock. The ship's officers saw oil rise to the surface of the water, and this, with the fact that a long diagonal dent was made in the bottom of the Inverkip, leads Capt. Glassen to believe he struck a submarine. Several holes were torn in the Inverkip's ballast tanks, and but for extremely calm weather, Capt. Glassen believes his ship would have sunk immediately. The steamer returned to Gibraltar, where temporary repairs were made.

THE HERALD IS DULUTH'S GREAT WANT AD MEDIUM

MARKET IS STILL STRONG

Wheat Jumps on Active Bidding to Cover Shipping Contracts.

Flaxseed Advances With Buying By Crushers and Light Supplies.

Duluth Board of Trade, Dec. 2.—The market was firm at the close with good general bidding. December wheat closed 3⅝c up; May 2⅞c up.

December durum closed 1⅝c up and May 1⅞c up.

Oats closed 1⅜c, up at 39⅝c for on the track; rye unchanged at 87c, and barley 1c up at from 56c to 65c for on the track.

At Winnipeg, December oats closed 1¼c up at 40⅛c, and May ⅝c up at 42½c.

At St. Louis, December wheat closed at $1.05⅝, and May at $1.10⅜.

At Kansas City, December wheat closed at $1.00⅞, and May at $1.05½.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.06¾, and calls at $1.10⅝.

Wheat prices were lifted over 3c during the first three hours' trading today. The elbow muscle was furnished in active demand to cover contracts for shipment before the close of navigation, and lighter receipts at all the markets. Substantial export trade in oats and wheat was reported at the seaboard, with considerable grain to go out also via the gulf.

The tense supply situation at Winnipeg also helped to boost prices. The quotation in the December future was run up sharply there under urgent buying by shippers. The tightness of supplies to cover immediate contracts at that point was attested in the statement that the Canadian government had loaned shippers the amount of wheat commandeered, placed at 17,100,000 bushels, to enable them to carry through their export contracts. It is understood, however, that the grain must be replaced within sixty days. It is said that serious trouble would have arisen had not that concession been made, as dealers would have been unable to pick up that large tonnage on the open market during the short period intervening up to the close of navigation.

Strength in oats was a material factor in boosting the wheat market through creating bullish sentiment. An estimate by an expert that winter wheat of milling quality would show a loss of 10 per cent, was given some consideration, as was also the reduced acreage under crop. Receipts of wheat at the Northwest markets have fallen off of late, today's marketings at Duluth and Minneapolis each amounting by a peculiar coincidence to 471 cars, whereas they had been mounting up to around 700 cars daily. At Winnipeg, however, they had 1,661 cars, against 286 last year.

December wheat opened ½c up at $1.02¼, advanced to $1.05⅛, and stood at $1.04¾ at the noon hour. May opened ¼c up at $1.06, jumped 2⅝c, and then receded ¾c.

December durum opened ¼c up at 99⅞c, sold up to $1.02½, and weakened to $1.01⅝. May opened ⅝c up at $1.03¾, reached $1.06½, and weakened to $1.05⅞.

Bulge in Flaxseed.

Lower stocks on hand in elevators than had been figured upon led to sharp bidding for flaxseed this morning to cover shipments to the East before the close of navigation. After setting advances of 3c at the start, prices rested and trading dropped off. Fresh activity developed at the close, which was strong.

December flax opened ⅛c up at $2.00¼, and closed 4⅜c up at $2.04½. May opened unchanged at $2.07, and closed 3¼c up at $2.10¼ bid.

At Buenos Aires, flax closed 3⅜c off at $1.32, and London 1¾c off at $2.31⅝.

At Winnipeg, December flax closed ¾c up at $1.83¼, and May ¾c up at $1.91.

Argentine shipments of linseed to Liverpool this week are estimated 712,000 bu. Reports are that harvesting is progressing with the weather now clear and warm.

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Strength in Winnipeg yesterday and dearness of winter offerings for which there is a good demand, helps to maintain prices. Cargoes are firm, Manitobas and winters 1½ to 3d dearer, Plates and Indians 6d higher. Australia and Argentine offers free and particularly Australian with a few sales reported at a recession in prices."

Foreign crop summary:

Argentina—Weather is fine. Movement will be late. Corn arrivals are light. Shipments this week will be light.

France—Weather is unfavorable.

Australia—South Australia is complaining of excessive rain and crop estimates in this district are being lowered. Offers of new crop are larger, but contracts for shipments are slow.

United Kingdom—Native offers are increasing and foreign arrivals are larger.

Balkan states—Overland movement of wheat and corn continue on a large scale. Outlook for the new crop is fine.

* * *

Russells, New York, sa'd: "There was fair buying of wheat futures early against export business. It is understood that there is further demand here for oats. Argentine corn is said to be about 15c above an import basis due to the 30c freight rate to New York. The premium on hard wheat at the Gulf is down to 2½c against 3c earlier in the week. This is the lowest premium thus far."

Charles E. Lewis & Co. had following from Clement Curtiss & Co., Chicago: "Our final reports on wheat now nearing completion, indicate a loss of 10 per cent on acreage of winter wheat at harvest time. A harvesting crop of 594,000,000 bu with 75 per cent of milling wheat, leaving available 446,000,000 bu against a government estimate of 655,000,000 bu spring wheat, is shown. Milling percentage is 90 per cent or an available crop of 308,000,000 bu against the government estimate of 345,000,000 bu. Total wheat crop available is 754,000,000 bu, against the government's preliminary estimates of 1,002,029,000 bu."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Indications of Large Export Business Boosts Wheat Prices.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Indications of a large export business carried wheat prices today decidedly higher. It was said that sales of wheat to be shipped by way of the Gulf of Mexico were of greater magnitude than had been generally supposed. Sharp falling off in receipts Northwest counted also in favor of the bulls, and so, too, did the firmness of quotations at Liverpool. Opening prices here, which ranged from a shade off to ⅝c up, with December at $1.06¼ to $1.06¾ and May at $1.09 to $1.09⅝, were followed by a material upturn all around.

Fears that more Canadian wheat would be seized tended to hoist prices. The market was also bullishly affected by advices of a good demand for domestic wheat at Duluth and the seaboard. The close was strong, 3c to 3⅛c net higher, with December at $1.09¾ and May at $1.12⅛.

Absence of offerings from the country gave a lift to the corn market. Commission buying here in small lots was of a persistent sort. After opening ⅛c to ⅜c higher, the market scored notable further gains.

New high price records for this season were reported. The close was strong at 1¼ to 2¼ net advance.

Oats partook of the strength of other cereals. Pit traders bought freely.

Provisions were firm as a result of the bullish showing in the monthly statement of the stocks on hand here. Early weakness in the hog market was ignored.

STOCKS ARE DEPRESSED

Rails Under European Liquidation and Bears Attack Specialties.

Further Break in German Exchange—Closing Near Low Point.

New York, Dec. 2.—There was further general selling of stocks in the first half hour of today's market, the movement gathering momentum from bearish interests, which appeared to be dominant at the moment. United States Steel was again the target, declining ¾ to 85⅝ on fairly large offerings. Specialties in the war class were lower by 1 to over 2 points and coppers shared the same trend. Rails were again unresponsive to additional favorable October statements of earnings, although New York Central and Reading were fractionally higher. New Haven and Erie were heavy.

Much of today's early heaviness, which was soon recovered, was attributed to the speech of a prominent banker, who predicted a curtailment of future war orders. Trading became dull on the rally, the list lacking definite features aside from regular movements in specialties, but prices fell back again at noon, some to lower levels. German exchange touched a new low quotation at 79⅛ for demand and a sale of one Anglo-French note for future delivery at 97½, established a new minimum for that security. Bonds were heavy, with acute weakness in Missouri, Kansas & Texas issues.

Fresh selling pressure developed after midday, Anaconda Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel, Studebaker and kindred issues increasing their losses to 3 points or more. Rails also yielded perceptibly.

European liquidation of rails, bearish attacks upon specialties and a further break in German exchange constituted the depressing features of today's market.

A feeble rally occurred in the final hour, although some of the leaders went lower than before. The close was heavy.

GERMAN ATTACHE OBJECTIONABLE TO U. S.

COURT GRANTS DAY'S DELAY BEFORE PASSING SENTENCE ON DR. BUENZ

Manager of German Line and Associates Found Guilty of Conspiracy.

Jury Takes But One Ballot After Several Hours of Discussion.

Defense Asks More Time to Prepare Motions to the Court.

New York, Dec. 3.—The Federal district court's final disposition of the case of Dr. Karl Buenz and his three associates in the Hamburg-American line, convicted last night of conspiracy to deceive and defraud the United States, hung fire today. Judge Howe had set this afternoon as the time for hearing the usual formal motions of the defense, but when court convened the defendants' lawyers announced that they were not yet ready. The late hour last night when the verdict was reached was assigned as the reason for their failure to prepare the necessary motions. Judge Howe granted a further postponement until tomorrow. At that time motions to set aside the verdict and to arrest judgment pending appeal, will be made. Meantime the bail of the defendants, $5,000 each, will be continued.

Only One Ballot.

In reaching its decision, the jury is reported to have taken only one ballot, and this after several hours' discussion of the case in minute detail.

The jury was given the case at 2:40 yesterday afternoon. Its foreman, George W. Palmer, announced the verdict at 10:10 o'clock last night, seven and one-half hours later.

The four defendants affected by the verdict are: Dr. Karl Buenz, managing director of the Hamburg-American line in New York, former German consul here, former German minister to Mexico, and German commissioner in the Venezuelan arbitration proceedings before The Hague tribunal; George Kotter, general superintendent of the line; Adolph Hachmeister, general purchasing agent, and Joseph Poppinghaus, a former officer in the German navy, and at present a second officer in the employ of the Hamburg-American line. A fifth defendant, Felix Seffner, supercargo on one of the neutral steamers sent to supply the German fleet, was not brought to trial. He was captured

OSCAR II TO LEAVE ON SCHEDULE TIME

Any of Ford's Party Without Passports Cannot Have Passage.

New York, Dec. 3.—The Scandinavia-American liner Oscar II, on which Henry Ford has taken passage for his peace expedition to The Hague, will leave New York tomorrow afternoon on schedule time, according to agents of the line. Mr. Ford has engaged her first and second cabins for his peace envoys. In addition 450 passengers going home to Norway, Sweden and Denmark for the holidays will occupy the third-class quarters. All passports will be examined at the pier and it is said no person will be permitted to go aboard without one.

Hadvord Jacobsen, the line's manager, says the Oscar II should be at Christiania by Dec. 14 or 15. Concerning the possibility that British warships might take the steamer to Kirkwall, he said that few of the line's steamers had been taken there recently as the British government was content with stopping the vessels off the north coast of Scotland and sending an officer on board to examine the passenger and cargo manifests.

ACQUITTED OF ASSAULT AND SENT TO HOSPITAL FOR INSANE

FATHER LESCHES.

Winona, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Father L. M. Lesches was this morning sentenced to the hospital for the insane at St. Peter by Judge Granger in district court for his assault upon Bishop P. R. Heffron of the diocese of Winona, on Aug. 27 last. The jury's verdict acquitted Father Lesches of the charge on the ground that he was insane, and declared that he had homicidal tendencies.

SAFEGUARD TO AMERICANS

Movement of Carranza Troops Through Texas Will Lessen Attacks.

Obregon Expects to Transport 5,000 Men Over U. S. Territory.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Movement of more Carranza troops through American territory renders further attacks upon American border towns improbable, in the opinion of Maj. Gen. Funston. About 1,000 Carranza troops reached Douglas, Ariz., yesterday and 1,200 more are due there today. Gen. Obregon expects to transfer 5,000 men across American territory in his effort to crush the bands in which Villa's forces have disintegrated.

Disposing of Troops.

Douglas, Ariz., Dec. 3.—Disposition of the augmented forces at Agua Prieta, the Mexican fortified town opposite here, occupied the attention of Carranza authorities during the early hours today. An additional detachment of approximately 1,300 Carranza soldiers arrived here shortly after midnight from Nogales, Ariz., and was moved across the border to Agua Prieta.

RUSSIAN TROOPS SAID TO HAVE ENTERED BULGARIA; AUSTRIANS HOIST FLAG IN CITY OF MONASTIR

REPORT FROM SALONIKI NOT CONFIRMED

Austro-Germans Occupy Capital of Macedonia, Bulgars Remaining Outside.

Effect on Position of Anglo-French Troops Awaited With Interest.

Believed Important Battles May Soon Be Fought in Southern Serbia.

London, Dec. 3.—"News that the Russians have entered Bulgaria has aroused intense interest, and there is some speculation as to the next development," Reuter's correspondent at Saloniki telegraphs. "It is expected this move will have a far-reaching effect on the internal situation of Bulgaria and will modify the whole aspect of affairs in the Balkans."

No direct and specific confirmation has been received in London of this message. It is recalled, however, that last week Emperor Nicholas was said to have promised Premier Pachitch of Serbia, the appearance of a Russian army in Bulgaria within a week.

Monastir Occupied.

London, Dec. 3.—Occupation of Monastir by an Austro-German force at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon is reported by Reuter's correspondent at Saloniki.

The correspondent, who says his information was received in a telegram from Florina, Greece, adds that the only flag hoisted when the city was occupied, was the Austrian. The Bulgarians did not enter Monastir, remaining at Kenali, south of the city. It is reported, however, that they will march into Monastir today.

Circumstantial Accounts.

London, Dec. 3.—Circumstantial accounts of the occupation of Monastir, in Southwestern Serbia, by an Austro-German force and the cutting of telegraphic communication with the city are regarded here as ample evidence that the Macedonian capital has fallen, although no official report to that effect has reached London.

The effect of the capture of Monast'r, the last Serbian city of importance to hold out, on the position of the Anglo-French forces is awaited

TO HAVE ARMY OF MILLIONS

Next Forward Movement of the Russians Will Be Stupendous.

Army Now Well Fed, Contented and Ready for Instant Action.

At Russian front, via Petrograd, Dec. 3, via London.—The next forward movement of the Russian armies will be in numbers of millions, not army corps, according to a statement of high army officials. The armies are in better shape than for many months, said this official, and quite capable of moving forward at any point. But the new broad plan for campaign contemplates much more than the taking of towns and territory by drives at various points on the front.

The Russian staff is well satisfied with the net result of the strategy during the past summer and it is asserted, is willing to bide its time for the inception of the new campaign.

A contented army, well fed, clothed and housed, and weekly steam cleaned, is the first Russian army, as seen by the Associated Press correspondent during a ten-days' visit to the positions on the eastern front. The army is in snug, permanent winter quarters, but is ready at an hour's notice to march.

Within a mile of the firing line—and firing is kept up intermittently day and night both from the trenches and by the batteries—are thousands of men camped in half underground cabins of logs covered with sod and soil, proof

MONTENEGRINS ARE STILL RETREATING

Increasing Austrian Pressure Forcing Army Backward From Plevlje.

Paris, Dec. 3.—A further retreat of the Montenegrins under Austrian pressure, the retrograde movement involving the evacuation of Plevlje, is recorded in an official statement from Montenegrin headquarters made public here today as follows:

"Following the arrival of strong columns of the enemy from the vicinity of Priboli and Metalka, our troops on Dec. 1 received orders to evacuate the city of Plevlje and to retire on their defensive positions."

NAVAL ATTACHE OF GERMAN EMBASSY AT WASHINGTON

CAPT. BOY-ED.

BULGARIA TO ANNEX PORTION OF SERBIA

Proposes to Take All the Regions Which Have Bulgarian Population.

Berlin, Dec. 3, via London.—The fate of Serbia is bound up with the fate of its fugitive king and dynasty. Bulgaria intends to annex all the regions with a Bulgarian population. Austria-Hungary will take such measures as are necessary to insure future freedom from Serbian attacks and intrigues. The fate of the rest of Serbia cannot now be foretold, since no one knows the future fate of the dynasty. The developments of the war have not impaired Graeco-Bulgarian relations and there is no desire in Bulgaria to ignore Greece's just aspirations.

This is the substance of an interview with M. Radoslavoff, the Bulgarian premier, by Leo Lederer, the Berliner Tageblatt's correspondent. The premier's remarks concerning Greeco confirm the supplement declarations made in an interview of him by the Associated Press several weeks ago.

AMBASSADOR TOLD THAT CAPT. BOY-ED IS PERSONA NON GRATA

Action By Government Grows Out of His Connection With Conspirators of Hamburg-American Line.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Secretary Lansing is understood to have informed Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, that Capt. Boy-Ed, naval attache to the German embassy, had rendered himself persona non grata to the United States government as the result of his connection with the conspirators of the Hamburg-American line, who yesterday were found guilty in New York.

The matter was understood to have been the subject of discussion at the cabinet meeting today. Secretary Lansing at the end of the meeting flatly refused to answer any questions on the subject, and other members of the cabinet were equally silent. The German embassy also refused to talk about it.

The state department was believed to be of the opinion that as Capt. Boy-Ed had admitted his connection with the financing of the operations which the New York jury gave a verdict of being illegal, there was nothing else to do but inform the German government of its views.

By informing the ambassador that the attache is persona non grata the United States leaves it with the German government as to the manner in which Capt. Boy-Ed shall terminate his connection with the embassy. This is the usual diplomatic procedure in the case of an attache of an embassy or a legation whom the United States finds objectionable.

BRITAIN VIOLATES INTERNATIONAL LAW

To Be Called to Account for Requisitioning American Ship Without Prize Court Action.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Vigorous representations will be made to Great Britain by the United States against the requisitioning of the American steamship Hocking without prize court proceedings. This became known today after the receipt of official confirmation from American Consul General Young at Halifax of reports that the Hocking had been held.

The ship has been detained at Halifax since her seizure by a British warship while en route from New York to Norfolk.

Ambassador Page at London had already been instructed to make vigorous protest if unofficial reports that Great Britain intended to requisition the Hocking were found to be true.

The action of Great Britain is to be vigorously contested as in violation of international law. A demand will be made, it is understood, that the ship be retained in prize court on the charge that she is partly German owned and that the court act promptly in the case.

The representations probably will include also the cases of the Genesee and the Kankakee, which also are owned by the American Trans-Atlantic company.

Announced by Consul General.

Official announcement that the American steamship Hocking had been requisitioned by the British government without the formality of prize court proceedings was received by the state department yesterday in a dispatch from Consul General Young at Halifax, where the ship has been detained since she was seized by a British warship while on the way from New York to Norfolk. This procedure will be vigorously contested by the United States government as illegal and in violation of recognized rights under international law. Officials of the department who had been more or less skeptical regarding unofficial reports of the intentions of Great Britain, expressed amazement when they learned that the Hocking actually had been requisitioned. The United States, it was said, will demand that the ship be retained in prize court, on the charge that she is partly German owned, and that the prize court will act promptly in the case.

Confirmation of unofficial reports

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Saloniki has unconfirmed report that Russian troops have entered Bulgaria.

It has been assumed that a Russian concentration near the Roumanian border was for use in Balkan operations, but Roumania's continued neutrality has blocked their passage by land or by way of the Danube into Bulgaria, if one were intended by such routes. There have been no recent indications of a Russian move by water.

Monastir, the southern Serbian city, whose fate has been in doubt, is now apparently in the hands of an Austro-German force. A Saloniki dispatch giving this news says the Austrian flag was raised when the city was occupied and that the Bulgarians did not enter.

The Montenegrins admit the evacuation of Plevlje, in Northwestern Montenegro, the occupation of which has been claimed in Austro-German reports.

Quiet has prevailed on the French front, Paris reports.

Fog and rain have halted extensive operations against Gorizia. Snow is ten feet deep in the Caucasus zone of operations, according to a Constantinople report, which records the continuation of action against the Russians under these adverse conditions.

Scattered divisions of Serbians are still offering resistance to the Teutonic drive on Serbian soil, southwest of Mitrovitza. In this region Berlin reports the defeat of Serbian detachments, with the taking of more than 1,200 prisoners.

According to Rome advices, it is declared in some quarters there that the Italian expedition in aid of the Serbians, believed to have been forecast in Foreign Minister Sonnino's recent speech is already on the way. Even the number of troops said to have been landed thus far on Albanian soil is mentioned in some instances.

Bombardment of Westende on the Belgian coast, by British monitors is reported by Berlin which declares the attack was without result. On the western fighting front there were only minor happenings.

In Volhynia the Germans under Gen. Von Linsingen, are showing signs of activity. Army headquarters tells of a surprise attack on a Russian division on the Styr river which resulted in the taking of a few prisoners by the attacking forces.

A Turkish aeroplane dropped bombs on an allied torpedo boat, which had stranded on the gulf of Saros off the Gallipoli peninsula, according to the current report from Constantinople headquarters. A hostile cruiser was hit three times by shells from Turkish batteries and forced to retire.

NO DELAY IN DELIVERY OF STEEL FOR THE GOVERNMENT

Bids for Warships Built in Navy Yards Provide Early Delivery.

Private Bidders for Ships Indicated Delay Might Be Expected.

Washington, Dec. 3.—There will be no delay in delivery of steel for battleships Nos. 43 and 44 if the government undertakes their construction in navy yards. Bids from eleven steel companies, opened today at the navy department, all offered to begin delivery within six months and complete it within two years. Prices show an apparent increase of from 30 to 40 per cent over material purchased for the battleship California over a year ago.

Private bidders for the two ships indicated there would be delay in deliveries of steel and conditioned their proposals in this circumstance. All private bids were rejected as exceeding the $7,800,000 limit of cost fixed by congress. All navy yard estimates were well below that figure.

Req[illegible] Careful Study.

It will ta[illegible] careful study of the steel bids t[illegible] if they are similar to estimates supplied by the steel companies to the navy yards and upon which the yard figures were prepared. Secretary Daniels sought direct bids from the companies to verify the yard figures and also in order to get the proposals in such shape that binding contracts could be made.

The Carnegie Steel company apparently was the lowest bidder for the majority of the steel needed, which runs into many millions of pounds.

On the biggest lots of plates the Carnegie figures were $.0816 and $.01125 a pound for different classes. The same company made low offers for high tensile steel prices ranging from $.0263 to $.02645 a pound and was the only bidder for various kinds of shaped steel.

The American Steel foundries of Chester, Pa., was low bidder for steel castings at $.06 per pound and the Carbon Steel company of Pittsburgh was low for nickel steel plates at $.0559 per pound.

TELL SANTA WHERE TO GO

Youngsters Writing to Their Patron Saint, Giving Christmas Desires.

Some Real Appeals Received By Good Fellow—Investigating.

Kiddies who are afraid Santa Claus won't see the chimney on their house, because he forgot them last year, are busy with correspondence these days.

Long before Good Fellow started his annual campaign of service and began planning to spread joy among the many poor families whose Christmas would not be a cheerful one, the letters to Santa from Mary and Frances and George and Johnnie began coming.

Here is one for some Good Fellow:

"Dear Santa Claws: Please will you bring me a big big rag doll dressed and a trunk and please will you bring Budd a drum and a horn.

"Mama says you won't find our house caus we have moved and caus you will be so busy but I want to write to you anyway. Francis."

And here is another, addressed to Santa Claues, North Pole. Both envelope and paper have been cut from a roll of wall paper, with its gilded pattern turned inside:

Pathetic Appeal.

"Dear Saint Claus: This is my third attempt. I wrote last year and the year before and no one every answered. So I though I try again. There are seven children in our famely aranging from one to twelve years five girls and two boys. We dont ask any foolesh chrismas presants. All we would like to have is some cloes and shoes to keep us in school.

"p. s. The reason I rite this letter my papa is sick near all the time with rumitism."

And here is a little West Duluth boy who is looking forward to "Crismus" with joy in his heart because he is sure Santa isn't going to forget him. He is the sender of a little blue paper package tied with red ribbon, that bore the name "Santa Claws." Lacking a stamp or address, Postmaster McEwen merely smiled at it and passed it on, so that in time it reached the Good Fellow department. The little package contained two tiny "Chrismus" cards for Santa, as a present from "George."

Scores of other letters, most of them asking for toys and hiding a need for things more important than toys, have commenced coming in, and every Good Fellow who wants to help will have an opportunity.

Tips for Good Fellows.

And here is something to remember: When you fill out a Good Fellow blank and send it to me, tell what you would like to give. If you can give toys, or food, or clothing, or all three, specify. A "toyful" Christmas without food and clothing is not a success, any more than is a Christmas dinner a success when the family lacks clothing, and when the children have no toys.

The Good Fellow wants every family to have a good Christmas dinner, and he wants every child to have some toys and every person, big or little, to be warmly clothed.

The children referred to above, with their names and addresses, will be ready for some Good Fellow as soon as an investigator has made a visit to the home and is ready to report on the exact conditions found.

The Good Fellow Pledge

If you will be a Good Fellow at Christmas to some Duluth family, please fill out the attached blank and send it to The Herald Good Fellow Editor, or write a letter of similar import.

I reside at No.......................... street.

I will be Santa Claus to .... children (any number you wish), and Good Fellow to .... adults (any number you wish). Please give me the name of a family in .... (state what section of the city you prefer to have assigned to you).

EXPLOSION NOT RESULT OF OUTSIDE PLANNING

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 3.—A lengthy statement was issued by the Dupont Powder company last night through Former Congressman Charles B. Landis, one of its officials, denying the explosion Tuesday was the result of "outside planning or interference." The statement also says no fire or explosion has occurred in any of the company's factories since the European war began that affords ground for suspicion. The publication of what are termed "sensational and utterly groundless reports" was the reason assigned for the issuance of the statement.

ICE-BREAKERS ARE AT WORK AT ARCHANGEL

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Newcastle-on-Tyne, Nov. 15.—The master of a local steamer just arrived in the Tyne from Archangel, stated that there are now fifteen ice-breakers at work in the vicinity of that port. Some are constantly stationed there, others have arrived from Canada and some came from Vladivostok to the White sea via the north of Siberia. Hopes are entertained that steamer traffic will be maintained to and from Archangel till the end of January, when the railway line to Kola bay should be ready for use.

AMERICAN SHIP HAS VARIED EXPERIENCE

Andrew Welsh Has Become Center of Attention in Scandinavia.

London, Dec. 3.—A Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company, filed yesterday, says:

"The American steamship Andrew Welch has become a center of attention in Scandinavia. Her history to date follows in brief:

"After being chased by British patrol boats in the Atlantic and by British submarines in the North sea, crippled by a series of storms, she put into Bergen in distress. Norway granted the steamer permission to return to England, but she started for Haelmstad, Sweden. Again experiencing bad weather she took refuge outside the Skaw, finally arriving at Haelmstad, where it was found there was no receiver for her cargo of beans valued at $150,000.

"The vessel remained quiet for some days but last night a steamer arrived from Lubeck to convoy her to Germany. A start was made in the night, but a Swedish torpedo boat arrived on the scene and forced the Andrew Welch to turn back to Haelmstad."

Available maritime records do not list a steamer called the Andrew Welch. The American bark of that name, a vessel of 863 tons, sailed from San Francisco, Aug. 19, with a cargo of beans for Haelmstad.

A dispatch from Christiania on Nov. 17 said the bark had been towed into Christiansand. She was boarded by a party from a British patrol boat off the Shetland islands, it was said, and ordered into Lerwick, but a storm carried the vessel towards the Norwegian coast, where she was taken in tow by the steamer Russland.

Don't forget Haley's special 40c dinner. Every day from 11 to 2 p. m.

WAS HERMIT NEAR DULUTH

Insane Winona Priest Lived in Woods Two Summers.

Rev. Louis M. Lesches, who was adjudged insane by a jury at Winona last night and acquitted of the charge of having attempted to kill Bishop Patrick Heffron of the Winona diocese on Aug. 27, last, spent two summers as a hermit in the woods near Duluth in an effort to cure himself of nervous ailments, according to the testimony of the defense introduced at the trial Wednesday afternoon.

Edward Lees, attorney for Father Lesches, introduced evidence showing that the defendant had been in the woods near Duluth in 1914 and part of last summer before the shooting of Bishop Heffron. The priest lived alone as a hermit, hoping in that way to successfully treat nervous ailments from which he believed he was suffering. It was after the last visit in this part of the state that he went back to Winona and, being refused a charge by Bishop Heffron, attempted the latter's life.

The defense admitted the shooting, but testimony was introduced to prove that Father Lesches was insane and mentally unbalanced. As a result of the verdict last night he will be sent to the asylum for the criminal insane, instead of the state penitentiary.

According to the testimony introduced, Father Lesches was given his first charge at Easton, near Faribault, in 1909. After a short time he went to Milwaukee, later to Rochester and then to Wabasha, Minn. At this time he began fearing nervous ailments and he returned to Milwaukee for medical treatment and later went to a sanatorium in Minneapolis. Last year he went to the woods near Duluth and after returning received further treatment at Mankato. Unable to effect a cure after a year, he came back to the woods last summer, remaining here until shortly before the shooting.

Father Floyd of the Sacred Heart cathedral said this morning that Father Lesches did not visit in Duluth while in this part of the state and he did not know exactly where his cabin was.

Winona, Minn., Dec. 3.—Father Louis M. Lesches was insane when he shot and seriously wounded Bishop Patrick R. Heffron of the Winona diocese last August, a jury in district court here decided last night, acquitting the priest of the charge of assault with intent to kill for which he had been on trial two days.

The verdict, reached after forty-five minutes deliberation, means that Father Lesches will be committed to an asylum for criminal insane. The principal testimony during the trial was that of several alienists, who testified that the defendant was "insane and has homicidal tendencies."

Bishop Heffron was shot twice while celebrating mass the morning of Aug. 27. It was brought out at the time that Lesches had been refused a parish by the bishop, who at the trial testified he believed Lesches was "mentally unbalanced" at the time of the shooting. Bishop Heffron has completely recovered from his wounds.

RINK WANTED IN EMERSON DISTRICT

Petitions Circulated By Residents and Fifth Ward Club.

Petitions are being circulated by members of the Fifth Ward Improvement club and residents of the Emerson school district and will be presented to Mayor W. I. Prince, asking that the city again provide a free skating rink for the district this year. The residents want the rink made on the site of those of former years, at Observation park, Ninth avenue west and Third street.

"It has been reported about the district that the city does not intend to maintain a free skating rink at Prospect park," said W. L. Pierce, secretary of the club. "Several petitions are now being circulated, asking the reflooding of the rink for skating purposes. Nothing has so far been done towards the establishment of a rink at this place this year, and its name has not been mentioned as one of those to be established by the city."

A rink was established at Observation park four years ago following an agitation by the club and residents of the district. The skating rink was situated within a block of the Emerson school and has been patronized by hundreds of young people during the last four years.

The city has already started flooding the rinks at Fifteenth avenue and First street, Thirtieth avenue and Third street and Twenty-fifth avenue and Sixth street. The ice at these rinks will be ready for use, it is believed, by tomorrow evening. A free rink is also being laid out on Garfield avenue between 400 and 500.

MADE MAYOR BY GERMANS

Parish Priest Forced to Fill Office in Spite of Himself.

Seven Civilians Are Shot, and Large War Contribution Levied.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Loos-en-Gohelle, Pas de Calais, France, Nov. 10.—Three hundred only of the 5,000 inhabitants of Loos-en-Gohelle were still in the town when the Germans took it in October last year. A hundred of them escaped through the French lines, the rest lived just ten days short of a year under foreign domination and under the direct administration of the Abbe Campagne, the parish priest, made mayor in spite of himesif by the German kommandatur.

Seven Civilians Shot.

Loos-en-Gohelle, which should not be confounded with Loos in the department du Nord near Lille, was on the line of the great race between the Germans and the allies toward the road to Calais and the sea last year. The Uhlans came Oct. 4, followed by four regiments of the Prussian guard. A battalion of French infantry sent against them four days later was obliged to retire before superior numbers, after a violent fight. The Germans then began to fortify the position and occupied it in force. The Abbe Campagne, who with 200 of his parishioners was liberated by the British troops in the recent battle of Loos, affirms that "the first measure of the Germans was to shoot seven civilians, among whom were two men 80 years old and one 70; the others were from 32 to 40. Four of the men were farmers; the reason for their execution was never made clear: what they did was simply this: they went out to feed their cows one night and while doing so were caught by the German sentinels and held as prisoners until shot. These four were buried in the Rue Huilluch in graves dug by a miner that the Germans had left all night tied to a tree before forcing him to do the work. The two other victims were buried in a ditch in holes dug by the same miner.

All Machinery Dismantled.

"The majority of the population remaining in Loos at the time were women, children, a few old men and six or seven valid men, besides a dozen or so of invalids. The men who were strong enough to work were employed by the Germans in dismounting all the machinery of the mines, taking off the copper and loading it upon cars. The moment of their arrival in Loos the Germans called upon me and demanded at the point of a revolver where the mayor and his assistants were. When I told them that all the authorities of the town had left, they said:

"You shall be the sole authority here; you shall be mayor."

"I replied that my religious functions in the eyes of French law were incompatible with municipal responsibility. They declared that it did not matter and that they should hold me responsible for all that might happen in the village; for any discovery of concealed arms, for any telephones that might have been hidden, for any luminous signals, etc. I had no choice but to accept the dangerous honor and I have done what I could for my compatriots during the period of occupation, with two German soldiers at my door with fixed bayonets all the time acting as sentinels. I was unable to go out more than three times a week, Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, to visit the population, accompanied by a German interpreter.

Big War Contribution.

"A short time after the Germans arrived they notified me that a contribution of war of 7,000 francs had been levied upon the town of Loos. Since the population remaining in the town was mostly of the poorer class, I had no idea where I could raise such a sum. We finally decided to make it up from portions of the relief allowance made by the director of the mines of Lens to the women of mobilized miners. We finished paying the 7,000 francs Aug. 14, 1915.

"During the long months that we lived under German domination our life was most difficult; provisions became rare and rare, until at the beginning of May we were on the point of dying of hunger. Each person had to live six days on the half of a loaf of bread weighing three pounds. The situation was desperate. I succeeded in collecting quietly a few bushels of wheat that remained in the neighboring granaries, and my parishioners ground it in their coffee mills. We lived on this until the American Relief commission finally came to our aid. Later, I was called to Lens, with the mayors of the different towns of the region who had arranged to supply us with 190 grams of flour, sufficient to make 250 grams of bread, per day, per head.

Defended Bakery.

"Our difficulties, however, were not at an end; as soon as it became known that we had flour with which to make good bread, we were obliged to defend our improvised bakery in the farm house of Mademoiselle Petit against the German soldiers. We finally secured from the commandatur a sign: 'Civil bakery; entrance prohibited to soldiers.'

"During the bombardments the worst hours were from 10 o'clock in the morning until noon and from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until sunset. After the intensive bombardment of May 8, we were obliged to remove the bakery to a cellar, where we lived practically underground from that time until there began such a cannonading as we, who had been within the sound of bursting shells a year, had not conceived possible. The sound of that cannonading, however, was agreeable to our ears because it was not difficult for us to infer from it that the French or British were forcing the attack and that our delivery was no doubt near."

DUMMY MACHINE GUNS EMPLOYED

Latest Innovations Tried By Austrians on Russian Front.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Petrograd, Nov. 5.—Dummy machine guns which make a noise like the real thing and thereby scare off the attacking enemy, are reported to be one of the latest innovations tried by the Austrians on the southern front.

It is a well known fact that infantry, once loosed on a charge upon trenches defended with rapid-fire guns, are apt to swerve instinctively from points where the Maxims seem to be thickest.

However dense the roar of heavy artillery during attacks, the short, sharp barking of these little guns is still distinctly audible. In order to increase the psychological effect of machine gun fire, the Austrians therefore hit upon the plan of mounting in their trenches, alternately with real Maxims, a large proportion of dummies. These produce a rattle identical in sound with that of the real gun, and are operated by rapidly turning a handle.

There are only two cities in the United States, New York and Chicago, larger than Buenos Aires.

RECRUITING TALK BY JACK JOHNSON

Four Thousand People Block Traffic in Glasgow Street.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Glasgow, Nov. 11.—Four thousand people blocked the traffic in Queen street for a half hour today while Jack Johnson made a recruiting speech. He drove his big motor car to the Royal Exchange, removed his big white hat, showed his plentiful display of gold teeth, told how he had given two of his own motor cars to the government and urged every strong man to enlist.

He was introduced by Corp. Baker of the Scottish Rifles, clad in khaki, and the result of his speech was nine recruits.

British actors are frequently making recruiting speeches from the base of the Nelson column in Trafalgar Square, London, but an American prizefighter securing nine recruits for Kitchener's army in a Glasgow open-air meeting is a novelty, not altogether destroyed in interest by the fact that Johnson is appearing in a local music hall this week in a "revue." Incidentally his wife is placarded as "America's most beautiful and versatile artiste, the originator of America's greatest craze, the oyster dance."

SWEDEN ESTABLISHES CENTRAL TRADE BUREAU

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Stockholm, Nov. 10.—The Swedish government has decided to establish a central bureau to deal with all matters affecting Swedish exports and imports, including the transit trade across Sweden to Russia. The bureau will have far-reaching powers and will be manned by men of wide commercial experience. One department will deal exclusively with British trade, another with trade with Germany, and another with trade between Sweden and the United States.

WOMEN TAKE PLACE OF GOVERNMENT CLERKS

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Nov. 15.—Women are to take the place of 150,000 clerks employed by the government, who will be released for active service. Preference will be given to the wives and sisters of the recruits in filling the vacancies. There are over 300,000 government clerks employed in England and Wales alone who are of military age, but part of them are physically unfit for the army and others have a specialized knowledge of their work that makes them invaluable in their departments.

The women clerks, after a short training course, will receive the wages of the men whose places they take. Classes for training in shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping and clerical methods have already been formed in London, Manchester and other cities.

Wounded soldiers and sailors discharged as unfit for further services are also preparing themselves for work as government clerks in large numbers.

Under German patent laws an inventor is obliged to develop his patent within three years or suffer annulment.

MINNEAPOLIS LAUDS TANLAC

Suffered From Stomach and Kidney Trouble and Loss of Sleep.

Minneapolis, Nov. 26, 1915.

"Give me another bottle of Tanlac, it is certainly a remarkable remedy," was what Charles Anderson said to the Tanlac man last Friday, the 26th. Mr. Anderson lives at No. 40 Washington avenue, south, and is well known in the locality in which he resides. Here what he states regarding Tanlac, the wonderful new preparation, that is being introduced to the Minneapolis public. For a considerable period I have been suffering from stomach and kidney trouble, and loss of appetite. I saw Tanlac advertised in the papers and the very first day it was on sale I bought a bottle. My relief through its use has been remarkable although I have only taken one bottle, I have gained five pounds, my appetite is much better, and my stomach and kidneys have been benefited to a marked degree. I certainly recommend it to anyone suffering as I was.

Tanlac, the system purifier, may be purchased in Duluth from the drug store of William A. Abbett at 219 West Superior street, and at the Abbett branch stores, 101 West Fourth, and 932 East Second streets.

COMPETITION BY EUROPE

Not to Be Feared for Several Years After the War.

French Steel Official Discusses Situation in the Iron Business.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Paris, Nov. 15.—That the volume of business between the United States and Europe will not cease with the war, that the United States will not for several years have to fear European competition in manufactured products, is the opinion expressed here by Robert Pinot, general secretary of the Comite des Forges de France. This organization is the official representative of the Creusot works and all the other iron and steel manufacturers of France and the medium through which the French government is now securing large quantities of war munitions for the use of the French and Russian armies.

In an interview Mr. Pinot said:

"It is unfortunately true that we must look to the United States for several years to supply us with money or credits and with raw and manufactured materials. I say this is unfortunately true because I realize that we will be working for the next twenty years to pay what we owe. Not before that time can we begin to put any profits in our own pockets. The fear that so soon as the war is ended the manufacturers now busy making arms and cannon and shells will convert their factories into the making of products to compete with yours is ungrounded.

Not Superhuman.

"While we French iron and steel men have been doing surprising work in our munitions, while we are turning out more than the English factories, while our people have shown a marvelous example of improvision, while we have done all this with our best plants and our mines in the hands of the Germans, we are not superhuman. We cannot turn around so soon as the war is over and begin flooding your home markets, because of our cheaper labor, or compete with you in your foreign markets. How can we? We will first have the enormous task of rebuilding our old steel plants, of reconverting our automobiles, button, cloth, printing, and railroad shops, all now busy making munitions, back to their old uses. We will have to try to repair the vast material destruction that has come with the war. Then we will have to do our best to satisfy our own home markets. To do these things we will have to continue to buy of you, as we are now doing for war supplies.

Products Made to Wear.

"What chance is there for the American to do a steady business with us long after the war is over, to follow up and establish himself in the business now begun? I am not a prophet, and the war is not yet over. But here is a fact to be considered by the American manufacturer. So far as concerns France, we iron and steel men had begun to do a surprising business in the few years before the war. We were not only filling the demands made in this line on the home market, but we were beginning to go into the foreign trade. France had almost ceased to be an agricultural nation. I believe, too, that our products were the most perfectly made in the world. They were made to stand up, to wear. I won't say that we were right in manufacturing this way, that the American method is not the better; but our customers demanded long wearing articles, and we satisfied their demands. An American locomotive is built to last seven years, whereas the railroads we supply want them to last thirty years. This is a condition the American must meet in future competition with us."

Imports Cotton.

In connection with the reconstruction of the French factories destroyed in the north of France, referred to by Mr. Pinot, a current report indicates increasing imports of cotton from the United States and shows that France is now using more American cotton than ever before the war. The totals for the first eight months of this year of such imports were six million metric quintals of 100 kilos each. Before the war France had 7,200,000 cotton spindles and 120,000 looms. At the end of 1914 but 25 per cent, or 1,800,000 were in operation, due to the German invasion of the Vosges and Lille districts. Now 40 per cent or 3,000,000 spindles are in operation with 4,200,000 still idle.

There is a prospect for large orders of American railway supplies being placed in France. The northern and eastern railways suffered severely by the German invasion, and the other four large railway systems are badly in need of new material of all kinds. While the latter four railways have, during the present year, earned over 70 per cent of their normal receipts both for freights and passengers, they delayed placing orders for new material until this fall. So far American car firms have taken orders for 10,000 freight cars, March delivery. Other orders amounting to more than $20,000,000 were being placed by the French roads when the Balkan situation interfered with available ocean freights and now these orders are either being delayed or being placed in England. The Southern railway ordered 1,000 cars from a Belgian firm newly established in Spain when this freight situation developed, otherwise this order would have gone to an American firm.

HOLLAND MAY HAVE WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE

Made an Essential Part of the Government's Program.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

The Hague, Nov. 15.—Woman's suffrage has been made an essential part of the government's program in Holland. A bill making suffrage possible through an amendment of the constitutional law of the Netherlands, has just been brought into parliament.

The bill involves also other changes in the organic law. It proposes to extend the right of voting to all male citizens who have reached the age of 23 and are not excluded by certain disabilities, "and also to female citizens who have reached the same age."

It is stated that the passage of the bill will not of itself bring suffrage into being, but will only pave the way for it. A further revision of the existing electoral law will then be in order, putting into effect the principle thus embodied in the constitution.

The new constitutional amendment also introduces proportional representation in the different representative bodies, the second chamber or house of representatives, the provincial councils, and the municipal councils. The members of the senate, or first chamber, are elected by the different provincial councils.

GRADE OF OIL TO BE KNOWN TO PURCHASER

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forty million gallons of gasoline were used in Minnesota during the last year at a cost to the consumer of approximately $6,000,000, according to a report by A. J. Rush, state oil inspector.

With the issuance of the report, Mr. Rush, taking the position that the sale of this immense quantity of oil calls for more than its close inspection, directed the sixty-seven inspectors in the state to compel dealers to post conspicuously on the container a report of the gravity test.

"In the future the purchaser will have the privilege of knowing the grade of oil he is paying for," Mr. Rush said.

MUCH MARMALADE MADE IN GERMANY

Record Amount of Preserved Fruit for Future Needs.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berlin, Nov. 10.—The unusually large crop of fruit throughout Germany this fall has made unnecessary the existence of a conservation organization known as the "war committee of fruit manufacturing industry." This, composed of manufacturers of preserves and marmelades, was formed when it was feared that large quantities of fruit would go to waste unless some step was taken to make it into substitutes for butter and fat.

Individual manufacturers all over Germany have taken the initiative themselves, however, and report that because of the good season they have produced twice and in some cases three times as much marmelade as usual. Virtually all the rest of the crop not so used has been eaten as fresh fruit. No less that 200 German cities have imported carloads of apples, pears and the like for their populations. Germany not only has eaten an unprecedented amount of fruit this season, but has also a record amount of preserved fruit on hand for future needs.

ONLY ONE MAN RETURNED ALIVE

Famous Charge of Australian Troops Against the Turks.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

The Dardanelles, Nov. 5.—Some fresh details regarding the famous charge of the Australian Light Horse Brigade against the Turks on the Nek, in which the best part of three Australian regiments participated and only one man returned alive, have just reached British headquarters through a Turkish prisoner.

The prisoner was able to state positively what many Australians who witnessed the charge had suspected, that during the attack the Turks lost not a single man.

They received a special complimentary order from their general and several medals and a good many promotions.

The Australians' charge followed a long period of bombardment. "As soon as the bombardment stopped," said the Turkish prisoner, "the English (the Turks call all the British troops, whether home or colonial, by the name English) leaped over their parapet and charged down upon us. They came on very well. As soon as they appeared, every rifle in the place opened upon them direct across the Nek, and a machine gun with its cross fire from the right swept them sheer off the face of the earth. Three of them managed to reach our trench and fell dead over the parapet into the bottom of it."

As for the men of the Light Horse Brigade—after three months in the trenches, with many of them sick and some of them weak, with every officer and man at his appointed place, the instant the word was given they leaped from their trench and rushed on death—the first line may not have known it was death—the third line must have known it. And they died.

Why Not Have Curly, Wavy Hair?

While abroad last year, a matron much envied for her youthful looks, generously confided to me several little beauty secrets which I prize highly. One of the best of these is that straight hair can be made wavy and curly over night by merely applying a little liquid silmerine. Some peculiar attribute of this harmless fluid causes the hair to dry in the most exquisite curls and waves, having all the appearance of true naturalness.

My friends who have tried this are simply delighted. I find that pure liquid silmerine can be procured from any druggist here, and a few ounces will keep the hair in curl for several weeks. There's nothing gummy, greasy or messy about it; on the contrary, it is quite pleasant to use. I'm sure if you will try this tonight—apply with a clean tooth brush—a look in your mirror tomorrow morning will give you a most agreeable surprise.—Anita Amber's "Beauty Talks." —Advertisement.

WOMEN CAUGHT WITH MILITARY DOCUMENTS

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Lausanne, Switzerland, Nov. 10.—Women passengers are always more closely examined than men at the Swiss-Austrian frontier, writes a correspondent on the Austrian side to the Gazette de Lausanne. One woman was lately caught who had notes written on her back with indelible ink. Another had her arm in a sling, and when the bandage and plaster was removed despite her tears and supplications, documents full of military information were brought to light. Her arm was entirely sound.

Badger Finances O. K.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 3.—State Treasurer Henry Johnson said the general coffers of the state were in excellent condition at the close of business on Nov. 30, with a balance in all funds of $2,861,203.44, as compared with $2,404,598.03 on the same date in 1914, a difference in favor of the present balance of $456,605.46. Of the total balance there is in the depository banks $2,395,146.53.

A Foe to Tuberculosis

The Journal of the American Medical Association (August 9, 1913), reviewing an article on "The Influence of Calcium Salts on Constitution and Health," said: "They (the authors) report numbers of concrete instances in which patients gained in vitality and energy after taking calcium."

Doctors agree that in tuberculosis lowered vitality and lost energy must be overcome.

One of the constituents of Eckman's Alterative is calcium (lime), in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. To this, in part, is due its success in the treatment of tuberculosis—a service which even some ethical practitioners have acknowledged to their patients. We make no wholesale claims for it, but since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, a trial is safe. From your druggist or direct.

HEARTLESSNESS OF RED TAPE SYSTEM

Mother Prevented From Getting Letter From Her Son.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Nov. 15.—The heartlessness of the red tape system is shown in the letter written by a mother to one of the London papers, who instead of a letter from her soldier son, now in the trenches, received the following typewritten notice from the military censor: "Letter destroyed. This pattern of envelope is obsolete, and its use is forbidden."

Lately it was decided that the green envelopes served out to the soldiers in France should not be used, possibly because they had fallen into the hands of spies. But the act of the censor fell hard on the mother, who writes:

"My son was sent out to France in the first week of February, and has had no leave. He came out of hospital on Oct. 7, where he had been a month (during which time not one of his letters was forwarded, each one coming back to us), and was sent straight up to the front line again.

"We have heard nothing about him since Oct. 11, so our anxiety can be understood. A comrade wrote to tell us he was missing and that the sergeant was writing details.

"Our indignation may be imagined when we received, not news of our dear lad, but the heartless slip of paper already described. He was a lance corporal, and the best of sons."

RANGE HERDS ARE PASSING

"J J" Company Is One of Last Cattle Outfits to Quit.

Free Grass and Free Water Are Prizes of Yesterday.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 3.—The "J J" cattle outfit of Southeastern Colorado, Northwest Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico is selling its cattle and not restocking. This information is carried in the fact that last year its breeding herd of 5,000 to 6,000 cows, near Romero, Tex., was sold, and this year between 12,000 and 15,000 steers from the Colorado range have been sold in Kansas City, and to feeders in the sugar beet district of Colorado and Kansas. The hunt for cattle bearing the "J J" brand continues, and further sales will be made later this year, and more next year.

It is stated the "J J" ranch outfit will cease to exist as a big handler of cattle. The process of liquidation is slow, because great numbers of one kind of cattle from one locality cannot be moved through markets or into feeding channels without causing material weakness in prices, and the "J J" company, prior to this selling move, had nearly 40,000 cattle. With the passing of this outfit, few of the big range companies remain. They, too, are feeling the pressure of the silent, invisible force that digs in and stays—the homesteader.

Free Grass and Free Water.

For more than a quarter of a century the "J J" outfit found grass and water for its thousands of cattle on the plateau in the La Junta district, lying south of Higbee and extending into No Man's Land in Oklahoma and Texas. Free grass, free water with a cow puncher the only expense. To dominate this vast range, they gained right to the water holes and creeks, just specks here and there on a vast surface of miles and miles.

Controlled watering places were the success of the old big cow outfits. One watering place usually was the center of miles of range. Others could turn cattle on grass in that vicinity, but no water for them, and the old range code was "my water, my grass." The "J J" company gained some deed rights, but for the most part it was a free range proposition, on which to age and mature its steers.

The Homesteaders "Flocked" In.

In the last two years the settlement of Southeastern Colorado has been rapid. The homesteader has been attracted by possibilities in dry farming and irrigation by deep wells. Unusually large rainfall this year made the venture highly satisfactory. And the "cow punch" now says his world has gone to the bow-wows.

However the transition of Kansas, Oklahoma and parts of Texas, Montana, Wyoming and Idaho to a farming stockraising basis, has been attended with such material increase in wealth that Colorado welcomes the new condition. As a sample of what the homesteader can do, Western Kansas and Eastern Colorado will carry thousands of cattle through the winter on rough feed, and fatten a good many on sugar beet tops, sugar beet pulp and alfalfa. If it were a free range the cattle would have to be taken South or else shift for themselves in the sandhills and draws. It is the proposition of the many against the few and the many produce the most.

ELKS' MEMORIAL PROGRAM READY

S. J. Cowley Will Address "Lodge of Sorrow" at Orpheum.

Thomas Sexton, assistant secretary of the Duluth lodge of Elks, yesterday announced the complete program for the annual memorial day exercises to be held Sunday afternoon at the Orpheum theater.

John E. Samuelson, exalted ruler of the lodge, will preside during the services, which are scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock, and the principal address will be delivered by Stephen J. Cowley of Great Falls, Mont., prominent attorney and well-known speaker throughout the West. Mr. Cowley will arrive here tomorrow morning, according to a telegram received yesterday.

Because of the general public interest in the memorial services, which are held each year to commemorate those members of the lodge who passed away during the year, officers of the fraternal body arranged to hold the "lodge of sorrow" at the Orpheum, so that a large crowd could be accommodated. The services will be open to the public, while the center section of the parquet will be reserved for members of the lodge.

The program for the services Sunday follows:

NO AGE LIMIT FOR BRITISH GENERALS

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Dec. 3.—There is to be no age limit for generals in the British army, says a statement from Premier Asquith. He proposes, on the other hand, to displace them whenever they show signs of senility, whether their age be 40 or 80.

"It is not possible," remarks Mr. Asquith, "to institute any hard and fast rule as to an age limit for officers in command of divisions, but it will be our aim to appoint those officers whose mental and physical qualifications are most suitable. Some men age sooner and some later than others."

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

FILLING EMPTY STOCKINGS ABROAD

Foreign Money Order Business Shows Rapid Growth.

The prosperity of America will be responsible for filling many an empty stocking in war-stricken Europe during the Christmas holidays. More foreign money orders are now being sent out from Duluth than at any time during the last two years, according to Postmaster William E. McEwen.

"More than 100 foreign money orders a day are being sent out now," said Mr. McEwen, "despite the fact that some of the European countries refuse money orders because of the disorganized conditions of the mail. For instance, no money orders will be accepted in Austria, although Hungary is accepting them. Austria has always been one of the biggest boosters of the foreign money order lists in Duluth.

"At the present time persons in Duluth with relatives in Europe are sending 'Christmas' money. Some send $5, others $10, the amount varying with the means of the sender."

BELGIAN FUND PASSES $100 MARK

This contribution brings the total fund up to $100.66. Contributions, however, will be received up to Dec. 30, so that persons wishing to do charitable work during the holiday season may contribute to the Belgians.

The standing of the fund follows:

NEXT WEEK TUBERCULOSIS WEEK

Intensive Campaign Against Disease Will Be Carried on Throughout Country—Health Topics Will Be Discussed in Churches, Schools and All Organizations.

Next week is Tuberculosis week

It is an educational movement conducted under the direction of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. For the last five years the annual celebration has been known as Tuberculosis day, but it has grown so enormously since 1910, and has so broadened its scope that this year it can fittingly be called Tuberculosis week. It is an intensive campaign to secure within a week's time a simultaneous presentation of the subject of tuberculosis before the greatest possible number of people throughout the United States. Included in the scope of the movement are plans for having the subject of tuberculosis and health presented within the week to every club, lodge, grange, school, church and other civic and social organization throughout the country.

In order to result in the maximum amount of education the program must be as elastic as possible. It must be fitted to the needs of a particular community. The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis has, however, provided for three special days, which, in most localities, can be celebrated in all parts of the country on the days planned. These are: Medical Examination day, Wednesday, Dec. 8; Children's Health Crusade day, Friday, Dec 10, and Tuberculosis Sunday, Dec. 11 and 12.

For other organizations, such as lodges, clubs, granges, civic and social bodies it is planned to interest them in considering the subject at some meeting during Tuberculosis week. The seven days from Dec. 6 to 12 should, in other words, be a time when the subject of tuberculosis may be presented nationally with unusual force to the religious, civic and social organizations of the country.

Clergymen, teachers, physicians and laymen who desire literature for the preparation of sermons or talks, or for distribution to audiences during Tuberculosis week may secure it, without charge in most cases, from the secretaries of their local anti-tuberculosis associations; or, if this is not possible, from the office of the national society.

SAYS WOMEN ARE CRAZY ABOUT IT

Using Gasoline to Dry Clean Everything and Save $5 in an Hour.

Dry cleaning at home is all the rage here, says a well-known downtown druggist. Any woman can do five dollars' worth of dry cleaning at home at very little cost by dissolving two ounces of solvite in two gallons of gasoline; then immerse the articles to be cleaned; rub a little and in a few moments the gasoline evaporates and the articles cleaned look as bright and fresh as new.

Dry clean your own silk waists, dresses, ribbons, belts, kid gloves, satin shoes, evening slippers, fine laces, net work, woolens, dresses, children's coats, furs, veils, neckties, shawls, gentlemen's garments, fancy vests, lace curtains, rugs, in fact, everything that would be ruined by washing with soap and water. Nothing will fade, shrink or wrinkle, making pressing unnecessary.

Dry cleaning at home is inexpensive and effects a tremendous saving in the household and is really just as easy as laundering. Any druggist will sell two ounces of solvite which is simply a gasoline soap and your grocer or a garage will supply the gasoline. Then a wash boiler or dishpan completes the outfit.

As gasoline is very inflammable, be sure to do your dry cleaning out of doors or in a room away from fire or flame, with the windows left open.—Advertisement.

NOT HALF PASS C. S. EXAMINATIONS

Seventy-Two Successful Out of 150 During This Year.

Not even half of the persons, who took the civil service examinations during the past year, were successful in passing them, according to figures in the office of Ruben Johnson, secretary of the civil service commission.

During the year 150 men and women were examined and out of these only seventy-two received passing grades. Four examinations were held for telephone operators patrolmen, firemen, typists, clerks, messengers, meter readers and repairers, janitors, assistant librarians, rodmen, senior and junior clerks and for promotions in the fire department.

No more examinations will be held this year, according to Secretary Johnson.

MERRY CHASE FOR JOHN D.'S PET FOX

Dodges Keeper and Tarrytown Police Nearly All Day.

New York, Dec. 3.—John D. Rockefeller's pet fox led the villagers of Tarrytown, N. Y., and the police department a merry chase recently. The fox is owned by Robert Robertson, a night watchman on Mr Rockefeller's estate. Robertson caught the fox on the estate when it was young, and it became a pet of Mr. Rockefeller. Robertson always kept it on a leash, so that the watch dogs on Mr. Rockefeller's estate could not kill it.

Lately the watchman has been in the habit of leading it through the business streets in Tarrytown and the fox has attracted considerable attention. One morning recently he brought it down to the station as the commuters were going to New York, and when a big electric train dashed by the fox gave a leap and broke the leash.

It was off up the street like a flash, with Robertson and the police after it. The fox dashed into a junk yard and was lost for a time, but it was dug out later and escaped again. It was a hide-and-seek game until the middle of the afternoon, when the fox was chased out on the pier of a coal company. It was either a cold plunge in the Hudson for the fox or be bagged, and he chose the latter. Robertson took the fox home and locked it up. A new leash will be bought.

RECEIVES BUFFALO HEAD.

Local Taxidermist Will Mount It for Iowa Falls.

Thomas J. Storey, local taxidermist, has received the head of a monster bull buffalo for mounting.

This animal was in a public park at Iowa Falls, Iowa, but became unruly several weeks ago and the officer in charge was compelled to shoot it in self defense. The head was preserved by the park commissioners and will be placed in one of the public buildings in the Iowa city.

About ten years ago congress enacted a law prohibiting the shooting of buffalo anywhere in the country.

REFINED COMEDY A MARKED FEATURE IN "BIRTH OF A NATION"

LILLIAN GISH.

A great deal of film comedy is horseplay, but David W. Griffith in "The Birth of a Nation," at the Lyceum theater next week, proves that quiet refined comedy is a big laugh maker and pleases people better than the old style crude methods.

One of the best laughs in "The Birth of a Nation" is the lovesick sentry in the hospital scene gazing at Elsie Stoneman. This particular bit is of the "sure fire" order, for never does an audience miss the rapt devotion of the sentinel and the haughty expression of the young lady rebuking him with a million-miles-away look.

Paul Le Blanc is the name of the young actor who has made the unexpected hit in the part. He is a New Orleans creole by birth and played comedy roles with Mme. Bernhardt before going out to Los Angeles, where Mr. Griffith discovered him. The costuming of the young soldier is wonderfully accurate to the period. Some of the recent Civil war portraits in the magazines and newspapers are almost doublets of this sentry figure, showing what care Griffith has used in reproducing the Civil war type.

Miss Lillian Gish wears her costumes of Civil war and Reconstruction times that are heirlooms in her family. Through Mr. Griffith's skill all the actors in the production are made to appear as if to the manner born and not awkwardly moving about in habiliments to which they are unaccustomed.

UNUSUAL DOG ACT.

Robert and Robert Feature New Grand Show.

There was an unusual act on the new bill at the Grand theater last night. It was the playlet entitled "A True Friend," played by Robert and Robert, a man and a dog. To say that the dog is the "big noise" in this clever skit is not exaggerating, for the canine shows an intelligence seldom seen in a dog act. Robert, the man, stages a little drama of heart interest, his only assistants being the dog, a telephone and a few hundred feet of film. The dog does not receive any direction on the stage, but takes his own cues, and is always prompt in doing the right thing at the right time. The best part of the dog's performance is that he does not do the "tricks" so common in canine acts, but walks on his four feet, acting natural except that he does things ordinarily done by a man.

The Three Mori Brothers in "Japanese Pastimes," including hand and foot balancing, juggling, athletics and acrobatics, prove exceptionally clever and skillful entertainers. They have appeared on big-time circuits for several seasons and are well known to theater-goers here. They have several new "stunts" this time, and their comedy is natural and pleasing.

The Reed, St. John Trio is an unusually entertaining musical act, including a young woman and two men. The banjo and various wind instruments are played in presenting a fine program including patriotic, classical and popular selections.

Dunbar and Connolly appear in chatter, song and dance. Their act is mildly diverting.

There is a strong photoplay program. The big feature, however, is "The Woman's Share," a two-reel drama of more than ordinary interest and unusually well acted. Dainty Marguerite Courtot again appears in her "Ventures," the Hearst-Selig News Pictorial offers news events of the world, and several comedy films are shown.

Theater Gossip.

With honest delight Duluth theatergoers have greeted the announcement of the management of the Lyceum that Cyril Maude, the distinguished actor, and his popular play, "Grumpy," will open an engagement of two nights and matinee at the playhouse tonight.

"GRUMPY" AT THE LYCEUM.

"Grumpy" was written by Horace Hodges and T. Wigney Percyval. The principal character is that of an elderly, retired British K. C., who hides a warm heart under a gruff exterior. When the ones near and dear to him are imperiled through the disappearance of a diamond of great value, that has been entrusted to the care of his nephew, "Grumpy," despite his years, sets out with undaunted energy to unravel the complications that surround the robbery. Mr. Maude's charm and magnetism make "Grumpy" the most lovable of characters and his delightful and whimsical performance is one that can never be forgotten. His supporting company will be identical with that seen at the Empire theater, and will include: Elsie Mackay, Herbert Marshall, John Harwood, Alexander Onslow, Leonard Trollope, Alexander Galvert, Julien d'Albbe, Maude Andrews and Louise Van Wagenen.

FRANK KEENAN STRONG ATTRACTION AT THE REX.

At the Rex today exactly the same program is shown as plays in New York's Knickerbocker theater to capacity audiences at regular dramatic attraction prices.

A gripping, vital offering is "The Coward," with Frank Keenan as the star. Once in a decade comes a play of terrific emotional power. Such, say many who have seen it in New York and Chicago and Philadelphia, is Thomas H. Ince's play, "The Coward," at the Rex today.

Eddie Foy and the seven little Foys are known the world over on the speaking stage, but tomorrow at the Rex Beautiful is their first appearance on the silent stage. No wonder that comedy director, Mack Sennett, got fussed when he saw Mr. Foy bringing the seven little Foy comedians to the studio. One Foy gets a laugh, but seven make one big laugh that lasts during the entire showing of "A Favorite Fool."

"BELLA DONNA" AT THE LYRIC

There was pronounced applause from a great house at the Strand, New York, Monday afternoon at the conclusion of "Bella Donna"—by no means an everyday occurrence. Three thousand people by their deep silence had attested to the dramatic quality of Robert Hitchen's story.

There is in "Bella Donna" little pathos; there is no comedy. It is a straight tale of a woman who sees only herself. It is a stern role that falls to Pauline Frederick in this subject and a difficult one. To portray a woman lacking apparently a redeeming feature, a cold-blooded courtesan, and yet retain in a measureable degree the sympathy of her house, is a real achievement. The role of "Bella Donna" is perhaps one of the greatest tests to which any actress can be submitted.

Alla Nazimova, the distinguished Russian actress, won her big American triumph in "Bella Donna," and as one of "the best sellers" the novel created a lot of discussion when first placed on the market.

"Bella Donna" will be shown at the Lyric today and tomorrow.

PLANS TO AID THE AMERICAN FARMER

Congress to Be Asked to Name Commission to Assist.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Representatives of forty-six states and Canadian provinces, who attended the national conference on marketing and farm credits, issued a statement today embodying a score of recommendations to congress urging its co-operation in improving conditions affecting the American farmer.

The statement asked the appointment by congress of a commission of five members to investigate the results of land settlement in the west and other sections of the country "to remove the obstacles to acquiring farms and the modifications needed in successful land settlement systems of other countries to insure their successful operation in the United States."

Existing conditions in the irrigation sections could be corrected, the statement added, by the enactment of legislation by the states or by the nation, which would provide money to be loaned to settlers to aid in the preparation of public land for cultivation.

The conference, it was set forth, will strongly oppose any plan that will end mainly in real estate speculation and increase in land values to the disadvantage of settlers.

"Any plan for aiding settlers," the statement said, "by a better system of rural credits should be preceded by an effective plan for preventing an increase of land values.

The department of agriculture was urged to establish standards of measure and quality for all merchantable farm products.

MICHIGAN'S FINANCES REPORTED VERY LOW

Lansing, Mich, Dec. 3.—With a scant $500 in the general fund in the state treasury at the opening of business on Dec. 1, the state of Michigan faced a financial crisis. State institutions are being refused funds until the January taxes are available. The University of Michigan is the hardest hit by the financial stringency. That institution's requisition for $1,500,000 has been held up.

RAILROAD OFFICIALS FIND WEST PROSPERS

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 3.—Excellent conditions of traffic and general business in the Northwest are reported by Chairman P. Clough and President J. M. Hannaford of the Northern Pacific railway on their return from an inspection trip covering all the lines of the company.

"The Northern Pacific in November moved about 20,000 more cars of freight than the same month a year ago," said President Hannaford.

Confiscated Horse Killed.

Bemidji, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The horse that last July was confiscated by government men from August Kirchoff of Cass Lake on a charge of introducing liquor into Indian territory, became angry at being caged up in a stall, and kicking the side of his stall, broke his leg. After receiving authority from Frank Tufts, United States marshal, the animal was killed by Chief of Police Frank Ripple.

Timely Hint on Over-Eating.

Christmas, New Year's and other feast days cause many disturbed digestions. The stomach and bowels should not be permitted to remain clogged up, for indigestion and constipation are often followed by serious disease, resulting from undigested poisonous waste matter. Foley Cathartic Tablets should be in every home, ready for use. No griping; no unpleasant after effect. Relieve distress after eating, regulate bowels, sweeten stomach and tone up the liver. Sold everywhere.

POOR BYSTANDERS.

Chicago News: "I suppose all you people were kept awake last night by that party?" Mrs. Budd asked of her boarders.

"I was, certainly," answered the pretty teacher. "What was the occasion?"

"Why, Mrs. Booper was mad at Mr. Booper and gave a party to spite him. But it didn't spite him any, because he got wind of the affair and had to leave town on business.

"It all reminds me of one time when we were dependent upon a certain family for milk and the man and his wife had a quarrel and the man got so mad that he threw away our milk!"

"The innocent bystander and the neutral always pay the penalty," observed the professor. "If people when they start out to spite each other could only be made to realize this fact a great deal of annoyance could be avoided.

"I remember a case where a man and his wife quarreled because the man didn't put enough water on the lawn. The fellow became so enraged at his wife that he flooded the lawn completely for a day and a night and washed mud all over the neighbor's walk. It didn't spite the wife in the least, however, because she didn't like the neighbors, anyway. But it spited the neighbor."

"I knew a man once," remarked the pretty teacher, "who became angry at his wife for nagging him about building a trellis. It was a curtain lecture she gave him and quite a lengthy one. In fact, it was midnight when the man said: All right. I'll build the—er—miserable trellis right now.

"He got up and dressed and took a lantern and proceeded to build the trellis. He kept the innocent and unoffending neighborhood awake from midnight until morning with his sawing and hammering.

"And it didn't spite his wife at all, as she slept through all the racket, and when she woke up in the morning and saw the trellis she was gratified beyond measure."

"I once knew a girl," contributed Stews, "who married a man to spite her father. If she hadn't contracted this alliance the poor innocent whom she married might have been single yet. As it is, he is now supporting pa, who was not in the least injured by his daughter's spite work, but rather benefited by it."

"Which all goes to show," summarized the landlady, "how idle it is to quarrel and do spiteful things. We should all be blessed peacemakers and labor to prevent all the quarrels we possibly can."

WHEN THE TRENCH WIRES GOT CROSSED.

Strand Magazine: One of the methods of communicating from one officer to another in the trenches of the present great war is to give the message to one of the privates and tell him to "pass the word along" the line until it reaches its destination, viz., the officer at the other end. The following story will show how a serious message can be distorted on its journey from mouth to mouth:

Lieut. A, in charge of one end of the British line, told the private in front to "pass the word along" to Lieut. B. "We are going to advance; can you send us reinforcements?"

When Lieut. B received the message it was like this: "We are doing to a dance; can you lend us three and fourpence?"

LEST WE FORGET.

The nation is prosperous. Crops were good, and are selling at good prices. Foreign business is enormous, and it is by no means all war orders, either. Railroads are congested, factories are busy up to the limits of their capacity, wholesale and retail business is active. In short, not since the collapse of 1907 has business been so good or the promise of the future so splendid.

Money is plenty, and credit is ample.

Ex-President Taft said the other day that President Wilson is entitled to no credit for all this.

Now very likely President Wilson is not entitled to credit for the good crops: though the Republicans used to claim credit for prosperity that came that way, and they got away with it, too.

But one thing he IS responsible for—directly and personally—is the currency and banking law that has made all this possible, and without which it would have been impossible.

Where would this country have been when war broke out under the old currency and banking system which was the Republican legacy to his administration?

Everybody who remembers what used to happen when anything extraordinary occurred will realize just what would have happened a year ago if the old system of banking and currency had still been in force.

In that period of doubt and alarm, banks would have frozen up credit: they would have had to, to save themselves. They would have had to curtail loans and to call in loans. This would have forced much liquidation that would have further increased alarm. Business, unable to borrow money, would have had to slow down. Men would have been thrown out of employment. Men out of work cannot buy; so consumption would have decreased sharply. Decrease of consumption, getting back to the stores and factories, would have further reduced business. The further reduction of business would have thrown still more men out of work. This would have again decreased consumption; and so on.

Freezing up of credit, panic, depression, hard times—a long, slow, painful and uncertain recovery. This was the inevitable and regular process that attended every convulsion under the old currency system. It started with the freezing up of credit—that's the fountain head.

The new currency system prevented all that—stopped the process of prostration at its source. Its elasticity reacted to the impulse of fear and stifled the panic in its birth. The only curtailment was the natural hesitation due to doubt about what the war would bring. What the war brought was war orders, and after a few months of hesitation, business resumed at full speed—at a greater burst of speed than it had felt for nearly ten years.

President Wilson did not grow the good crops or make the war orders.

But he DID force through the currency law that saved the nation from panic and prostration, and that enabled it quickly to realize its new opportunities.

Hence, today, prosperity abounds, and next year will be even more prosperous than this.

Is Mr. Taft right—that President Wilson is entitled to no credit for good times?

Inez Milholland Boissevain says it is perfectly right for women to propose, and proclaims that that was the way she got her man. Why didn't she elucidate and tell whether the woman who proposes also buys the ring?

THE "AVION."

The French have given the world another service in offering the word "avion" as generally descriptive of the air-machines which the English-speaking peoples—and some others—are struggling to call "aeroplanes."

The new word is in common use with the French, and the rest of us should lose no time in taking it up—or any other word that is hereafter devised to get away with the exceedingly awkward form "aero."

Undoubtedly many people have been driven to avoid aeroplanes as a topic of time-filling conversation because of the difficulty of handling the word. Others have lightly made it "airoplanes" or "airyoplanes," cutting the Gordian knot by deliberate mispronunciation. Hardly anybody properly divides the words into the requisite number of syllables and gives the vowels their proper sound or sequence. Those who do, with few exceptions, manage the vocal convulsion with difficulty. Others dodge around it by saying "airships," which is inaccurate but handy.

"Avion," however, is simple and easy, providing we Anglicize it and don't try the affectation of French pronunciation, which most of us handle with little credit.

Having reduced his pile to a measly twenty million dollars, Andy Carnegie no doubt feels that he is a full-fledged member of the widow's mite class.

COINCIDENCES.

Here's a thing to think upon:

There are kinds of people who want men like Root for president.

There are kinds of people who want a colossal navy, a mighty army, fit to conquer the world—compulsory universal military service, and all that.

There are kinds of people who want conventions instead of primary elections, so that too much power shall not be given to the people.

There are kinds of people who want high protective tariffs to tax the people to build up private fortunes—folks who believe that the only way to prosper the people is to prosper the great ones first, and let the many thrive as best they may on the crumbs from the rich man's table.

Generally, those who hold these things are of the same class and type.

This class and type also wants hands off business, no regulation of large enterprises—free business, free politics, free everything but free people.

Odd, isn't it? Think it over.

Incidentally it will be interesting to see whether it costs Canada thirty to forty cents a bushel to get that wheat across the Atlantic.

THE PEOPLE'S PROPERTY AND THE PEOPLE.

The opinion from the attorney general's office on the relation of the school district to the public recreation movement lays down rules of law that will hamper, but need not prevent, the success of the work.

The opinion leaves the social center work untouched, and permits the school board to spend money for playground work. By a narrow construction of the law, it prevents the open co-operation between city and school district by which the most effective work can be done. In other words, it permits the movement to proceed, but not in the most effective way, not in the way most likely to be of the widest public benefit.

A technical construction of the law reveals the fact that the law fails to serve the public welfare, and that there are legal restrictions which prevent public property from yielding as much public benefit as it could and should yield.

Manifestly, the law ought to be changed so that the utmost possible public use can be made of public property, under the most efficient and practical system it is possible to devise, with restrictions only to prevent other social purposes from interfering with the primary purpose of school property.

In the meantime, the city is going to do the best it can, and we hope the school board will also contrive as best it can within the law to make the school property serve the widest possible public good.

Meanwhile most any old time will do for your Christmas hoping.

THE OLD FLAG—AND AN APPROPRIATION.

New Hampshire's section of the League for National Defense speaks out in no uncertain tones. Make the country impregnable against foreign assault, and don't forget the Portsmouth navy yard in doing so.—New York World.

Back of the tumult and the shouting there is the pork barrel.

While the country is debating—more preparedness or no more preparedness, a little preparedness, a reasonable amount or a gigantic amount—plans for the pork barrel raid are being formed quietly. Political army posts and navy yards are preparing to preserve themselves, to get new and larger appropriations out of the political pickle in the pork barrel.

Too much attention shouldn't be paid to the main issue. Some of it should be spared to what, though perhaps a side issue, is fully as important—the question whether the country will get a dollar's worth of preparedness for every dollar spent, or only a dime's worth, or none at all.

A British officer, interrupted at a game of cards by orders for action, writes that "the exigencies of the service obliged me to sacrifice a hand containing fourteen aces." In some parts of this country less than half that number of aces in one hand would be enough to start something.

Those Ancient Greeks

Editorial in the San Francisco Bulletin.

Greece seems to us, here in America, one of the out-of-way corners of the earth. She is smaller than the state of New York, and her population is less than that of Ohio. She is important in the present international unpleasantness only because she may play the part of an odd weight upon an evenly-balanced scale. But there originated in Greece certain ideals of civilization which have not yet been realized or altogether superseded, and these ideals took root when, as Richard Le Gallienne informs us in a recent magazine article, there were more than one hundred and fifty separate states within a ridicously small area.

Without the mastery of the seas, without a place in the sun, without internal unity, without trade enough to keep a modern fourth-rate port awake, Greece produced men and thoughts that have powerfully influenced all civilization for 2,500 years. She gave us the very best that was in pre-Christian paganism, and she left her impress upon the philosophy of Christianity. She invented democracy, though she did not practice it. Modern scientists have played havoc with some of the ancient Greek thinkers, but even modern science has done little to abate the Greek influence. Science is far likelier to learn humility than is the spirit of Greece to be forgotten.

It is an almost unforgivable sin in America to dive into ancient history for a moral, but an example from ancient history is intrinsically just as good as one from the next county. Ancient Greece was just as real as California is today, and her people were just as much alive and just as full of cussedness and infinite possibilities as the crowd which is at this moment passing the front door of the Bulletin office.

The Greeks were just as foolish as the inhabitants of the modern world, although that is saying a great deal. Their literature and their philosophy were mere by-products of a fairly successful attempt to wipe each other out, and a flat failure to conquer the world. As militarists and rulers they failed, but as poets and thinkers they conquered themselves a place in the sun for innumerable generations. Their cities, kingdoms and republics were mere specks, but they were specks of radium.

The contrasting modern idea is bigness—not beauty, not justice, not truth, but just bigness. We glory in big cities, big nations, big ships, big guns, big corporations, big fortunes and even big wars. But these things perish. They die like the little flies whose span of life begins in the morning and ends at sundown. The fruits of the war will slip out of the hands that win them. The fruits of anything this nation can gain or hold by force will turn to dust.

The confusion of sounds will die away, and in ages to come our generation will be represented by a little company of unknown men who never went to war, who never grew rich, who never cared for notoriety, and whom we did not delight to honor.

The Barefoot Boy

Blessings on thee, little man,
Barefoot boy, with cheeks of tan!
With thy turned-up pantaloons,
And thy merry whistled tunes;
With thy red lip, redder still
Kissed by strawberries on the hill;
With the sunshine in thy face,
Through thy torn brim's jaunty grace;
From my heart I give thee joy,—
I was once a barefoot boy!
Prince thou art—the grown-up man
Only is republican.
Let the million-dollared ride!
Barefoot, trudging at his side,
Thou hast more than he can buy
In the reach of ear and eye,—
Outward sunshine, inward joy:
Blessings on thee, barefoot boy!

Oh for boyhood's painless play,
Sleep that wakes in laughing day,
Health that mocks the doctor's rules,
Knowledge never learned of schools,
Of the wild bee's morning chase,
Of the wild flower's time and place,
Flight of fowl and habitude
Of the tenants of the wood;
How the tortoise bears his shell,
How the woodchuck digs his cell,
And the ground-mole sinks his well;
How the robin feeds her young,
How the oriole's nest is hung;
Where the whitest lilies blow,
Where the freshest berries grow,
Where the groundnut trails its vine,
Where the wood-grape's clusters shine;
Of the black wasp's cunning way,
Mason of his walls of clay,
And the architectural plans
Of gray hornet artisans!
For, eschewing books and tasks,
Nature answers all he asks;
Hand in hand with her he walks,
Face to face with her he talks,
Part and parcel of her joy,—
Blessings on the barefoot boy!

Oh for boyhood's time of June,
Crowding years in one brief moon,
When all things I heard or saw,
Me, their master, waited for.
I was rich in flowers and trees,
Humming birds and honey bees;
For my sport the squirrel played,
Plied the snouted mole his spade;
For my taste the blackberry cone
Purpled over hedge and stone;
Laughed the brook for my delight
Through the day and through the night—
Whispering at the garden wall,
Talked with me from fall to fall;
Mine the sand-rimmed pickerel pond,
Mine the walnut slopes beyond,
Mine, on bending orchard trees,
Apples of Hesperides!
Still as my horizon grew,
Larger grew my riches too;
All the world I saw or knew
Seemed a complex Chinese toy,
Fashioned for a barefoot boy!

Oh for festal dainties spread,
Like my bowl of milk and bread;
Pewter spoon and bowl of wood,
On the door-stone, gray and rude!
O'er me, like a regal tent,
Cloudy-ribbed, the sunset bent,
Purple-curtained, fringed with gold,
Lopped in many a wind-swung fold;
While for music came the play
Of the pied frogs' orchestra;
And, to light the noisy choir,
Lit the fly his lamp of fire.
I was monarch: pomp and joy
Waited on the barefoot boy!

Cheerily, then, my little man,
Live and laugh, as boyhood can!
Though the flinty slopes be hard,
Stubble-speared the new-mown sward,
Every morn shall lead thee through
Fresh baptisms of the dew;
Every evening from thy feet
Shall the cool wind kiss the heat;
All too soon these feet must hide
In the prison cells of pride,
Lose the freedom of the sod,
Like a colt's for work be shod,
Made to tread the mill of toil,
Up and down in ceaseless moil;
Happy if their track be found
Never on forbidden ground;
Happy if they sink not in
Quick and treacherous sands of sin.
Ah! that thou couldst know thy joy,
Ere it passes, barefoot boy!
—John Greenleaf Whittier.

A Jibe for Americans.

Reading the Financial Page

Theodore H. Price in the Outlook.

Since the daily paper is for most of us our only source of information upon financial subjects, it is most important that we should be able to read it intelligently, and yet it is exceedingly difficult to formulate any rule by which our reading should be guided.

The figures which appear in the financial columns of the papers are for the most part historical. They are records of what has happened, and we all want to know what is to happen.

Our reading must therefore be interpretative. Increasing bank loans and a diminishing cash reserve show that people are borrowing more money. Up to a certain point they indicate business expansion that augurs well for the future. If, however, the reserves are approaching the legal minimum, it is a sign that the lending ability of the banks is nearing the limit, and that the extension of credit will shortly be checked by an advance in the rates of interest.

A restriction in business activity is then logically to be expected, but this is often delayed because in times of prosperity men are frequently willing and able to pay more for borrowed money than when business is dull and profits are poor.

The result is that new capital is attracted to the banks and a "boom" sometimes continues for a long time after the reserve is down to the legal minimum.

Moreover, the rediscounts provided for under the new Federal reserve system greatly increase the lending capacity of the banks, and it seems likely that in the future deserving borrowers will always be able to obtain credit at a rate that is not exorbitant. If this proves to be the case, the interest rates at the great money centers will be more barometric than bank reserves.

The significance of bank clearings is obvious. They are the totals of all checks drawn upon banks other than the one in which they are deposited. They are directly indicative of the volume of trade and expenditure. Increasing bank clearings mean expanding trade and vice versa. It is, however, to be borne in mind that in times of great speculative activity in the stock market bank clearings are swelled by the checks drawn for the securities bought and sold, and that this business is not always indicative of commercial activity, though it generally presages it.

From the foregoing it will be seen that it is almost impossible to say exactly how the paper should be read or the recorde facts interpreted.

Although the evils of which we complain are mainly imaginary, the effect upon expenditure is very real, and business becomes dull until something occurs to convince people that they are not as badly off as they thought.

Then the tide turns and business booms again. It is more important that those who would be foresighted should be able to discern this sentimental action and reaction than that they should be encyclopedias of financial facts.

For this reason, all the paper should be read, and not only the financial page. Pope said that "the proper study of mankind is man," and an increase in the number of marriages is, for instance, probably more important as an indication of prosperity than an increase in bank clearings.

The political news is especially important. Periods of political unrest rarely coincide with business activity, for a people who are justly or unjustly dissatisfied with their government are not likely to be constructively busy.

One reason for the present commercial complacency is that the ingrowing tendency of the American political mind has been temporarily arrested by a contemplation of the distress in Europe, and most of us have concluded that we have a pretty good government, after all.

The volume of commercial advertising is another very important indication of business conditions and prospects. Advertising has now become a science, and the men who direct the advertising policies of American merchandising are shrewd commercial psychologists upon whose judgment of the future great reliance may be placed.

There are many other things reflected in the mirror which the daily paper holds up to life each morning that may be scrutinized with profit, but the important thing is to correlate them properly. No rule for doing this can be given.

Prohibition From Outside

St. Cloud Journal-Press: One of the peculiar instances where the Federal government overlaps state authority is in the so-called Indian treaty controversy. In territorial days, or later, when the Indians held possession of a large section of Minnesota, congress made provisions for the government of the Indians, and among other regulations forbade the sale of liquor on certain of these reservations. There was a series of treaties, and some of them could be set aside or modified by proclamation by the president, while others require congressional action.

With the coming of the whites and the elimination of the red men from most of Northern Minnesota territory, the prohibition of the saloon was confined to the Indian reservations. A year or two ago the special agents of the Indian department resurrected the prohibition features of the old treaties and have been enforcing them against several cities and villages, where a real Indian would be a great curiosity.

The Journal-Press has little use for the saloons, but it can see little sense or usefulness in having a special agent of the Federal government coming to the state and defining just what towns shall and shall not sell liquor. It is not a question of protecting the Indian, because towns like Hibbing and Virginia are way outside the Indian territory. It is a sample of arbitrary power, vested in Federal authority, under conditions that do not now apply.

It takes away self-government from the people of these cities.

The bad feature is that when the Indian lid is applied by the long arm of the government, and against the judgment of the local people, there is sure to follow a reign of blind pigs that is infinitely worse than the saloons.

It would be interesting to know just what inspired the Indian agents to enforce these treaties, whose very existence was overlooked for nearly half a century.

National prohibition is coming some day and we believe it will be the nearest successful solution of a very troublesome problem, but when it comes it will be by the approval of the majority of the people of the country, and not through usurpation by the government authorities of some antiquated statute.

A Highway of Beauty.

Seldom is any highway given so auspicious an introduction to the world as is accorded to the stretch of scenic travel described in "The Columbia, America's Great Highway." The publication is a beautiful piece of work, most attractive typographically, and featured by a wealth of color plates of exceptional quality. It describes the most striking views presented to the traveler over the newly completed Columbia River highway—a paved road extending from Portland, Or., eastward by way of the great Columbia gorge, through the heart of the Cascade mountains, as well as westward to the Pacific ocean. The roadway, built with the idea of permanency as well as of beauty and utility, has been dedicated to public use. It was laid out by Samuel Christopher Lancaster, and this beautiful book of introduction and description also was compiled by him.

The Demand for a Smaller Legislature is Growing

Editorial Writers in the State Press Indorse the Idea.

Convention.

Winnebago City News: The Duluth Herald says the Minnesota legislature is entirely too large and its size should be reduced. Almost every one will agree with The Herald, but at the same time with a mental reservation that it would be a sheer waste of time to try to reduce it in numbers.

Help the Good Work Along.

Kasson Republican: The Duluth Herald calls attention to the unwieldy legislature of this state and suggests as a remedy for this and several other matters, of equal import that need fixing that a constitutional convention be called "to write for the Minnesota of the Twentieth century a Constitution in harmony with the times."

We'd Stand on That, Too.

Baudette Region: The Duluth Herald is out with a suggestion that the size of the state legislature be reduced, and it has many logical reasons to offer for its contention. Under ordinary circumstances the Region would be strong for such a plan, but there are drawbacks when certain districts in the northern part of the state are considered—our own for instance. Before the redistribution our representative resided at Thief River Falls, and if we desired to get in touch with our senator we had to hunt him up at Ada, down on the prairie land of the state. They couldn't and didn't do justice to a district that covered more territory than some of the states in the East, and if a reduction in the number of legislators would mean going back to the old order of things we would be against it. What we would rather see is a commission of twelve men—big men—governing the state, with districts somewhat similar to our present congressional district. This may appear like a contradiction, but we believe the words "big men" would solve the problem.

You Conservative Old Reprobate.

Browns Valley Tribune: It might not be so hard to reduce the size of the legislature if each county were given a representative.

Would Abolish the Senate.

Cannon Falls Beacon: The Duluth Herald of Nov. 15 has a very able article under the caption "Minnesota's Unwieldy Legislature." The Beacon agrees with its big city contemporary that the Minnesota legislature is unwieldy. It is more unwieldy in a right direction than it is in a wrong direction. But it appears to the Beacon that the unwieldiness of the legislature must remain as long as the idea of two houses, senate and representative, exist.

The two-house idea is archaic, antiquated and has no place in modern governments. In the first place, when democracy began to emerge from despotism and demanded that the people be heard, congresses, parliaments, dumas and the like were created. But the overlords saw to it that all power should not be taken away from them and the last word should still be in their mouths. We see this plainly in the English house of lords, the United States senate and in other legislative bodies of other countries. For many years the United States senate has been a check upon the popular will, just as the house of lords in England has been and in all other countries of Europe, and it is just as true of Minnesota and of every other state in the Union.

This "upper house" idea is wrong, radically wrong, a useless and unnecessary usurpation, and has no place in modern civilization. The people's voice has a right to be heard, not ten years hence, but when it demands this or that to be done. The voice of the people under present conditions may be heard in the senate. Before talking of unwieldiness of legislatures, do away with senates and let the people speak through the house and through the house alone.

Wisconsin Clippings

Things the Badger State Editors Are Saying.

Would Strengthen Militia.

Marinette Eagle-Star: United States military authorities who are devising ways and means of strengthening the army in preparation of defense find that the plan for increasing the strength of the National Guard is the most popular among those suggested. It is a practical and valuable adjunct to the standing army.

What "Ruin" Means.

Eau Claire Telegram: A conservative declares that the nomination of La Follette for the presidency by the Republican party would "mean the ruin of the party." Then there would be no hope of carrying Utah and Vermont?

It's a Foolish Arrangement.

Bayfield Progress: What's this we hear? Congress to sit in annual session! Why, what congress? And then the mind goes groping back across the months that are past. Yes, sure enough; there it is. Thirteen months ago, after the nation had been torn from pivot to perimeter through many weeks of savage campaigning, a new bunch of lawmakers had been choosen. Elected on issues so vital that many of us lay awake (or sat or stood awake) nights in our terrible struggle to keep our beloved nation from going to the bow-wows, our "saviors" who won the jobs are now just getting around to begin their work. Yes, and there are a few hundred thousand folk who vainly wish the start might not be made even now. Verily there's much of poppycock and a lot of foderol in our elections—and some of it is there because our dead and gone Constitution writers didn't possess quite all the wisdom and foresight they've been touted as having had.

Boosting the Northern Region.

Ashland Press: Judge Beldon of Racine, well known in Ashland, is a great booster for Northern Wisconsin. In an interview recently published in the Milwaukee Sentinel he speaks highly of the substantial character of the citizenship of this great Northland and of its marked progressiveness in dairying and general agriculture and the many courtesies accorded him during his visit. The judge says the northern part of Wisconsin is developing and being settled rapidly and with its wonderful grains and grasses is bound to become a most important dairying district.

What the Iowa Idea Accomplishes.

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: Iowa has given its formal indorsement to Senator Cummins as a presidential candidate in 1916. Thus is history repeating itself. The "favorite" son idea clings to the Hawkeye state, but the only thing it has ever accomplished, thus far, is to keep Iowa some distance from the band wagon.

There's No Triumph Equal to It.

Hurley News: There is no look of triumph to equal that on the face of the woman who goes into a bargain rush and comes out with what she wanted.

Noah Makes a Hit.

Ladysmith Journal: "Dr. Stevens Langdon of Oxford university asserts it was Noah, and not Adam and Eve, who brought about the fall of man, it appearing that Noah plucked fruit from the cassia tree and ate it. This will be a hard blow to the paragraphers who have contended all along that Eve handed Adam a lemon."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Anyhow, let us be thankful that Dr. Langdon doesn't make a sissy out of Noah by representing him as laying the blame on his wife.

The Lord's Body.

"I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me to do."—John xvii, 1-11.

This quiet confession is in itself a token of our Lord's divinity. The serenity in which He makes His claims is as stupendous as the claims themselves. "Finished," perfected in the utmost refinement, to the last, remotest detail! Nothing scamped, nothing overlooked, nothing forgotten! Everything which concerns thy redemption and my redemption has been accomplished. "It is finished!"

"And now* * * I come to Thee." The visible Presence is withdrawn. There is no longer in our midst a Jesus whose body we can bruise and crucify. "But these are in the world." Yes, and His disciples are now His body. He becomes reincarnated in them. If they refuse Him a body, He has none! He looks through their eyes, listens through their ears, speaks through their lips, ministers through their hands, goes on sacred pilgrimages with their feet! "Know ye not that ye are the body?"

Does my discipleship offer my Lord a limb? Can He communicate with the world through me? Does my discipleship multiply His powers of expression? Has He more eyes, more ears, more hands because I am a member of His Church? Or——?—From Daily Meditation.

Dayton, Ohio.

Mary's Dowry.

Newark News: Mary and her mother finished up the supper dishes. The children were abed in the front room. The old man had gone for his evening visit to the corner.

"Only a week more, ma."

"I know, Mary. I'm countin', too."

"I got everything ready that a girl can make, ma. But there's some things I can't make. I just gotta have a little money, ma."

"I been thinkin' about that, too, Mary. I wish you was gettin' married some other time. * * * If you could borrow the money and then work a little after you get married, so as to pay it back * * *."

"But I resigned at the store, ma. A week from today is my last day."

"I don't see where it's comin' from, then. Four days is all your father worked this month. * * * And now you're goin' to stop work, and that'll be $4 a week less comin' in. * * * Couldn't you get the things somehow and let Jim pay for 'em afterwards?"

"And have Jim remindin' me of it all his life?"

Mother and daughter sat down, and Mary brought her trousseau from its hiding place and spread it upon the table—poor little garments that she had tried so hard to make as dainty as the elegant things she sold over the counter at the Mammoth store.

"I don't see what more you need, Mary."

"Shoes, ma, and a corset, and stockings, I can't make them things, ma, can I?"

The woman sighed.

"If it's gotta be, Mary, I s'pose it's gotta be. You got one more week's pay comin'. * * * You can have that."

Fate.

Two shall be born the whole wide world apart;
And speak in different tongue, and have no thought
Each of the other's being, and no heed;
And these o'er unknown seas to unknown lands
Shall cross, escaping wreck, defying death,
And all unconsciously shape every act
And bend each wandering step to this one end—
That one day out of darkness they shall meet
And read life's meaning in each other's eyes.

And two shall walk some narrow way of life
So nearly side by side, that should one turn
Ever so little space to left or right
They needs must stand acknowledged face to face.
And yet, with wistful eyes that never meet,
With groping hands that never clasp, and lips
Calling in vain to ears that never hear,
They seek each other all their weary days
And die unsatisfied—and this is Fate!

A Money-Making Secret.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: "How did you make your great fortune?" some one asked Lord Rothschild.

"By always selling a little too soon," was his reply.

When, as a very young bank president, Effingham B. Morris had regretted the sale of bonds before the big rise came, A. J. Drexel patted him upon the shoulder and gave him this fatherly advice:

"My boy, never grieve over a small profit. Save your regrets for the times you will have to take a loss."

Rothschild and Drexel meant exactly the same thing—if you wait to catch a whale you may not even get enough fish for supper.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WAR A PRACTICAL PROBLEM; DEVISING THE REMEDY

To the Editor of The Herald:

War must be overcome because the nations have to live together in the world.

Once every man's life was daily warfare or abject surrender. If someone had talked the reign of peace to the caveman, he would have said, "It can't be done." But because men had to live together, it was done. You go about your daily living with no thought that your next door neighbor may bat you over the head if you relax your guard. Private warfare, once the rule of life, has been abolished by civilization.

Once every tribe was perpetually at war with its environs. If someone had talked the reign of peace to the clansman, he would have said, "It can't be done!" But because tribes had to live together in the nation, it was done. We go about our business with no thought of a foray from Carlton or Itasca or Douglas. A hundred years ago a tribe living at Duluth was in ceaseless danger from the tribes of Carlton, of Itasca and of Douglas and Pine counties. Tribal warfare, so recently the rule of life in this locality, has been abolished by civilization.

Now the nations have to live together in the world. On this continent we have learned the way. We prosecute our national affairs with no thought of armed conflict with Canada, with Argentina or Chile. We would even be at peace with Mexico, if Mexico had a government. It is not because of treaties that we live together peaceably. It is because we have found a way to reconcile the clash of national wills to a common interest.

What has been done in America can be done in the world, and will be done, or civilization is a failure. As we expect to live together in this world—we cannot remain in today's world and not live together—we must find a means of overcoming war.

POSTAL INSURANCE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Timely, strong and in every way commendable was your editorial "Insurance and Saving" in your issue of Nov. 27. It ought to make men sit up and take notice. But, remember, all your readers are not salaried men, business men or copper magnates. Spite of all your local wealth, the great number of opulent Duluthians, the average income of your citizens is estimated at $734. Not a princely one is it?

A great number of you can and do pay and should pay the stiff premiums exacted by the regular insurance companies, premiums that will pay the risks, the necessary dividends to make the stock attractive to investors, the fat salaries to officials and the other expenses of insurance. But there are still more of you who can't afford that kind of insurance or who can carry but a ridiculous little of it.

Which brings us back to our old friend, postal insurance, (originally started many years ago in the Evening Herald) as the simplest means of putting insurance at low rates within the grasp of all and yet not costing the government anything, taking it out of the realm of paternalism and making it self-supporting, a natural auxiliary to postal savings and no more destructive to the old line insurance companies than postal savings has been to the savings banks. You remember what opposition there was to postal savings because it was going to destroy the savings banks, and now we find that it has helped them and tremendously.

Soon as this cursed war and its attendant excitement are over it would, it seems to me, be most timely to get our people's attention down to postal insurance, and meanwhile why not give it a thought, a word occasionally just to keep it alive and kicking? Sincerely,

F. W. FITZPATRICK.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Please mention in your "Poems Asked For" column that the old favorite song, entitled "The Parson and the Bear" is much desired in hunting circles here, and anyone sending same to this column will greatly oblige,

Yours truly,

In the Baggage Coach Ahead.

On a dark, stormy night, as a train rattled on.
All the passengers had gone to bed,
Except one young man with a babe on his arm,
Who sat there with bowed-down head.
The innocent one commenced crying just then,
As though its poor heart would break
One angry man said, "make that child stop its noise,
For it is keeping all of us awake."
"Put it out," said another, "don't keep it in here
We've paid for our berths and want rest,"
But never a word said the man with the child
As he fondled it close to his breast.
"Where is its mother? Go take it to her,"
One lady then softly said.
"I wish that I could," was the man's sad reply.
"But she's dead in the coach ahead."

Chorus.

While the train rolled onward a husband sat in tears
Thinking of the happiness of just a few short years,
For baby's face brings pictures of a cherished hope that's dead.
But baby's cries can't waken her in the baggage coach ahead.

Every eye filled with tears when his story he told.
Of a wife who was faithful and true,
He told how he saved up his earnings for years
Just to build up a home for two.
How, when heaven had sent them this sweet little babe
Their young lives were blest,
His heart seemed to break when he mentioned her name,
And in tears tried to tell them the rest.
Every woman arose to assist with the child.
There were mothers and wives on that train,
And soon was the little one sleeping in peace,
With no thought of sorrow or pain.
Next morn at the station he bade all good-by.
"God bless you," he softly said,
Each one had a story to tell in their homes
Of the baggage coach ahead.

HEALTH TALKS
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Exophthalmic Goiter

EXOPHTHALMIC goiter (exophthalmos means prominent or staring eyeballs) is peculiar in this respect: The general disturbance of health is usually much more manifest than the local enlargement of the thyroid gland, if indeed the gland is appreciably enlarged at all. Many cases of exophthalmic goiter are not diagnosed properly because the goiter itself escapes observation, the nervous and circulatory symptoms overshadowing the thyroid gland disturbance.

As we have already explained in a previous article, the characteristic symptoms of exophthalmic goiter are: (1) protruding or prominent or staring, frightened-looking eyes, with widely-opened eyelids which uncover the entire iris or colored part of the eyes; (2) a fine tremor of the fingers and hands; (3) a very rapid pulse rate with frequent or more or less continuous palpitation or excitability of the heart; (4) great nervousness and restlessness. In short, the victim of exophthalmic goiter suffers severely from general symptoms and little or none from the enlargement of the thyroid gland. All of these symptoms are due to the excessive secretion of thyroid substance by the diseased gland.

In the treatment of a case of exophthalmic goiter the one indispensable agent is REST. In severe cases this means absolute rest in bed, a sort of S. Weir Mitchell rest cure. It also means avoidance of every kind of mental worry or annoyance, pleasant surroundings, gentle care and kindly management. Not that patients cannot or do not recover in time without such care, but that the over-activity of the thyroid gland is best controlled by such means. The course of exophthalmic goiter is a matter of months or years, under the best of treatment. Its onset is gradual, as a rule; and so it gradually disappears.

When rest and suitable medical treatment fail to control the disease after a reasonable trial, or when the case is severe from the start, then the question of surgical removal of a portion of the thyroid gland arises. As this is a major operation requiring great skill and judgment we would emphasize the importance of relying upon the advice of the physician who has observed and studied the individual case, in conjunction with the advice of the surgeon whom he suggests. One of the most unfortunate errors patients with exophthalmic goiter make is running off to a so-called "goiter specialist" and accepting his advice without the wise counsel of the family doctor. As already explained, the general condition, and not the condition of the thyroid gland, must be the guide in determining what is the best line of treatment.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Chilblains.

Have you any suggestions to offer a sufferer from chilblains?

Answer—We have. Send along your stamped, addressed envelope for the monograph. It also tells what to do for frostbite.

Meal Poultice Best.

We have been advised by a neighbor to keep a jar of antiphlogistine in the house to apply for burns, colds, sore throat and the like. Do you approve of the remedy?

Answer—We can see no virtues in it. We believe in the old-fashioned flaxseed meal poultice, when a poultice is needed.

Tomorrow—Cystic Goiter.

Dr Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald. All questions will be answered, whether they come from people residing in Duluth or outside, provided they comply with the rules here stated.

Jitneys Strong Competitors.

Olympia, Wash., Dec. 3.—Traction lines in Seattle, Tacoma and Bellingham, in their annual reports to the state public service commission, say that the operation of jitney busses resulted in a loss during the year of 11,350,000 fares to the companies, 9,000,000 fares having been diverted in Seattle.

BEMIDJI HAS HAD ONE YEAR OF LID

Claim Made City Has Advanced Since Government Closed Saloons.

Bemidji, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bemidji has just passed its first anniversary under dry rule with the following results: Bank deposits show an increase of $90,000; the number of arrests for the year have decreased 408 in number; the churches of the city have enjoyed an increase in membership of 222 persons; rent in the business district has failed to decrease; building improvements amount to $150,000; out of the twenty-four saloons all but two are occupied; the cost of operating the police department has been reduced $75 a month; the number of men held for drunkenness this year is 100 against 419 for the twelve preceding months; banks report an enormous increase in their savings department and say that small notes are paid when due.

ROOSEVELT MAN TO PEN.

Must Serve Several Months on an Adultery Charge.

Crookston, Minn., Dec. 3.—William Drobot of Roosevelt must serve a term of months in state penitentiary at Stillwater. He was sentenced in the district court by Judge Watts on the charge of adultery. The woman in the case, Mrs. Kanouski, was also given a prison sentence, but in her case sentence was suspended if she would return to her husband, which she finally consented to do.

Mrs. Kanouski alleged that she had been put out of her home at Baudette by her husband, and that afterwards she lived for a period of one week with Drobot in a cabin at Roosevelt.

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE FRENCH ARMIES

GOVERNMENT ACT SCORED

Seizure of Wheat Will Drive Future Shipments to United States.

American Routes Rapidly Superseding the Canadian Channels.

The action of the Canadian government in commandeering more than 17,000,000 bushels of wheat at Port Arthur and Fort William and Eastern elevators is coming in for the severe criticism of dealers throughout the dominion.

Leading operators over there have expressed the opinion that one result of the government's action in seizing Eastern stored wheat will be that exporters will in future ship more wheat south to United States ports in order to prevent shipments being held up by seizure or congestion caused by the Canadian government trying to move commandeered grain through inadequate dominion channels.

As an example of the inability to handle 17,000,000 bushels of seized wheat through Canadian ports this winter it is mentioned that St. John, N. B., is only capable of handling 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 bushels during the entire winter, and Halifax 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 bushels. It is thought improbable that the Canadian government can find a way to ship wheat out of American ports while that country is in a state of war. Even if the Portland port was used only 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 bushels could be handled there.

Rumors of an attempted corner in the Winnipeg November future as explaining the action of the government in making the seizure are stated by Montreal exporters to be without foundation.

American Outlet Gains.

How rapidly the American routes to the seaboard are superseding the Canadian ones in transporting the grain of the three Western provinces to the seaboard is shown by the fact that shipments via the St. Lawrence canals for the present season up till the end of last week were only 30,000,000 bushels as compared with 50,000,000 bushels during the same period last year when the harvest was a partial failure. Buffalo on the other hand has already elevated and shipped more than 40,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat this season and with the shutting down of the St. Lawrence river route, it is the only outlet for late wheat shipments from the Head of the Lakes Canadian wheat also goes out via Portland, and Newport News. One reason why Canadian exporters prefer the American routes is said to be that more ocean tonnage is available at ocean ports on this side so that the expedition given is much better.

Low All-Rail Rates.

In expectations of heavy grain shipments throughout the winter the Canadian government is now negotiating for an all-rail rate to the seaboard at the close of navigation. Very little grain has been shipped all-rail in the past, but if such orders as have just been placed are to be repeated a great deal of wheat must of necessity find its way to Halifax or St. John via all rail during the coming winter. The all-rail rate at present is in the neighborhood of 18 cents from Winnipeg to Quebec, as against 13 cents by rail and lake.

The government has been urged to put into effect on the National Transcontinental a 10-cent rate, but has so far not committed itself.

THOUGHT IT WAS BEER.

Motorists Lauded "Wetness" of a Town Long "Dry."

Indianapolis News: Hartford City, Ind., which had been "wet" for twenty-five years, is now "dry," but it seems all visitors to the city have not yet learned there are no regularly licensed saloons there. Some of the former saloons are now soft drink parlors. Four thirsty Muncie men who had formerly got all the beer they wished in Hartford City motored there recently and on entering a place that used to be a saloon ordered the supposed bartender to draw four beers.

"A-a-ah! That's something like," said one visitor as he drained his glass.

"Me for a 'wet' town every time," said another as he tossed off his drink.

"Nothing like a good cold glass of beer to touch the spot," commented the third.

"Fill 'em up again, Mr. Bartender," ordered the fourth in a business like manner.

Several rounds of drinks in a few minutes and the thirsty Muncie visitors waxed more appreciative after every drink.

"Let's see, this town is going dry pretty soon, isn't it?" finally asked one of the visitors.

The Muncie men agreed with one voice that it was a shame and with visions of the time when such cooling drinks would no longer be obtainable, more drinks were ordered, but they were unable to get up much steam. They left, however, never dreaming that they had been drinking "near beer" in a "dry" town. As they went out the door, one of them called to the bartender:

"Well, old man, we'll be over to see you again before you have to close up."

"All right, boys, drop in any time," replied the soft drink dispenser.

BUTTER TO GO HIGHER

Seasonable Falling Off in Production and Strong Demand the Cause.

Fruits and Vegetables Move Freely—Apple Sales Large.

Duluth consumers are likely to be compelled to pay considerably higher prices for butter within a short time, in the opinion of dealers. The upward tendency is brought about through a seasonable falling off in production in conjunction with a strong demand for diary products in the East. With returning prosperity, the public is said to be consuming more butter and its higher cost has not so far led to any appreciable dimination.

The best creamery butter is quoted today at 33@35 cents a pound, with second quality going at 30@31 cents. It is predicted in view of the strength of the New York market, that prices will be advanced another cent within a week.

Production of butter in Duluth district and in territory finding an outlet at this point, is said by the Bridgeman-Russell company and the Victor Produce company to have shown a remarkable increase during the last season. That is attributed to have been in a great measure due to a better appreciation of the advantages afforded through the service accorded on the package freight steamers equipped with refrigerator facilities. It is predicted that with a continuation of the past shipping arrangements, a large gain in tonnage handled will be recorded during the 1916 season.

No Change in Eggs.

There has been no change in egg figures, the quotation in the storage article standing at 24@25 cents a dozen. The market is firm here, but in the East it is slightly easier, attributable to warm weather for the season and to the carrying of heavy stocks in warehouses. Export inquiry has so far been light, but dealers are hopeful of putting through considerable foreign trade within the next few weeks.

Produce Trade Enormous.

Fruits and vegetables of all kinds are moving freely, according to the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company, the Stacy-Merrill Fruit company and the Culbertson Bros. company. The variety of all these edibles is wide and judging from the present demand, commission men are sanguine that the volume of business put through during the next six months will be the heaviest in their experiences.

The impetus attained through the concerted effort of the trade during "Apple week" is still being felt in that line. Sales of New York state barrel fruit are being well maintained, consumers showing anxiety to get in supplies before the inevitable advances in prices are announced.

Grapefruit is being sold in large quantities, demand being promoted by the good quality of the fruit offering. The first car of navel oranges for the season was received in Duluth this week and found ready distribution.

A good range of Florida vegetables is now offering, the list including shallots, wax beans, carrots, beets, etc.

Potatoes are higher as a result of the checking off of the movement from farms with colder weather, and the call coming from points in the Middle West where the crop was short last season. Quotations of the best potatoes are now up to 65@70 cents a bushel. Cabbage has been advanced to $12@15 a ton, but it is considered still cheap for the season.

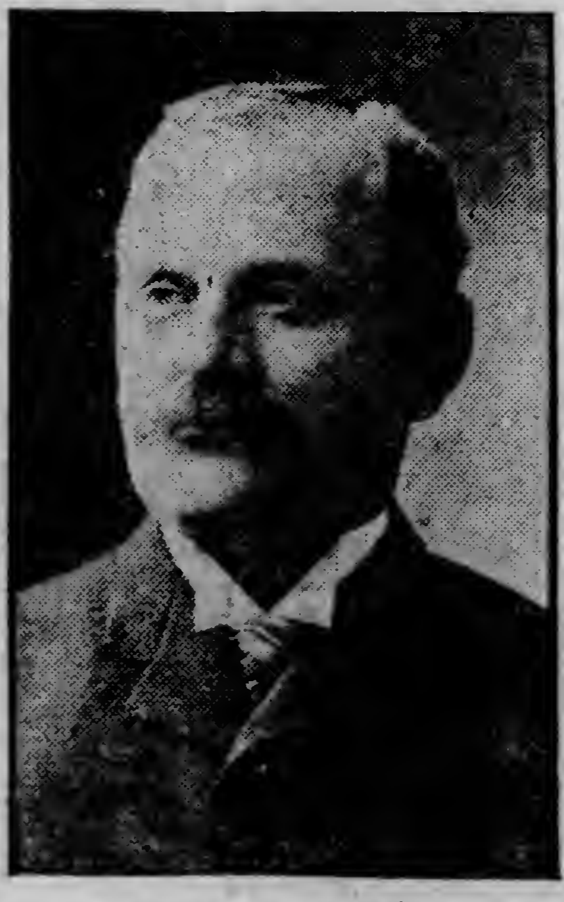
OFFICERS ELECTED BY RIVER ASSOCIATION

Thomas Wilkinson Chosen President; Byron J. Mosier One of Vice Presidents.

Quincy, Ill., Dec. 3.—At the closing session yesterday afternoon of the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association, Thomas Wilkinson of Burlington, Iowa, was elected president of the organization and other officers were chosen as follows:

Secretary L. B. Boswell, Quincy; treasurer, J. P. Eckhart, Guttenburg, Iowa; vice presidents for Minnesota, Byron J. Mosier of Stillwater; Missouri, B. H. Hanson, St. Louis; Wisconsin, William Torrance, La Crosse; Illinois, C. F. Perry, Quincy; Iowa, John Bell, Burlington.

La Crosse, Wis., was awarded the 1916 meeting of the association.



BYRON J. MOSIER,
Vice President.

At yesterday afternoon's session resolutions were adopted affirming the support of the organization of the government plan to construct a six-foot channel at low water mark from Minneapolis to the mouth of the Missouri river.

Another resolution urged the pressing need of suitable terminal facilities for the handling of both freight and passenger traffic. The association went on record as favoring the appointment by congress of a commission of experts to consider means for the proper development of the river from the standpoint of commercial navigation. It was advised that such a commission be given power to supervise construction of water craft and river terminals with a view to co-ordination in the interests of the shipping public.

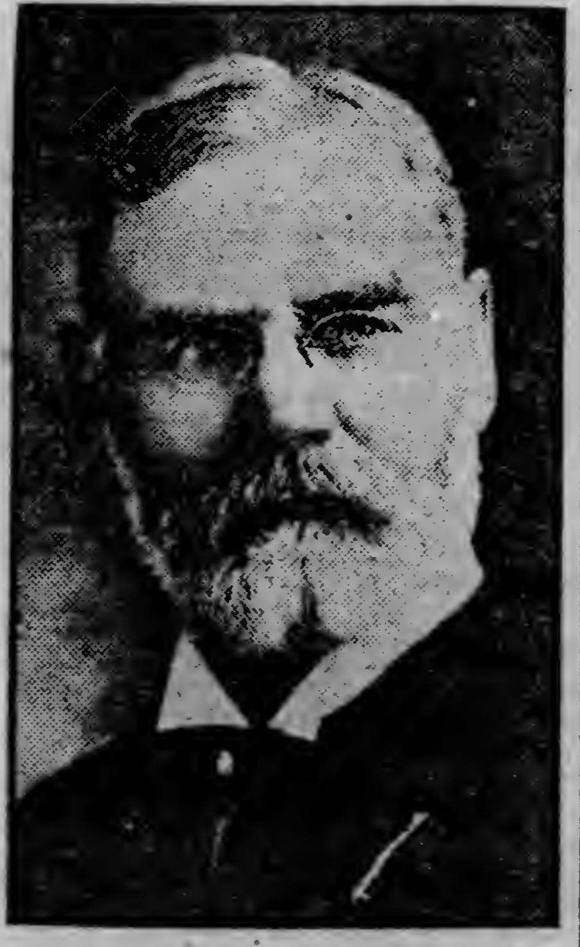
MANN CHOSEN AS MINORITY LEADER

Republican Members of Sixty-Fourth Congress Perfect Organization.

Washington, Dec. 3. — Republican members of the house last night effected their minority organization for the Sixty-fourth congress, with Representative Mann of Illinois as a candidate for speaker and thus again minority leader.

The 140 members present acted unanimously except in one instance, when Representative Cooper of Wisconsin protested unsuccessfully against the adoption of a resolution authorizing Mr. Mann to select all Republican members of committees.



JAMES R. MANN.

Mr. Cooper attacked the principle of vesting in any one person the power of naming Republican committeemen, and referred to the rules fight in the house some years ago. Representative Cannon of Illinois, who, as speaker, was shorn of some powers by that fight, was persuaded not to reply by colleagues who sought to avoid a discussion.

Representative Mann, in a speech accepting his nomination, spoke of having been invited to confer with President Wilson about national defense.

"I think it would be well," he said, "for these matters to be considered in the military and naval committees from a non-partisan standpoint, provided the Democrats are willing to work on even terms with the Republicans, calling in experts who know, but do not think that anyone except the president should prepare a program in advance and send it down to the Democrats to swallow, and then ask the Republicans to accept as non-partisan."

Representative Cannon, in his speech nominating Representative Mann, declared that the Republicans all agreed upon the necessity of enactment of new economic legislation.

TWO KANSANS GAVE UP SENATORSHIP

One Also Refused to Become Member of Taft's Cabinet.

Topeka, Kan., Dec. 3.—Only two men in the United States are known to have declined appointments to the United States senate and both were Kansas men. And the only time Kansas ever has had a chance to have a member of the president's cabinet, one of these Kansans declined that job. F. D. Coburn, then secretary of the Kansas board of agriculture, declined to be a United States senator when the place was tendered him by Governor Hoch. George R. Peck declined the same place when it was offered him by the late Governor Humphries. The Santa Fe railway needed Peck as its general attorney in Kansas more than it needed him in congress right then and just doubled his salary to keep him from going.

The only chance Kansas ever has had for a place in the president's official family came to Foster Dwight Coburn and he refused it for the same reason that he declined the senatorship—that politics was distasteful to him and he felt that he could do more good as an agricultural mentor in Kansas than as a United States senator for a few months or as a cabinet minister for a few years He refused to be secretary of agriculture in President Taft's cabinet.

MUTILATED STATUE OF EROS DISCOVERED

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Athens, Nov. 10.—A mutilated statue of Eros, discovered by French troops in the course of trench digging exercises on the island of Lemnos, may prove to be a find of great archeological importance. The statue was uncovered on the site of the ancient town of Haephestia, which once boasted 60,000 inhabitants, and the condition of the statue is said to give conclusive evidence that the city was destroyed by a terrible earthquake and not by an invader, as had heretofore been thought likely.

MOTHER'S LOVE AND FORGIVENESS HIS LEGACY

Five dollars in gold with a mother's love and forgiveness is the bequest which Lynn F. Burdoin, residing at White Salmon, Wash., will receive from the estate of his mother, Mrs. Julia Anna Burdoin, who died in Duluth on Nov. 23, last, aged 74.

The will was filed for probate yesterday afternoon. With the exception of a $5 bequest to her absent son, she leaves all of her property to her other two children, Laura L. McCullom and Sidney P. Burdoin. The latter petitioned the probate court for appointment as executor.

Says Simple Laxative Better Than Caster Oil

Case of Chronic Constipation Yields to Mild Laxative Compound.

Writing from The House of the Good Shepherd, at Sunnyside Ave., and 50th St., Seattle, where she is the guest of her life-long friend the Reverend Mother, Mrs. Mary Austin, widow of a wealthy San Franciscan, who lost everything in the fire of 1906, says she experienced speedy relief from the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and that she found this gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative more effective than several doses of castor oil.

The active principles of certain laxative herbs are combined in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to act on the eliminative organs in an easy, natural way, without griping or other discomfort. Its freedom from opiate or narcotic drug of every description, combined with its gentle action and positive effect, make it the ideal laxative for family use. Druggists everywhere sell it for fifty cents a bottle.

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be in every home for use when the occasion arises. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Here Is the Way to Do It—Make up a list of Christmas gifts such as you would like to give this year. For the best all around list that includes at least one article which can be found in each of the stores represented on this page, The Herald will give a $10.00 order. But, put the name of the store and the price beside each article.

Send Your List to the "Santa Claus" Editor of The Herald

WANT INSPECTION OF ONEOTA SCHOOL

Residents Claim Ancient Building Is Insanitary and Unsafe.

Residents of the Oneota district, whose children are attending the Oneota school, Forty-fifth avenue and Halifax street, want an inspection of the Oneota school by a deputy state fire marshal. The residents claim the building is unsafe and insanitary.

The Oneota school was one of the first school buildings built in the western end of the city. It is of frame construction with a brick veneer.

"The state fire marshal should have visited the Oneota school when he was here inspecting the Endion school," said L. C. Merritt this morning. "The Endion school is a haven of safety when compared with the building provided for the children of the Oneota district. It has no fire escapes and its stairways and halls are of such construction that a fire would have no difficulty in spreading very rapidly.

"This is not the only thing the matter with the Oneota school. It is decidedly insanitary. Its large outside box toilets built close to the building and having no sewer connections, are filthy. It is time that some attention was paid to a school attended by children of that district, who are entitled to just as much consideration as those of any other district in the city."

"SOOP'ER UP BILL."

Familiar Cry Will Be Heard in West Duluth at Nightfall.

"Soop 'er up, Bill"

The shout of the curlers will again begin to ring in West Duluth. Members of the Western Curling club expect to begin their grind of trophy games early next week and probably tonight the first practice games will be played on the local ice.

Frank H. Wade, president of the club, has been the busiest man in West Duluth during the last week trying to get four sheets of ice ready at once. In former years when he was at the head of the club he allowed the curlers to begin sliding their rocks as soon as the first ice was ready. This year he planned a "surprise" for the members by having all the sheets ready at one time.

Three of the sheets are now said to be in excellent condition and it is likely that before night the fourth will be in shape for playing. At least it is claimed that a large delegation of the members will try out the ice tonight.

The membership campaign is progressing rapidly. E. J. Zauft, chairman for the married men's committee, announced this morning that his side would easily win in the contest. Ernest Anderson, chairman of the bachelor committee, is just as confident. The contest will close Dec. 10.

BUYS THOUSAND RED CROSS SEALS

Unknown Refuses to Take "Stickers" After Paying for Them.

Ten dollars, enough to pay for 1,000 Red Cross Christmas seals, was donated by an unknown contributor yesterday afternoon.

The man, about [illegible] le aged, entered the Smith & Smith drug store and on learning that the Red Cross seals were on sale, handed the clerk a $10 bill.

"Put this in the fund," he said.

"All right," replied the clerk, "here are the stamps."

"Don't want the stamps. I just want to do my share toward helping this noble work. Greatest institution in this country."

"Very well. What is your name and address?"

"Never mind my name, and my address is anywhere in the United States."

With that the generous contributor left the store.

There are 200,000 seals now on sale in the department stores, hotels, drug stores, the city hall, schools and theaters. Public stands will be opened on Monday morning in the postoffice and at the Glass Block store.

WANTS TO SEE HER "REAL MOTHER" AFTER 19 YEARS.

Nineteen years ago Miss Esther Ehn, then a little girl, was taken from her mother and adopted by a family which soon moved from Duluth.

Today Miss Ehn is in Duluth, looking for her mother, Mrs. Andrew Ehn, whom she has not seen since that day, nineteen years ago. All trace of her has been lost and police of Duluth, Superior and the Mesaba range towns are to be asked to join in the search.

"I do so want to see her again," said Miss Ehn this morning, talking to Chief of Police R. D. McKercher, "will you help me, please?

"I would not know her if I were to see her," the daughter said, "because I was so young when I left her. She is about 65 years old now, I am told, and if I don't find her now I may never see her again."

Mrs. Ehn left Duluth some time ago and went to Tower or Ely, her daughter thought.

UP-TO-DATE COUNTY FAIR RUN BY WOMEN

Beloit, Kan., Is Shown an Event Without a Race Track, But Mighty Interesting.

Weekly Kansas City Star: The old fashioned fair in Kansas is passing. The old fashioned county fair really amounted to nothing more than a horse race. The Mitchell county fair at Beloit, Kan., is not one of the old fashioned kind. It has no horse races in its program. It has not even so much as a race track. Instead of the race horses, with their usual crowd of track followers, Beloit has given the women and children of Mitchell county the most prominent place in its county fair.

Last Wednesday was children's day at the Beloit fair, and 12,000 people attended that day to see the contests between the school kids of the county.

Beloit has found out what was the trouble with the old fashioned county fair. It was run by "men folks." No provision was made for mother and the girls. Father and the boys and horse races made a combination that ran the county fair into bankruptcy, and many of them have been closed by the sheriff.

So the women of Beloit have taken a hand in running the Mitchell county fair. "Meddling" is what the old racehorse crowd calls it.

A Place for Women.

Last Thursday at Beloit, a reporter for the Weekly Star went to the Mitchell county fair grounds through mud and rain that would have killed one of the old-time fairs dead as a doornail. It would have made a "wet track" for the week, and a "wet track" always killed the old-time fair.

When he reached the grounds the reporter was taken to a clubhouse that was as "homelike" as home itself. A big fireplace with a crackling wood fire warmed the place, and women were sitting about with needlwork and local gossip enjoying the day, while men and women who dared brave the storm walked through the comfortable, home-like place and saw exhibits that the old racehorse crowd never dreamed would be entered at a county fair.

Just across the way, connected by broad cement walks, was another building for women, filled with exhibits from the homes. These two buildings were conceived by the women of Beloit, and were built by the chautauqua association and the fair association, with the help of the women.

A New Idea in County Fairs.

The clubhouse is used for the home economics department; the other building for the art department.

The day the big crowd of 12,000 people attended the fair, the clubhouse was crowded all day with women from the country and from the town, equally interested in the proceedings. In the home economics department there were contests in cooking, preparing meals, serving luncheons. While the contests were on, lectures and teachers from the domestic science department of the state agricultural college were giving instructions to women and girls on all these topics.

The clubhouse is converted into a model home; kitchen, dining room, breakfast room and regular schools in housekeeping are maintained.

A School in Housekeeping.

Not only that, but the "correct thing" in luncheons and how to serve them, is taught. Prizes are given for the best luncheon served for four persons, say, time of preparation, efficiency, selection, cleanliness, neatness, all being considered. The meal is prepared and cooked while the crowd looks on.

Tea is served the public each afternoon from 5 o'clock to 8 o'clock in the clubhouse, and the various clubs take "turn about" serving, the country women taking their turn with the women from the town. Not only are the women benefited, but the young girls are taken in hand and taught to cook and to keep house. It is a high class school in home economics, free of charge.

All For the Home Now.

The money that used to be divided between the owners of race horses for the 2:40 class is now divided at the Mitchell county fair between the women's clubs of the county for first, second and third prizes for the best lunch, soup to dessert. There were a half dozen or more competitors for these prizes, some of them country clubs. When the judges award the prizes, the judges being selected from the domestic science department of the agricultural college, the women are told why one is better than the other and more to be desired.

The clubhouse and the department of home economics are under the direction of Mrs. Francis Wheeler Lutz, who is a leader in all the social welfare work in Beloit. Mrs. Lutz is a graduate of the Minnesota university and was the first superintendent of the Kansas Industrial school for girls at Beloit. For a number of years she was at the head of the women's department in the Chicago university.

The Women Do the Work.

But Mrs. Lutz is not alone in the work for women at Beloit. She has associated with her a large number of Beloit and Mitchell county women who are equally interested in the movement.

The women have organized a Commercial club for women, with Mrs. Frank Williams as president. The women organized this club in order to carry out some of the needed civic improvements for Beloit. Now the town has better sanitary conditions, is provided with free drinking fountains, rest rooms for women and is interested in parks. The Women's Commercial club resulted in a revival of the business men's organization, and now Beloit, with a population of only 3,000, is paving its streets and taking on the appearance of a metropolis.

Among the more active members of Beloit's real "bossters" are Mrs. Lutz, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Rachel Butler, Mrs. Alice D. Keys, Mrs. W. C. Hoffmeister and Mrs. L. D. Bell.

Contrasting the difference in the interest taken in the old time county fair and the present day fair at Beloit, Mrs. Bell said: "Ten years ago I was the superintendent of the 'domestic science' department of the Mitchell county fair. There was just one loaf of bread and two pounds of butter on display. That was the extent of the 'department.'"

SAD MISTAKE.

Chicago News: "Never do such a fool thing as that again!" said Uncle Digby. "Don't! It's all very well for a fellow to be square with the girls, but don't ever tell a girl that you don't love her and that it was all a mistake. Not unless you want to get yourself into the worst scrape you ever got into in your life.

"That might have been very well in its day. Such a thing reads well in books, but it is like the 'love at first sight' idea. It has vanished in company with the one hoss shay.

"The idea of telling a girl that you don't love her! I am surprised that a nephew of mine should be such an ass. I had a fool cousin that made a break like that once. A girl said to him: 'I have had a lovely time, Robert McNair! You have been so good to me! I never was treated better!'

"Then old stick-in-the-mud, old solid ivory, old mass of self-esteem, pulled the grand model of propriety stuff on that girl. He said: 'Well, I hope it hasn't been misunderstood.'

"She didn't know whether to kiss him or kill him. I know, because she told me so.

"Once the same girl told me that I had acted very badly and that she was much offended because I hadn't stuck around more. Did I open up and tell her that I wasn't in love with her? I should say not! I made it clear by insinuation (which is the only way of making things clear) that I had been staying away as a safety measure. That didn't hurt me a bit, and the girl got the idea that there was somebody home upstairs.

"If you don't love a girl, that is an interesting phenomenon to you and keep it to yourself. To tell that to the girl is the very last resort when you want to break away.

"In fact, if you want a girl to marry you just tell her you don't love her and she'll marry you just to prove to you that you are wrong.

"Convince her that you love her whether you do or not, and then she will begin to play out more rope and the more devoted you are the more line she will give you. And after a while she will let you go provided she thinks you are insanely crazy about her.

"There is nothing a girl hates more from a man she is sure of than having gifts sent her. Send her big things, awkward things, not delicate trifles and write her poetry."

"Is that the way you managed to remain a bachelor, uncle?" inquired the young man.

"A good guess. I haven't an enemy in the world among the ladies, for I never admitted to one in my life that I didn't love her. I don't mean to say that I told them all that I did love them. I didn't! I never told them I didn't love them, either. I never thought of doing such a foolhardy thing."

Kansas City Star: Smith—"Who is that fellow who seems so awfully popular?"

Jones—"Why, surely you must have heard of Lieut. Dash, V. C., the man who shot fifty-nine Germans, saved the life of his colonel, and, in fact, has done all the most thrilling deeds imaginable?"

Smith (greatly impressed)—"Good gracious! And you don't mean to say that that's really he?'

Jones—"Oh, no, this is Jimson, who claims to have gone to the same school some years ago."

DEATH ENDS LONG ILLNESS

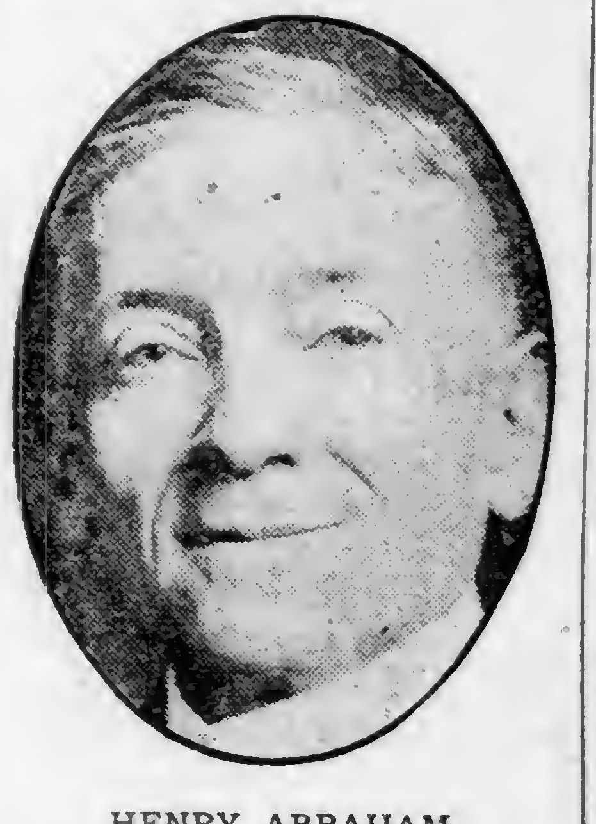
Henry Abraham, Prominent Merchant, Dies at Home.

Came From Minneapolis to Superior Quarter of Century Ago.

Henry Abraham, vice president and treasurer of the Oak Hall Clothing company and one of Duluth's most prominent retail merchants, died at his home, 2422 East Third street, shortly before 1 o'clock this morning, after an illness of eight months. He was 56 years old.

Mr. Abraham's death was not unexpected, as he has been confined to his home most of the time since last April, when his last serious illness began. A turn for the worse Sunday left but little prospect of his recovery, according to Dr. J. J. Eklund, the family physician.

Coming to Superior, Wis., from Minneapolis in 1891, Mr. Abraham became associated in the retail clothing business with his brother Albert, who lives at 1601 East Superior street. Twelve years ago they founded the Oak Hall store, now located at the corner of Second avenue west and Superior street, one of the largest retail clothing stores in the city.



HENRY ABRAHAM.

Mr. Abraham is survived by a widow, a daughter, Virginia, 10 years old; six brothers and one sister. A daughter, Rae, 18 years old, died but a few days less than a year ago.

The sister is Mrs. H. S. Stadeker of Chicago. The brothers are Albert and Isidore of Duluth, Max of Minneapolis, Lee of Superior, D. C. Abraham of Atlantic City, N. J., and Seymour of St. Louis, Mo.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, pending word from relatives, but services probably will be held Monday.

Mr. Abraham was a prominent Elk.

RUSSIAN TROOPS SAID TO HAVE ENTERED BULGARIA

with the greatest interest, for the penetration by the invaders of this part of Macedonia may threaten the flank of the allies in the Vardar and Cerna valleys, where they are on the defensive. No important events have occurred there for some time, but with Monastir in the hands of their opponents the allies may soon be engaged in an important battle.

Advancing in Montenegro.

In Montenegro, the Austrians continue their advance. Elsewhere in the Northern Balkans no heavy fighting has been reported of late.

Italy's adhesion to the agreement not to conclude a separate peace was welcome news in England, but the failure of Foreign Minister Sonnino to give more than a vague promise of military support to Serbia caused some disappointment. Little light has been thrown as yet on the mystery of Italy's policy in not declaring war on Germany.

In this connection it is noted that other nations face a similarly delicate situation. It is reported the Austrian flag, instead of the Bulgarian, was hoisted over Monastir, presumably in an effort to relieve Bulgaria of the possibility of offending Greece.

Except for Russian reports of minor successes on the Dvina, in the North, and on the Styr, in Galicia, no news has been received from the Russian front. Artillery and mining operations occupy the fighters along the Western battle line.

Fog and incessant rain are delaying operations on the Austro-Italian front. Reports from the Dardanelles indicate that the combatants are engaged almost continuously in minor encounters, which do not seem to have any marked effect on their respective positions.

against cold, and almost bomb-proof. There are quarters for the officers and for the men, officers' clubs and mess quarters, and, strangest of all, steam baths, in which the men take turns in squads at being thoroughly steamed and rubbed. They are then furnished with fresh under garments.

Camp Well Covered.

In one section inspeteed by the correspondent 2,500 men were camped in a 20-acre patch of woods, but the impression gained on a drive through the camp was of one-tenth of that number. An enemy airman would have difficulty in locating the camp at all

Food is plentiful. Not only is there a variety, but certain delicacies are served at the officers' mess. According to custom the soup served to the soldiers must first be tested by the officer in command. Three pounds of bread are served per man, a liberal quantity of meat and "kasha" or boiled buckwheat.

The men are provided with long ulsters, lambs' wool caps, good woolen underwear and stout boots.

The correspondent was struck by the universal good humor of the men. On the way to the front, train after train was passed filled with soldiers. Most of the trains were composed of freight cars fitted with bunks. At the doors and windows smiling faces appeared, the men chaffing one another.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

SYMPTOMS OF DEBILITY

People who are tired all of the time and never feel rested even after a long night in bed, who cannot regain weight and strength, whose step lacks elasticity and who feel no joy in living, are debilitated.

A medical examination might easily show that every organ of the body is acting normally but the pallor of the face will usually show that the blood is thin. This is the root of the trouble.

Debility is a loss of vitality, not affecting any one part of the body but the system generally. The blood goes to every part of the body and the use of a blood tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills quickly tones up the system. The first sign of returning health is a better appetite, improved digestion, a quicker step, brighter eyes, better color in the cheeks. The rich, red blood, reaching every organ and muscle, carries renewed health and vigor. The nerves are quieted, sleep becomes more refreshing and with persistent treatment and proper living the debilitated patient is once more enabled to enjoy life.

Two useful books, "Building Up the Blood" and "What to Eat" will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

regarding the action in the Hocking case led officials here to believe that Great Britain intends to take over for its own use, other vessels of the fleet owned by the American Trans-Atlantic company, if it has not done so already. The company has informed the state department that its ship Genesee at St. Lucia, West Indies, had been requisitioned and the Kankakee, bound for Port Stanley, Falkland Islands, in charge of a prize crew from the British cruiser Macedonian, will be requistioned upon her arrival at port. Representations regarding the Hocking probably will include also the cases of the Genesee and the Kankakee.

Cannot Accept Action.

Attorneys acting for Great Britain in the cases, base their motions for orders of requisition upon a British order in council issued April 29, which the United States is not prepared to accept as in accordance with international law.

The state department now is awaiting a report from Ambassador Page at London who, after the department had received unofficial intimation of the intention of the British government, was instructed to inquire into the matter and to enter a vigorous protest if he found that requisition was contemplated. Although no information had been received from Ambassador Page last night, it was presumed by department officials that he had received confirmation in London. The department desires to know just what action Mr. Page has taken before determining what form further representations shall take.

Consul General Young's dispatch said that when the order allowing requisition was granted by the prize court in Halifax, it was stipulated that the crown should give a covenant for the appraised value of the ship. The crown agrees to pay the amount of the appraisement into the court, should final adjudication in the case be against the British government. Dispatches received by Counselor Polk of the state department from attorneys for the American Transatlantic company, however, stated that in the case of the Genesee the undertaking had been fixed at $45,000.

troops are expected to arrive from Nogales during the day.

Gen. Alvaro Obregon, the Carranza commander-in-chief, stated that he expected to use these troops to guard the Nacozari railroad south of Agua Prieta and also to garrison Nacozari and El Tigre, the American owned mining camp.

This move was due, it was said, to a rumor that Gen. Jose Rodriguez, the Villa commander, is planning to break through the Carranza lines and move toward Chihuahua.

The whereabouts of Gen. Francisco Villa has become more puzzling than ever to Gen. Alvaro Obregon, the Carranza commander, who said that what appeared to be the most reliable report states that Villa with about 2,000 of his followers, is in the mountainous region near Querobabi, east of Hermosillo.

by the British while on his errand of relief and is at the present time a prisoner in a Canadian detention camp.

Take Verdict Calmly.

The four defendants took the verdict calmly. After the jury had filed out, Dr. Buenz turned to Kotter, sitting at his left, and rising, shook hands, "Auf Wiedersehen," he said and Kotter repeated the words. Hachmeister sat silent. Poppinghaus, tall, athletic, youngest of the four, rose to his full height and smiled.

"I do not care," he said in broken English. "This is not the last word."

Defendants' counsel was silent as to the verdict. Roger B. Wood, the assistant United States district attorney, who conducted the government's case, said:

"This verdict means only one thing, that the laws of the United States must be observed by citizens of all the belligerent powers; that if our laws are violated by any one of them and the American government finds it out they will be prosecuted."

The trial of Dr. Buenz and his three associates was the culmination of an investigation begun last winter by agents of the department of justice into the chartering and sailing of certain neutral vessels from American ports in August, September and December, 1914. The vessels, 16 in all, sailed for South American and African ports, and in two cases, Cadiz, Spain from New York, Philadelphia, Newport News, Pensacola and New Orleans.

In some cases, the vessels showed up at points other than their destination, in other instances were captured by allied warships many miles out of their course, and in one case—the American steamer Berwind, actually transferred supplies to two German converted cruisers.

In every case, German supercargo, supreme in command, sailed and directed or sought to direct the vessel's movements when she reached the high seas.

TURKS HIT BRITISH CRUISER THREE TIMES

Constantinople Report Says Ship Forced to Retire From Action.

Constantinople, Dec. 3, via London.—The Turkish war office announced today that in the fighting at the Dardanelles a cruiser of the allies had been hit three times and forced to retire. An allied torpedo boat was attacked by a Turkish aeroplane after it had stranded on the coast of the Bay of Saros.

The statement follows:

"At some points of the Dardanelles front there has been fierce fighting with bombs. Two hostile cruisers near Anafarta and two near Ari Burnu participated with land batteries in a bombardment. Our artillery replied, damaging trenches of the enemy and destroying machine gun positions at Ari Burnu.

"Our artillery thrice hit a hostile cruiser near Seddul Bahr, compelling it to retreat. One of our aeroplanes dropped bombs on a torpedo boat of the enemy which had stranded on the northern coast of the gulf of Saros, two miles west of Cape Eridsche."

CARRY STOMACH JOY IN YOUR VEST POCKET

Here's a Dyspepsia Remedy That Is Really Guaranteed By Your Own Druggist.

One of the greatest successes in the sale of medicine has been achieved by Mi-o-na, the standard dyspepsia remedy, and its sale is increasing so rapidly that many druggists have hard work to keep a stock on hand. It is very popular with bankers, ministers, lawyers and others whose business or profession keeps them closely confined, while those who have brought on indigestion through irregular eating, worry, or other causes, have found relief in this reliable remedy.

Mi-o-na comes in tablet form and is sold in a metal box especially designed for convenience in carrying the medicine in the pocket or purse. It is pleasant to take, gives quick relief and should help any case, no matter of how long a standing. This remedy has been so uniformly successful that all druggists are authorized to sell Mi-o-na under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it should not prove entirely satisfactory. We doubt if any other dyspepsia medicine ever had a large enough percentage of cures so that it could be sold in this manner. A guarantee like this speaks volumes for the merit of the remedy.

There is no time like the present to do a thing that ought to be done. If any one has dyspepsia, today is the best time to begin curing it by going to Boyce Drug store or any leading druggist in this vicinity and buying a box of Mi-o-na on this money back guarantee.

HEAVILY LOADED SHIP TORPEDOED

Langton Hall Believed to Have Had Cargo Worth Half Million.

London, Dec. 3.—The British steamship Langton Hall has been sunk. Part of her crew has reached land.

The Langton Hall evidently was another victim of the submarine campaign in the Mediterranean. She left Calcutta Oct. 28 for Philadelphia and New York, and was reported at Suez on Nov. 23. She was owned by the Hall line of Liverpool, was 377 feet long, built in 1905, and of 4,437 tons gross.

Known in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Dec. 3.—Agents in this city of the British steamer Langton Hall, sunk in the Mediterranean war zone, understand that the vessel was heavily loaded with a general cargo made up mostly of jute, goat and other skins, burlap and cocoanut oil. These cargoes are usually very valuable, and it is believed the Langton Hall's was worth about $500,000.

The fact that the Langton Hall had been sunk was privately known in marine insurance circles here yesterday, but nothing was permitted to reach the public until today's press cable message arrived.

D., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers of this section have lost thousands of bushels of grain to thieves who have operated successfully till Thornton Farrell, aged 20, of Tulsa, Okla., and Howard Simmons, aged 19, of Bonelta, S. D., were captured after being detected in the act of raiding an open grain bin.

Yesterday the men were given short jail sentences after pleading guilty.

CAMERA SHOWS FIRST IRON BEING TAPPED FROM THE BLAST FURNACE AT THE DULUTH STEEL PLANT

The accompanying photograph was taken a few minutes after the tapping of the first heat from the blast furnace at the Duluth steel plant shortly after 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 1. The molten metal is to be seen running in a small stream into one of the 60-ton ladles which will be used to carry the metal to the mixer at the open hearth furnace building.

The iron marked the first production of material for steel making at the monster plant. Heats have been taken off at regular intervals since that time and officials say that within a short time the composition of the iron will be of a quality to make high grade steel.

Several of the ladles or vats for receiving the molten metal have been provided for handling the product from the blast furnaces. These are built on specially constructed cars and are handled by means of a large electric engine which will move them in or out from the tap at the furnace and to and from the open hearth furnace building.

"Safety First."

These engines are also of special construction and built especially to guard the operators against accidents or the possibility of coming in contact with the excessive heat. The arrangements for pulling off the heat at the furnace and receiving the metal in the ladles are such that the liability of accidents to employes is remote and they are likely to occur only because of carelessness of the workmen.

Steel will, it is believed by officials, make its first appearance at the plant on Tuesday. Workmen are now putting on the finishing touches to the blooming mill. The powerful 12,000-horse power reversing engine, which will operate the machinery of the blooming mill, is said to be in first-class condition and ready to operate on a moment's notice. Tests of its operating qualities have already been made.

The monster jaws of the blooming mill which will be the first to receive the steel ingot after it has received its "bath" in the soaking pits are instalaled. After the ingot has been reduced to the proper thickness for billets by a process of operation forward and back through the rollers it will be cut into lengths by monster clippers. The steel is then in billets and will be ready for reheating in the furnaces and rolled into merchantable steel or laid away for future use.

The powerful blooming mill engine, while rated as having a normal capacity of 12,000 horse power, will under a strain furnish 20,000 horse power.

SPENT $120,000 TO BLOCK GRAND TRUNK

Success of Deal Cause of New Haven Investigation By Federal Authorities.

New York, Dec. 3.—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, admitted on the stand at the trial of the eleven former directors of the road, that $120,000 in New Haven money had been spent in publicity and lawyers' efforts to block proposed extensions of the Grand Trunk railway of Canada into New England. He also testified that after bargaining over a period of four years, the two roads finally reached in November, 1913, a traffic agreement, and that coincidentally the Grand Trunk gave up its proposed extension from Palmer, Mass., to Providence, R. I., and the New Haven abandoned on the same day a plan to parallel the Grand Trunk's lines in Vermont.

This is the agreement upon which the United States government scarcely a week after it was reached, caused the Federal grand jury in New York to investigate with the result that Mellen, Edson J. Chamberlain, president of the Grand Trunk, and Alfred W. Smithers, chairman, were indicted under the Sherman law. The indictment was dropped, but the charges contained therein form perhaps the most important of the allegations against the defendants in this case.

He was married but his wife died many years ago.

COURT DEFINES RAILROAD'S DUTY

North Dakota Supreme Court Rules in Personal Injury Case.

Bismarck, N. D., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The railroad's duty in determining whether or not there is danger of running over anybody when starting an engine or train when such engine or train is on a public street, is clearly defined by the laws of North Dakota, says the supreme court of the state in its decision in the case of Olmfreder Severtson vs. the Northern Pacific railroad.

The court also holds that Judge Kneeshaw, when he directed a verdict for the defendant railroad, erred, in that it was a question for the jury to determine, and not a question of law, the point on which the directed verdict had been ordered being that of contributory negligence on the part of Severtson.

Hurt in Grafton.

Severtson's suit grows out of an accident on a street in Grafton, N. D. He was run down by a train, the train being started suddenly while he was crossing the rails about six feet from the car. He struggled to avoid getting hurt, but was run down.

During the trial there was sharp dispute as to the facts surrounding negligence. These were facts, says the supreme court, that should have been submitted to the jury for determination. The law, says the court, is clear and entirely binding upon the railroad company, so far as its duty to protect pedestrians is concerned.

AUTHOR'S SON HAS HARD TIME TO LEAVE ENGLAND

DERWENT HALL CAINE.

Derwent Hall Caine ,the son of the well-known author Hall Caine, arrived in New York recently bringing some of his father's plays for production here. He had been declared by a physician unfit for service, but under the new law which forbids British subjects of service age to leave the kingdom, he was held up when the steamer was about to sail and had to undergo another examination.

DYES AND DRUGS NOW MADE IN AMERICA

Industries Rapidly Increasing Since Foreign Supply Is Cut Off.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 3.—Dr. Raymond F. Bacon, director of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research of the University of Pittsburgh, in a speech yesterday declared that the hundred most essential dyes and the hundred most needed drugs, the supply of which had been cut off by the European war, are now being made in the United States. He said America did not intend at present to make the thousands of coal tar dyes and medicinal products which have been made in Germany, but the most important ones will be made here. As an instance of the rapid growth of the chemical industry in this country, he said that four companies have recently been formed in the Pittsburgh district, and that two of the plants have already been opened.

"If reasonable government protection can be given to the industry in its early stages American technical skill will show itself able to build up in America a chemical industry which will be sufficient to take care of American needs and to get its share of world trade," Dr. Bacon declared.

Oakfield Towed Into Port.

London, Dec. 3.—The British steamship Oakfield, reported recently to be drifting in a disabled condition at a point about 600 miles southeast of Cape Race, N. F., was towed into St. Michaels today. The Oakfield, which was bound from West Hartlepool, England, for an American port, lost her propeller blade. The Wilson liner Marengo from New York for Hull, which stranded on Goodwin Sands, has been floated and proceeded on her voyage.

"Binney" and "Binks" Have Been Patented

"Binney" and "Binks" have been patented. Binney and Binks are the dolls that were invented by Miss Frances Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harrington of 3240 Minnesota avenue, who got her idea from the make-shift dolls that were doing their comforting of refugee Belgian children. They made their bow to Duluth young folk a short time before last Christmas, when the Binney ones, in gingham trousers and waists, and the Binks ones, in gingham dresses gazed solemnly out of painted eyes under hair that would not get out of order because it was of cloth stitched firmly to their "skin," which covered soft, cuddly pillows that made them suitable for very small children, especially as bed-time playthings.

The patent has just been granted to Miss Harrington, though the dolls have been manufactured in New York since last June by E. I. Norman, who controls the manufacture in this country of all cloth and unbreakable dolls and of Teddy bears. Miss Harrington has received her first royalty from the sale of the dolls. The Butterick Pattern company offered to buy the pattern, but this could not be done as the manufacturer has reserved all rights.

In Memory of Two Greatly Loved Women

Members of Woman's Council Pay Tribute to Life and Character of Mrs. Woodbridge and Mrs. LeSure.

Tributes were paid to the memory of Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge and Mrs. C. J. Le Sure at the Woman's council meeting, held this morning in the library clubroom. Mrs. Woodbridge, as organizer and president, and Mrs. Le Sure, as chairman of the dental clinic committee, occupied important positions in the organization and the sincere praises given by the women who worked with them showed the great esteem in which they were held.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. L. Washburn, who knew Mrs. Woodbridge twenty-five years and was intimately associated with her in council work. Speaking of Mrs. Woodbridge and Mrs. Le Sure, Mrs. Washburn said:

"As members of the Woman's council they were of invaluable service. When you asked them to do anything you felt sure it would be done. To have enjoyed the friendship of these two women was indeed to be honored."

Others who paid their tributes were: Mrs. T. J. Davis, Miss Julia Ensign, Mrs. F. J. O'Donnell, Mrs. John D. Morrison, Mrs. C. E. Spring, Mrs. A. A. Kerr and Mrs. C. A. Smith.

Mrs. Davis' Tribute.

Mrs. Davis spoke of Mrs. Woodbridge's being the first one to welcome her to Duluth twenty-eight years ago, of her broad, genial spirit and hearty co-operation. She told how Mrs. LeSure's last message was one of humanity, as only two days before her death she responded to a call to help some children and had someone call up to see that her directions had been carried out.

Miss Ensign, with her sister, used to go to Mrs. Woodbridge every day for lessons, was later in her Sunday school class, was secretary of the Woman's council when Mrs. Woodbridge was president, and was associated with her in the Ladies' Literature class and the D. A. R. "She represented us at many D. A. R. councils," she said, "and we were always proud to have such a representative."

Mrs. F. J. O'Donnell, who was recording secretary of the Woman's council the last two years when Mrs. Woodbridge was president, and who was closely associated with Mrs. Le Sure in the dental clinic work, said:

"It seems eminently fitting that we should pause long enough to pay a tribute to the memory of our absent members.

"During my term of office I learned to love Mrs. Woodbridge not only as a superior officer, but as a friend. Her chief characteristic was her simplicity, and this, with her other qualifications, made her an ideal officer. She regarded her work in the Woman's council as a sacred duty as she realized the work there is for women to do. I think I never saw her so happy as on several occasions when I spoke to her of the harmony that existed in the Woman's council.

"I am glad to pay a tribute to Mrs. Le Sure. She had studied the subject of the dental clinic from every angle. She was a very retiring woman, but she asked favors for the clinic that she would not have asked for anything else. Her interest in it was so great that she never ceased. I feel the dental clinic is due to her and I think it would be fitting for a tablet to be placed in the room set aside for that purpose, bearing the inscription, 'Given by the Woman's council in memory of Mrs. C. J. Le Sure.'"

Studied Civic Problems.

Mrs. Morrison, who was vice president during one of Mrs. Woodbridge's terms of office, said she did not think anyone ever went to Mrs. Woodbridge for anything for the good of the city that she did not give her best possible thought to it. "Many persons will do things if they are planned for them, but Mrs. Woodbridge thought things out. She was 'sweetly reasonable,' as she tried to look at matters from the viewpoint of others."

Mrs. Morrison spoke of the cheerful and untiring work of Mrs. Le Sure for the neighborhood house of the Twentieth Century club, how she could not take an active part in the work at the house but discharged the hard task of procuring teachers for the sewing classes.

"I never heard her say an unkind thing of any person," was the tribute paid to Mrs. Le Sure by Mrs. C. E. Spring, president of the Woman's council.

Mrs. Spring said of Mrs. Woodbridge, who was a charter member of the Ladies' Literature class, the oldest woman's club in the city, and who was active in it until two years ago when she again accepted the presidency of the Woman's council, "I never heard her say, 'I am not prepared' at any lesson. She had a youthful spirit and progressive ideas."

Mrs. A. A. Kerr spoke of the work of Mrs. Woodbridge as president and of Mrs. Le Sure, who in her efforts to secure a free dental clinic "saw a vision of a healthier and happier childhood."

The last speaker was Mrs. C. A. Smith, who told of the great sincerity and simplicity of Mrs. Woodbridge and of her keen sense of humor.

WOMAN SLAVERY ON FARMS NEAR LONDON

Mothers Have to Do Rough Field Work to Hold Husband's Employment.

Harold Begbie in the London Chronicle: There has been trouble with the farmer. The farmer said to the laborer one day, "Why is your wife not in the hopfields?" The laborer answered, "She's ill at home." "I can't help that," said the farmer; "anyone who occupies a cottage of mine has got to tie up the hops; you know that well enough." The man went home and talked it over with his wife. They decided to look for another job. Better wages were offered to them in a village further south, and today they are going away with their furniture on a wagon.

The man has been earning sixteen shillings a week. He pays nothing for his cottage, but the freedom of the cottage entitles the farmer to call upon his wife for the work of hop-tying. The hops have to be tied, three times, and the women are paid sixteen shillings an acre, providing their own rushes. Between the first two tyings the women are allowed one day off for their washing. This woman, starting in the last week of April, had been twice over her acre of 1,200 "hills" by May 23. The farmer gave her eight shillings. Unhappily the children were ill and could not be sent to school; the woman had to take them with her into the fields, and she says that she paid more than the eight shillings she earned by the month's hard work in repairs for their boots. You can understand that there was a disposition on the part of man and wife to look out for something rather better.

Is it not in the nature of slavery that a woman should be forced into the fields, that she should be compelled to do very hard, rough work for her husband's employer, and that she should have no voice in the matter of her wages? This particular woman is a very poor specimen of the human race; she suffers from terrible neuralgia pains in the head—affecting her eyesight badly; her cottage was not a pleasant place to visit; she seemed to have no heart for her life. But to go twice over an acre of 1,200 "hills," finding her own rushes, and to be paid eight shillings at the end—this strikes one as cruel and wicked.

Where the hops are grown on wires the women are paid eight shillings a week; but no one can say that eight shillings a week is a reasonable wage. And where the work has to be done at the peril of the husband's employment, at the peril of being turned out of house and home—even a house which is like a dog-hole—one may justly say that the thing partakes of the nature of slavery.

This woman was once employed by another woman of higher class, but when the hop-tying season came she had to leave this work, had to give up her higher wages and had to go into the fields. The daughter of another cattager, earning fair wages in a laundry, had to relinquish this employment and accept what the farmer paid for hop-tying. They have no freedom in the matter.

But what strikes me in this scandal of woman slavery is the silence of public opinion. Here in a very prosperous village, crowded with rich residents, and not very far from London, a woman can be forced to do this ill-paid field labor without one word of condemnation by the church. An admirable attempt is being made by the new Church of England newspaper, the Challenge, to create a communal spirit, to restore the essential character of brotherhood, to make the church realize her duty to the poor. But how difficult that is! The church in this particular village is very much alive. The services are more beautiful and reverent than any I have ever experienced in country districts. The rich give large sums of money. The clergyman is devout. You would be astonished by the Catholic spirit of the Eucharist. But who knows, who cares, that women can be forced, like slaves, to do field labor, and that they are paid like the victim of the worst sweaters in London slums?

Would you not think that the whole village would be up in arms about this state of things? On the contrary, there was never a more quiescent village in England. We go to our tennis and our tea parties, we go to our church service, and on our way we see dreadful women all twisted out of gracious lines and dressed in horrible rags, and we do not say to ourselves, "These are veritable sisters." No; we say to ourselves, "There is that awful Mrs.——; what an untidy creature she is; really, she is scarcely human."

The astonishing thing about it all is this, the slavery is here under our very eyes. The children of these women go to our village school. Their piteous poverty is always before us. We cannot go through the village without passing a man who is working from morning to night for fifteen shillings or sixteen shillings a week. We are not living in one-quarter of the village and they in another. We do not go to one church and they to another. We share railway station, postoffice, fieldpath and road. We know each other by name. We greet as we pass. We are only a few hundreds all taken together. But slavery is here in our midst. Sweating goes on under our very eyes. And not one voice is raised in protest.

Some of us say, "It is shocking." We talk about these things, and agree that they are scandalous. But we do nothing to end the system. What shall we do? What can we do?

AN UNDERBIDDER.

New York Times: "Ye'll excuse me, captain," said O'Harrity, addressing the commander of the battleship, "but is ut thrue ut costs sivin hundred dollars to fire wan o' thim big guns?"

"Yes, O'Harrity," said the captain. Why do you ask?"

"Oo, t'ought Oi might save yez some money, sorr," said O'Harrity. "Sure, and Oi'll fire 'em for yez for tin."

Peggy Peabody's Observations

On Rearing Large Families.

The theory of Professor Carver, the Harvard economist, that those who can afford to rear large families should do so, while the poor should limit their offspring to the one or two that they can safely support, is a good one so far as it goes.

It has occurred to the most casual observer of human beings and economics that if conditions regarding the size of the family could be reversed — the rich sheltering the large families and the poor the small ones—much suffering and crime might be averted. Then the standard of humanity would advance, and we would be on the road to dreamed-of and hoped-for conditions. But regulating the size of the family has come, thus far, through education, and it has been from the wrong end for that reason.

Supposing it could be arranged so that children were acquired in proportion to the contents of the family purse. This would not necessarily insure always the development of the best men and women. It would prevent abuse and suffering, and give every child a chance in the world under normal, healthy conditions.

There is nothing to be said in defense of brutal poverty—the poverty that does not let anything good live. Yet poverty has been an obstacle overcome by many, and proved the making of many fine, talented, helpful men and women, as well as many of the world's greatest. I am far from satisfied that the world would be so much better if the majority of children were born into homes of comparative comfort. Always from the depths will rise the rarest.

Still those with means should do their full part by their own or other children. The poverty that permits little children to suffer is one of our greatest disgraces.

KITCHEN DRESSES.

Working Clothes Can Look Just as Well as Others.

Florence Haines-Reed in the Mother's Magazine: Many women adept in selecting street, afternoon or evening clothes fall short in the matter of choosing suitable garments for wear in the kitchen. They think torn, soiled shirtwaists, half worn, greasy skirts and buttonless, down-at-the-heel boots good enough for the kitchen, or they wear the cheap, ugly frocks and aprons that are sold in numberless thousands.

Unless laundry work or scrubbing is to be done, there is no reason why working clothes should not be as pretty as other clothes. This does not mean as expensive, but prettier materials can be bought for the same money. If women will search the wash goods counters they will find a bewildering array of pretty prints, ginghams, linens, crepes, batistes and lawns, all low in price, and many suitable for house wear.

A pale pink, blue or lavender dress is much more to be desired than an ugly dark one. Trimmed with bits of moderate priced lace, it can be made to look far removed from the tiresome wrapper or house dress of coarse material and outlandish fashion. The same with aprons. Why homely materials when there are so many light checks and figured cloths that can be made into bungalow aprons or jaunty breakfast, afternoon or tea aprons?

Women—Young women especially—should see that their house dresses and aprons are fresh and good to look at.

Light colored kitchen clothing does not soil any more rapidly than dark. The only difference is that light clothes show the dirt more quickly.

Light colored clothes are just as easy to launder as dark, and they have the added advantage of looking prettier after ironing. It pays to look fresh, crisp and clean even when you must be engaged in household duties.

"Binney" and "Binks" Have Been Patented

"Binney" and "Binks" have been patented. Binney and Binks are the dolls that were invented by Miss Frances Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harrington of 3240 Minnesota avenue, who got her idea from the make-shift dolls that were doing their comforting of refugee Belgian children. They made their bow to Duluth young folk a short time before last Christmas, when the Binney ones, in gingham trousers and waists, and the Binks ones, in gingham dresses gazed solemnly out of painted eyes under hair that would not get out of order because it was of cloth stitched firmly to their "skin," which covered soft, cuddly pillows that made them suitable for very small children, especially as bed-time playthings.

The patent has just been granted to Miss Harrington, though the dolls have been manufactured in New York since last June by E. I. Norman, who controls the manufacture in this country of all cloth and unbreakable dolls and of Teddy bears. Miss Harrington has received her first royalty from the sale of the dolls. The Butterick Pattern company offered to buy the pattern, but this could not be done as the manufacturer has reserved all rights.

In Memory of Two Greatly Loved Women

Members of Woman's Council Pay Tribute to Life and Character of Mrs. Woodbridge and Mrs. LeSure.

Tributes were paid to the memory of Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge and Mrs. C. J. Le Sure at the Woman's council meeting, held this morning in the library clubroom. Mrs. Woodbridge, as organizer and president, and Mrs. Le Sure, as chairman of the dental clinic committee, occupied important positions in the organization and the sincere praises given by the women who worked with them showed the great esteem in which they were held.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. L. Washburn, who knew Mrs. Woodbridge twenty-five years and was intimately associated with her in council work. Speaking of Mrs. Woodbridge and Mrs. Le Sure, Mrs. Washburn said:

"As members of the Woman's council they were of invaluable service. When you asked them to do anything you felt sure it would be done. To have enjoyed the friendship of these two women was indeed to be honored."

Others who paid their tributes were: Mrs. T. J. Davis, Miss Julia Ensign, Mrs. F. J. O'Donnell, Mrs. John D. Morrison, Mrs. C. E. Spring, Mrs. A. A. Kerr and Mrs. C. A. Smith.

Mrs. Davis' Tribute.

Mrs. Davis spoke of Mrs. Woodbridge's being the first one to welcome her to Duluth twenty-eight years ago, of her broad, genial spirit and hearty co-operation. She told how Mrs. LeSure's last message was one of humanity, as only two days before her death she responded to a call to help some children and had someone call up to see that her directions had been carried out.

Miss Ensign, with her sister, used to go to Mrs. Woodbridge every day for lessons, was later in her Sunday school class, was secretary of the Woman's council when Mrs. Woodbridge was president, and was associated with her in the Ladies' Literature class and the D. A. R. "She represented us at many D. A. R. councils," she said, "and we were always proud to have such a representative."

Mrs. F. J. O'Donnell, who was recording secretary of the Woman's council the last two years when Mrs. Woodbridge was president, and who was closely associated with Mrs. Le Sure in the dental clinic work, said:

"It seems eminently fitting that we should pause long enough to pay a tribute to the memory of our absent members.

"During my term of office I learned to love Mrs. Woodbridge not only as a superior officer, but as a friend. Her chief characteristic was her simplicity, and this, with her other qualifications, made her an ideal officer. She regarded her work in the Woman's council as a sacred duty as she realized the work there is for women to do. I think I never saw her so happy as on several occasions when I spoke to her of the harmony that existed in the Woman's council.

"I am glad to pay a tribute to Mrs. Le Sure. She had studied the subject of the dental clinic from every angle. She was a very retiring woman, but she asked favors for the clinic that she would not have asked for anything else. Her interest in it was so great that she never ceased. I feel the dental clinic is due to her and I think it would be fitting for a tablet to be placed in the room set aside for that purpose, bearing the inscription, 'Given by the Woman's council in memory of Mrs. C. J. Le Sure.'"

Studied Civic Problems.

Mrs. Morrison, who was vice president during one of Mrs. Woodbridge's terms of office, said she did not think anyone ever went to Mrs. Woodbridge for anything for the good of the city that she did not give her best possible thought to it. "Many persons will do things if they are planned for them, but Mrs. Woodbridge thought things out. She was 'sweetly reasonable,' as she tried to look at matters from the viewpoint of others."

Mrs. Morrison spoke of the cheerful and untiring work of Mrs. Le Sure for the neighborhood house of the Twentieth Century club, how she could not take an active part in the work at the house but discharged the hard task of procuring teachers for the sewing classes.

"I never heard her say an unkind thing of any person," was the tribute paid to Mrs. Le Sure by Mrs. C. E. Spring, president of the Woman's council.

Mrs. Spring said of Mrs. Woodbridge, who was a charter member of the Ladies' Literature class, the oldest woman's club in the city, and who was active in it until two years ago when she again accepted the presidency of the Woman's council, "I never heard her say, 'I am not prepared' at any lesson. She had a youthful spirit and progressive ideas."

Mrs. A. A. Kerr spoke of the work of Mrs. Woodbridge as president and of Mrs. Le Sure, who in her efforts to secure a free dental clinic "saw a vision of a healthier and happier childhood."

The last speaker was Mrs. C. A. Smith, who told of the great sincerity and simplicity of Mrs. Woodbridge and of her keen sense of humor.

WOMAN SLAVERY ON FARMS NEAR LONDON

Mothers Have to Do Rough Field Work to Hold Husband's Employment.

Harold Begbie in the London Chronicle: There has been trouble with the farmer. The farmer said to the laborer one day, "Why is your wife not in the hopfields?" The laborer answered, "She's ill at home." "I can't help that," said the farmer; "anyone who occupies a cottage of mine has got to tie up the hops; you know that well enough." The man went home and talked it over with his wife. They decided to look for another job. Better wages were offered to them in a village further south, and today they are going away with their furniture on a wagon.

The man has been earning sixteen shillings a week. He pays nothing for his cottage, but the freedom of the cottage entitles the farmer to call upon his wife for the work of hop-tying. The hops have to be tied, three times, and the women are paid sixteen shillings an acre, providing their own rushes. Between the first two tyings the women are allowed one day off for their washing. This woman, starting in the last week of April, had been twice over her acre of 1,200 "hills" by May 23. The farmer gave her eight shillings. Unhappily the children were ill and could not be sent to school; the woman had to take them with her into the fields, and she says that she paid more than the eight shillings she earned by the month's hard work in repairs for their boots. You can understand that there was a disposition on the part of man and wife to look out for something rather better.

Is it not in the nature of slavery that a woman should be forced into the fields, that she should be compelled to do very hard, rough work for her husband's employer, and that she should have no voice in the matter of her wages? This particular woman is a very poor specimen of the human race; she suffers from terrible neuralgia pains in the head—affecting her eyesight badly; her cottage was not a pleasant place to visit; she seemed to have no heart for her life. But to go twice over an acre of 1,200 "hills," finding her own rushes, and to be paid eight shillings at the end—this strikes one as cruel and wicked.

Where the hops are grown on wires the women are paid eight shillings a week; but no one can say that eight shillings a week is a reasonable wage. And where the work has to be done at the peril of the husband's employment, at the peril of being turned out of house and home—even a house which is like a dog-hole—one may justly say that the thing partakes of the nature of slavery.

This woman was once employed by another woman of higher class, but when the hop-tying season came she had to leave this work, had to give up her higher wages and had to go into the fields. The daughter of another cattager, earning fair wages in a laundry, had to relinquish this employment and accept what the farmer paid for hop-tying. They have no freedom in the matter.

But what strikes me in this scandal of woman slavery is the silence of public opinion. Here in a very prosperous village, crowded with rich residents, and not very far from London, a woman can be forced to do this ill-paid field labor without one word of condemnation by the church. An admirable attempt is being made by the new Church of England newspaper, the Challenge, to create a communal spirit, to restore the essential character of brotherhood, to make the church realize her duty to the poor. But how difficult that is! The church in this particular village is very much alive. The services are more beautiful and reverent than any I have ever experienced in country districts. The rich give large sums of money. The clergyman is devout. You would be astonished by the Catholic spirit of the Eucharist. But who knows, who cares, that women can be forced, like slaves, to do field labor, and that they are paid like the victim of the worst sweaters in London slums?

Would you not think that the whole village would be up in arms about this state of things? On the contrary, there was never a more quiescent village in England. We go to our tennis and our tea parties, we go to our church service, and on our way we see dreadful women all twisted out of gracious lines and dressed in horrible rags, and we do not say to ourselves, "These are veritable sisters." No; we say to ourselves, "There is that awful Mrs.——; what an untidy creature she is; really, she is scarcely human."

The astonishing thing about it all is this, the slavery is here under our very eyes. The children of these women go to our village school. Their piteous poverty is always before us. We cannot go through the village without passing a man who is working from morning to night for fifteen shillings or sixteen shillings a week. We are not living in one-quarter of the village and they in another. We do not go to one church and they to another. We share railway station, postoffice, fieldpath and road. We know each other by name. We greet as we pass. We are only a few hundreds all taken together. But slavery is here in our midst. Sweating goes on under our very eyes. And not one voice is raised in protest.

Some of us say, "It is shocking." We talk about these things, and agree that they are scandalous. But we do nothing to end the system. What shall we do? What can we do?

AN UNDERBIDDER.

New York Times: "Ye'll excuse me, captain," said O'Harrity, addressing the commander of the battleship, "but is ut thrue ut costs slvin hundred dollars to fire wan o' thim big guns?"

"Yes, O'Harrity," said the captain. Why do you ask?"

"Oo, t'ought Oi might save yez some money, sorr," said O'Harrity. "Sure, and Oi'll fire 'em for yez for tin."

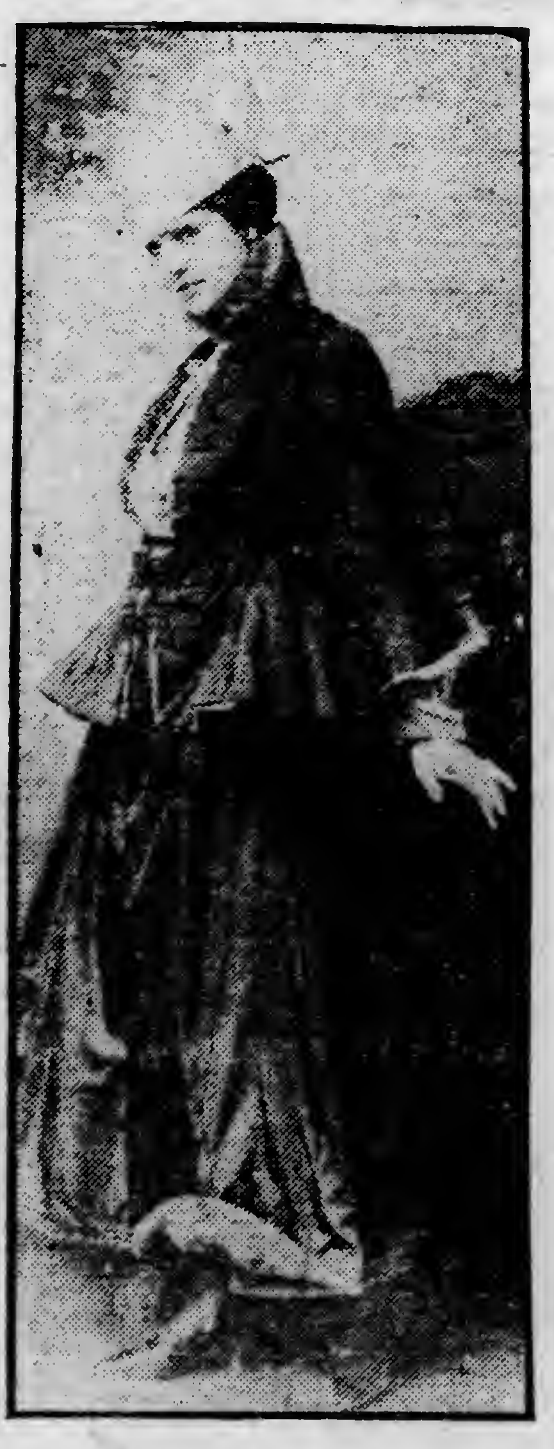
Fetching Gown at New York Fete



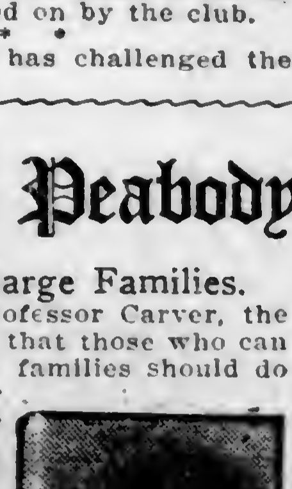
—Copyright by Philippe Ortiz.

BLACK FAILLE GOWN.

This black faille gown is being exhibited at the Fashion fete in New York this week. In this picture the skirt is turned up to show the wide facing of moleskin inside the edge. Collar and cuffs are of moleskin. The hat is of gray pigeon's breast and wings.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

On Rearing Large Families.



The theory of Professor Carver, the Harvard economist, that those who can afford to rear large families should do so, while the poor should limit their offspring to the one or two that they can safely support, is a good one so far as it goes.

It has occurred to the most casual observer of human beings and economics that if conditions regarding the size of the family could be reversed—the rich sheltering the large families and the poor the small ones—much suffering and crime might be averted. Then the standard of humanity would advance, and we would be on the road to dreamed-of and hoped-for conditions. But regulating the size of the family has come, thus far, through education, and it has been from the wrong end for that reason.

Supposing it could be arranged so that children were acquired in proportion to the contents of the family purse. This would not necessarily insure always the development of the best men and women. It would prevent abuse and suffering, and give every child a chance in the world under normal, healthy conditions.

There is nothing to be said in defense of brutal poverty—the poverty that does not let anything good live. Yet poverty has been an obstacle overcome by many, and proved the making of many fine, talented, helpful men and women, as well as many of the world's greatest. I am far from satisfied that the world would be so much better if the majority of children were born into homes of comparative comfort. Always from the depths will rise the rarest.

Still those with means should do their full part by their own or other children. The poverty that permits little children to suffer is one of our greatest disgraces.

WILL BUILD OWN OFFICES

Water and Light Department Looking for Site for Building.

Has Surplus of $125,000 Drawing Only 1 Per Cent Interest.

Shortly after Jan. 1 the water and light department will open negotiations for the purchase of a lot in the central business district and the erection of a two-story office building, repair shop and garage.

D. A. Reed, manager of the water and light department, said this morning that this proposition has been under consideration for the last two years, but that action of some kind will be taken during the coming winter. The department now has about $125,000 as a surplus fund, which the officers have been endeavoring to use in retiring some of the outstanding bonds, but as the bond holders refuse to let go, they plan to use the money for a new building. At present the money draws but 1 per cent interest.

"It will be impossible for our entire department to use the new city hall when it is erected," Manager Reed explained this morning, "and we might as well erect a building of our own at this time. The garage, meter repair shops, salesrooms and storage rooms will not find space in a new city hall, because of the noise, smell and big accommodations required.

Will Save Rentals.

"By erecting a two-story building at this time, it will house our offices, salesrooms and garage, thus saving the city a big rental every year, while we can put the $125,000 to a better use than keeping it in the bank at 1 per cent.

"The price of water and gas is as near cost as possible, and the surplus money is merely on hand, because we did not have many large extensions this year. However, next year we may have to spend about $200,000 for this work, probably necessitating the borrowing of some money, but the interest on this will fall below the reduction in our yearly rentals.

"We want to erect the building near the site of the proposed city hall, so that we can move our offices over when the municipal structure is erected. For this reason we object to the use of the old armory, which is too far away from the new city hall site and would greatly discommode the department. If we can find a site about one or two blocks from the postoffice at a reasonable price, we will start negotiations for the erection of a building immediately after the first of the year."

SAWMILL "CUTUP" IS SENTENCED

Woodsman Will Never Carve Leather Belting Again, He Says.

Never again will Tom Lynch, lumberjack, molest power belts in a sawmill.

"Never, never again," he swore yesterday, holding high his hand, after Judge F. H. Cutting had sentenced him to pay a fine of $100 or serve sixty days in the county jail for larceny.

Lynch, it was alleged, entered the Eklund sawmill at Culver on Nov. 25, and cut up belting until the mill was forced to shut down for repairs. He took some of the pieces away with him, it was further alleged.

Originally charged with second degree grand larceny, the warrant was changed to read third degree after the state had introduced its evidence, and Thomas pleaded guilty.

Tom Flynn, marshal of Brookston, rounded up the woodsman, he said, when they told him how he had been "cuttin' up."

DR. HUNTER MUST ABIDE BY VERDICT

Supreme Court Affirms Verdict of Manslaughter Against Physician.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because he reported the death of Lena Kummer, a patient, as due to pneumonia, Dr. Charles H. Hunter will have to abide by the verdict of a jury in the Hennepin county district court, which found him guilty of manslaughter. Dr. Hunter was charged with performing an illegal operation on the Kummer woman in November, 1914. He, together with John Wagner, were indicted.

Though confirming the findings of the lower court, the supreme court today admits that the evidence tending to connect Dr. Hunter with the operation in the main are circumstantial, but sufficient in its opinion to sustain the conviction.

New evidence was offered tending to further show the innocence of the defendant, which the lower court rejected. After looking over this evidence, the supreme court says it is not of sufficient importance to call for an interference.

The "Neverbreak Hundred" Breaks All Trunk Traditions!

Standardizing a Wardrobe Trunk at FIFTEEN DOLLARS sounds like a man's size job. But it has been done.

Soon you'll see as many "Neverbreak Hundred" trunks traveling around the country as you now see Ford automobiles.

This idea appealed to us and we took the agency for Duluth. We used to sell a few Wardrobe Trunks, not enough to trouble with them, for they had to be sold at $40 to $65.

But here is one at $15

and it's no "Ford" trunk neither, but a luxurious full limousine one without excess in price and impossible of excess baggage. Compact—your clothes fit into it. Roomy, not bulky.
Just $15.

Chicago Record: "Harry, I am beginning to believe the baby looks like you."

"Are you, dear?"

"Yes; I notice it more and more every day. I'm so glad."

"Do you really want him to look like me?"

"Of course I do. I've been sorry ever since we had him christened that we didn't give him your name."

"Sweetheart, you don't know how happy you make me by saying that."

"And, Harry, dear, I found the loveliest hat today. I don't believe I ever saw anything that was so becoming to me. It's $25. Do you think I ought to pay that much for a hat?"

The "Neverbreak Hundred" Breaks All Trunk Traditions!

Standardizing a Wardrobe Trunk at FIFTEEN DOLLARS sounds like a man's size job. But it has been done.

Soon you'll see as many "Neverbreak Hundred" trunks traveling around the country as you now see Ford automobiles.

This idea appealed to us and we took the agency for Duluth. We used to sell a few Wardrobe Trunks, not enough to trouble with them, for they had to be sold at $40 to $65.

But here is one at $15

and it's no "Ford" trunk neither, but a luxurious full limousine one without excess in price and impossible of excess baggage. Compact—your clothes fit into it. Roomy, not bulky.

Just $15.

FEARS MONOPOLY BY PLUMBERS

Proposed Ordinance Unjust to Journeymen Workers and Unfair to Public Says Whitney Wall at Rotary Luncheon—Invades Rights of All Citizens Except Master Workman, He Says.

The proposed plumbing ordinance, as outlined at the regular meeting of the Rotary club two weeks ago by Frank Farrell, was attacked at the luncheon yesterday by Whitney Wall, who declared that it would unreasonably burden the public and give the plumbers an opportunity to form a monopoly.

Mr. Wall said in part:

"You will readily see that the only person under this ordinance who may lawfully engage in the plumbing business in the city of Duluth or enter into any contract, express or implied, for the doing of any plumbing work, or the construction, extension, alterations or repairs to any plumbing, or the making of any water or sewer connections in said city is a licensed master plumber, and that a journeyman plumber can only pursue his trade in doing plumbing work as the employe of a master-plumber.

"Notwithstanding the fact that a journeyman must be skilled in the plumbing trade, and in the making of connections, and in doing manual and mechanical work involved therein, must pass an examination, must pay a fee, and by his license is by the city certified to be so skilled, he is prohibited from taking a job from the public. He must look for employment only to the small class of master plumbers. The public is deprived of his services in matters in which he is skilled, except by payment of tribute to the master plumber.

"When you stop and consider the fact that the ordinance not only prescribes a standard of work and its inspection, but also adds the unusual drastic provisions above stated with regard to licensing the person doing the work and preventing the public from free competition upon contracts offered, it is invading the rights of all citizens save the master plumbers.

"I believe the method prescribed in the ordinance for selecting workmen in the plumbing business is open to serious criticism, in that it places despotic power in the hands of one man in case of a tie to deprive a plumber of his only means of supporting himself and his depending family. An educated rascal with sufficient theoretical knowledge of plumbing to enable him to answer such questions as the examining board might ask would get a certificate, while the honest uneducated, though highly competent man, who has been a plumber all his life, and who could make a living for himself and family at no other trade, might fail to receive one.

"It is the fundamental right of every owner of property to erect such a structure upon his land as he may see fit, so long as he does not imperil the safety, health or morals of others. The municipality has no interest in the matter who does the work, but it has every right to say how it should be done, just so far as the public safety is involved, and no further."

STATE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota supreme court today handed down decisions in the following cases:

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

Conviction Will Stand.

1. In a prosecution for manslaughter, resulting from an abortion committed upon a pregnant woman, it is held that the evidence supports the verdict of guilty.

2. Declarations made by the woman during the time she was under treatment and before the final act of abortion was committed, to the effect that defendant was her physician, had treated her for the purpose of bringing about a miscarriage, and was to administer to her further treatment for that purpose, held properly admitted in evidence as a part of the res gestae.

3. The record presents no reversible error.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

Rights Under Contract.

Oscar Karbach, respondent, vs. Archibald F. Grant, appellant—

1. The failure of a party to an executory contract to perform the same in some substantial respect, vests in the other party the right to rescind the contract and to recover what he parted with on the strength of the contract; at the same time returning what he received.

2. Evidence held not to show a waiver of this right by plaintiff, or that he affirmed the contract after knowledge of the breach thereof by defendant.

3. The evidence supports the findings.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

May Reinstate Action.

Anna Macknick, respondent, vs. Switchmen's Union of North America, appellant—

A judgment of dismissal entered upon stipulation or acquiescense of plaintiff's counsel may be set aside by the court and the cause reinstated for sufficient cause shown. The matter rests largely in the discretion of the trial court. That plaintiff and the court overlooked the fact that a new action would be barred by a contract limitation may furnish sufficient cause.

Order affirmed. HALLAM, J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

Lower Court Affirmed.

S. A. Mitchell, respondent, vs. W. W. Remington, appellant—

A contract for the sale of a controlling interest in a bank, closed with this sentence: "The whole part of this contract relating to loans to become void June 1, 1914." It is held that this provision limits the time within which the loss guaranteed against must occur in order to create a liability, but does not fix the time within which suit upon the liability must be brought.

Affirmed. HOLT, J.

RAMSEY COUNTY.

Will Recover Damages.

Catherine B. Whitney, respondent, vs. Nellie A. Kaliske, doing business as "The Raiment," appellant—

1. Plaintiff sustained a fall while descending a stairway in a store in which she was employed. The evidence is sufficient to sustain a finding that there was a negligent defect in one of the steps, and that this caused her to fall.

2. There is evidence that the stairway was dark, and the question whether plaintiff was chargeable with knowledge of the defective step and assumed the risk of its use was properly one for the jury.

3. In cases where damages are unliquidated and ascertainable by no fixed standard, a trial court may make an order for a new trial conditioned on a reduction of the verdict, even though the amount of the verdict is such as to evince passion and prejudice on the part of the jury, if it may with reason be said that the same passion and prejudice did not effect the determination of the other issues in the case.

4. The verdict as reduced by the court in this case is not excessive. Plaintiff is suffering from a dislocated kidney. She claims that this ailment was caused by the fall. No physician testified that the fall did or did not cause it. The evidence is nevertheless such that the jury might infer that the fall was the producing cause. The opinions of experts if given would not have been conclusive upon the jury.

5. Where a party elicits evidence of a certain character he cannot thereafter be heard to say that such evidence is not admissible, and where he offers evidence that certain conditions exist he cannot complain that the court permits his evidence to be rebutted.

Order affirmed. HALLAM, J.

RAMSEY COUNTY.

New Trial Granted.

H. N. Lufkin, appellant, vs. W. J. Harvey, et al., respondents—

1. Parents are bound to provide a minor child with necessaries. If they neglect to so provide, they may become liable to a third person who furnishes necessaries even without their consent. Where they are ready to so provide, a third person can claim liability only on ground of contract, express or implied. This action is for necessaries supplied to a minor son and it is based upon an implied contract.

2. Defendants rely on a claim that their son had been emancipated and hence a contract on their part to pay should not be implied. Emancipation may be complete, in which case it relieves the minor from custody and control of the parents and destroys the filial relation or it may be partial. The evidence shows no more than a gift to the son of his earnings and the right to make contracts of employment. Complete emancipation cannot be inferred from such evidence. If the earnings given are sufficient to supply the son with all necessaries, the parents are under no further liability; if not, the parents remain liable for any necessaries which the wages are not sufficient to supply.

3. There was no evidence in the case that plaintiff was employed by parties other than defendants, and a submission of that question to the jury was error.

Order reversed and new trial granted. HALLAM, J.

RAMSEY COUNTY.

Evidence Justified Verdict.

Victor Peterson, respondent, vs. Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company, appellant—

1. The evidence was sufficient to justify a finding that the injury which the plaintiff sustained came from a fragment of steel chipped from a maul used by the plaintiff and his co-workers.

2. The court committed no prejudicial error in calling attention to the fact that the mauls in use at the time, which were marked by the defendant, were not produced in court.

3. It is not necessary for the defendant, who claims that the injury was caused by something independent of the cause alleged by the plaintiff, to plead the cause of it; but in this case, where the suggestion was that the plaintiff was injured through a stray bullet coming from guns used by boys in the vicinity, the chance of such injury being theoretically possible but infinitely remote and exceedingly improbable, and the suggested evidence indefinite, the court did not err in refusing proof relative to occasional shooting in the vicinity, though the reason given for the ruling was wrong.

Order affirmed. DIBELL, C.

CROW WING COUNTY.

Cannot Enforce Contract.

M. V. Baker, appellant, vs. Ada Maud Brundage, et al, respondents—

1. A husband cannot make a valid contract for the sale of his wife's land either as her agent or otherwise, and a contract made by him is not binding upon her unless she subsequently adopts and confirms it.

2. A real estate agent can make a contract of sale only upon the terms prescribed by his principal; and a contract made by him containing other or different terms is invalid and unenforcible.

3. Defendants authorized an agent to sell the land in controversy for cash on or before Feb. 20, 1915. On Feb. 20, the agent executed to plaintiff a contract for the sale of the land, payment therefor to be made on or before thirty days from that date. Held that such contract was unauthorized and cannot be enforced by plaintiff.

TAYLOR, C.

POLK COUNTY.

Conviction Affirmed.

State of Minnesota, respondent, vs. Hans Strommen et al., defendants; Henry Christianson, appellant—

1. Appellant was convicted of stealing wheat. The only direct evidence of guilt is that of an accomplice. There can be no lawful conviction without corroboration. The corroboration of an accomplice necessary to sustain a conviction need not be sufficient, standing alone, to make out a prima facie case of guilt, nor is it necessary that it should cover every fact necessary to proof of the crime. It is sufficient if the corroboration, independent of the testimony of the accomplice, tends in some reasonable degree to connect the defendant with the crime and establish his guilt.

2. A confession may be sufficient corroboration. Taking all the evidence into consideration, there is sufficient corroboration of the testimony of the accomplice to sustain a conviction.

3. Where it is shown that the reputation of a witness for truth is bad, his evidence is not necessarily to be disregarded unless corroborated, but it is to be given such weight as the jury believe it entitled to, and disregarded if they believe it entitled to no weight.

4. The charge of the court was not open to the objection that it was argumentative.

5. Nor could the jury well understand, from the language of the charge, that they were to take any contention of the state as true without proof.

6. Both defendants were convicted and a new trial granted to but one. It does not follow that a new trial should have been granted to the other, since the evidence connecting the two with the crime was not the same.

Order affirmed. HALLAM, J.

DAKOTA COUNTY.

Trial Court Upheld.

Charles Betcher Lumber Co., respondent vs. J. P. Erickson et al, defendants, City of Hastings, appellant, United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co., respondent—

1. Findings of fact held to sustain the conclusions of law and the judgment rendered thereon.

2. In the absence of a settled case or bill of exceptions all questions covered by the findings of the trial court will be presumed to have been litigated by consent.

3. An allegation of payment in the answer, to which no reply was interposed, held, presumptively, to have been litigated by consent, and that the findings of the court are construed as negativing such defense.

BROWN, C. J.

Judgment affirmed.

PIPESTONE COUNTY.

Election Case Reversed.

In re proceedings to contest election in Pipestone county, Herman Eikmeier et al, respondents vs. Pipestone county et al, respondents, John Steffen et al, appellants—

In order to adopt a proposition to prohibit the sale of liquor within a county, submitted to the electors thereof under chapter 23 laws of 1915, known as the county option law, a majority of all votes cast at the election must be in favor of such proposition; and it is held, following McLaughlin vs. Village of Rush City, 122 Minn. 428, that, in determining the total number of votes cast at such election, defectively marked ballots as well as properly marked ballots must be counted.

Reversed. TAYLOR, C.

PENNINGTON COUNTY.

Trial Court Erred.

Northern Minnesota Drainage Co., respondent, vs. Salem Mageau et al, defendants, Equitable Surety company, appellant.

If a thirty party takes over a construction contract from the original contractor the surety of such contractor is not liable for the work done by such third party; and in this case the evidence was sufficient to sustain a finding that the plaintiff corporation, organized by the original contractor and two others, each holding an equal amount of stock, took over the contract of the original contractor; and that the court erred in not submitting such issue to the jury.

Order reversed. DIBELL, C.

OLMSTED COUNTY.

Evidence Supports Verdict.

Emilhje Likum, respondent, vs. Dudley V. Porter, appellant—

1. Evidence held to support the verdict, and that the failure of the court to give instructions upon a particular phase of the case was not error since there were no requests for such instructions.

2. The rule applied in Roberson vs. Burton, 88 Minn. 151, is not to be extended.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

LYON COUNTY.

Reversed With Directions.

C. M. Hanks, Adm'r., respondent, vs. Great Northern Ry. Co., appellant—

The travel by pedestrians along and upon the track of a fenced railway right-of-way, running through the ordinary agricultural districts, does not give rise to an inference that it is at the implied invitation or passive consent of the railroad.

The situation disclosed plaintiff's intestate to have been a trespasser upon defendant's right-of-way at the time of his death.

The evidence shows the time and place of the accident to have been such that the engineer, in charge of the train which caused the death, was not required to anticipate the presence of persons on the track.

Plaintiff's intestate was guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law.

There was no evidence of wilful or wanton negligence.

Reversed with directions.

HOLT, J.

MEEKER COUNTY.

Judgment Affirmed.

Re-election contest Meeker county. William Schultz, appellant, vs. W. W. Shelp, et. al., respondents—

1. Appellant's contention that under the county option law a majority of all the votes cast at the election must be in favor of the proposition submitted has been decided in the affirmative in Eikmeier, vs. Pipestone county, et. al., filed Dec. 3, 1915.

2. The error, if any, in admitting in evidence the ballots from Union Grove precinct was without prejudice.

3. Certain disputed ballots examined and held that seven of them were properly counted for respondents.

4. The record discloses that a majority of all the votes polled at the election were cast in favor of prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor in the county of Meeker, Minnesota.

Judgment affirmed.

SCHALLER, J.

DIES IN WHEELING.

Mrs. Mary Rogers Summoned While Visiting Her Son.

Word was received in Duluth yesterday of the sudden death of Mrs. Mary Rogers, mother of F. H. Rogers, associated with the Oliver Iron Mining company, who was visiting one of her sons at Wheeling, West Virginia. Mr. Rogers left immediately for Pittsburgh, Pa., where the funeral will be held on Saturday. Mrs. Rogers has lived in Duluth several years and her loss will be keenly felt by her many friends and associates as an active member of the First Presbyterian church.

The seining is being done under the supervision of Game Warden Kirk.

DAIRIES ARE UP TO MARK

Highest Bacterial Count in November Well Within the Limit.

Average Count 50,474, While State Law Permits 300,000.

Not one Duluth dairy violated the state milk laws during the month of November, according to the monthly score submitted to Commissioner Silberstein this morning by Health Director Fahey.

The highest bacterial count for a cubic centimeter of milk was found in samples taken from Abraham Cohen, local milkman, showing 166,000 bacteria in a single unit. Anton Moe holds the low record for the month with but 3,000 bacteria to a cubic centimeter.

The state allows 300,000 bacteria to a centimeter, which is slightly less than a teaspoonful, but physicians declare that 100,000 is a much safer minimum.

The scoring of pasteurizing plants will be a feature of the work next year, the report states. There are now three of these plants in Duluth.

The November score of the dairies, showing the average bacteria count of 50,474, follows:

MOUNTED PATROLMAN TENDERS RESIGNATION

Arthur D. Callahan, one of Duluth's five mounted policeman, tendered his resignation to Chief R. D. McKercher today. It will become effective immediately.

Officer Callahan was appointed to the force under Former Chief C. H. Troyer on Aug. 3, 1914. Since his appointment he has patrolled the hillside "beat," extending parallel to the downtown business district. He lives at 401 East Second street.

This is the sixth change in the personnel of the police since the beginning of the Silberstein regime.

"Officer Callahan's successor has not been selected yet," said Chief McKercher, "and it may be some time before I find the man I want for the position, as mounted officers must have different physical qualifications from ordinary patrolmen."

ASKS $25,000 HEART BALM

Alfred Bjork, Superior, Sues J. H. Miller for Alienating Wife's Affections.

Also Charges Spouse Got Divorce Without His Knowledge.

Twenty-five thousand dollars is the amount Alfred Bjork of Superior, Wis., demands in lieu of his wife's affections, companionship and services, which he alleges were wrongfully taken from him through the machinations of James H. Miller of Brainerd. Bjork filed an action for this amount in the United States district court today through his attorney, Benjamin Goldberg.

According to the petition, matrimony has not been a bed of roses for Mr. Bjork. He embarked on the perilous life voyage at Marinette, Wis., May 10, 1904, by taking Elizabeth Yunke as his wife. They continued to live together until along in May, 1912, when, the husband declares, he discovered Miller had been tampering with his wife's affections while they were living at Manganese, Minn. Finally, the petition says, Miller induced the wife to desert her husband.

Not being satisfied with inducing the wife to leave her home, the petition declares that Miller persuaded Mrs. Bjork to set up claims that her home was in Superior and to bring an action for divorce unbeknown to her husband. The divorce, he declares, was granted by the superior court of Douglas county without notice having been served upon him.

Finally he charges that Miller and Mrs. Bjork lived in various cities of Minnesota and Wisconsin, against his protestations, and that he has been damaged to the extent of $25,000.

NO BOOZE FOR BALL STARS

Cobb, Crawford and Veach Have Established Rules for Clean Living.

John M. Austin in the Boston Post: "Live clean. Not because you have to, but because you want to."

This is the motto of the Detroit Tigers' "slugging crew," Cobb, Crawford and Veach.

All of this prize trio were scattered about the corridors of the hotel when I called on them, and two of them, Cobb and Veach, puffed away on cigars. Crawford doesn't smoke and none of them use liquor.

I approached the "Georgia Peach" rather timidly, because on seeing him from behind I was able to measure his physique. He is certainly a formidable looking person.

"Mr. Cobb," I asked, "what rules do you set down for yourself in order that you may keep in good condition?"

"I don't have any particular rules," he replied, and waved the smoke away from his face. "I live cleanly because I want to.

Taboos Liquor and Cigarettes.

"I should say, however, if I were called upon to lay down a sort of ten commandments for the education of youth, that men should leave liquor absolutely alone. The same applies to the use of cigarettes, which I never use myself, because I have never acquired a taste for them. I smoke cigars, a few a day, but I never inhale the smoke.

"Sleep is another essential for good health. I believe no one should attempt to get away with less than eight or nine hours of it. Some people sleep too much. If we were all able to strike a happy medium in our manner of living we would be better off for it.

"Then, too," he continued after a pause, "people eat too much. There is nothing that will pull a man's health down quicker than eating too much. An overloaded stomach has the same effect upon a man as an overloaded wagon has on a horse.

Eat Two Meals a Day.

"I eat two meals only a day, breakfast and dinner at night. Most baseball players do the same thing because it is obvious what a hearty meal will do to a man trying to play ball in the afternoon."

For a wonder Ty Cobb does not do much walking. In the winter months he goes to his home in Augusta, Ga., and spends his time either hunting or playing golf.

As for Sam Crawford, "Wahoo Sam," as he is called, the man who knocked a home run and made King George of England sit up and take notice a few years ago when on a tour of the world, he has gained for himself the reputation of being the most regular man as to his habits of any baseball player in the country.

"I believe in the old adage: 'Early to bed and early to rise,'" he said as he sat out on the stone steps of the hotel. "That's why I am in bed at 10 o'clock every night and up at 7 o'clock every morning. The rest of the time I'm playing ball, resting up and seeing the 'movies.'"

And that's truth, too, for Sam Crawford is one of the regular patrons of the silent drama and can be seen in one of the numerous Detroit houses every night in summer and winter.

He says they have no effect on his eyesight, and as he is slamming the horsehide pill for about .315 there is more truth than poetry in his remark.

Big As a House.

Crawford stands about six feet three and is as "big as a house." If he ate all he wanted to he would tip the scales around 300 pounds. As it is he will weigh around 225.

The next person to fall in line was "Bob" Veach, the third member of Hughie Jennings' big triumvirate.

"What do you do to keep yourself in trim, Mr. Veach?" I asked.

"I live right," he answered seriously. "What is the use in abusing one's privilege to live, anyhow? We, who are fortunate enough to have been given good, sound bodies, should take care of them just as well as we take care of one of our children. Health is the biggest thing in life, and I'm thankful to say that I've had mighty little sickness."

* * *

SELF PITY.

Answers: "What on earth are you crying about, little boy?" asked the neighbor, who was strolling along a suburban street the other afternoon.

"Because I'm so mean an' selfish!" sobbed the little one.

"Oh surely you're not very mean and selfish if it affects you this way," commented the passerby. "What makes you think you are?"

"See this bread an' jelly? Well, I'm so mean an' selfish that I ain't a-goin' to give Willie none of it. Boo-ooh-hoo!"

PARAGRAPHIC COMMENT OF THE SPORTING WORLD

BY BRUCE.

WILLARD and Fulton had left the ring. The big battle of Mardi Gras week had passed into history. As the crowd slowly piled past the box office, plaintive cries were heard issuing from the small building, situated near the gate. The cries increased in volume and then broke into a pathetic sob. Strong men stoped, startled, convinced that some great wrong had been done, or that some man had lost a friend or relative dear to him. Again the sobs smote the sultry air, and then broke into a shriek, filled with the woe of the world, impregnated with misery, despair and lamentation.

No one was being murdered; no one had died; Tommy Burns was crying as if his heart would break as he handed $32,500 over to Tom Jones, manager of Jess Willard.

Only fifty-nine hunters were killed the past hunting season. This should not lead one to infer that big game hunting is losing its interest. It is also a fact that fewer deer and moose were killed than usual. It was just a sort of off year. Next season it is expected that many more hunters will be killed and also there will be a slight increase in the number of deer and moose brought in.

The statement that Captain Mahan of Harvard has determined to complete his studies, will surprise a lot of the close followers of football, who have always supposed that a regular football player never had any studies to complete, outside of the mental task of acquiring a letter perfect part in signal practice and skull practice during the blackboard session. It has been a popular tradition that only the pale and emaciated members of the fourth team, who are generally allowed to run on the field the afternoon of the big game, had studies. The idea that a star football player had studies, is iconoclastic. But times are changing.

WILL CHOOSE OFFICIALS

Annual Election of Duluth Hockey League Is Scheduled.

THE PROSPECTIVE LINEUP.

Arthur E. Brown, honorary president.

John E. MacGregor, James E. Ten Eyck and Charles E. McLennan, honorary vice presidents.

C. B. McDonald, patron.

Charles Horn, president.

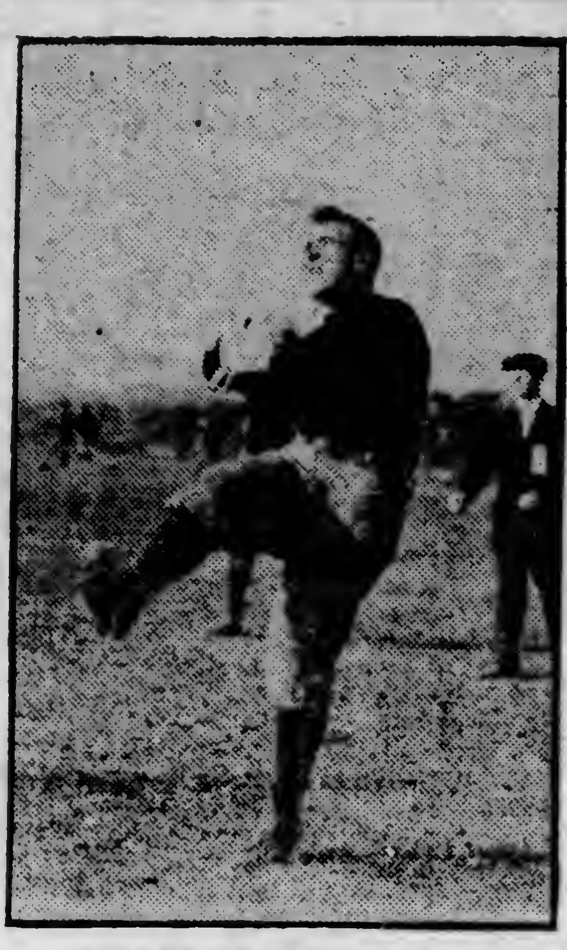
David C. Duncan, vice president.

Frank P. Le Tourneau, secretary.

At a meeting of the managers of the Duluth Amateur Hockey league, scheduled for this evening, the above prospective officers will probably be installed.

Outside of the election there is little business scheduled to come before the attention of the team managers. Final plans will probably be made for the starting of the hockey season some time during the present month, and it is also probable that work of disposing of coupon tickets for the hockey games will be boosted along.

BRICKLEY MENTIONED AS BADGER COACH



CHARLES BRICKLEY.

Sharing honors with Mahan as the greatest football player produced by Harvard in recent years, Charles Brickley is being prominently mentioned as the next football coach of the University of Wisconsin eleven. Along with Brickley are mentioned the names of Gilmore Dobie and Eddie Mahan. Great players do not necessarily make great coaches, and should Brickley be chosen for the job, there would be much speculation as to his success with the down trodden Badgers.

FEDS WANT JENNINGS; HE REFUSES IN ADVANCE

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Harry Sinclair, backer of the team which the Federal league proposes to put in New York, is quoted as saying here that he would offer the management of the team to Hughie Jennings of the Detroit Americans and had also bid for the services of Frank Baker of the Athletics.

New York, Dec. 3.—Hughie Jennings, manager of the Detroit Americans, who has returned from the South, where he was searching for a training camp, declares that he had not been offered the management of the New York Federals.

"The Federals have never offered me a position as manager of the New York team, and I would not consider it if they did. I am perfectly satisfied with my lot in Detroit, where we have built up a great team, and I have no intention of leaving Detroit."

President Frank Navin of the Detroit club, likewise denied that there was a chance of Jennings leaving Detroit.

AHEARN FIT FOR GIBBONS

Eastern Boxer Reaches St. Paul Apparently in Great Shape.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 3.—Young Ahearn, the European battler who is to meet Mike Gibbons at St. Paul Friday, Dec. 10, arrived in the Twin Cities Thursday noon and established his training camp in Minneapolis.

Ahearn looked the picture of health and, although he complained about the cold when he got off the train in St. Paul, he claimed to be in perfect condition.

While Ahearn is not as big a man as many in this section have been led to believe, still it is clearly evident that he knows the ring game.

Although the greatest interest is being taken in the two main event battlers, still the other fellows are not being overlooked. Whelan and big Al Palzer have been working in the same gymnasium Gibbons has been using in St. Paul. Azine and Barrett have been doing their stunts in Minneapolis, while Ray and Andre Anderson, the Chicago giant, have not arrived, but are expected the first of next week.

MINNESOTA DROPS BASEBALL SYSTEM

Cuts Out Intercollegiate Participation; Also Against "Summer Ball."

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 3.—The University of Minnesota senate, a faculty body controlling university activities, decided last night to abolish intercollegiate baseball at the university, limiting this sport to games between teams organized within the university.

The senate also instructed Prof. James Paige, the Minnesota delegate to the meeting of the Big Nine conference at Chicago next Saturday, to vote for the retention of the conference "summer baseball" rule, and to advocate a football rule permitting of but one day each week of "open practice" which the public would be allowed to witness.

The question of discontinuing intercollegiate baseball has come up several times in recent years, those in favor of its abolishment having held that not enough interest was shown in the sport to warrant the monetary expense necessary to keep up a team in the conference.

The attendance at intercollegiate contests, it was pointed out, was frequently less than at class games, and it is proposed that the money heretofore devoted to intercollegiate contests, be used to further interest in inter-class athletics.

No Coach Named Yet.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 3.—No coach will be selected for the University of Wisconsin football team until the January meeting of the regents. Student sentiment favors Gilmore Dobie, University of Washington, as a successor to Coach William Juneau, whose resignation was announced.

Women's Golf Title Games.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 3.—An application to have the women's national golf championship for 1916 decided on the course of the Belmont Spring Country club was forwarded yesterday to the United States Golf association, which will hold its annual meeting in Chicago on Jan. 14, 1916. So far as is known here, Belmont is the only club in the East that has applied for the women's event. The last time the women's championship was played in the Boston district was at Essex county in 1912.

SIGN UP TWO TITLE FIGHTS

Fulton Matched to Meet Willard March 4, in New Orleans.

Freddie Welsh and Charley White Agree on Twenty Rounds.

New Orleans La., Dec. 3.—Jess Willard will meet Fred Fulton of Rochester, Minn., in a twenty-round bout here March 4 for the heavyweight championship of the world, according to an announcement just made by promoters of the match.

Willard signed articles here several weeks ago to meet any white fighter the promoters might name by Dec. 10. Efforts were made to arrange an elimination bout between Fulton and Frank Moran of Pittsburgh but, according to the promoters, Moran refused to meet the Minnesota pugilist and was notified that if he did not agree by Dec. 1 to do so, the match would be given to Fulton.

Fulton previously had signed articles to meet Willard in the event Moran refused the elimination bout.

Willard's contract calls for $32,500, win, lose or draw. Terms arranged with Fulton were not announced.

Fulton has been boxing about two years and in his thirty-eight fights is credited with thirty-four knockouts. Among the fighters who took the count were Jack Morgan, Jack Lewis, Tim Logan, Arthur Pelkey and Andre Anderson.

Comparing the Men.

Sporting men point out that, physically at least, Fulton compares favorably with the champion. His fighting weight is about 220 pounds, as against Willard's 240. Although Willard's height of six feet six inches is greater by two inches than that of the Rochester fighter, Fulton's reach of eight-four and one-half inches is longer by one and one-half inches than that of the Kansan and is said to be the greatest of any living boxer.

The promoters stated last night that neither the officials nor the arena in which the fight is to be held, have been selected. Willard and Fulton expect to establish training camps in New Orleans about a month before the fight, it was said.

New York, Dec. 3.—Freddie Welsh of England and Charley White of Chicago, through their managers, signed an agreement here yesterday to meet in a twenty-round bout within six weeks for the lightweight championship of the world.

Welsh, as the champion, and White, as the challenger, agreed to meet before the club offering the best inducements, all bids for the bout to be received not later than Thursday, Dec. 16.

SOUTH AMERICANS DREAM BIG BOUTS

Would Pull Off Fistic Carnival With Four Championship Fights.

New York, Dec. 3.—Millionaire South American sportsmen are planning for a pugilistic carnival to be held at Buenos Aires next spring, in which the four fistic championships of the world will be contested.

Within the next two weeks the sum of $125,000 will be deposited in a local bank, to be divided later into four purses and the additional sum of $75,000 to cover traveling, training and advertising expenses of pugilists and promoters.

The bouts as outlined at present will bring together Jess Willard and the best heavyweight that can be obtained; the champion middleweights, Mike Gibbons of St. Paul and Les Darcey of Australia; Lightweights Freddy Welsh of England and Charley White of Chicago; and Bantamweights Kid Williams of Baltimore and Johnny Ertle of St. Paul. Each bout, which will be for the championship of that class, will be for twenty-five rounds or more, if necessary.

Baron Nicholas Mihanovich is the representative of the South American capitalists and sportsmen, who believe that the pugilistic carnival will be of great advertising value to Buenos Aires and South America in general.

Tom Jones and Jack Curley have been appointed the American representatives and matchmakers for the backers of the carnival.

QUESTION OF RANK OF LAWN TENNIS STARS

New York, Dec. 3.—The ranking committee of the United States National Lawn Tennis association, which met today to arrange the leading players of the country according to the performances of last season, faced unusual difficulties. The meeting originally was set for Nov. 18, but it was postponed until today because the members of the committee desired more time to review the records of the leading contenders for first place on the list.

The principal question before the committee is whether William M. Johnston, the young San Francisco player, who took the championship away from R. Norris Williams II, shall be ranked as No. 1. Those who favored placing Williams, the defeated champion, at the head of the list, pointed to the precedent of 1914, when Williams defeated Maurice E. McLoughlin for the championship, but McLoughlin was ranked first on the official list.

It is believed that McLoughlin will be ranked No. 3.

O'LEARY MAY MEET BROWN

Canadian Lightweight Figured as Possible Opponent for Ranger.

Ring Affairs of Brown Placed in Hands of Joe Thomas.

Negotiations were on part of yesterday and last evening between officials of the Duluth Athletic club and Johnny O'Leary, lightweight champion boxer of Canada, in regard to a meeting between the Canadian and Pal Brown before the local club.

As stated yesterday, Jose Rivers, the Los Angeles Mexican, is also under consideration as a possible opponent for Brown.

Mandot demanded a guarantee and option on a percentage for his services. In view of the fact that Brown demands the same percentage as that asked for by Mandot, the promoters of the local club cannot figure where any one but the boxers would make any money, should a bout be staged between Mandot and Brown.

O'Leary is touted as one of the best lightweights in the country; in fact, one plenty good enough for Brown to try his comeback stunt on. Should O'Leary be signed as a Dec. 17 opponent of the range lightweight, there is every reason to believe that Pal will be taking on a boy that will given an excellent account of himself.

Thomas Takes Brown.

Joe Thomas, a Chicago trainer, now has the ring affairs of Brown in hand. Yesterday the range pugilist wrote Mike Collins that he had decided to place his affairs in the hands of Thomas.

"Collins is too busy with Fulton to give the proper amount of attention to me," declared Brown.

"Brown is not at outs with Collins," chimed in Thomas. "Pal has agreed to let me go South and train Fulton for the Willard battle. Brown thinks it is better for him to let me handle his affairs."

Should either Rivers or O'Leary be signed for Brown, Thomas will employ all of his arts as a trainer to get the range boxer right for the battle. Brown was 24 years of age yesterday, and he agrees with Thomas that it is this year or never with him.

"Brown has got to do something this year, or he might as well go back to the farm," said Thomas. "I am going to have his eyes thoroughly examined and then treated for what may be troubling them. Also, if Pal is matched here, I will have Jimmy Travers, one of the cleverest boxers in Chicago, come up and work with Brown."

Interest in the next appearance of Brown should be stimulated by the fact that the showing the range boxer makes will either make or break him in a pugilistic sense.

It would appear that no one realizes this trite fact more than Brown himself. If hard work in training can make the Jackpine kid right, he will step into the ring fit to win back some of the prestige he lost the unfortunate evening Joey Mandot nearly knocked Pal's head off with those accurate right crosses of his.

COMMERCIALS SHOW CLASS

Fair Scores Rolled Up By Business Pin Spillers.

In the Commercial Bowling league games of last evening the Marshall-Wells team took all three of its games from the Bridgeman-Russell five, while the Boston Lunch quintet won two out of three games from the National Meats, and the Northern Shoe company's team won two out of three from the Duluth Photo Engraving company.

The games were close and interesting, though high scores were infrequent. The new men are showing a steady improvement and the scores are getting better all the time.

FAST QUINTS WILL PLAY AT Y. M. C. A.

Kelleys Will Meet Fenton-Duby Five; Hardware Men the Electrics.

Basketball enthusiasts will be given a rare treat tonight at the Y. M. C. A., where two fast games are expected in the Commercial league. The crack Kelley aggregation, which has not as yet struck a worthy opponent and which won the championship last year, will take on the Fenton-Duby five. The Northern Hardware men will meet the Northern Electrics.

The Kelleys have been going at a breakneck gait, and it will take a lot to stop them. Although the Fenton-Duby team has not as yet struck its gate, it is expected to give the Kelleys a great fight tonight, and is confident of winning. With Burnett in their lineup the sporting goods men stand an excellent chance of dragging the Kelleys down from their lofty heights. The Northern Electrics have not won a game as yet, but have perfected a combination which is expected to make trouble for future opponents. They have several fast men on their team. The Northern Hardware team made a great bid for the pennant last year and have about the same team back again this year.

The lineup of the teams will be as follows:

Northern Electrics—Paul and Currie, forwards; Kelley, center, and Friedman, Daugherty and Brisley, guards.

Fenton-Dubys—Wisted and Burnett, forwards; Becker, center, and Beck, Richardson and Fenton, guards.

H. S. BASKET BALL AT SEMI-FINALS

Round-Robin Tourney at Central Nears Finish; Interclass Games Follow.

The Central high school round-robin basket ball tournament, which has been under way all of this week, was brought to the semi-finals yesterday afternoon when teams No. 4 and No. 6, captained by Rosenberg and Karon, won their games. It is hoped to play the finals this afternoon, but because of conflictions in the gymnasium it may be necessary to hold the deciding game tomorrow morning or else next week.

The Gogins-Farah tie of the day before was played off and resulted in a win for the former combination when Walsh threw the deciding basket in overtime play. Following this, however, Farah's quint lost out in the semi-finals by losing to Karon's five by the close score of 10 to 9. Team No. 1, captained by Fee, lost out in a fast game to Rosenberg's five by a score of 14 to 9. Team No. 6 and Team No. 4, captained by Karon and Rosenberg, will meet in the finals.

The tournament was held for the purpose of allowing Coach Blake to get a line on his material. The interclass games will be played next week and the selections for the school squad will then begin. Lineups of the games yesterday:

Team No. 6: M. Karon, forward; Lindsay, forward; Furni, center; I. Karon, guard; Garon, guard. Team No. 8: Boyer, forward; Walsh, forward; Hoyt, center; Miller, guard; Farah, guard. Field baskets: M. Karon, 2; Lindsay, 1; I. Karon, 1; Lindsay, 1; Boyer, 2; Farah, 2. Free throws, Farah, 1; Karon, 2.

GEORGES CARPENTIER DECORATED FOR DARING

Paris, Dec. 3.—Sergt. Georges Carpentier, champion heavyweight pugilist of Europe, now attached to the French aviation corps, has been decorated with the military cross for brilliant and daring reconnaissances in an aeroplane.

Carpentier joined the colors when war was declared and has been in the thick of the fighting ever since. He was first with the signal service, and twice had his apparatus blown away by German shells. Later he became an automobile courier on the firing line and then was assigned to the aviation corps in May last.

Carpentier's last important pugilistic achievement was to win from Gunboat Smith on a foul in London in six rounds on July 16, 1914.

BRITAIN PRESENTED WITH RACING STABLE

London, Dec. 3.—Col. Hall Walker, member of parliament, has presented to the nation his famous breeding farm for race horses at Tully, Kildare, and his training stables at Russley Parks, Wiltshire, the government undertaking to purchase the land at its own valuation.

Col. Walker's stable includes the stallions White Eagle, which won the City and Suburban handicap at Epsom in 1909, and Royal Realm, another great stake horse, and some of the most famous brood mares in the country.

The valuation of the stable before the war was £200,000 ($1,000,000).

Bergdoll. The latter had petitioned for the appointment of a guardian for his brother's estate. Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of both, defended the sanity of her son.

STATE ELEVATOR WOULD NOT BE CURE

Self-Help Better Than Government Subsidy, Says Dakotan.

Chicago, Dec. 3—James Boyle of the University of North Dakota speaking at the National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits, said that state-owned elevators would not in any sense cure the evils in marketing complained of by grain growers. He held that self-help is better than government subsidy and that the co-operative terminal elevator is the next logical step. He said in part:

"When prices are high, farmers are satisfied; when grain prices are low, they blame to a large extent, the terminal elevators. Yet if the government would build a hundred terminal elevators and furnish free storage it would likely not change the price of grain by 1 cent a bushel. World markets, operating under known and anticipated conditions of supply and demand, determine grain prices in the last analysis."

WHOLESALE LIQUOR DEALERS "STUNG"

Closing of Range Saloons Hits Twin City Houses.

According to a liquor salesman who was at the St. Louis last evening, and who has made the range territory for years, a number of wholesale houses have been left with heavy unsettled accounts with the saloons of Hibbing and Chisholm.

"My house is all right," said the salesman, "because I began to close up accounts three months ago. I received an order for three barrels of whisky that I did not fill. But I know that some of the wholesale liquor houses of the Twin Cities had heavy accounts with the range saloons, and I know of a number of cases where these accounts were not settled."

According to the liquor salesman, the closing of saloons on the iron range will cut a big revenue off from Twin City wholesale liquor houses.

INDIAN AGENT HAS LITTLE TO SAY

Man Who Put Lid on Range Towns Confers With Martinson.

A. J. Larson, special agent of the Indian department, under whose direction and supervision the saloons of Hibbing and Chisholm were closed, was in Duluth yesterday, a guest of the Spalding.

Declaring that it was against the policy of the Indian department to permit its employes to indulge in a great deal of talking, Mr. Larson said there was little of interest regarding the situation on the ranges that had not already been printed.

The special agent and Magnus Martinson held a conference yesterday afternoon, Mr. Larson leaving the city on an evening train.

SUPREME COURT SAYS PIPESTONE COUNTY HAS VOTED FOR SALOONS

Long Drawn-Out County Option Tangle Is Finally Settled.

State Bench Finds That "Wets" Have a Majority of Four Votes.

Reverses County Court Which Ruled "Drys" Had Majority of Three.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—With two justices dissenting the supreme court today filed an opinion holding that Pipestone county had voted "wet" in a recent county option election. Under the deductions reached by them, the county voted "wet" by a majority of four as against a majority of three for the "dry" side, which was the ruling of the lower court. The dissenting justices were Holt and Hallam. The majority opinion is written by Judge Taylor.

The county option election was held on June 7, 1915. The canvassing board, following the election, certified that 2,150 votes were cast; that 1,068 were in favor of prohibition and 1,073 against. Certain voters instituted a contest and as a result of the trial which followed, the lower court found that 2,154 ballots were cast, that three of them marked against prohibition were by men who were not qualified voters; that seven others bore the name or initials of the voter for the purpose of identification; that seven others were so defectively marked that the intention of the voter could not be ascertained and that these seven ballots should be deducted from the total of 2,154 deposited in the ballot box, leaving 2,137 as the actual number of legal votes cast upon the question. Further the court ruled that of these legal votes 1,070 were in favor of prohibition and 1,067 against. Therefore, the "drys" had prevailed.

Majority Must Favor.

Passing on the question of dry and wet, the majority of the supreme court takes the position that in order to adopt a proposition to prohibit the sale of liquor within a county a majority of all votes cast at the election must be in favor of such proposition and that in determining the total number of votes cast at such election, defectively marked ballots, as well as properly marked ballots, must be counted.

Therefore, adding the seven defective ballots to the 2,137, concerning which there is no dispute, gives 2,144 as the total vote cast. As only 1,070 votes were in favor of the proposition, county option failed to receive the majority and was not adopted.

This ruling regarding defective ballots, the court says, it has adhered to in former cases and the majority of the court cannot see any reason to change its position at this late date.

While counting Pipestone county wet, the court at the same time handed down an opinion affirming the findings of the lower court, which ruled that county option had prevailed in Meeker county. In this case disputed ballots were also involved, which the court examined and held were properly counted. The Meeker county canvassing board certified that 1,633 votes were cast in favor of option and 1,614 against it.

These findings were appealed from, the court holding that 3,259 ballots were cast, of which 1,634 were in favor of option and 1,606 against. The court further held that nine ballots should not be counted either way.

MARINE

CROWD 1913 ORE RECORD

Shipments This Year More Than 1912 and Close to Highest.

Three Docks Yet to Close Down—One at Head of Lakes.

While shipments of Lake Superior iron ore this season will not reach the totals of 1914, which was the record year for the district, they will not be as far short of that figure as expected, and, in all probability, will be ahead of the previous record, made in 1912.

Totals already received, which omit the Great Northern docks at Allouez, and the docks at Escanaba and Marquette, show a total of shipments of 30,360,676 against 16,120,969 tons from the same docks last season, an increase of 14,239,707 tons.

The latest to report, since the totals published yesterday, are the Northwestern docks at Ashland which shipped this season 4,134,000 tons against 2,605,275 tons last year.

Taking the totals already reported officially, and adding the shipments of the Great Northern docks to Nov. 30, and those of Escanaba and Marquette up to Nov. 1, later figures being lacking, it is shown that already there have been reported shipments from the Lake Superior district of 47,216,222 tons, which is only 169,555 tons short of the grand totals of 1912, and 2,854,256 short of the grand total of 1913.

The probability is that the shipments of the Great Northern docks since the first of the month, by the time the last boat is loaded next Sunday or Monday, will have increased materially and that the figures from Escanaba and Marquette from Nov. 1 until the close of their season, which will be the first of next week, will combine to bring the grand total for the season up to within sight of the 1913 figure.

Next year, however, will eclipse everything that has gone before.

HARROWING TALE OF EXPOSURE INVENTED

Joe McCarty Writes Relatives of "Shipwreck" and His "Dying" Condition—Was Work Farm Guest.

Joseph McCarty, sailor, frightened his relatives and caused them to make arrangements to take his body back to Chicago for burial, through a letter he wrote here in which he used romancing faculties effectively. Joe, it turned out, had ben sent to the workfarm for drunkenness, but his letter writing was before that. He wrote to Chicago that he was in a hospital here after a most harrowing experience in a shipwreck on Lake Superior.

He told his friend, in the letter, that most of the crew were drowned and that the surviving five floated in the lake for eleven hours before they were rescued. According to his story, they were all in a hospital here as a result of their exposure, two of them hopelessly ill and the other three in danger. He closed his letter with the pathetic words:

"This might be the last letter that I will ever write. If I live I will write you another letter."

The friend who received the letter, which did not indicate what hospital the man was in, turned it over to Mrs. R. A. Lingane of Chicago, McCarty's sister. She hastened to write Postmaster W. E. McEwen asking him for information. Mrs. Lingane said:

"I have not seen him for more than ten years. If the worst has happened, we would like to bury him in Chicago. If he has recovered I would like to communicate with him."

Postmaster McEwen turned the letters over to W. A. Bourke, Commissioner of Lake Carriers here, and Mr. Bourke looked the matter up. He wrote Mrs. Lingane that she need have no uneasiness; that Joe was simply romancing. Said he:

"No boats have been lost and to my knowledge, not a single sailor has been lost this fall on Lake Superior. You can rest assured that a human being would not last two hours in the cold waters of Lake Superior at this time of the year."

Mr. Bourke believes that McCarty was simply getting ready to "make a touch."

ADDS THREE SMALL BOATS TO FLEET

Valley Camp Coal Company Now Has Six Vessels.

James A. Paisley, president of the Valley Camp Coal company, has purchased the Craig fleet of three vessels for $520,000 and will operate them as manager. He also recently purchased the steamer E. L. Wallace.

By the purchase of the Craig boats Mr. Paisley becomes manager of a fleet of six boats, the W. S. Mack, Merida, Wallace, Eugene Zimmerman, Thomas Adams and George L. Craig, the last three being the Craig fleet.

Of the three ships just bought the Zimmerman is the largest, with a cargo capacity of 8,500 tons. She is 500 feet over all, 480 feet keel, 52 feet beam and 30 feet deep. She has twelve-foot hatches, spaced to twenty-four-foot centers, and is arch construction. She was built in 1905. The Craig and Adams are of the same size and dimensions, being 385 feet over all, 360 feet keel, 50 feet beam, 28 feet deep, with nine-foot centers. The Adams was built in 1892 and the Craig in 1903. They have carrying capacity of 5,800 tons each. They will be taken over at the close of the season.

Other deals that are pending and involving more than a dozen boats are likely to be closed within the next few days. With the closing of these deals close to twenty boats will have changed hands since the first of the month.

DOCK EXTENSION AT ASHLAND, WIS.

Northwestern Ore Handling Equipment to Be Greatly Increased.

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 3.—A special meeting of the dock and harbor board was called yesterday at the request of W. T. Towne, assistant general manager of the Northwestern Railroad company, and G. J. Quigley, superintendent of the Ashland division, for the purpose of considering the new request of the Northwestern for the extension of its ore docks.

The Northwestern previously asked a permit to extend its docks considerably beyond the harbor line. This would have enabled it to handle over 1,000,000 tons more per season. This request was refused by the war department owing to a protest entered by the Ashland Water company, which claimed that such extension would interfere with its water lines.

The Northwestern in its new request for the permit asks only for the right to extend its docks as far as the harbor line. As no protest was entered against this proposal the board has now granted the permit.

The extension on dock No. 1, will be 500 feet out and that of dock No. 2 will be 270 feet. The docks now have 468 pockets each with a capacity of 250 tons, making this total capacity 95,000 tons. The new extension of the two docks will add 100 pockets or an additional storage capacity of 25,000 tons.

According to Supt Quigley the contract will be let in Chicago at once and work will begin as soon as possible. It is expected that the extensions will be completed in time for the opening of the ore season next spring. More than $50,000 will be spent for piling and other building material, most of which will be bought in Ashland and vicinity.

The company's agents are already scouring the country looking for tamarack, hemlock and other available timber. The Northwestern payroll in this city for the summer amounted to $30,000 per month.

LOOKING FOR WORK

Everywhere men complain about work; even boys and girls in school or business find work tedious and irksome, but it isn't the work half so much as their own lack of physical strength that makes it hard.

Rich blood, strong lungs and healthful digestion make work pleasurable in business, in school or even housework, and if those who are easily tired —who are not sick, but weak and nervous—would just take Scott's Emulsion for one month and let its pure concentrated food create richer blood to pulsate through every artery and vein—let it build a structure of healthy tissue and give you vigorous strength —you would find work easy and would look for more. Insist on Scott's.

U. S. ONLY NATION TO GET FAVOR

Canadian Concessions of Commandeered Wheat Apply Only to U. S.

New York, Dec. 3.—Some difference of opinion exists among grain dealers here as to the extent of the concessions made by the Canadian government when it allowed commandeered wheat to be delivered to United States buyers who had contracted for it before the order of seizure went into effect. Henry Stemper of the Grain Growers' Export company said he believed about 5,000,000 bushels of grain would be released to Canadian contractors so they could fulfill their American contracts, but that no grain would be released for any other neutral country.

"Holland, Greece, Spain, Sweden and other neutral European countries will not be permitted to get any of the commandeered grain," he said. "It will be released on the condition that it be replaced within sixty days and it will not be necessary that the grain released was contracted for before the wheat was commandeered. It must be declared for delivery in the United Kingdom, however, or the Canadian government will not permit its shipment."

AMERICA'S SEASON WILL CLOSE SOON

EXPECT BIG LEGAL FIGHT

Action of Supreme Court Involves Ownership of Dock Property.

Norton-Whiteside Case May Be Used as a Precedent.

The action of the United States supreme court, which indirectly fixes the boundary line between Minnesota and Wisconsin as the natural channel of the St. Louis river, is likely to start a bitter legal fight over the possession of some valuable dock property.

It has been proved, if surveys are correct, that parts of the Carnegie and Zenith coal docks in West Duluth are in Wisconsin, and a battle for their possession is expected to be made by the property owners on the Wisconsin side. They can claim ownership, it is said, because of riparian rights, to the property from the waterline on the Wisconsin side to the middle of the stream.

Basis of Action.

The basis for the foregoing conclusions is the outcome of the action brought by George W. Norton as executor and trustee of the estate of George W. Norton, deceased, against Robert B. Whiteside. The United States circuit court of appeals held that the natural channel of the St. Louis river was the boundary between the two states. The case was taken then to the United States supreme court. Mr. Whiteside was defended in the supreme court by Luther C. Harris and the law firm of Jaques & Hudson, who contended that the supreme court had no jurisdiction in the case because there was no Federal law involved, and that the contest was simply between two individuals. Mr. Harris says the supreme court admitted this contention, which leaves the decision of the court of appeals as final.

Case Without Precedent.

Mr. Harris said today that he did not know what contests might result from the action of the supreme court, but that owners of the Wisconsin property of the Carnegie and Zenith coal docks might lay claim to property in West Duluth if the survey, fixing the state line as running through the properties, could be proved correct.

Mr. Harris says that the case decided upon by the supreme court is without a precedent in the United States, as it involves a contest for property across a state line. This, he says, has never been done before.

GET AROUND THE RULING

Playgrounds Director Batchelor Will Have Two Jobs and Salaries.

J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, will have two titles and two positions during the coming year, if school board directors adopt plans they now are considering.

As director of municipal playgrounds at Chester, Harrison and Fifty-second avenue west he will receive a salary from the public welfare division, of which Mayor W. I. Prince is the head.

As director of school playgrounds and supervisor of play for school children, he will receive a salary from the board of education.

In this way, board directors say, they will be able to go ahead with their plans for forwarding playground work without being connected with the city's activities along similar lines.

Attorneys Agree.

When Clifford L. Hilton, assistant attorney general, recently ruled that the city and school district had no right to enter into a co-partnership for the purpose of operating municipal playgrounds, members of the school board were not surprised, they said, because the board's attorneys had previously presented a similar opinion.

In the 1916 budget school directors have set aside $4,000 for school playgrounds, and this sum probably will be used by Director Batchelor. The council, in its 1916 budget, also made allowances for social centers, skating rinks and municipal playgrounds.

"The board is in favor of playgrounds," said Mrs. T. J. Davis, chairman of the committee on schools, which will report at the next general board meeting on the playground question. "We want to go ahead with the supervised play at every building where it is possible, and the decision of Mr. Hilton has in no way altered our plans."

ZOO BARRED BY CHARTER

City Attorney Thinks Keeping Elk Is Not Provided For.

Sees No Objection to Feeding Native Birds and Animals.

Maintenance of a public zoological garden out of the city funds would be a violation of the city charter, according to an opinion handed down this morning by City Attorney Greene at the request of Mayor Prince.

The city attorney contends that the expenses would have to come out of the welfare fund, which includes no provision whatever for the establishment of a zoo. It does warrant, he states, the purchase and maintenance of animals as might in the ordinary course of nature live in a local park, such as rabbits or birds. The city could not spend money to bring animals here or to maintain them in public parks.

Copies of the opinion were mailed this morning to the members of the commission and Neil B. Morrison, past exalted ruler of the Duluth Lodge of Elks, who has led the campaign of the local fraternal body for the establishment of a public zoological garden. The lodge members have offered to supply the necessary wire fence and posts for the erection of an enclosure, but as a result of the city attorney's opinion, it is believed that the proposition will be turned down by the council at the meeting next Monday.

City Attorney Greene's opinion follows:

"Referring to your favor of the first instant, asking a question in regard to the public welfare fund, I beg leave to state that the only clause in relation to that fund which would seem to justify the maintenance of a zoo is the one allowing the maintenance of public parks and similar places of public recreation. In my judgment, that clause would not warrant the expenditure of a large sum of money to establish a zoological garden, but it would warrant the purchase and maintenance of such animals as might in the ordinary course of nature live in a place of that kind. For instance, in Druid park in Baltimore there is kept a large herd of deer, and I do not believe there would be anything unlawful, if this city had a park the size of Druid park, in stocking it with deer.

"There are, of course, no authorities on the construction of this clause, and my ideas are not particularly clear about it, but I should say that if you wanted to foster deer, rabbits or birds, or other living creatures which might be found in such park in the course of nature, you would have the right to do so, but I do not believe that you would be justified in establishing a large collection of animals or in buying animals, which could not live in the park naturally. Very respectfully,

"HENRY F. GREENE,
"City Attorney."

WHAT CAME UP.

Pittsburgh Chronicle - Telegraph: "London's a dreary sort of place, and the smoke's something awful!" the returned countryman was telling his awed village friends.

"It's so thick, the air is, that I wonder anything grows there. I planted some corn in a box on my window sill, to remind me of home, and what do you think came up?"

One suggested wheat, while another thought oats more likely. But most of them remained silent, looking at their venturesome friend with respect.

"All wrong!" said the returned traveler, presently. "A policeman came up and told me to take the box down at once!"

BASEBALL AS IT WAS

When From Six to Twenty Men Played on Each Side and There Were Only Fourteen Rules to Govern the Whole Game.

Kansas City Star: Back as far as the 30s of the last century—probably even farther back—certain localities called the grand old game of today, baseball, by the name we do now. The rules of the pastime have undergone many changes, although some of the rules today are the same as those in the first set got up by the Knickerbocker club in 1845. Fourteen rules comprised the first set, as compared to the hundred or more of today, to say nothing of the many sections of the different rules.

The following is a description of "Massachusetts Baseball" as played on the Boston common in the early 30s:

> The number of players on a side might vary from six to twenty, but eight was the regulation number. The field was an irregular polygon. There were really five bases, for the home base and the batter's base were not coincident. The ball was made of any soft and elastic material, such as wound yarn, a sturgeon's nose, and later, hollow rubber. The pitcher—known as the "thrower" or "giver"—stood midway of the polygon. The catcher stood up close behind the bat, but he had a "scout" to assist him, since this game, like cricket, made no distinction between fair and foul balls—anything off the bat was a hit. There were no basemen, for a runner off base was put out—just as in rounders—by being hit with the ball. Five scouts assisted in fielding balls and "scaling" the runner. Hence the soft ball. A ball caught off the bat, or on first bound, was out. Even after real baseball came this game had long survived.

The First Real Ball Game.

Then afterwards there came an evolution of baseball in New York. One-o-cat, two-o-cat and three-o-cat were the most popular kinds of baseball indulged in by the New York boys until 1840, when one-o-cat became the fad. One summer afternoon in 1842, as the boys were playing around the famous Murray Hill grounds in New York city, Alex J. Cartwright happened along and told the youngsters he had a better game than the one-o-cat affair. The boys were willing to find out what the new contest was and at once proceeded to ask Mr. Cartwright about it.

Mr. Cartwright scratched off the diamond in the Murray Hill dust with a stick and the boys watched with open eyes and listened with open ears as he laid off the diamond, using stones for the bases and home plate. He set a player at each base and three scouts as they were called then, in the outfield. So with eight players on a side, no shortstop, the New York lads played their first real game of baseball.

It was a matter of ten years afterward before "Dicky" Pearce made the position of shortstop a regular place on a ball team. Pearce's ability to get infield grounders and his throwing arm giving him the honor. The yarn ball then gave way to a heavier and larger ball than the one used today. The ball at that time cost $2. The "pill" was covered with sheep skin, the cover being sewed on in four sections by the village shoemaker. The Knickerbocker club was the first ball club to be formed and held the honor of being the only one of its kind until the Gothams put in their appearance.

Original Set of Rules.

The following is the first set of baseball rules, and they were made by the Knickerbockers in 1845:

Section 1. The bases shall be from "home" to second base forty-two paces; from first to third base forty-two paces equidistant.

Sec. 2. The game to consist of twenty-one counts or aces, but at the conclusion an equal number of hands must be played.

Sec. 3. The ball must be pitched and not thrown for the bat.

Sec. 4. A ball knocked outside the range of the first or third base is foul.

Sec. 5. Three balls being struck at and missed, and the last one caught, is a hand out; if not caught is considered fair, and the striker bound to run.

Sec. 6. A ball being struck or tipped, and caught either flying or on the first bound, is a hand out.

Sec. 7. A player, running the bases, shall be out if the ball is in the hands of an adversary on the base, or the runner is touched by it before he makes his base—it being understood, however, that in no instance is a ball to be thrown at him.

Sec. 8. A player running who shall prevent an adversary from catching or getting the ball before making his base is a hand out.

Sec. 9. If two hands are already out, a player running home at the time a ball is struck cannot make an ace if the striker is caught out.

Sec. 10. Three hands out, all out.

Sec. 11. Players must take their strike in regular turn.

Sec. 12. No ace or base can be made on a foul strike.

Sec. 13. A runner can not be put out in making one base when a balk is made by the pitcher.

Sec. 14. But one base allowed when the ball bounds out of the field when struck.

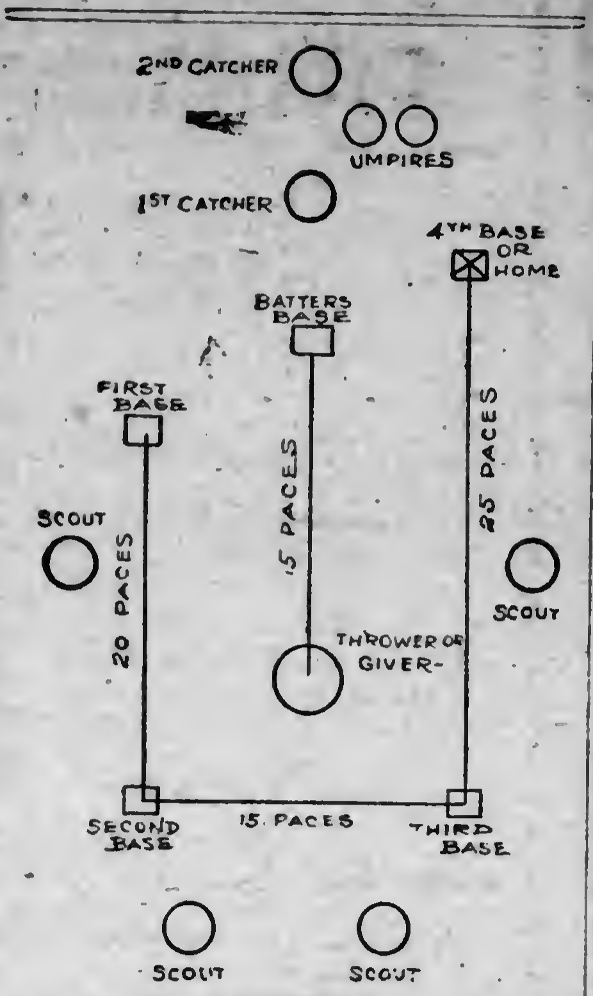

DIAGRAM OF A BALL FIELD IN THE EARLY '30s.

Reporting Baseball in 1856.

In 1856 baseball was gaining in favor and the following is how the Spirit of the Times of Sept. 6 of that year wrote up the game:

"This noble American game, which all the seductions of the scientific game of cricket have not been able to undermine, is growing more and more in favor every day. No less than three matches were played last week and the attendance at each was not only very large, but made brilliant by great gatherings of women, whose interest in the sport seemed to be not at all short of that experienced by the most occupied observer of the other sex. We are inclined to think, too, that this feature of these occasions has no little effect in inspiring the players in the game, and that the last energy of every contestant is taxed by the consciousness that he must win or lose in the minds of an exceedingly keen and scrutinizing class of lookers-on. We are much pleased to see the beautiful and fair of this city lend the charm of their presence to the healthful out-of-doors sports and exercises, and we have a shrewd opinion that more than one of them attends the grounds with a view of sharply measuring among the players the qualities of what might make a serviceable future husband. Among the matches we allude to, the return game between the Baltic club of this city and the Union club of Morrisania may be mentioned as the most prominent from the great attendance that was present. It was played Wednesday of last week, but was suspended in consequence of being overtaken by the shades of night. At the time of the adjournment the score stood fifteen runs in favor of the Union and twelve runs for the Baltic. The matter is to stand thus till the resumption of the game, but no day was named."

WEATHER FOLKLORE, ANCIENT AND MODERN

Washington Star: It is safe to assume that folks in the dim and distant past acquired weather wisdom by observing weather sequences and noting the effects of atmospheric conditions on all objects, both animate and inanimate. It is also natural to suppose that all the knowledge thus acquired was handed down to their descendants from generation to generation, with, of course, some few changes and additions. This wisdom has been perpetuated in the form of trite sayings or proverbs, many of which are gems of weather lore.

As the normal pressure or weight of the atmosphere is about one ton to every square foot of surface at the level of the sea, and a change of one inch in the column of the barometer means a change in pressure of seventy pounds to every square foot of surface, decided changes in atmospheric pressure must exert a marked influence upon the body and its functions. A rise or fall of one inch of the barometer is not uncommon in many parts of the United States and this causes a change of about one-half ton in the weight of the atmosphere that is sustained by the average human body.

It is not difficult, therefore, to imagine that the physical organism of delicate human bodies and many animals may be extremely sensitive to these atmospheric changes. Pains, aches and nervousness in humans and restless behavior on the part of animals, birds and insects may, in a measure, be attributed to low, rapidly decreasing atmospheric pressure that precedes and attends storms.

Birds fly high when the barometer is high and fly low when the barometer is low. The explanation of this fact is that when the barometer is high the air is heavier and denser and has more sustaining capacity, and birds are, therefore, able to fly or soar high with less effort than would be required at times when the barometer is low and the air less dense. The low flight of rooks indicates rain. When the cuckoo is heard in low lands it indicates rain; when on high lands, fair weather. When the swallows in the evening fly high and chirp, fair weather follows; when their flight is low, look out for a storm within twenty-four hours. When hawks fly high it is a sign of clear sky; when they fly low, prepare for a blow. Bees will not swarm just before a storm. When bees remain in their hives or fly but a short distance, expect rain. Men work better, eat more, and sleep sounder when the barometer is high. Smoke falls to the ground before a storm.

Changes in temperature before, during and after storms also have an effect on animal and plant life and many proverbs are based on these effects. As, however, changes in temperature are the direct result of wind directions, sayings regarding temperature are almost invariably associated with those relating to the wind.

The warmth of the south wind is enervating.

The cold of the north wind is bracing.

The chill of the east wind brings aches and pains.

The west wind is best of all.

When the wind is in the north,
The skillful fisher goes not forth;
When the wind is in the east,
'Tis good for neither man nor beast;
Whe nthe wind is in the south,
It blows the flies in the fish's mouth;
When the wind is in the west,
Then it is the very best.
—Izaak Walton.

If the temperature increases between 9 p. m. and midnight when the sky is clear, expect rain, and if, during a long cold spell, the temperature increases between midnight and morning, expect a thaw. In the summer when a hot, moist wind blows and the sun burns more than usual, expect thunderstorms.

The temperature of the air increases before rain, the capacity of the air for moisture increases with increased temperature, and the rain winds of the United States are from the oceans and the gulf. It follows then that there is an increase in the humidity of the air before a storm. The following proverbs are based upon the effects of the atmospheric moisture that have been observed preceding rain:

A red sun has water in his eye.

Doors and windows are hard to shut when storms approach.

Sailors note the tightening of the cordage on ships as a sign of coming rain.

Ropes being difficult to untwist indicate rain.

Heavy frost brings rain or snow.

When flowers are very fragrant rain may be expected.

Tobacco becomes moist preceding rain.

Flies sting and become more troublesome upon the approach of a storm.

Horses sweating in the stable indicate rain.

Snakes expose themselves on the approach of rain.

To enable all dumb creatures to prepare for trouble, they seem to have been given an unknown sense informing them of coming storms. Cats have the reputation of being very weather wise. It is almost universally believed that good weather may be expected when the cat washes herself; but bad weather is supposed to come very soon if she licks her coat against the grain, or sits with her tail to the fire.

Dogs making holes in the ground, eating grass in the morning or refusing meat are said to indicate stormy weather. When horses and cattle stretch their necks and sniff the air it will rain. All shepherds agree that before a storm sheep become frisky, leap and butt or "box" each other.

When fish bite readily and swim near the surface, rain is coming. Blackfish in schools indicate an approaching gale. Fish in general, both in salt and fresh waters, are observed to sport most and bite more eagerly before rain than at any other time. Ants are very busy, gnats bite, crickets are lively, spiders come out of their nests and flies gather in houses just before rain.

The following are some well known long range weather proverbs based upon the observed or supposed habits of certain animals and birds:

"In early and long winters the beaver cuts his supply of winter wood and prepares his house one month earlier than usual."

"Observe which way the hedgehog builds her nest,
To front the north or south, or east or west;
For 'tis true what common people say,
The wind will blow quite the contrary way.
If by some secret art the hedgehog knows,
So long before, the way in which the wind will blow,
She has an art which many a person lacks
That thinks himself fit to make our almanaks."
—Poor Robin's Almanak.

"When squirrels are scarce in autumn it indicates a cold winter."

"When flying squirrels sing in mid winter, it indicates an early spring."

"If on Candlemas day (February 2,) it is clear, the ground hog will stay in his den. This indicates more snow and cold for six weeks. If it is a cloudy or stormy day on February 2 the ground hog will creep out and winter is ended."

"When martens appear winter is broken."

"The earlier the migratory birds fly south the earlier will come the winter."

"That the moon has a controlling influence in matters meterological is a fixed belief in the minds of many."

"The moon, her face if red be,
Of water, speaks she."
—Zuni Indians.

"If the full moon rises clear expect fine weather."

"A lunar halo indicates rain or snow and the larger the halo the sooner the storm will come."

"If the new moon appears with the points of the crescent turned up the next four weeks will be dry. If the points are turned down it will be wet."

There are many seafaring people, however, who believe the opposite is true.

When the moon lies on her back
She sucks the wet into her lap.

The moon and the weather
May change together;
But change of the moon
Does not change the weather
If we'd no moon at all,
And that may seem strange,
We still should have weather
That's subject to change.

The following are some of the strange proverbs or sayings originated many, many years ago:

If on the 8th of May it rain
It foretells a wet harvest, men sain.

Dog days bright and clear
Indicate a good year;
But when accompanied by rain,
We hope for better times in vain.

In this month is St. Swithin's day (July 15).
On which, if that it rain they say,
Full forty days after it will
More or less some rain distill.

September 15 is said to be clear six years out of seven.

A green Christmas makes a fat churchyard.

Wednesday clearing, clear till Sunday.

If on Friday it rain
'Twill on Sunday again.
If Friday be clear
Have for Sunday no fear.

The month that comes in fair
For end, beware!
The month that starts with a storm
At the end there'll be no harm.

A warm January means a cold May.

January warm, the Lord have mercy!

There is always one fine week in February.

If February give much snow
A fine summer it does foreshow.

As it rains in March, so it rains in June,

March in January, January in March.

March damp and warm will bring the farmer much harm.

A cold April the barn will fill.

Till April's dead, change not a thread (of clothing.)

As July, so the next January
As August, so the next February.
As September, so the next March.

A wet September: drought for next summer.

Much rain in October, much wind in December.

Warm October, cold February.

Who doffs his coat on a winter's day
Will gladly put it on in May.

If spring is wet and cold, autumn will be hot and dry

After a wet year, a cold one

A year of radishes, year of health.

A year of good grass, good for nothing else.

SNOW TEN FEET DEEP ON CAUCASIAN FRONT

Grand Duke Nicholas' Troops Fighting Under Adverse Conditions.

Constantinople, Dec. 3, via London.—Fighting between the forces of Grand Duke Nicholas and their Turkish opponents on the Caucasian front is proceeding under the most adverse weather conditions. An official statement issued today says:

"Activity on the Caucasian front is hampered by fresh snow which is ten feet deep, and also by cyclones."

LIVING AS HE GOES ALONG

Indianapolis Star: A resident of Baltimore, a sweeper employed on the streets of the city at $12 a week, has returned from his tenth annual trip to Europe. He is an Englishman and spends six to nine weeks every summer among the scenes of his childhood and in visiting relatives and friends. Each autumn he returns to Baltimore, goes back to his little cart, broom and shovel to earn and save the money for another trip next year. Deducting time he is away he does not get more than $500 a year, but last year was able to lay aside $115 for his trip.

He does not travel in state, of course, when he goes abroad, but he goes. His example is interesting mainly as illustrating how much is within the reach of those who make a determined effort to get what they want. He does not hesitate because he cannot have the best stateroom on the ship. He cuts the coat according to his cloth and makes it fit, instead of frittering away what he has because it is not as much as someone else has and does not seem enough.

The Baltimore sweeper may be looked upon as foolish by some and as a philosopher by others. His program certainly is not likely to end in a competence or even a modest sum laid by for a rainy day. But he is getting out of life more than a mere living, even if he is not accumulating wealth for a rainy day that may never arrive. He is taking life as it comes and not worrying about the future. He may be wiser than some others who have an excess of foresight.

USED RIGHT-OF-WAY FOR A HIGHWAY

For That Reason Hanks' Heirs Will Not Get $7,500 Verdict.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because F. M. Hanks, a Lyon county farmer, used the fenced in right-of-way of the Great Northern Railway company as a highway, his heirs will not receive the $7,500 granted by a jury because of his death. Hanks was killed while walking between two stations in Lyon county.

In directing a reversal of the lower court's findings, the court says that travel by pedestrians along and upon the tracks of a fenced railway right-of-way, running through the ordinary agricultural district, does not mean that the railroad company offers an invitation for its use as a public highway. Hanks, the court says, was clearly a trespasser.

Kansas City Star: Mrs. Youngbride—I want to get a hat for my husband. It's to be a surprise for him.

Clerk—What size, madam?

Mrs. Youngbride—Really, I forgot to find out. But he wears a 15 collar, so I suppose he'd want 20 or 22 in a hat, wouldn't he?

THINKS HIM MERCENARY

Duluth Woman Sues Realty Dealer Who Acted as Advisor.

Now Believes His Sympathy in Divorce Case Cost Her $5,500.

Three years ago when storms of trouble ruffled the matrimonial sea upon which Ellen D. Montgomery and her erstwhile husband had set sail she sought W. C. Sherwood, local real estate dealer, for advice.

But since she came out of a bitterly contested divorce case victorious over her husband, she has changed her mind about her former adviser and now believes that his motives were mercenary.

In district court today Mrs. Montgomery filed suit against Mr. Sherwood to recover $5,625. She placed her business affairs in Mr. Sherwood's hands, she states, and that sum is due her from him, in her opinion.

The story of the relations between Mrs. Montgomery and her confidant, as related in papers filed today in court, is an aftermath of a story of the divorce court.

Story of Divorce Case.

Robert D. Montgomery, then 26, engineer and surveyor, was defendant in a divorce action brought by his wife on the grounds of cruelty. Among other things, he claimed that he owned forty lots in Carnegie addition, near Superior, which shortly after his marriage he had deeded over to his wife to be held in trust for him.

Montgomery thought that he saw two years' profits vanish in thin smoke when he learned that his wife had sold the property. In Wisconsin, a wife may execute a deed without her husband's consent. He learned that she had negotiated the deal through W. C. Sherwood and had the latter cited to appear in court and show cause why he should not be restrained from disposing of the funds received from the sale. The money received from the sale being in Duluth and within the jurisdiction of the court, Judge Cant made a division of the fund between husband and wife, and Montgomery got part of his money back.

In her suit against Mr. Sherwood, Mrs. Montgomery alleges that at the time she first met the defendant, she was a married woman, aged 27, and enstranged from her husband. She alleges that Mr. Sherwood was acquainted with this fact, that he told her that he had learned of her trouble and through his pretended sympathy, she declares, he won her confidence. As Mr. Sherwood impressed her, she says, he was unselfishly trying to assist her. As a result, she states, she placed complete trust in him.

Owned Lots in Carnegie.

Mr. Sherwood knew that Mrs. Montgomery owned forty lots at Carnegie. He had previously sold them to her husband. During their trouble he advised that it would be to her best interests to immediately dispose of this property. He stated that he would be glad to arrange the sale and that he would be glad to do it for her with but a very small charge, less than what the usual charge would be.

Mrs. Montgomery recited in her complaint that she was not experienced in business affairs and that relying upon his advice, she authorized him to make the sale. He sold the lots for $2,500. From this amount he deducted $500 to cover a mortgage which he held against the property and $250 commission. Mrs. Montgomery alleges that the usual commission paid is 5 per cent and that Mr. Sherwood charged her 10 per cent. She asks for a refund of $125.

In a second cause of action she alleges that Mr. Sherwood advised her that she would be extremely fortunate if she secured $2,500 for the forty lots, while as a matter of truth and fact the lots were probably worth $8,000, she believes. She claims that she thereby lost $5,500 and asks judgment for this amount.

The Montgomerys were married Feb. 20, 1910, and lived together until March 12, 1912. They were divorced in May, 1913. Since that time Montgomery has remarried.

McCoy & Hanson, who appeared as attorneys for Montgomery in defense of the divorce action, have been retained by Mrs. Montgomery to prosecute the case against Mr. Sherwood.

SCHOOL MUST HAVE SEWERS OR CLOSE

Health of Pupils Menaced at New Duluth, Says Dr. Fahey.

Unless a proper sewer connection is made at the Stowe school immediately, the structure will be ordered closed, according to Dr. E. W. Fahey, public health director.

In a communication mailed to the city council this morning, Dr. Fahey declares that conditions at the New Duluth school are insanitary and that a sewer connection is absolutely necessary for the safety and health of the children. He asks the commissioners to have the work done at once, as the building will have to be closed.

All sewage, according to the health director, flows in a cess pool on the school grounds, which should be replaced with the proper sewer connections.

AUSTRIA AGAIN ASKED FOR REPLY

American Ambassador Makes Second Request in Ancona Case.

Vienna, Dec. 3, via London. — The American ambassador, Frederick C. Penfield, today repeated his request to the Austrian government that it make a reply to the American note respecting the circumstances in connection with the sinking of the steamship Ancona in the Mediterranean by an Austrian submarine, as a result of which several Americans lost their lives.

The American note was delivered by Ambassador Penfield on Nov. 22. The Austrian government informed the ambassador last week that it desired more time to formulate its reply.

GET PASSPORTS TO NEUTRAL STATES

Henry Ford and 125 Others Are Provided With Documents.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Henry Ford was granted a passport by the state department today to visit Norway, Sweden, Denmark and the Netherlands. A representative brought his application from New York. The citizenship bureau of the department by noon had issued more than 125 passports to peace advocates who will sail from New York tomorrow on the steamer Oscar II. None made application to visit any other than neutral countries.

There was no difficulty encountered in the issuance of passports except in a few cases where the applications were defective.

WAR IS TAKING OFF AMERICA'S WALNUT

Allies Taking All They Can Get for Gunstocks—Just at a Time, Too, When This Wood Is Returning to Popularity for Furniture and Finish, Says the Kansas City Star.

FACTS ABOUT AMERICAN WALNUT. "ARISTOCRAT OF AMERICAN HARDWOODS."

No other wood has ever been found to replace it in gunstocks.

Every belligerent of Europe is clamoring for it.

It is coming back as a favorite for furniture, selling at the same price as mahogany.

The annual production is 50,000,000 feet.

Missouri produced 4,635,000 feet in 1912.

The price has aviated 20 per cent.

The supply was declared gone twenty-five years ago, but there is as much in sight now as ever.

It will replace Circassian walnut, some predict.

About twenty-five years ago Frank Purcell and John Penrod, Kansas City buyers of hardwood lumber, met at the Kansas City Stock exchange.

"How about walnut?" Penrod asked.

"I can hardly get it," Purcell replied.

"Nor I. The supply will all be gone in four years," Penrod answered.

That impression, widely broadcast, and a change in fashion, perhaps explains why American furniture dealers quit making walnut furniture about that time, and yet—

The Penrod Walnut & Veneer company is making thousands of walnut gunstocks for the warring nations and Frank Purcell is shipping an average of two carloads of walnut a day for export.

No Substitute so Good.

"No other wood has ever been found that will take the place of American walnut in gunstocks," Mr. Purcell said, "and I assume that most of the millions of guns that are being used in this war are equipped with the American product."

The superiorities of American walnut for this use lie in its beauty, easy finishing qualities, its excellent wearing qualities in hard usage and its resiliency, which aids in taking up the recoil of the gun.

"Walnut saves many a shoulder, I am told," Mr. Purcell says.

But the feature of the walnut situation that pleases Mr. Purcell most is the growing American demand.

"For years we have been letting Europe put it over us in this matter," he said. "Her cabinet makers, recognizing the beauty and utility and easy working qualities of our walnut, have been buying it and making it into furniture. Our cabinet makers sat back and said there was no walnut, even though the country was producing 50,000,000 feet annually."

But American walnut as a cabinet material is coming back, not covered with paint and varnish and its beauty hidden as of yore, but finished and oiled and waxed.

No Circassian Walnut Now.

Armies are romping over that part of the Russian Caucasia where Circassian walnut comes from, and there is no Circassian walnut to be had now. It grows in the Caucasus mountains, among the rocks, a gnarled, stunted tree. Sand, gravel and even rocks are found imbedded in the wood, and the veneering knives are ruined when they hit an obstruction of that kind. The Circassian wood sells for three times what the American product or mahogany does, because of these facts, coupled with the cost of getting it out from the Black sea, through the Dardanelles, the Mediterranean and across the Atlantic.

Where does the supply of American walnut come from?

Mr. Purcell hardly knows. His buyers find it everywhere. Many farmers have woods pastures filled with walnut trees. Lots of them are offering to sell now, believing that the present high prices are favorable for marketing. Many others are finding that grass does not grow readily under their trees and are selling to improve the pastures. The supply seems to show no diminution.

"I hope we learn better than to give it all to Europe," Mr. Purcell says.

JUNE SACRED TO HYMEN.

New Orleans States: The first people to adopt the month of June as sacred to Hymen, the god of marriage, were the ancient Romans, who held that June weddings were likely to be happier than alliances contracted in any other month of the year, especially if the day chosen were that of the full moon.

They also held that of all months May was to be most avoided, as in that month newlyweds would come under the influence of spirits adverse to happy households. These ancient marriage superstitions were retained by the Christians in the Middle Ages and even today June is considered by many to be pre-eminently the month of marriages.

EQUIP FOR BIG SEASON

Range Roads Make Purchases as Outlined Some Weeks Ago.

Eleven Locomotives and 1,950 Steel Cars Ordered; Terminals Increased.

The extensive addition of equipment to meet the expected heavy demand for ore next year, outlined in The Herald on Nov. 15, has just been ordered by W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, and F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range road. The expenditure for this new equipment by the two roads will be about $2,750,000. Eleven locomotives and 1,950 steel cars comprise the order. Besides this expenditure for equipment, a large sum is being spent by the Missabe road, increasing terminals at Proctor and putting in additional track scales, which are found necessary to meet the coming demand.

That the ore business next year will be vastly increased is evidently beyond the potential stage, as evidenced by the purchase just made by the roads and by the briskness of chartering boats to move ore next season, in some cases, charters being made for as much as four years ahead, with an advance of 10 cents a ton in rates.

Details of Purchases.

The purchases made by the two roads call for delivery in March of next year. They were as follows:

For the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road—Two Mallet compound locomotives, such as are now used between West Duluth and Proctor to overcome the heavy grade; six locomotives of the Santa Fe type, similar to those used on the mountain division of the Atchison, Topeka & Kansas road; 1,000 steel hopper ore cars, to be made by the Western Steel Car & Foundry company of Hegewisch, Ill., and 200 steel hopper coal cars, to be made by the Pullman company of Pullman, Ill.

For the Duluth & Iron Range road—750 steel hopper ore cars, from the American Car & Foundry company and the Standard Steel Car company, and three Mikado type locomotives for heavy freight service.

FOOTBALL STAR DIED A WAR HERO

Johnny Poe of Princeton Among Those Killed in the Black Watch Regiment in Northern France.

Kansas City Star: "Johnny" Poe, famous Princeton football star and widely known soldier of fortune, who for several years was a familiar figure as a powder salesman in Kansas and Oklahoma, fell fighting with the allies in Northern France.

The news of his death reached a brother, S. Johnson Poe of Baltimore, Md., in the following printed card from the London war office:

With regret we inform you that Private John P. Poe of Baltimore, Md., U. S. A., was killed in action on September 25, 1915, at ——.

Poe was with the famous Black Watch regiment of Highlanders, which was practically annihilated in the drive against the Germans.

First a Football Star.

In 1891 Johnny Poe entered Princeton and became a football star, winning a place on the varsity team. His work on the gridiron rivaled that of his brother, Edgar Allen Poe, who preceded him at Princeton, but his devotion to athletics resulted in his failing to pass his examinations. The next year he entered Princeton again, this time with the class which was to graduate in 1896, and again he spent his time and energies at football, winning fame, but failing a second time in his studies. That ended his college career.

The Poes are a distinguished family. Johnny's father was John Prentiss Poe, Sr., attorney general of Maryland. Other members of the family were jurists and lawyers. Edgar Allen Poe, the American poet, was of the line. So when Johnny left the university he felt it was up to him to reflect the glories and traditions of the name in some other field of endeavor.

Penetrated Death Valley.

He struck out for Nevada and became a miner. There he won local fame over night when he put his football training to practical use and whipped a big foreigner who spoke insultingly of the Stars and Stripes.

Mining palled on him, however, and he turned his attention to Death Valley, which had been brought into the limelight by "Scotty" and his lavish spending of the fortune he said he had made in the lost mines of the alkali desert valley. Johnny Poe disappeared for several weeks, and when he returned to civilization it was with the new that he had penetrated Death Valley and found not only Scotty's mines, but a robber's cave, where several Wells-Fargo treasure boxes, broken and empty, testified to sudden wealth that some bandit had acquired in the past.

Then came the Spanish-American war, and Johnny Poe enlisted in a Maryland regiment. When it was over, the love of fighting sent the former football star to Central America.

He was captain in the Honduran army in the war between Honduras and Nicaragua in 1907. When peace was concluded, Poe went to San Francisco and there recruited a "foreign legion" which he commanded in Gen. Mendez's filibustering expedition against Gen. Castro, dictator of Venezuela, in 1908.

Went to Philippines.

Next he appeared in San Francisco again, and enlisted in the Sixteenth Infantry for service in the Philippines. His enlistment served, he returned to the United States and found his way to the oil fields of Kansas and Oklahoma. There he sold powder and nitroglycerin for shooting wells. He sold shells to the gun clubs of the Southwest, too, and many a sportsman in Kansas City and the adjoining territory remembers Johnny Poe, the alert, smiling powder salesman who knew all about handling a gun and could spin yarns by the hour about fighting in Latin America and in the islands across the Pacific.

Handy as a Gunner.

His friends, therefore, were not surprised when he heard the call of battle from overseas. The Poes, away back, had been the de la Poers of Ireland, who had held for centuries the now dormant barony of de la Poer and Coroghmore. So it was to Ireland that Johnny Poe hied himself. There he enlisted in the British Royal field artillery. He was handy as a gunner and his knowledge gained in three previous wars stood him in good stead. When the Black Watch regiment wanted a man to take charge of its quick firing gun squad, Johnny Poe was selected, partly on the reputation he had made in the service and partly through the influence of Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador to Washington, who admires Princeton university very much and who was interested in the former football star on that account.

Thus it was that the soldier of fortune found himself, after a year with the Royal field artillery, in the noted Black Watch regiment and bossing the gunners who handled the rapid fire light field pieces which that regiment carried with it into battle.

In a Famous Regiment.

The Black Watch regiment is one around which the halo of romance has hung for hundreds of years. It was organized in 1688 by the Earl of Athol and was known in Gaelic as the Freiceadan Dubh. Its members wore dark tartan kilts. In 1739 it became the Forty-second regiment of the line and so is known today. From Fontenoy down to the present moment, few regiments of the British army have achieved the glories that have fallen to the Black Watch. Johnny Poe followed its pipers to death and glory.

Shortly before this news came from the British war office, the secretary of his class at Princeton received a letter from him, in which he said:

> I trust that I shall be on hand at the next roundup to tell you "how the play came up," or in other words how me and K. of K. made the "sauerkrauts" wish that war had never been invented.
>
> And now, in the stately language of the rancher and miner, "I looks toward you all, and also bows. I hope I catches your eye."

LET BOY CHOOSE HIS CAREER.

Isaac Dedham in the Mother's Magazine: Given a basis of good character, good health and thoroughness, the choice of life work is the next great influence upon a boy. Many parents foredoom their son to failure by trying to force him to gratify their ambitions in a calling for which he has neither interest nor ability instead of helping him to develop his own individuality.

The false idea that there is social distinction in certain professons is the basis of many failures that might have successes in other callings.

Wherever we look we see failures, many of whom were men of undoubted ability, whose talents were misdirected. You, whose sons have their future all before them, can guard against shipwreck by studying their taste, directing their abilities and discussing with them the problem of their future. If you cannot afford to see them through a long term of training for some profession, discuss the matter freely so that they will appreciate the necessity of turning their interest into other channels—unless they can work their work through their training without impairment of health.

WHEN HIS NERVE FAILED.

Strand Magazine: The following true instance of an example of Cockney wit is related by an officer:

He was in a trench facing one held by Germans. The latter simply gave his men no rest, tormenting them in every possible way. The persecuted ones ached to go for their neighbors, and when the chance came they got a bit of their own back. During the skirmish the officer saw one of his men corner four Germans in a small yard. When calm had settled he asked what had happened in that particular spot.

"Well, sir, you see it was like this: They all threw up their hands, so I shot two and then I hadn't the heart to go on—I really hadn't, sir; so I bayoneted the other two!"

SPOTTERS ARE ON THE WATCH

Said to Be in Hibbing to See There Is No Infraction of Lid Order.

Finnish Temperance Society to Co-operate With Government Agents.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—There appears to be no change in the local Indian lid and so far as can be learned there have been no arrests since Agent Larson and his deputies closed the saloons Tuesday afternoon. About thirty of the former saloons are open, furnishing soft drinks.

The Finnish Temperance society has joined with the Federal officers in seeing there is no lid tilting and it is announced today that members of that organization will keep their eyes open against any effort to bring in, or sell, liquor here so long as the lid continues. Mayor Power is credited with having instructed Chief of Police Dwyer to see that the saloons respected the orders of the Indian agents.

Some "Spotters" In Town.

So far as known there are only two accredited Indian agents in town today and the same number are at Chisholm. It is said, however, that there are a number of "spotters" in town, gum-shoeing around to see there is no lid tilting, but whether these are working with the Indian agents or are hired by temperance societies, does not develop.

Sensational stories, printed in some papers, about an air of gloom settling down on Hibbing are declared idle dreams; everything seems to be moving along as before and with a majority of the saloons open for the soft drink trade, the village and streets present the usual appearance. The same is said to apply to Chisholm and other towns affected by the court's order.

Only seven of Indian Agent Larson's men are known to Hibbing citizens. Their work in connection with the raid on saloons was the means of identifying them to hundreds, but the secret worker, the man who is looking out for infringers of the law is everywhere.

That Hibbing will contain no blind pigs is the opinion of most citizens. The penalty connected with the breaking of the law's dictates, especially against the Federal government, is too great a risk for law offenders to do anything that would bring them a severe fine or a stiff sentence.

Cigar Makers Leaving.

Hibbing cigar makers are leaving Hibbing by every train. The saloon closing has worked havoc in the ranks of the "weed turners" and as the wet goods merchants were among the cigar maker's best customers, many of the local factories have been forced to work with half forces.

The appeal has gone out that Hibbing citizens demand Hibbing-made cigars when they buy their smoking, in order to create a greater demand for the local brands and at the same time afford work for the cigar makers who are at present in the city and perhaps furnish labor for those who are out of work, many of the cigar makers having families depending upon them.

TAKEN TO STATE HOME.

Hibbing Woman Tires of Good Samaritan Role for Unfortunate Boy.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sharing her limited means with a 12-year-old youngster, whose mother lost her life in a shooting accident, while his father has practically forsaken him, Miss Alma Johnson became tired of playing the Good Samaritan act to a boy who gave her plenty of trouble by being a truant, and she asked for assistance.

It came in the person of Rev. John E. Hedberg, who left yesterday with the boy for Minneapolis, where he will place the youth in an orphans' home.

Miss Johnson, who out of pity for the boy, shortly after the mother died took him home and cared for him, hoping at a near date that the father would assist his offspring to take care of himself, but when that day never came she, much against her wishes, asked friends to assist her, with the result that the boy will be given good care in a supervised Children's home.

LOGGERS PLANNING FOR BUSY SEASON

Considerable Work Expected to Be Done in Woods This Winter.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Everything indicates a busy season in the woods in this section this winter.

Contractors who have been here ordering their supplies for the winter, predict one of the heaviest cuttings in years, basing their opinion on the early winter that has set in and the splendid opportunity it will afford them to get their logs out where they can be easily shipped.

The Al Dixon camps in the Floodwood river country will be a busy center. Mr. Dixon is shipping his horses and supplies to Tivola on the Bovey branch of the Missaba railroad. Mr. Dixon intends to cut timber for mining purposes and for saw logs. Seventy-five men will be in the Dixon camp.

Peter Swanson, on the Little Swan river, will have fifty men working in the woods this winter. Logging timber will be cut and sold to fill the contracts of the Brooklyn man.

On Little Swan.

Iver Liend, on the Little Swan river, will have 250 men in his employ. His contracts calls for a big cut of timber and he may add to that force later on.

The Sandy McClelland camps, situated in the Bear river country, will have a force of 150 men. The Stillwater company is filling contracts for the Beaudette Lumber company.

Connors Brothers will start work in a week on their Perch lake camps. They will ship their logs down the Sturgeon river.

John A. Mullahill will have a crew of forty men in his employ north of Chisholm and stated that the season this year looks like a big one to all the contractors.

Connors & Danahy, the Hibbing contractors, will employ fifty men to get out logs near Dewey lake. The crew of men have already established their camps and the cut will begin at once.

Winton Loggers Busy.

Winton, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local logging concerns are busy in the woods. The Swallow & Hopkins company has four large camps, and employ about 600 men, operating more extensively this winter than last and expect to cut about 16,000,000 feet of timber. A large amount of this will be for the Oliver Iron Mining company.

The St. Croix Lumber & Manufacturing company is operating nine camps and employing about 1,500 men. This concern expects to cut over 40,000,000 feet of logs. Besides these two large companies there are several small jobbers who are employing full crews.

The Section Thirty location also is busy, as the Section Thirty mine is working a full force, and is shipping steadily about fifteen cars to Duluth every day.

CHRISTMAS TREE BAN IS REMOVED

State Allows Cook Concern to Resume Its Former Business.

Cook, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to word received here from St. Paul State Auditor Jacob A. O. Preus, after a conference with Attorney William J. Archer of Virginia decided to lift the embargo on the Christmas trees being shipped from Cook by the American Forest Products company. The trees are taken from state lands in this vicinity, but it was proven to the state auditor that the trees were of little value and that the lands were improved by their removal; that the trees were of little value to the company unless treated with a patented process.

Wired to Go Ahead.

The state auditor placed a ban on the shipment of the trees last week, and as a result fifty-three employes of the company operating here were thrown out of work. After his conference with Attorney Archer, Auditor Preus wired officials of the company that they could resume operations. The Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific road agent here was also informed that he could accept shipments from the company. The company's fifty-three workmen resumed work yesterday.

The auditor's contention was that the trees were of little value to the company only when treated with a patented process.

COMMANDEERING ORDER NOT FELT BY D. W. & P.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the commandeering order on American owned wheat in Canada will not affect the number of railroad crews employed by the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific road, is the opinion of local officials of the road. No extra crews are used in the fall months to handle the wheat shipments from Canada, which are sent over the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific road to the elevators at Duluth.

To date this fall 300 cars of wheat were handled over the line from Winnipeg to Duluth.

The players have been divided into several classes, according to ages and schedules are being prepared. The 500 children will make about seventy teams, allowing seven men to a team.

LAST ORE VESSEL FROM TWO HARBORS

Season Closes After Shipping Over 3,000,000 Tons Above 1914.

Two Harbors, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the clearing of the steamer Arcturus yesterday with the last cargo of ore for Pickands-Mather & Co., the ore shipping season for 1915 closed.

The receipts and shipments for the season from the Iron Range ore docks amounted to 8,642,941 gross tons, or approximately 1,500,000 tons more than early estimates indicated.

During 1914 only 5,610,262 gross tons were shipped from here, or more than 3,000,000 tons less than was shipped this season. While the amount of ore handled this season is considerably less than has been shipped in some previous years, yet it was one of the most successful shipping seasons ever experienced by the local railroad company. The business was fairly uniform throughout the season, there were no serious train accidents, and only a few personal injuries of a minor nature.

Busy Season Next Year.

The prospects for a boomer shipping season next year appears to be very bright. All the rolling stock will be put into the best condition this winter. The shopmen have been put on full time for the winter. Several hundred new steel ore cars have been ordered by the Duluth & Iron Range road for spring delivery.

With the tearing down of dock No. 2 and the remodeling of dock No. 6, now under way, and the building of the new steel and concrete ore dock the coming year, involving an outlay of over $1,500,000, coupled with the prospects of exceptional good business on the iron range next year, the outlook for the city is much brighter than it has been for many years.

HIBBING DESIRES NEW POSTOFFICE

Postmaster Connors Will Urge Matter Upon State's Senators.

Hibbing, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing wants a new postoffice. Postmaster J. B. Connors is firmly of that belief and will use all means within his power to urge Senators Moses Clapp and Knute Nelson of Minnesota to demand a Federal building for Hibbing.

Hibbing's postoffice for years has been an eyesore. Crowded and without any proper accommodations either for the clerks or general public it has been ranked as one of the poorest on the range.

Postmaster Connors with the aid of an efficient staff and through his untiring efforts has made the best of the situation and the crowded conditions and he thinks the time ripe that the government grant Hibbing a new office—one that will do credit to the city.

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO HELP FARMERS

Virginia Organization to Aid in Developing Dairy Industry.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—After listening to an interesting and instructive talk by L. B. Arnold, land commissioner of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, on financing dairying in this section of the state, the Commercial club last evening indorsed the plan of helping farmers north and south of the city purchase livestock. President M. A. Murphy appointed Joseph Karl, F. W. Torvinen and Otto A. Stangel a committee to investigate the plan of the Duluth Commercial club in financing dairying.

Mr. Arnold urged local business men and bankers to guarantee a fund for the purchase of cows for farmers in this vicinity. The farmers would give chattel mortgages and would pay 7 per cent interest, 6 per cent to go to the merchants who contributed to the fund and 1 per cent to the banks for handling the clerical work.

"Merchants and others should not enter this proposition with an idea of making large rates of interest," declared Mr. Arnold. "The benefits will be indirect. In developing the surrounding country, you will have a larger community here. It will mean more business for the banks and merchants."

Farm boys should be encouraged to raise livestock, according to Mr. Arnold. They should be given bonuses for raising calves.

"The Iron Range road has a $10,000 revolving fund, which is used in the purchase of stock for settlers on lands sold by the railroad," said Mr. Arnold. "We could not assist you in your proposed fund to aid farmers, for then every other range community would ask us to donate to such funds to be established by it."

Should Band Together.

"A good plan is to have farmers band together and agree to pay for a bull or cows," said Mr. Arnold. "This makes the farmers interested in each other and the credit risks are minimized. The club signs a mortgage for the cows and each farmer is a credit man.

"Each community should remain loyal to one breed of cows. When buyers are in the market for cows they go to the communities which specialize in one breed."

Mr. Arnold said that his road was not in the cow business for profit; that the farmers were furnished the animals at cost, with $3 to $5 for cow insurance; that the plan of selling cows, which has been in operation by his road for the past four years, has been successful and that the farmers make small payments, paying the principal in 10 to 20 months.

"A little help at the right time puts our farmers on the road to wealth," said President C. L. Goodell of the Barnum Commercial club, a former farmer, who has had much experience in dairying.

County Agricultural Agent Larson declared the club was taking a step in the right direction by interesting itself in financing dairying in this district. "The farmer doesn't want to be pauperized, but a little help is always appreciated," said Agent Larson. "He wants to avoid mistakes and bankers and merchants can aid him."

F. W. Torvinen, O. A. Stangel and John Ketola were named as the agricultural committee of the club.

Road Donates Calf.

Mr. Arnold announced his road had donated $10 to the short course here, Dec. 13 to 17, for farm boys and that it would also give a calf as a prize at the course.

A petition, asking the city council to have a charter amendment, providing for taxing local taxpayers for the support of the Commercial club, submitted at the general election in February, was liberally signed. This provides that not more than $5,000 a year for Commercial club purposes should be spent here. This sum would pay the salary of a secretary, provide for club quarters, etc.

D. C. Reed opposed the amendment on the grounds that the club should not be supported by taxation and declared that it provided for an improper use of city funds. Senator O. H. Griggs said he was for the amendment and that as the club benefits the entire city it is proper to use taxation in supporting it.

General Manager R. W. Reynolds of the Mesaba Railway company was extended a vote of thanks for having the fare to and from Parkville reduced from 10 to 5 cents.

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty-five boys will attend the first short course for farm boys, which will be held here Dec. 13 to 17, inclusive under the auspices of the local school board. The course will be given in the Technical high school under the direction of Otto A. Stangel, instructor in agriculture in the local schools. The course has been well advertised by Mr. Stangel and County Agricultural Agent H. A. Larsen at points north and south of Virginia.

The opening day will deal with the care and judging of horses. In the morning Supt. P. P. Colgrove of the Virginia schools and Mr. Stangel will address the boys.

The second day will be devoted to a study of cows. The students will be taught how to judge cows and will be addressed on the feeding, care and types of cows. In the evening the students will be entertained at a moving picture show.

The third day will be given to crops; crop rotations, tillage, clearing land, potato types and selections. In the afternoon potato judging will be in order, and the farm boys are expected to bring several selections of potatoes.

VIRGINIA MACCABEES TO INITIATE BIG CLASS

Virginia, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fifty new members will be received into Mesaba Range tent, No. 14, Knights of the Maccabees, tomorrow night. The class is one of the largest and most representative which has ever been secured by any range lodge of the Maccabees and is the result of the efforts of Deputy Organizer Elderkin in behalf of the order in Virginia, extending over a period of several weeks.

The new degree team of the tent will do the work in the amplified ritual. J. B. Gileneau of Duluth, a member of the great camp and of the executive board of Minnesota will assist in the work with Mr. Elderkin.

Officers will be elected for the coming year and there will be addresses on the good and welfare of the order by Deputy Elderkin and Mr. Gileneau.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

Eveleth, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sam Ponke, employed by Solomon Sax on his farm near Forbes, has received a letter from his wife in Finland.

Light snow fell over New England states and Lake Michigan during the last twenty-four hours. The temperature has risen over the lake region, Upper Mississippi Valley and the Middle West, and has fallen over the Red River Valley and Southeastern states. Light frost at New Orleans, La., and Tampa, Fla. In the lake region the winds are generally light and rather variable."

Never Any Sour, Gassy or Acid Stomach, Heartburn or Dyspepsia.

"Pape's Diapepsin" Makes Weak Stomachs Strong and Healthy at Once.

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of indigestion, acidity or dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes belching, dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, nausea, indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), biliousness, heartburn, water brash, pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapepsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. A single dose will digest, all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist and start taking now, and in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy, strong stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

Should you at this moment be suffering from indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can get relief within five minutes—Advertisement.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

F. D. SHERMAN IS TO SPEAK

Minnesota Commissioner of Immigration to Address Flickertail Clubs.

Will Attend State Gathering at Fargo and Urge More Immigration.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The program for the annual meeting of the North Dakota Federation of Commercial Clubs, to be held here on Dec. 15 and 16, has been completed by Secretary J. P. Hardy of the federation and of the Fargo club.

The program differs considerably from the ordinary program for meetings of this nature in that there will be no set speeches or papers with the exception of the address of welcome by Secretary Hardy on the first day of the meeting, and the address of response by James A. Dinnie, president of the federation. Propositions will be stated and will be followed by round table discussions.

Two Important Subjects.

Two of the important subjects that are to be taken up at the meeting are immigration and farm labor. The Commercial clubs of the state are greatly interested in both topics. Immigration will be taken up on the afternoon of Wednesday, the discussion to be led by Fred B. Sherman, immigration commissioner of Minnesota, and R. F. Flint, commissioner of agriculture and labor of North Dakota.

The farm labor matter will be taken up Thursday morning when the statement will be made by W. C. Macfadden, secretary of the North Dakota Bankers' association. CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND CASTOR OIL

Give Fruit Laxative When Cross, Bilious, Feverish or Constipated.

"California Syrup of Figs" Can't Harm Tender Stomach, Liver, Bowels.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hate them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Advertisement.

SENATOR M'CUMBER IS OPPOSED BY TWO

Governor Hanna and Republican Committeeman Marshall in Game.

Bismarck, N. D, Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The entrance of T. F. Marshall, Republican national committeeman of North Dakota, and Governor Hanna in the race for United States senator against Senator Porter McCumber has enlivened Republican political matters considerably in this state.

The announcement of Marshall's candidacy was not unexpected. For several weeks there have been rumors that he would enter the race. He made a tour of a part of the state and is said to have sent out several thousand letters. The reception with which he met personally and the responses to his letters are said to have decided him to announce his candidacy. He served two terms in congress and withdrew to enter the senatorial race. He was in three contests but was never fortunate enough to win, though always developing considerable strength. He has a big following among one wing of the insurgents and many of his friends are quite optimistic over his candidacy.

T. F. MARSHALL.

The statement of Governor Hanna just before leaving for Europe with the Ford peace delegation that he would be a candidate was a long-delayed announcement of what most of his friends supposed was his ambition. He will state his platform on his return from Europe. The governor served in both branches of the legislature, was state chairman of the Republican committee, put in two terms as congressman and is now serving his second term as governor. His friends expected that he would naturally seek the promotion to the senatorship.

McCumber's Friends Stirred.

Friends of Senator McCumber are reported aroused over the candidacy of Marshall, as they had hoped to win over one element of the insurgent wing of the Republican party, especially if the contest was between McCumber and Hanna. With Marshall in the race they will be unable to do this and they assert Marshall cannot win, that his candidacy will merely bring about the defeat of McCumber. Marshall has no political friendship for either Hanna or McCumber and cannot be charged with seeking to assist either. His friends assert that with Hanna and McCumber scrapping, Marshall will be able to get away with the plum.

Judge Lauder of Wahpeton, who is credited with hating McCumber, politically and personally, and with having little more affection for Hanna, is reported extremely anxious to defeat McCumber, but he does not believe Marshall can do so and is advocating Speaker Hanson for the senatorship, contending that with Hanson's insurgent following, if Marshall will remain out of the race, and with Hanson's nationality support, the speaker could defeat both McCumber and Hanna. As Lauder switched from insurgentism to Bull Moosism, some of the insurgents are not inclined to accept him as a leader.

Friends of Hanson insist that it is too early to push him for the senatorship, that he should run for lieutenant governor or governor, then for the lower branch of congress before becoming a senatorial candidate. He is yet a young man and his closest supporters insist he will not be induced to become a candidate for the senatorship at this time.

TRUANT OFFICER FINDS DIPHTHERIA

Discovers Disease on Officially Calling on Bemidji Family.

Bemidji, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Quick work by the truant officer of the schools this week probably saved this city from an epidemic of diphtheria. The disease was discovered when the truant officer went to the McMeachen home to see why one of the members of the family was not attending school and was informed that the boy had a sore throat. The 3-year-old baby was also suffering from a sore throat and the truant officer immediately notified the city physician, who, on investigation, found it to be a case of diphtheria. The baby had reached the stage of the disease where its throat had become paralyzed, but the others, seven in number, who were affected by the disease, were not serious. The rooms the pupils attended were properly fumigated at once and every child in the Bemidji schools has been examined daily in an effort to stop any further outbreaks that might possibly occur. The members of the board of education have also authorzied Dr. G. M. Palmer, a member of the board, to secure the services of a school nurse at once and Dr. Palmer has notified the state board of health to send one as soon as possible.

ROD AGAIN IN USE IN FARGO SCHOOLS

Temporary Abolishment of Corporal Punishment Is Not Success.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—After having been under the ban for a little over a month, the rod is again in vogue in the Fargo public schools. This action was the result of a report of the teachers committee of the board of education which stated that the abolition of corporal punishment resulted disastrously to discipline.

A little over a month ago a boy was brought before the board, the parents alleging that he had been too severely punished for infractions of the school laws and the board abolished corporal punishment until the teachers committee should have an opportunity to investigate and report on the case.

Teacher Is Exonerated.

The report exonerates the teacher and shows that the committee found that the boy was not excessively punished and that the bruises he exhibited the board could not have been caused by the chastisement.

It was pointed out by the committee that there had been a number of infractions of discipline since the abolition and that on the morning after the rod was banished the boys of one school appeared with clippings from the newspapers, relating to the action of the board, pinned on their coats as badges.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Evenly That It Cannot Be Discovered.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggy, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and luster of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark, and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.—Advertisement.

AGRICULTURE DAY PROVING POPULAR

One Day in Wisconsin School Devoted to Farming Is Liked.

Grand Rapids, Wis., Dec. 3.—The introduction of the study of agriculture exclusively for one day in every week, known as "agriculture day," has proven a success according to the farmers of school district No. 5, town of Seneca, Wood county, who have attended the classes of Miss Esther Bautz, teacher.

Miss Bautz first taught the study occasionally to her younger pupils. The parents of the pupils became interested when the children sought assistance with their housework lessons.

Plans were made to devote an entire day every week to the subject. The school room was taxed to capacity yesterday when the professor of the county school of agriculture talked on potato raising and the care of dairy stock.

PAYS LAST FIRE CLAIM.

Canadian Northern Settles for Spooner-Baudette Loss.

Spooner, Minn., Dec. 3.—The Canadian Northern railway has just disposed of all blame in the Baudette-Spooner fire of five years ago through the presentation of the last check for damages to those awarded claims by the decision made by the Federal court at Fergus Falls several years ago.

The last payment was paid over following a consultation between S. M. Koefed, C. E. Middleton and Albert Chilgren, the plaintiffs' lawyers, and Charles Lorring of Crookston, company legal adviser. The present payment is the final installment of a claim of many thousands of dollars and clears the railroad of all damages to Baudette and Spooner citizens incurred during the famous Baudette-Spooner fire which utterly destroyed both villages

Flat Chested for 15 Years

SHE DEVELOPED HER BUST SIX INCHES IN THIRTY DAYS

Any Lady Can Do the Same by Following the Simple Directions Given Below

Why Exercise, Massage, Creams, Prescriptions, Apparatus, Appliances and Similar Methods Can Never Develop the Bust.

No longer need any woman suffer the humiliation of a flat, scraggy chest, nor endure the thoughtless shafts of ridicule or pity which pierce the hearts of those unfortunate members of her sex who lack that distinguishing and essential hallmark of perfect feminine beauty—a Perfect Bust. For fifteen years I vainly longed for this alluring attraction that Nature had denied me, and the lack of which overshadowed every other attraction I possessed. I foolishly and vainly tried worthless and harmful pills and medicines, also massage, creams, exercises, vacuum appliances, apparatus, electricity, prescriptions and everything else I had ever heard of, but only harm resulted, so I was finally obliged to give up in despair and conclude that my condition was hopeless and must be due to hereditary causes, like being too tall or too short.

Keep this picture and see your own bust undergoing the same marvelous transformation.

The miracle-working discovery which finally released me from this condition was purely accidental, and one which I shall never cease to regard as providential. A dull, dreary world became gay and bright again. I felt like a butterfly newly burst from its cocoon. In a single month my busts were developed six inches, the hollows in my cheeks, neck, chest and shoulders were quickly filled out and made marvelously smooth, graceful and fascinating in contour. From a flat-chested, imperfect, angular and masculine-appearing member of my sex I was transformed into a full-bosomed and sublime perfection of ideal womanhood. I neither need nor desire the slightest profit for explaining to others the method that did so much for me, and I have nothing whatever to sell, this offer being prompted by gratitude alone.

I found that the breasts being the only organs in the human body which lie idle and out of use the greater part of one's lifetime, they positively can never be developed by treating them as though they were simple muscles or other organs in use daily with regular and constant functions to perform. I firmly believe that the new and radically different method of development which I discovered is the only one in existence which takes this fact into consideration, and the utter failure of all the other methods, treatments, medicines and appliances which I formerly used is thus fully explained. The first moment you feel the tingling, exhilarating action my treatment exerts, the forerunner of the splendid development soon to follow, you will then be able to realize why it cannot fail to cause dormant tissues to rapidly develop as they awaken to new life.

Without knowing it, you already have the facilities for using the treatment in the strict privacy of your own home, unknown to your most intimate friends. My only caution to you is, do not use the treatment unless you really require at least three to four inches or more bust development. Do not use it to develop other parts of your body without developing the bust, for while it greatly improves the general health and fills out neck, shoulders and chest, it is certain to act primarily upon the mammary glands of the bust. As the development is permanent and cannot be reduced afterward, be sure to discontinue the treatment as soon as your bust becomes exactly the size and firmness desired. Growth cannot continue after treatment is stopped, but on account of the strong stimulating action exerted you may begin to gradually lessen the treatment as your busts begin to reach the required size and firmness.

Inquiries concerning my method have been so extremely numerous that, although many are letters from personal acquaintances, I have found it impossible to write a personal letter in reply to each. I have, therefore, decided to have a full description of my method printed in the form of a small booklet for free distribution to any ladies sufficiently interested to send me two 2-cent stamps for posting expenses. I have nearly a thousand of these booklets left, and this offer is made in the belief that they may prove of interest to the general public, as well as to my personal acquaintances. Simply send your name and address to Margarette Merlain (Dept. 1664-G), Pembroke House, Oxford Street, London, W., England, and, while they last, a regular copy of my booklet will be sent you by return post, sealed and in plain wrapping. (Postage to England 2 cents). Send me no money, for I have nothing to sell, and that is not my object in consenting to have this article published. (There is, of course, no interruption in the regular mail service between this country and England.)

Note—On referring this new method of bust development to Dr. Colonnay, of the Faculty of Medicine, Paris, for a disinterested opinion of its efficacy, his report is as follows: "No matter whether a woman be young or old, nor what her condition of health may be, I firmly believe that in this treatment she has an infallible method for developing and beautifying her bust." In view of this praise from the highest medical authority, rendered after careful examinations of the treatment, there can be no cause for hesitation in recommending it to every reader who requires anything of the kind.

FAIL TO FIND ACCOMPLICES

Two Fugitives Wanted for Bank Robbery Not Located.

Officers Get $200 Which Suspect Left With Superior Relatives.

Severe cross-examination of Hugo Eden, 21, Superior painter, identified as one of the three robbers who held up employes of the Camden Park State Bank of Minneapolis Monday at the point of a gun and backing them into a vault, escaped with $1,500, failed to reveal any more clews today.

Detective Melvin Passolt of Minneapolis and Charles Brown, representative of the Minneapolis Bankers' association, continued their investigations here and in Superior today, confident that Eden's two accomplices would be found in this part of the state.

After a visit to 2424 John avenue, Superior, last night, officers returned with $200 in bills which Eden had left with relatives for safe keeping, and also a large .32 revolver, believed to be the one used when the bank officials were held up.

When arrested, Eden had $97 in bills on his person. A gun, taken from a cash drawer at the bank, was found in his room at the Twelfth Avenue hotel, Twelfth avenue west and Michigan street, and went a long ways toward completing the police case against him.

"I asked him where he got all the money?" one of Eden's relatives in Superior told Chief McKercher when she turned over the $200 and the revolver.

"'Oh,' he replied, 'I've been working in Dakota for a long time, and I've been saving my money.'"

Asked about the revolver, he replied: "Oh, don't worry about that. Every good citizen carries one of those."

The relatives said that they had not seen him for eight years until just recently. He denies that he has a penitentiary record, but admits serving time in the Minneapolis workhouse.

Detective Passolt and Officer Brown will return to Minneapolis with him today.

ONE-NIGHT STANDS ARE "BEASTLY"

Cyril Maude Can't Accustom Himself to American Institution.

Cyril Maude, the eminent English actor, arrived in Duluth this afternoon and is registered at the Holland hotel.

Mr. Maude is typically English. While most of his stage success has been achieved in England, the comedian stated that he began his stage career in the United States, Denver being the scene of his stage debut.

"I came to Canada for my health when a boy," said he, "later going to Colorado. It was in Denver that I made my first stage appearance, so you see I am somewhat acquainted with the United States. The only conditions that I cannot become accustomed to over here, are the beastly one-night stands. We are having our first experience with them, and don't you know, the thing is awful."

The English actor declared that the war was having a detrimental influence on dramatic art, and that play writing was suffering as a consequence.

"After the war," said Mr. Maude, "there should be a stimulus given to art, especially dramatic art. The times through which we are passing are surely dramatic enough to lend color and vividness to future plays. Some great plays should grow out of the present war.

"In England we realize perhaps more than you the horribleness of the struggle. One of the saddest things of all is the appalling sacrifice of young men. Naturally we believe the allies are going to win, but they are taking a long time to do the job."

Mr. Maude's wife is at the present time conducting a campaign to furnish necessary articles for the English soldiers, and his daughter, a member of George Arliss's company, has received an offer to write a peace play.

"I think," said the actor, "that the people in general are getting tired of war plays. Also I believe that the art of the stage is progressing—also, that patrons of the theater are becoming more difficult to please. In this age they want to be shown. But, understand, the theater has its greatest years and its greatest usefulness ahead of it."

PREFERS TURKISH BATH TO COURT

C. W. Eden Oversleeps and Is Assessed for Contempt.

"I overslept this morning in a Turkish bath."

This was the excuse which Charles W. Eden, an important witness in a lawsuit now being tried in district court, offered to Judge Ensign this morning when he was brought before the court on a charge of contempt.

Judge Ensign required Eden to pay the costs of the litigants, which had been caused by a continuance of the case over the term, and reprimanded Eden for not obeying the process of the court.

Eden appeared yesterday afternoon as a witness for the plaintiff in a suit brought by A. E. Herschleb against the Nameukan Iron company. He was on the stand for cross-examination when court adjourned yesterday afternoon, but when the session was resumed this morning he failed to show up and a continuance of the case was ordered. The sheriff was directed to find the delinquent witness and bring him before the court.

The case being tried is one in which the plaintiff is suing to recover $345.45 on a promissory note and $1,734.58 on another claim held by Eden against the company and later assigned to the plaintiff.

CONDEMN BOLOGNA SAUSAGE AND VEAL

This morning, Dr. E. W. Fahey, health director, submitted to Commissioner Silberstein, safety head, the November reports from all the department inspectors.

Out of 346 cattle that were given the tuberculin test during the month not a single suspect was found.

A total of 920 visits were made to packing houses, commercial markets and public meat markets during the month, and thirty pounds of bologna and 115 pounds of veal were condemned. The condemned meat was in possession of Decker & Co., C. G. Anderson and Morrell & Co.

During November 881 loads of garbage were received at the city incinerator plant and 826 loads at the dumping grounds.

The bakery inspector made an inspection of 43 bakeries, 26 boarding houses, 21 candy factories, 23 hotels, 12 ice cream factories, 55 lunch rooms, 26 lodging houses, 90 restaurants, 33 soda fountains, 48 stores, 105 saloons and 22 wagons.

TWENTY-SIX CITY EMPLOYES EXEMPT

Tentative Draft of Civil Service Ordinance Is Gone Over.

Twenty-six city employes may be included in the exemption list for the proposed ordinance classifying the city's civil service system, which will be definitely decided on at a special conference of the commissioners and City Attorney Greene to be held at 10 o'clock next Monday morning.

A tentative draft of the ordinance and the exemption list was gone over by the commissioners at a conference two weeks ago, but several objections were made by the commissioners and a new list is now being prepared. The appointment of four of the employes by the entire commission is provided for in the charter and as a result they are exempt from the civil service rules. They are: City attorney, assessor, clerk and auditor.

No definite decision has been reached regarding the other twenty-two employes, who follow: Park manager, librarian, welfare manager, recreational director, building inspector, secretary to the mayor, treasurer, secretary of the works division, city engineer, superintendent of maintenance, chief of police, chief of the fire department, health director, assistant health director, police surgeon, secretary of the health department, secretary to the police chief, harbor master, police matron, chief of detectives, manager of the water and light department and superintendent of the aerial bridge. All other employes will be under the civil service rules.

It is admitted by the commissioners that this list will be changed materially before the final draft of the ordinance is ordered, but all the offices to be selected will be drawn from the above list, they said today.

If an agreement is reached at the conference Monday morning, the ordinance will be introduced by Mayor Prince at the regular council meeting in the afternoon, it was announced today.

ST. PAUL HAS FIRE IN WHOLESALE DISTRICT

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Damage estimated at $300,000 resulted here this afternoon by fire which swept the buildings of F. J. Leslie & Co., wholesale paper dealers, and Barrett & Barrett, wholesale vinegar and glassware house.

For a time the fire threatened to destroy other buildings in the wholesale district. Three girls, trapped on the second floor of the Leslie building, where the fire started, were rescued by firemen.

POTATO EXHIBITS WANTED AT ONCE

Farmers Prepare for Mid-Winter Meeting at Bemidji.

Farmers having potato exhibits for the mid-winter competition of the Northern Minnesota Development meeting to be held Dec. 9-10 at Bemidji, who have not already shipped them are urged by A. B. Hostetter, district supervisor of agricultural agents, to place them in his hands not later than tomorrow.

"Mr. Herman Stebner of Hermantown has sent me an excellent exhibit," said Mr. Hostetter this morning. "If other farmers make as good a showing, they will be doing exceptionally well." Mr. Hostetter stated that he expected several hundred entries at the Bemidji competition.

Seed potatoes are scare this year, declared Mr. Hostetter, and it is well worth while for those who have potatoes suitable for seed purposes to let the farmers know about it.

NO ICE CUTTING IN RESTRICTED DISTRICT

New Ordinance Will Be Aimed at Special Privilege.

Duluth's new ice ordinance, now being prepared by City Attorney Greene, will prohibit the cutting of ice for any purposes whatever on the lake, bay or St. Louis river between Commonwealth avenue and a point three-fourths of a mile east of Lester river.

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, who will introduce the ordinance at the council meeting next Monday afternoon, said this morning that original draft of the measure allowing the cutting of ice in the restricted district for special commercial purposes only has been changed and the cutting of ice will be prohibited altogether.

It was the plan of the commissioner to prohibit the cutting of ice in this restricted district, when the ice was to be used for domestic purposes, but because of objections by local ice men, commercial organizations, packing houses and storage companies will also be compelled to cut their ice outside of the restricted zone.

The establishment of a restricted zone is being authorized so that ice will not be cut from points in the river, bay or lake, where sewers are allowed to empty. The ordinance was suggested recently by Dr. E. W. Fahey, health director.

BANDITS ESCAPE FROM THE WOODS

Three Men Who Shot Sheriffs Have Given Officers the Slip.

Rhinelander, Wis., Dec. 3.—The three armed bandits who, Wednesday afternoon, shot and wounded two deputy sheriffs, have escaped from the woods in which they had taken refuge immediately after robbing a saloon at Starks, and are endeavoring to work their way through the patrols of officers that have been established at all railway stations and villages within a radius of more than fifty miles. The men have separated and abandoned their rifles in an attempt to evade identification. When militiamen, volunteers and a few officers who have been enlisted in the search returned to Rhinelander today they said the bandits evidently had abandoned their shack in the center of the marsh land near Gagen immediately after the shooting and that by tramping all night, had reached the edge of the woods and gained the railroad track.

All freight and passenger trains in that section have been halted and officers are now convinced that the bandits have determined not to attempt to escape by railroad. By walking at night and remaining in hiding during the day they may be able to cover a considerable distance in two or three days. At least two of the men are wearing spiked shoes of lumbermen.

The hearing in this case will take place before the interstate commerce commission next Wednesday, and the Duluth traffic commission will be represented by Traffic Commissioner G. Roy Hall and Attorney F. W. Sullivan. They will leave for Washington on Sunday night.

The hearing of the Northern Pacific road's appeal from the decision of the state railroad and warehouse commission in the Duluth switching case, which was to have come up some time this week in district court, has been postponed on stipulation, the date to be fixed later.

SKATING DELAYED BY WARM WEATHER

Warm weather yesterday afternoon and this morning has delayed the opening of some of the public ice skating rinks.

Park Manager Cleveland said this morning that the caretakers were unable to prepare the ice for the opening planned last night and as a result skating will not commence until tomorrow afternoon. Should the weather turn colder tonight, skaters will be permitted on the ice tomorrow morning, he said.

The warming houses are all ready and lights were installed on Wednesday.

The seven public rinks follow: Forty-seventh avenue east and McCulloch street, Chester park, Fifteenth avenue west and First street, Lincoln park, Harrison park, Fortieth avenue west and Seventh street and Fifty-seventh avenue west and Nicollet street.

SUPERIOR

Laborer Dangerously Hurt.

John Hellimaki, 31, a laborer employed on the Great Lakes Coal dock, is at St. Mary's hospital in a serious condition as the result of being struck by a one-ton clam shell bucket while passing under an open hatch of a steamer at the dock. The bucket was being lowered to remain in the hold during the noon hour. The accident happened just as Hellimaki was leaving for his noon lunch. Doubts are held out as to his recovery.

Gives "Snow" Source Away.

George Battleson, 19, was arrested yesterday charged with a number of thefts from suitcases at the union depot. He pleaded guilty before Judge Smith of the superior court, who, on recommendation of the district attorney, placed the youth on parole for a year. Battleson told the police that Superior boys are being furnished drugs at a local poolroom, and that although he had used cocaine given him at the poolroom, he denied being a habitual user of the drug. He said he did not know where the drug came from.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

CARLISLE INDIANS NO LONGER IN FOOTBALL

Washington, Dec. 3.—The Carlisle team will not be a contender in future intercollegiate football games as a result of a decision by Secretary Lane today after a conference with Commissioner Sells of the Indian service and Supt. Lipps of the Carlisle Indian school.

Secretary Lane held that in the future, football must be subordinated to the educational features of the school, deciding that while the game could be continued it would be impossible for the team to make the showing that it had in the intercollegiate games owing to the large number of men now being educated in industrial and manufacturing establishments.

BIG BATTLES CAUSE RAIN

History contains innumerable instances, both on land and sea, and on more than one occasion the storm or showers that followed an engagement had no small influence upon the life of nations.

We can hardly have a better example than that recorded in 1588, when England was threatened by the great Spanish Armada. After its encounter with our own fleet it was, as we all know, struck by a heavy storm, which completed the work of our own gallant seamen.

The soldiers who fought so bravely under the leadership of Marlborough at Blenheim in 1704 had to suffer the misery of successive downpours after their brilliant victory.

Marlborough was anxious to follow up his victory without delay, but his men were so worn by the fatigue of the battle and the discomforts caused by heavy rains and the contingencies of warfare that he was unable to push on for several days.

June 16, 1815, the British defeated the French at Quatre Bras, and Napoleon worsted the wily Blucher at Ligny, both within measurable distance of Waterloo. The heavy rains which followed these engagements made the clayey soil almost impossible for cavalry maneuvers at Waterloo (fought on June 18), and so crippled the tactics of Naooleon and greatly assisted those of the Duke of Wellington. The victory would have been gained in any case, but experts are of the opinion that the rain was an ally of some value.

During the early weeks of the siege of Sebastopol, in 1854, the roar of cannon and explosion of bombs was followed, day by day, by heavy downpours of rain, until, as we read, our men stood in the trenches knee deep in mud. A terrible gale broke over the Black sea and caused great disaster to our transports, and on the heels of this tempest came a heavy, steady downpour of rain that brought death to hundreds of our gallant fellows.

In yet another instance the heavy cannonading of a siege brought in its train a disturbance of the elements. This was just prior to the fall of Plevna, in 1877, when the moisture of the clouds was turned to snow as it fell, and, by increasing the sufferings of the besieged, helped to make Osman come to the determination to try a last chance for freedom.

The explanation of the rain is comparatively simple, and has been made use of for the benefit of agriculture in various parts of the world. The atmosphere is laden with moisture, a concussion caused by loud reports or noises will often burst the clouds, with the natural result that the drops of water fall to the earth. This has been practically tested when farmers have been groaning over the drouth, and scientists have induced the desired rainfall by causing cannon to be discharged at altitudes varying with the locality. When, however, the discharge is continuous, as in battle, it is obviously more effective.

RANK DISCRIMINATION.

The Strand Magazine: A young fellow, anxious to enlist, had just been examined by the doctor.

"I am sorry," said the doctor, "but your teeth are not good enough."

"What!" exclaimed the indignant recruit: "my teeth ain't good enough, ain't they? Well, they're the same teeth what you passed my brother with yesterday."

THE TEST OF THE FILM PLAYER

Some of the Greatest Actors and Actresses Have Faces Which Do Not "Register" and, Having Made an Art of "Repression," Are Failures Before the Camera.

Walter Prichard Eaton in the American Magazine: Not every actor or actress can be successful on the screen. Some of the very greatest are comparative failures as movie players. And this is not alone because of the different technic required.

Of course if a player belongs to the so-called modern or naturalistic school of acting, and especially if a measure of his charm lies in his vocal skill, his ability to waft an epigram or point a comic sentence or stab home a tragic line, it may very well be that he will find it extremely difficult to express himself effectively solely by pantomime and facial play. It is said that Bernhardt spoiled two reels of film before her "Camille" was fit to exhibit.

A player like Mrs. Fiske, for instance, who is one of the greatest actresses on our English-speaking stage, has made almost a gospel of "repression," and her art is the art of underemphasis. No one is so eloquent in moments of total inaction, no one so icily brilliant in passages of staccato repartee. But most of these, her greatest distinctive qualities, go for nothing before the camera, and she must adopt much the same method as any movie heroine unknown to fame. For this reason those of the "legitimate" actors who were trained in the "old school" of free gesticulation and constant pantomime are very often the most successful in the movies.

But the player's methods have less to do with his success or failure than his physical characteristics. It is well known that some voices reproduce well on the phonograph, while others, perhaps better voices, reproduce badly. Just so certain faces seem made for the camera, while others, apparently no less striking, no less attractive, do not "register" on the film at all, to employ the technical term.

When so much of the story has to be expressed by the faces of the players it is of prime importance that every change of expression, every passing thought and emotion, be caught clearly by the camera. If it isn't, that player, however famous on the dramatic stage, is a failure in the movies. And the layman would be surprised if he knew how many players whom he has admired for their skill or their beauty have to be given up as hopeless when the first trial hundred feet of film (which is always taken as a precaution) is developed and run across the screen.

FORECASTING WEATHER.

Discovery of Natural Law Makes Accurate Predictions Possible.

Pearson's Weekly: Prof. M. A. Berget, the distinguished French meteorologist, announces a discovery of natural law which enables science to make twenty-four weather forecasts with something akin to certainty.

These predictions, as is known, are very largely a question of barometric pressure. The air moves from an area of high pressure toward a low-pressure area, the intensity of the movement depending, of course, upon the extent of the latter area.

If upon reaching the area of low pressure the air circles about in the same direction in which the hands of a clock move, there develops what is called an anticylone, a condition which is usually attended by dry weather.

But should the motion be in an opposite direction—that is, from right to left—we have what the weather men call a cyclone, an atmospheric condition which almost invariably results in rain.

Thus far it is easy. With the pressure areas known the direction of the wind is ascertained, and its course about the area of low pressure spells rain or the absence of it.

It is quite evident, however, that the main factor in evolving an accurate prediction of weather conditions at any given point is an ability to forecast the velocity at which the wind is to move toward the low-pressure area. This has been extremely difficult—quite impossible, in fact—when the wind is blowing from the ocean, and the vast majority of the errors which have vitiated fully 25 per cent of the weather forecasts are due to it.

The researches of Prof. Berget in the Institute Oceanographique have convinced him that the lowering pressure which gives rise to winds stronger than the normal takes place according to fixed laws. What is more, he has studied these laws so successfully as to be able to predict the extension of such areas with remarkable exactness.

At any rate, his records show a reduction in the errors of weather forecasts from the usual 25 per cent to considerably less than 10 per cent.

The upper regions of the air have not been studied very thoroughly as yet. Little is known of the real nature of the emanations from the sun into them. But science is busy with these matters now, and the professor feels quite confident that as soon as they are clearly understood it will be possible to construct an accurate weather map, not for tomorrow only, but for months, and even years, to come.

LINE BREAKERS.

Chicago News: "Hookrod and I went down to Custer Park the other day," said Castins, "and tried our luck in the deep hole in the Kankakee river about a mile below Horse creek."

"Catch anything?" encouraged the man who stays at home.

"Previous to our present pilgrimage I had been in Custer Park and met a gentleman who was enough of a sport to let me in on the ground floor of this deep hole of which I am complaining. He said fishermen who used a certain brand of bucktail spinners got plenty of strikes in the deep hole while trolling, but the fish were too big to handle. They put up an awful fight, but invariably retired with arms triumphant and bearing away the fisherman's tackle.

"What the fish were he didn't know exactly, but he presumed they were giant garfish, which sometimes attain a length of seven feet and consists of eighty-four inches of fighting stock. Or perhaps they were pike or pickerel, 20 or 25-pounders the huskiest and most determined of all submarine warriors.

"Hookrod and I tried our luck at the hole a few days later, and, sure enough, we got plenty of strikes, had a number of hard tussles and lost all our lines and bucktail spinners. So this time we went back to the scene of battle armed to the teeth and determined to see what manner of fish it was that inhabited the hole.

"For a line we had a twisted wire clothesline, and the bucktail spinner on the end was designed for large muskellunge. A number of corks on the line kept the spinner off the bottom and prevented sagging.

"Hookrod is a good rower and he handled the boat and I let out the line. When we passed over the deep hole we got a strike that nearly yanked me off the boat, and the fight was on. I pulled with the carburetor wide open and all cylinders hitting and moved the fish in my direction slowly, but when I got tired he regained the few yards I had dragged him.

"Hookrod rowed the boat to shore and we got out on the bank and hauled away until we landed that monster fish. It was a big bundle of tangled barb wire. When snaggled by trollers it would spring and give and resist just like a game fish. From the bunch of wire we gathered sixty-four good, serviceable bucktail spinners of a certain brand.

"We found out all about the fellow who told me confidentially of this select fishing spot, and if we ever encounter him we shall hold an indignation meeting then and there."

"What's your grievance against him?" asked the man who stays at home.

"He's too smart, for one thing," said Castins. "And, for another, he's a manufacturer of fishing tackle."

WOULD YOU PAY $1 FOR A $10 GOLD PIECE?

Kansas City Star: "Americans are all money grabbers," said the acquaintance who had just parted from us. "They all want something for nothing. They'll take any chance to make a few dollars. They have no imagination beyond dollars and cents. The American business man is built in the shape of a dollar mark."

We were silent for a space after the departure of our axiomatic acquaintance. Then said my friend:

"I don't believe it. That's the American's reputation, I know, but we've got to reckon with the natural caution of the average Yankee. I'll bet a $10 gold piece that I couldn't sell that gold piece to the average good American business man for a silver dollar."

"I don't believe in betting," was my rejoinder, "but I'd like to see your theory tested out."

We acquired the gold piece from a bank teller, who assured us that it was full weight and worth every cent of its face value. My friend started the game by offering to resell it to the teller for a silver dollar.

"Stop kidding me," said the teller.

"I mean it," said the owner of the gold piece.

"G'wan away from here," grinned the teller.

Entering the main door of the bank as we departed was a large and prosperous looking man whom my friend greeted by a name familiar in financial circles.

"Say, old man," he said, "I've got a gold piece here I want to get rid of. Want it?"

"Won't the bank change it?" asked the other.

"Give me a silver dollar and it's yours," said my friend, showing the piece.

"What's the joke?" asked the financier.

"There ain't none," answered my friend. "It's real gold. Just got it in the bank here. You can have it for a silver dollar."

The financier edged away, while he eyed both of us suspiciously.

"I don't know what your game is," he announced, "but you can count me out."

We tackled an insurance man next. He crawled out of the offer by declaring he had no silver dollar handy, and seemed to be glad to see us go.

A real estate man said he'd take it for nothing, just to please us, or he'd apply it as first payment on a lot, but he wouldn't take the chance of letting a perfectly good silver dollar go out of his keeping for something that he was not sure about.

The Creamette Cook
Creamettes

Look for the Creamette Cook

Creamettes

Look for the Creamette Cook on the green and yellow box. The Creamette Cook is your guarantee of a good food made from the creamy parts of American Durum Wheat by Americans for Americans. Creamettes cooks in one-third the time of ordinary macaroni. Creamettes just fits the fork and can be served in many delicious ways. It has a rich new flavor all its own.

RECIPES

To prepare Creamettes, pour the quantity desired into an open kettle of boiling salted water, and boil from 5 to 8 minutes until tender. Then drain and chill in cold water. If Creamettes is the principal food, the ten cent package will make a full meal for a family of six persons. If Creamettes is used with other solid food, one package is sufficient for ten people.

CREAMETTES AND CHEESE

Use one-half package of Creamettes for 6 persons. Place the boiled and chilled Creamettes in a shallow baking dish with 2 tablespoons of melted butter, moisten with milk, add one-half cup of grated cheese, salt and a little paprika. Sprinkle with cheese and bake in a hot oven.

CREAMETTES AND TOMATOES

Butter a large shallow dish, put in a layer of boiled Creamettes, then add a layer of strained tomatoes, add successive layers until the dish is nearly full; have the top layer of tomato sauce. Brown in a quick oven for five or ten minutes.

Friday is Creamettes day.

WHEAT TAKES FRESH BULGES

Market Has Sharp Rise at Start But Close Is Easier.

Flaxseed Slumps Again on Liberal Selling; Crushers Stand Back.

Duluth Board of Trade, Dec. 3.—The market was weak around the close with recessions showing from the day's high points.

December wheat closed ⅜c up; May, ⅜c up, and July, ⅜c up. December durum closed ⅝c up, and May 1c up.

Oats closed ⅜c off at 39¼c for on the track; rye, 3c up at 90c, and barley, 1c up at from 57c to 66c for on the track.

At Winnipeg, December oats closed unchanged at 40⅛c bid, and May, ⅛c off at 42⅛c bid.

At St. Louis, December wheat closed at $1.07⅞, and May at $1.11⅛.

At Kansas City, December wheat closed at $1.02, and May at $1.06¼ bid.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.07¼, and calls at $1.10⅞.

The wheat market was a broad affair today, trading being on a heavy scale, and prices covering a wide range.

At the start quotations were advanced 2½c, with reports current to the effect that hedges on the wheat commandeered by the Canadian government are being taken off by the wholesale. Substantial buying for export was also reported at the seaboard.

Later the market was called upon to absorb liberal realizing sales, the selling being precipitated by reports to the effect that the Italian government was re-selling wheat recently bought. Quotations thereupon sagged around 1c from their high points.

A factor still being given much attention by traders is the small supplies now being carried in elevators here, and the consequent necessity of picking up additional grain to cover tonnage engaged to load before the close of the navigation. Loading took on fresh activity today with the arrival of the advance guard of upbound boats. Steamers under the spouts were scheduled to take on 1,377,000 bu. of various grains, and in addition the Great Northern houses expect to load out 700,000 bu. before the day is over.

The advances in quotations of the last three days are said to be inducing farmers to market more grain, and that will appear in receipts early next week. Inspections at Duluth today were 441 cars against 155 last year. At Minneapolis they had 1,014 cars against 405 last year. Receipts at Winnipeg were lighter, amounting to 1,138 cars, but 1,700 cars are in sight there for tomorrow.

December wheat opened ¼c up at $1.05⅞, advanced to $1.08⅛, and then eased off ¾c. May opened ⅛c up at $1.08¾, bulged to $1.10½, and broke ½c.

Durum was especially firm in the near future with buying to cover contracts. December durum opened unchanged at $1.01¾, advanced to $1.04⅛, and eased off 1⅛c. May opened unchanged at $1.05¼, bulged to $1.07¾, and then receded to $1.06⅝.

Break in Flax.

Flaxseed reacted today on the appearance of selling and apathy on the part of crushers for the time being. Quotations ran off 3c on comparatively light business during the first two hours trading. The close was weak with fresh liquidation.

December flax opened unchanged at $2.04½, and closed 3½c off at $2.01. May opened unchanged at $2.10¼, and closed 3¼c off at $2.07.

At Winnipeg, December flax closed 2⅝c off at $1.81⅝, and May 3½c off at $1.87½.

At Buenos Aires, flax closed ½c off at $1.32½, and London ⅞c off at $2.32½.

MARKET GOSSIP.

With lighter receipts, operators were active in picking up the wheat offering on the tables. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold at 3c over December. Durum showed special strength, being wanted to complete cargoes. For choice grain 2c over December was paid, but the bulk of the offerings was sold at 1½c over.

An Argentine cable on linseed said: "Shipments are 512,000 bu, stocks 755,000 bu. On passage to America is 1,860,000 bu. Freights are very strong, showing an advance of 16s since Tuesday."

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Market is strong, although trading is dull. Strength in Winnipeg and strong Argentine freights served to create bullishness. Spot was strong at 1½@3d higher, with a fair demand. Cargoes were strong; winters 6d to 9d higher; Manitobas, 1s higher; Plates unchanged to 6d higher, and Indians were offered at 1s rise from yesterday. Export arrivals are going into active distribution and native offers are hard to obtain by millers. Flour prices are advancing. Manitobas were strongly held and export offers at the Gulf are in good request, but firmly held. American advices of reduced merchantable quality affected sentiment here."

A Winnipeg wire said: "The rush to get Canadian wheat out before the close of navigation breaks all records for grain handling, and furnishes striking evidence of the efforts of Europe to provide for supplies during the winter. During the last ten days of November the shipments of wheat out of Fort William were 24,022,000 bu, and there were steamers with a further capacity of 7,610,000 bu loading grain at the close of the day on Nov. 30."

Modern Miller says: "Weather conditions were favorable for seeded wheat with moderate temperatures. Reports of acreage show wide variation, with pronounced shortage in limited areas. Some districts report normal acreages and careful compilation will be necessary to arrive at accurate results. The shortage in soft wheat states will show up large. Bright weather and good cash demand have enlarged the movement of wheat, but there is no promise of large accumulations on this crop. The amount of wheat ground for feed is surprisingly large."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Large Sales to Foreigners Result in Higher Prices for Wheat.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Broad activity and much higher prices in the wheat market today resulted from reports of large sales to foreigners and from higher quotations at Liverpool. Shipments arriving in Great Britain were said to be receiving quick distribution. Besides, the scarcity there was emphasized by a fresh advance in vessel rates from Argentina, and by the heavily reduced estimates of the available amount of milling wheat in the United States. After opening ⅝@1⅝c higher, with December at $1.10½@1.11, and May at $1.12¾@1.13¾, the market here reacted a trifle and then rose to more than 2c above yesterday's finish.

Further gains ensued but later the wheat market underwent setbacks owing to realizing by longs and in consequence of assertions that Italy was reselling some Manitoba wheat. The close was unsettled, 1@1⅛c to 1¾c net higher, with December at 1.11½c and May at 1.13⅛@¼c.

Corn hardened with wheat. Prospects of a somewhat increased crop movement led, however, to considerable profit-taking at times on the part of holders. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅛c off to ¾c up, were followed by a decided sag, but then a new upturn.

Later a material decline took place because of good weather and of enlarged country offerings. The close was nervous at 1c to 1⅜c net decline.

Oats reflected the action of corn. Commission houses were good buyers, and there was free selling by longs.

Packers selling minimized an advance in provisions. The incentive for a rise came chiefly from higher prices on hogs.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Standard Shares Show Gains Over Thursday's Final Figures.

Trading Very Moderate But Sentiment Seemed More Cheerful.

New York, Dec. 3.—Fractional declines were more or less general at the opening of today's market, specialties, metal shares and rails all showing a lower trend. The most conspicuous feature was United States Steel, which was offered in an initial lot of 6,000 shares at 84¾ to 85, the latter being yesterday's final quotations. Southern Pacific also weakened on large sales with a moderate setback in Union Pacific, Erie and Pennsylvania. Among the high-priced specialties, General Motors lost 3 at 460. Secondary prices were better all around, however, most early losses being more than recovered.

On the rebound the market became dull with variable tendencies in different groups. Some war shares rose substantially with improvement in automobile, oil and metal issues, and such miscellaneous stocks as United Fruit and Mercantile Marine preferred also advanced. Sugar issues were again prominent, Cuban-American rising 7 to 169, and South Porto Rico Sugar 5 to 160. Rails were little more than passive, although New York Central and Reading manifested strength. Preferred shares of the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis, a St. Louis & San Francisco subsidiary, were up 7½ at 68½. Canadian Pacific was under pressure. Bonds were irregular.

Stocks of the investment class strengthened to a pronounced degree in the afternoon with greater activity in all parts of the list. Specialties, like International Nickel and Industrial Alcohol, scored further gains.

Trading was very moderate today, but sentiment seemed more cheerful with irregular advances in all classes of issues.

On the afternoon rise gains of a point or more over yesterday's final quotations were shown by standard stocks. The closing was steady.

UNCLE SAM'S BUG HOUSE.

Experiments Have Been Made With Ten Thousand Insects.

Washington Star: A unique establishment that might be called a government "bug hatchery," but which is officially known as the Eastern field station of the branch of forest insects of the bureau of entomology, is maintained by the agricultural department of the Federal government in the edge of the Virginia village of Falls Church, a few miles from the national capital. It has been the means, since its establishment in 1912, of the solution of many problems that have been vexing telephone and telegraph companies, mine owners and other large users of timber attacked by insects, as well as foresters, manufacturers of forest products, municipal park authorities and individual owners of wood lots.

In addition to administrative buildings and laboratories, the field station has four outdoor insectaries equipped with apparatus that is roughly the counterpart for insect rearing of the better known incubators and brooders of the poultry plant. In these have been reared and studied during the life of the station approximately 10,000 specimens of moths, butterflies, sawflies, ants, parasitic wasps, bees, various two-winged flies and beetles, which, by boring or in other ways, are injurious to trees and timber, or which in some cases, strangely enough, are beneficial.

In order to have at hand forest material for carrying on the experiments a plantation of 2,800 young forest trees has been established at the station, representing twenty-two specimens of conifers and eight specimens of hardwoods.

HOW CAN YOU TALK BACK TO A KEEGIE?

Chicago Herald: A Keegie is the funniest fellow in the world. Clever, no end! Droll, rollicking, waggish, he always keeps himself in a roar. It is very hard to find a fitting comeback to a Keegie's merry sallies. Shafts of wit from other people may be dodged or they may give the opportunity and excuse for sending back another shaft just as good.

Everybody knows a Keegie. So everybody is interested in the great question of how to answer one of his shots. Engaging in repartee with a Keegie is generally disastrous for the other fellow. Yet if you don't flash something back, the other guests will think you are a nit-wit. What to do?

Let us take a Keegie at his evening sport. We will say that somebody is giving a dinner party. It is not the Keekie's dinner party, but he is crawling all over the table with his merry quips.

Now, in this case, we will suppose that the Keegie has picked out his squirming victim.

"Ho, ho!" laughs the Keegie to his prey. "I remember that night ten years ago when you went over to propose to Doolcie. Ha! ha! Doolcie, you remember it, too.

"Well, Doolcie, I bet you don't know all that I know. You were terribly impressed when old Scrapps here walked in wearing an evening dress suit and carryin a big bouquet of roses. That's what got you. You ought to have seen him an hour before that begging me for my dress suit and for $3 to buy those flowers.

"Ha, ha, ha! Old Scrapps didn't have a cent in those days. That dress suit he wore was mine—the suit he got married in was mine. Yes, sir, if it hadn't been for me Scrapps would have been married in a bathing suit and a mackintosh."

Of course, there is much more of this, but the point is, what is the best piece of repartee that Scrapps could make use of? Scrapps himself, we will say, is sitting with a face as long as the table, and with eyes full of sudden death, and Doolcie is trying her best to keep back her tears of mortification. They are too embarrassed to say anything, and the Keegie goes merrily along with his mirth provoking tale.

We will say that Scrapps finally recovers himself enough to grin feebly and say, "Well, those were the happy days, Keegie."

That bromide or another like it is generally all the Keegie's victims have to say for themselves. Perhaps about the only witty reply that Scrapps could make would be to pick up his plate and place it suddenly against the Keegie's nose.

This in itself would not be good repartee unless Scrapps had on his plate at the time a large, thick slice of hot roast beef all anointed with nice brown gravy and peas and mashed potatoes. Then it could be construed as a real funny retort. Just as funny as the Keegie's story.

When the Keegie Is Host.

Or take another instance of a Keegie. Suppose the Keegie is giving a dinner at his own home. That is where he shines, because it is harder for his victims to squirm off the hook. They are aware that the Keegie is giving the dinner and that there is to be no charge for it, and as a consequence anything he wishes to do short of murder must be borne cheerfully.

Therefore the Keegie is unusually brilliant. Walking around the gay table on the pretense of getting the cigars he seizes one of his guests by the collar and pretends to peep down into it.

"Ha, ha," chortles the Keegie, "this is it! This is it!"

Immediately all the guests clamor to know what is it. With his face red with mirth the Keegie sits down and says: "Oh, he's got a hand-me-down suit of clothes on. I saw it when it had a sign on, 'Was $25; take me home for $21.50.' Yes, sir, I was going into the store to get some neckties and there he was buying the hand-me-down. Oh, ho, ho, ho, ha, ha, ha, ha."

Everybody laughs because all are eating the Keegie's food and the victim squirms and says he doesn't see anything the matter with his suit; that it is as good as a tailor made and cost only half as much.

"Don't you try to get out of it," shrieks the Keegie, mad with glee, "that's a hand-me-down; turn around and let's see how it fits in the back."

The victim may try to be self possessed and answer, "Oh, a great many of the best dressed men I know prefer ready made suits to tailor made," and some guest across the table may come to the rescue with the remark that he hadn't worn a tailor made suit for fifteen years and never would again. But nothing can stop the Keegie.

The Question.

Now then comes the question. What would be the wittiest thing under the circumstances to say to the Keegie?

It might be hard even for a man famous for his skill at repartee to find just the best words in which to reply to the Keegie at such a moment. Naturally the dinner being at the Keegie's own house, a guest, even a renowned wit, might not know where to find the ax. Of course, a hatchet would do or a ball bat, but how is the clever person who wants to make a scintillating and fitting retort to the Keegie going to get his hands on these things? Possibly about the only sparkling rejoinder that could be made would be to grab the tablecloth and pull it and the dishes off on the floor and then throw the Keegie throw the window.

It is hard indeed to know what kind of repartee to use on a Keegie.

THE CAUSE OF THE RUMPUS.

Case and Comment: A stonemason and cutter who did odd jobs for graveyards while not otherwise engaged was arrested for striking his son-in-law, Frank Andrews, over the head with a mallet and rendering him unconscious

"Jim Renfrow stand up," commanded the judge

"Here I be, your honor," answered the self-possessed prisoner, a grizzled, brawny man of 50 years or more.

"Did you strike Mr. Andrews with a mallet?"

"I did, your honor."

"With what provocation?"

The defendant fumbled in his pocket for a moment, and finally drew forth a bit of torn, soiled paper upon which words were scrawled.

"It was just this way, judge," continued Renfrow, "I was working in the yard, cutting stone, yesterday afternoon, when Frank came up to me and asked if I'd cut th' inscription for his wife's tombstone. Bein' as it was my own darter, I allowed I would, tho, I knew I'd never git no money fer th' job. What do you suppose he had-writ out fer me t' cut, judge! Read this:

"'Mrs. Eliza Andrews.
Died Aug. 12, 1915.

"'She was a purty woman, but she had the wust temper of anybody in Stark county. Her mother was a sweet lady, so where she got it from everybody kin guess.'

"That's when I hit him, Judge."
